Risk to Investors

For details, refer to section titled "Risk Factors" on page 22 of the RHP.

1. Revenue dependence on sale of gold jewellery: Our revenues have been significantly dependent on sale of gold jewellery, which accounted for 92.33%, 94.58% and 93.96% of our revenue from operations, for the Financial Years 2026, 2025 and 2024, respectively. Accordingly, any factors adversely affecting our sales of gold jewellery, such as, an increase in international gold prices, higher import duties or regulatory restrictions, decline in consumer discretionary spending, shift in consumer preferences to alternatives, etc. may negatively impact our business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.
2. Negative operating cash flows in the past: We have experienced negative cash flows from operating activities of ₹3,977.62 million and ₹180.02 million in Fiscal 2026 and in Fiscal 2024 respectively, due to lower customer enrolment towards the Company's jewellery schemes and increased settlement of trade payables and cannot assure you that we will not experience negative cash flows in future periods. Negative cash flows may adversely affect our financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

Particulars	Fiscal 2026 ₹ in million	Fiscal 2025 ₹ in million	Fiscal 2024 ₹ in million
Net cash (used in) / generated from operating activities	(3,977.62)	2,887.31	(180.02)

3. Risk related to customer advances: We receive advances from our customers under various schemes introduced by us. The amounts received in the schemes amount to more than 10% of our revenue from operations for the respective financial periods. Inability to appropriate such advances received from customers under jewellery purchase schemes may adversely impact our revenues and results of operations and future profitability.

Particulars	Financial Year ended March 31, 2026		Financial Year ended March 31, 2025		Financial Year ended March 31, 2024
	(₹) in million	% of total revenue from operations	(₹) in million	% of total revenue from operations	(₹) in million	% of total revenue from operations
Advances from customers	50,427.50	20.15%	31,454.10	18.61%	19,432.26	11.58%

4. Dependence on In-house Manufacturing and Karigars for jewellery manufacturing: In Fiscal 2026, we operated our Manufacturing Facilities with 672 Karigars employed by our Company and 144 Karigars employed by Asita Jewellery Manufacturing Private Limited ("Asita") for manufacturing of our products. These Karigars who are on the rolls of our Company and Asita, manufactured 79.11%, 80.66% and 79.78% of our total products available for sale for Fiscal 2026, Fiscal 2025 and Fiscal 2024, respectively. Further, we have entered into short term agreements with 296 Karigars (as of March 31, 2026), on a non-exclusive basis, for manufacture and supply of jewellery. Our Company is dependent on these Karigars for manufacturing our products and any disruptions at our Manufacturing Facilities, or loss of these Karigars or failure of these Karigars to adhere to the relevant quality standards may have a negative effect on our reputation, business and financial condition.
5. High working capital requirement: Our business requires a substantial amount of working capital for operations including for financing the purchase of raw materials. We intend to continue growing by setting up new stores (including inventory requirements) and increase our focus on sale of jewellery. We may need to seek additional financing in the normal course of business from time to time as we expand our operations and any inability in obtaining such additional funds in a timely manner may adversely affect our business, growth plans, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows. The table below sets out our working capital for the years/period set out:

Particulars	Fiscal 2026	Fiscal 2025	Fiscal 2024
Working capital requirements* (in ₹ million)	44,661.08	25,768.29	22,835.41
Revenue from operations (in ₹ million)	250,239.27	168,973.17	167,880.52
Working capital as percentage of revenue from operations	17.85%	15.25%	13.60%

*Working capital requirement is computed as sum of Inventory and trade receivables minus trade payables minus advance from customers as at the year end.

6. Dependence on top three suppliers of raw materials: We are dependent on our top three suppliers of raw materials who have contributed 58.03%, 67.20% and 66.98% in Fiscals 2026, 2025 and 2024, respectively of our total cost of raw materials. We typically procure gold through purchase orders and do not enter into any long-term agreements with our suppliers. In the event our suppliers are unable to provide us the required quantity of raw materials, or if we are unable to find alternate suppliers at commercially acceptable terms, our ability to manufacture our products in a timely manner will be adversely affected leading to an adverse impact on our business, results of operations and financial condition.
7. Usage of brand "Lalithaa" and payment of Brand Ambassador fees: Our business is significantly dependent on the reputation and awareness of our brand, "Lalithaa". Any failure to maintain our reputation, enhance our brand recognition or increase positive awareness of our products, it may be difficult to maintain and grow our consumer base, which could have a material adverse effect on our financial condition, results of operations, business and growth prospects. Further, our Promoter received brand ambassador fees of 0.30% of revenue in Fiscal 2024; this arrangement has since been terminated.
8. Geographical concentration risk: As of March 31, 2026, we operate 61 stores in 51 cities across Andhra Pradesh, Karnataka, Tamil Nadu, Telangana and Puducherry. As of March 31, 2026, we have 23 stores in Andhra Pradesh, 20 stores in Tamil Nadu, 7 in Karnataka, 10 in Telangana and 1 in Puducherry. The geographic concentration of all (100%) our stores in the southern regions of India heightens our exposure to adverse developments related to competition, economic downturn and demographic changes in these regions, which may adversely affect our business prospects, financial conditions and results of operations.
9. Seasonal Fluctuation Risk: In India, the demand of jewellery is mainly driven by weddings, festivals, birth and the harvest season. We have historically experienced certain seasonal fluctuations, reflecting higher sales volumes during festival periods and other occasions such as Akshay Tritiya, Durga Puja, Dhanteras, Diwali, Poila and Baisakh. Any slowdown in demand for our jewellery during peak seasons or failure by us to accurately anticipate and prepare for such seasonal fluctuations could have an adverse effect on our business, financial condition and results of operations.
10. Competition Risk: We operate in highly competitive and fragmented markets, and our market share may get adversely affected due to competition in these markets which is based primarily on market trends, pricing and customer preferences. We face competition from both the organized and unorganised sectors of the jewellery retail business, including online marketplaces. Competitors may have significant advantages such as stronger distribution networks, brand recall, promotional offers for customers, technical and financial capabilities. Consequently, we may not be able to compete successfully in the future against our existing or potential competitors, or we cannot assure you that our business and results of operations will not be adversely affected by increased competition in the offline and online channels.
11. Risk related to jewellery designs and continuous innovation: We have an in-house jewellery designing team of fifteen members responsible for introducing new and innovative designs for our jewelleries. Our in-house design team comprises of managers and skilled professionals consisting of CAD (Computer-Aided Design) designers who work on digital design,

3D modelling, and renderings while our manual designers bring traditional concepts to life through hand-drawn sketches. In the last three Fiscals, our Company has spent ₹10.42 million, ₹9.63 million and ₹4.55 million, respectively, on designing activities. We change our jewellery designs on a regular basis and do not register such designs under the Design Act, 2000. The inability of new designs or new jewellery lines to gain market acceptance or our inability to cater changing customer preferences could adversely affect our brand image, our business and financial condition

FOREIGN INVESTORS TO GET ENHANCED FLEXIBILITY

Govt aims to clinch 5 BITs in 2-3 months

PRASANTA SAHU
New Delhi, August 16

THE GOVERNMENT IS aiming to finalise new bilateral investment treaties (BITs) with the European Union (EU), Saudi Arabia, Switzerland, Oman and the Maldives in the next two to three months, offering enhanced flexibility to foreign investors including a shorter timeline to exhaust domestic remedies before initiating international arbitration.

Simultaneously, the Cabinet will consider the proposed BIT 4.0 regime, which revises the model text for a better balance between sovereign interests and foreign investment as well as creates a flexible framework for future negotiations. A flexible model would allow India to tailor provisions based on the partner country's strategic importance and investment ties, sources said.

FE reported recently that the domestic-remedy timeframe could be reduced to two years, depending on bilateral negotiations. Recently, India reduced the timeframe from five years to three years for investments from the United Arab Emirates and Israel.

"We are not offering five years to anyone any more. The negotiations are starting with three years," an official said, referring to the departure from the 2015 Model BIT.

The five-year requirement was introduced in the 2015 framework largely in response to the investor-state tax disputes India faced at the time, but the Centre is now overhauling the restrictive framework to attract foreign investment amid weakening capital inflows since 2023.

WOOING FOREIGN INVESTORS

■ Foreign investors could be allowed to take disputes to international arbitration after pursuing domestic legal remedies for two years, instead of earlier five years

RBI may incur $9-12 bn in FCNR hedging costs

● Economists see deposits touching $70 bn by Aug 31

KSHIPRA PETKAR & KISHOR KADAM
Mumbai, August 16

THE RESERVE BANK of India (RBI) could incur $9-12 billion over five years in hedging costs if foreign currency non-resident (bank), or FCNR(B), deposits mobilised under its special swap window reach $70 billion, as economists expect the annual range of hedging to be in the range of 2.5-3.5%.

The RBI has already received $52.3 billion through FCNR(B) deposits as of August 13, which would translate into a five-year hedging cost of about $6.5-9.1 billion at the same range of annual costs. Including overseas foreign currency borrowings and external commercial borrowings, total inflows under the RBI's broader concessional forex facility stood at $56.84 billion.

COST OF SHIELD

■ At estimated collections of $70 billion, hedging costs over five years will run into $12.25 billion at an annual rate of 3.5%

■ The amount will be around $8.75 if the annual hedging cost stands at 2.5%

■ The special swap window for FCNR(B) deposits will close on August 31

Indian pharma giants look beyond US, generics for margin protection

MANU KAUSHIK
New Delhi, August 16

INDIA'S LEADING PHARMACEUTICAL companies, including Sun Pharma, Lupin and Dr Reddy's, are looking beyond the United States, their conventional growth market, and shifting focus away from commoditised generics to premium specialty and complex drugs.

The shift began well before Washington's tariff assault on imported drugs under the guise of an aggressive indigenisation policy, but the pace of transition increased after it, an analysis of these companies' results in recent quarters showed.

The Donald Trump administration imposed a 100% import tariff on "branded" and patented medicines in early April, in a bid to force all suppliers of high-value proprietary medicines to manufacture them locally. Recently, the administration issued another threat to extend the tariff assault to generic products effective August 2028, while reiterating the strategy to "reshore generic pharmaceutical production into America."

The results for the first quarter (Q1) of the current financial year reveal strong growth in domestic operations and emerging markets, while the US businesses continue to struggle. The diversification strategy of companies is clearly twofold.

Noel meets Shah and PMO official

URVI MALVANIA
Mumbai, August 16

TATA TRUSTS CHAIRMAN Noel Tata met Home Minister Amit Shah and a key bureaucrat in the Prime Minister's Office (PMO) on Saturday afternoon, people with knowledge of the development said.

The visit, interpreted as a courtesy call, comes against the backdrop of turmoil within the Tata ecosystem. While the Trusts have been battling internal conflicts and allegations of governance lapses from within and outside their ranks, the most recent jolt to the Tata Group came on August 12 when Tata Sons Chairman N Chandrasekaran announced that he would not be offering himself for reappointment when his current term ends on February 20, 2027. A day later, the board of the Sir Dorabji Tata Trust (SDTT) met and passed a resolution to initiate the formation of a selection committee to pick Chandrasekaran's successor.

However, one of the biggest challenges for the Trusts currently, and by extension the Tata Group, is the inability of another key promoter trust — the Sir Ratan Tata Trust (SRTT) — to convene board meetings under a directive issued by the charity commissioner of Maharashtra this May. The selection panel requires the two promoter trusts to jointly nominate three members.

AGM relief or not? All eyes on SRTT today

URVI MALVANIA
Mumbai, August 16

MONDAY COULD DETERMINE whether the Sir Ratan Tata Trust (SRTT) is able to participate in a crucial Tata Sons annual general meeting a day later, with the trust still barred from convening its board under a three-month-old regulatory restriction.

SRTT has yet to secure relief from the charity commissioner of Maharashtra, without which it may be unable to complete the formalities required to participate in the August 18 AGM. The meeting assumes added significance as shareholders will consider the reappointment of N Chandrasekaran as a director, days after he announced that he would step down as Tata Sons chairman when his current term ends on February 20, 2027.

Chandrasekaran's reappointment is necessary for him to continue as chairman until the end of his tenure. He retires by rotation as a director at the AGM and is eligible for reappointment, making the resolution an important piece of unfinished business following his decision to step down next year.

The AGM, scheduled for 2:30 pm on Tuesday, will also consider the Tata Sons board's recommendation of a dividend of ₹1,10,717 per ordinary share for FY26. According to the company's annual report, this translates into a total payout of ₹4,478.58 crore, up 70.6% year-on-year.

In a first, govt sets LPG production targets for firms

AGENCIES
New Delhi, August 16

THE GOVERNMENT HAS set enhanced cooking gas production targets for state-run as well as private companies for the first time, as it seeks to bolster domestic supplies to cushion against geopolitical shocks such as the conflict in West Asia.

The Ministry of Petroleum and Natural Gas Ministry, in an order issued on August 13, has specified maximum LPG production levels for 21 refineries and upstream companies, with a combined production potential set at 63,810 tonne a day — more than double the average daily output in FY26 and about 70% of the country's daily consumption.

Refiners and crude oil explorers have been ordered to "implement all technically and economically feasible measures" to maximise LPG output. The production limits will kick in whenever there is a supply constraint.

According to the order, Reliance Industries' domestic-market-focused unit has been assigned the largest production target at 18,000 tonne a day. Russia's Rosneft-backed Nayara Energy has been asked to produce 4,480 tonne a day.

Eighteen refineries owned and operated by public sector oil companies have been ordered to produce a total of 31,470 tonne a day.

Domestic production was ramped up to about 55,000 tonne a day at the height of the West Asia crisis, but the emergency orders asking refiners to maximise output were gradually withdrawn after supplies eased from mid-June. India, which relies on imports for about two-thirds of its LPG consumption, has scrambled to secure enough cooking gas since the US-Iran war disrupted traditional supply routes. Buyers have turned to the US and newer suppliers including Algeria following the closure of the Strait of Hormuz — the key waterway for about 90% of the country's liquefied petroleum gas imports.

FIRMS BUILDING TOOLS TO TEST MODELS FOR INDIAN LANGUAGES, ACCENTS & REAL-WORLD CONDITIONS

AI push generates market for localised evaluation

OJASVI GUPTA
New Delhi, August 16

THE GROWING DEPLOYMENT of artificial intelligence (AI) systems in India is creating demand for a new layer of testing focused on their performance in Indian languages and real-world conditions, giving rise to an emerging market for AI evaluation services.

Unlike conventional benchmarks that primarily compare the accuracy of AI models, companies are increasingly looking to test whether an AI system can reliably perform tasks for Indian users, including understanding regional accents, handling code-switching between languages and functioning in noisy environments. The development has prompted companies to build evaluation platforms specifically around Indian use cases.

AI4Bharat and Josh Talks AI recently launched Voice of India, an independent multimodal platform designed to evaluate AI systems across Indian languages and real-world conditions. Other players in the space include Krutrim, with its Indic BharatBench, Maxim AI, which develops agent evaluation and observability tools, and Athina AI, which has built an LLM evaluation and monitoring platform used by companies including Perplexity and Meesho.

"The biggest gap is that we are still evaluating complex AI systems with evaluation frameworks designed for simpler models," said Supriya Paul, co-founder, Josh Talks AI. AI systems need to be assessed based on how they perform an entire task rather than just correctness of the final response, she added.

This is particularly relevant for voice-based applications being deployed in India. A banking AI agent, for instance, would need to understand regional accents, work in noisy environments, handle users switching between languages and retrieve the correct information before completing a transaction. Such systems need to be tested against these conditions before and after deployment. The need for such testing is also increasing as AI systems move from generating responses to taking actions. Aryan Honawar, co-founder, Adzzat, which works with AI labs and enterprises, said evaluation now needs to examine whether an AI system took the right steps, recognised mistakes, knew when to stop and involved a human if required.

India presents a particularly complex evaluation environment because of its 22 scheduled languages, hundreds of dialects and widespread use of code-switching. Voice applications also have to account for regional accents, and background noise, areas that are not necessarily captured by global benchmarks. For Indian firms, this offers an opportunity to build an independent evaluation layer between AI models and their enterprise deployment.

THE INDIA TEST

■ Companies are increasingly looking to test whether an AI system can reliably perform tasks for Indian users

■ Domestic parameters include understanding regional accents, handling code-switching between languages and functioning in noisy environments

■ The need for such testing is increasing as AI systems move from generating responses to taking actions

■ Conventional benchmarks primarily compare the accuracy of AI models, leaving a gap for Indian users

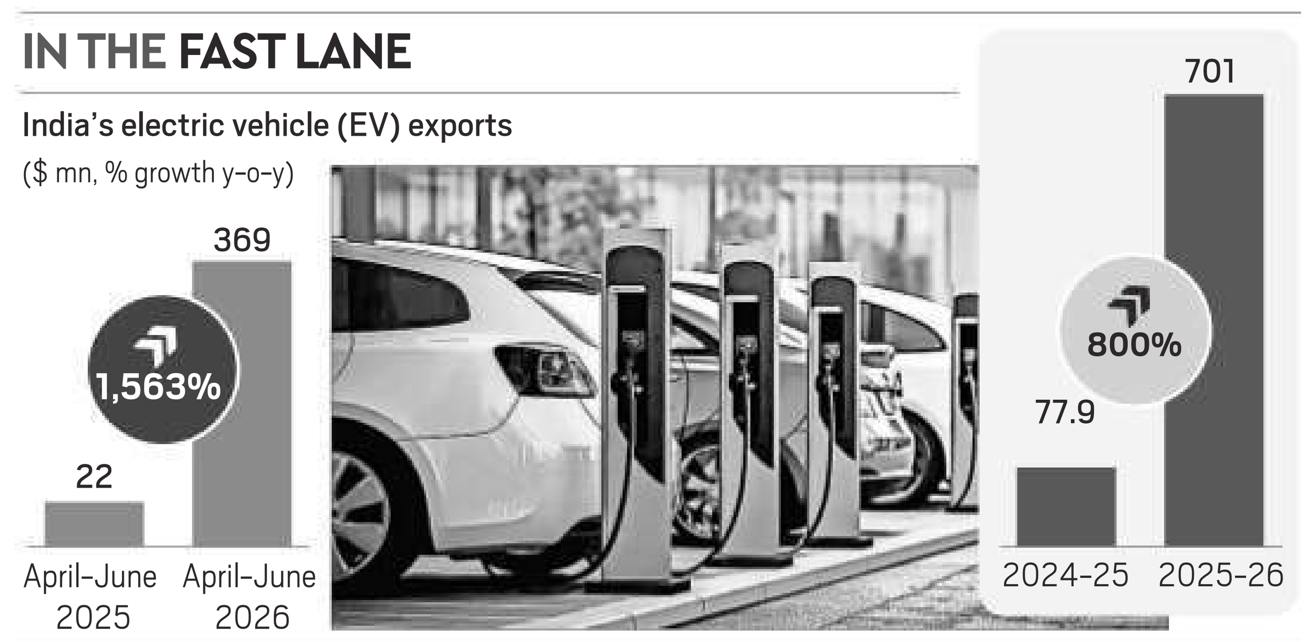
SHIPMENTS RISE SEVENFOLD TO $369 MILLION IN APRIL-JUNE

Electric car exports zoom in Q1, Europe key driver

MUKESH JAGOTA
New Delhi, August 16



INDIA'S FLEDGLING ELECTRIC vehicle (EV) exports gained significant momentum in the first quarter of the current financial year, with green passenger cars expanding their footprint across major international markets. Driven by massive demand in Europe, electric car shipments surged 17-fold year-on-year to reach $369 million in the April–June quarter, according to Department of Commerce data.

In volume terms, Indian automakers exported 10,802 electric cars during the quarter—a 7.6-fold jump compared to 1,309 units shipped in the corresponding period last year. The surge helped lift overall motor vehicle exports by 15% to $2.87 billion, boosting the share of clean mobility in the country's total auto export portfolio.

The stellar performance follows strong exports during FY2025–26, with annual electric car exports surging eightfold to $701 million from $77.9 million in FY2024–25. Commerce Ministry officials noted that the figures demonstrate the growing international acceptance of India-made EVs and reinforce the country's position as an emerging global hub for sustainable mobility.

Europe drives the boom

Europe has cemented its position as the top region for Indian EV shipments, with Spain taking the top spot. Spain alone imported $146.4 million worth of electric cars (4,007 units) during the quarter, accounting for nearly 40% of India's total EV exports by both value and volume.

The United Kingdom made a dramatic entry as the second-largest destination, importing $78.7 million worth of electric vehicles (2,646 units)—up from just a single vehicle shipped in the same quarter last year.

Several other European economies also witnessed strong growth in imports of Indian electric vehicles. Exports to Germany reached $25.1 million, followed by Norway ($21.1 million) and Denmark ($21.0 million). Additional demand came from Belgium ($12.9 million), the Netherlands ($12.0 million), Greece ($3.8 million), Italy ($2.7 million), Sweden ($2.1 million) and Poland ($1.6 million).

Beyond Europe, India also expanded exports across Asia-Pacific markets. Japan imported $13.4 million worth of electric cars, while shipments were also recorded to Israel ($2.8 million), Australia ($2.7 million), Singapore ($1.7 million), Taiwan ($1.3 million) and South Korea.

While traditional neighbouring markets such as Nepal continued to remain important destinations, with imports worth $8.1 million, the diversification towards advanced European markets represents a notable shift in India's EV export profile. New opportunities also emerged in Latin America, where exports reached Brazil ($2.4 million), Colombia ($1.0 million), Chile ($0.4 million) and Costa Rica ($0.5 million).

IBBI proposes tighter curbs to avoid insolvency misuse

MANU KAUSHIK
New Delhi, August 16

EXPLANATORY GUIDELINES

- CIRP misused in cases to settle debts, mitigate tax liabilities, close or merge companies without regulatory scrutiny, etc
- IPs must examine qualified audit reports of loans and investments, weaknesses in controls over related-party transactions, IBBI said

- The regulator has highlighted lender concentration around the initiation of CIRP as potential red flag

THE INSOLVENCY AND Bankruptcy Board of India (IBBI) has proposed tighter checks by insolvency professionals (IPs) to prevent the misuse of the corporate insolvency resolution process (CIRP), following inputs from law-enforcement and regulatory agencies on instances where the insolvency framework may have been used for purposes other than resolution.

The regulator said CIRP had been misused in a few cases to settle debts, mitigate tax liabilities, close or merge companies without regulatory scrutiny, and avoid investigations, prosecution and penalties. It also flagged instances involving the monetisation or ring-fencing of assets.

In a draft circular, the IBBI said IPs, given their access to company books and records and proceedings of the committee of creditors (CoC), have a responsibility to identify signs of possible misuse and bring them to the notice of the adjudicating authority.

The proposed guidance lists several warning signs that IPs should examine. These include companies with negligible operations, revenue or tangible assets, persistently negative net worth, and substantial loans, advances or investments involving related or group entities.

IPs have also been asked to examine qualified audit reports concerning loans and investments, weaknesses in controls over related-party transactions, and links to regulatory or enforcement cases involving the diversion or fraudulent use of funds.

The IBBI has highlighted lender concentration around the initiation of CIRP as another potential red flag. The draft identifies cases in which debt is assigned shortly before insolvency proceedings to a single creditor that subsequently exercises significant influence over the CoC.

Other indicators include groups of connected companies entering CIRP around the same time, common promoters or directors, overlapping CoCs, difficulties in verifying assets and limited competition among bidders.

The regulator has said IPs should examine such indicators in detail and form a considered opinion. The proposed circular is aimed at clarifying existing duties and ensuring consistency in identifying potential abuse of the insolvency framework.

The IBBI has invited comments from stakeholders on the draft by August 24. The regulator has clarified that the proposed circular is explanatory in nature and does not create any new obligations for IPs.

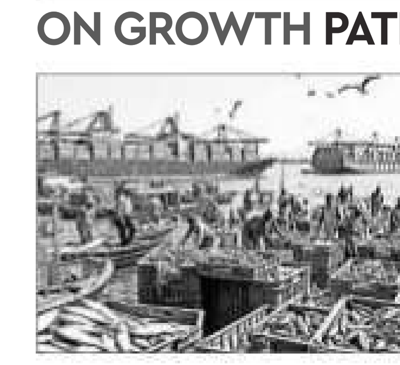
Marine exports get a boost as EU gives nod to more units

SANDIP DAS
New Delhi, August 16

ON GROWTH PATH



- The number of EU-approved Indian fishery export units has risen to 625
- The EU is the third-largest seafood export destination for India, accounting for more than 15% of total exports
- Marine product exports to the EU are likely to double over the next few years, say experts

IN A BOOST TO marine products shipment, the European Union (EU) has approved 21 additional Indian fishery establishments for exports, taking the total units approved for shipment in the last one year to 123.

Sources said that the nod for exports from these units will further boost shipment, especially of aquaculture shrimp and cephalopods to the European market.

With this, the number of EU-approved Indian fishery export units has increased to 625 and these are spread across Andhra Pradesh, Tamil Nadu, Kerala, Odisha and Maharashtra.

"There has been a surge in exports of fish meals used as feed and oils due to a spike in global prices, while diversification of shipments to the EU, Vietnam, China and Russia has boosted overall shipments," KN Raghavan, secretary general, Seafood Exporters Association of India (SEAI) told FE.

The EU is the third-largest seafood export destination for India after China, accounting for more than 15% of India's total exports. The major markets for Indian marine products shipments amongst EU member states are Belgium, Spain, and Italy.

The European Free Trade Association (EFTA) trade agreement, coming into force since October 2025, is also expected to enhance market access to Norway and Switzerland. Trade officials stated that marine product exports to the EU are likely to double over the next few years; currently, annual shipment is valued at around $1 billion.

In July 2026, marine product exports rose by 18% to $0.76 million year-on-year. Marine product shipment, the second biggest item in terms of agri-shipment, continues to surge with overall shipment rising to $2.88 billion in the April-July period of FY27, an increase of over 11% year-on-year.

India must boost shipping protection, capacity: GTRI

WITH GROWING SHIPPING chokepoints, India must treat maritime insecurity as a persistent trade risk and strengthen its domestic shipping capacity, trade finance, naval protection and alternative transport corridors, economic think tank GTRI said on Sunday.

It said that the Red Sea crisis has completed 1,000 days without a durable solution, showing that military action can intercept missiles but cannot restore commercial confidence.

For India, it said, the crisis has made trade with Europe, the UK, North Africa and the US East Coast slower and more expensive, hurting MSME exporters through higher freight, insurance and working-capital costs.

"As shipping chokepoints are growing, India must treat maritime insecurity as a continuing trade risk and strengthen domestic shipping capacity, trade finance, naval protection and alternative transport corridors," GTRI Founder Ajay Srivastava said.

The Red Sea is a vital maritime link between the Indian Ocean and the Mediterranean Sea, with ships travelling from Asia through the Arabian Sea, Gulf of Aden, Red Sea and Suez Canal before entering the Mediterranean.

The route connects major trading regions, including India, West Asia, North Africa and Europe, and passes close to countries such as Yemen, Djibouti, Eritrea, Saudi Arabia and Egypt. —PTI

Switch to producer index for govt purchases: FinMin

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
New Delhi, August 16

THE FINANCE MINISTRY has nudged all ministries and departments to move to Producer Price Index (PPI), from the current Wholesale Price Index (WPI), for rate escalation and adjustment clauses in future government procurement contracts. The Department of Expenditure, in a communication to all ministries and departments, said that PPI is a more internationally accepted index compared to WPI used in government contracts to define price escalation.

For the first time, the commerce ministry has started issuing monthly PPI data for both goods and services since June to better reflect price movement at the producer's level, thus paving the way for phasing out wholesale price inflation numbers in the next five years.

"Ministries/Departments are encouraged to adopt Producer Price Index (PPI) in place of Wholesale Price Index (WPI) in all price escalation clauses of future contracts, once PPI becomes available," the expenditure department said in an office memorandum dated July 13. The price escalation or rate variation clause in government contracts allows payments to be adjusted in line with changes in the cost of key inputs, such as materials, labour and fuel, during the execution of a project. It helps distribute the impact of inflation between the government and the contractor.

The launch of monthly PPI data is in line with practices adopted by advanced economies and follows the recommendations of the International Monetary Fund (IMF), which stressed that India needs to transition from WPI to PPI.

The output (goods) PPI cover all representative goods transacted in the economy. Manufactured items have the highest 69.93% weight in output PPI (goods), followed by agriculture, forestry and fishing (22.16%), electricity (4.49%), and mining and quarrying (3.42%).

Seven services — banking, securities transaction, insurance, management of pension funds, railways, air (passenger), and telecom — have been covered in the first phase of Service PPI, while remaining services will be covered in the next phase, the Commerce and Industry Ministry had said while launching the PPI data in June.

FY27 BoP seen in large surplus, estimates pegged at $40-100-bn

● Large accretion to reserves despite a likely widening of CAD

SHUBHAM RANA
New Delhi, August 16

INDIA'S BALANCE OF Payments (BoP) slipped into an $8.1 billion deficit in the April-June quarter, but large inflows under the Reserve Bank of India's (RBI) three swap facilities are likely to lead to a substantial BoP surplus in 2026-27, economists said. However, they differ on the size of the BoP surplus in the current fiscal year, with estimates ranging widely from $40 billion to $100 billion.

The BoP was in a deficit of $24 billion in FY26 and a $5 billion in FY25.

While India's current account deficit (CAD) is expected to widen sharply in FY27 to around 1-2% of GDP (up from 0.6% of GDP in FY26), the capital account surplus is expected to rise steeply thanks to the RBI's steps to attract foreign capital.

In June, the central bank announced a special facility to attract foreign currency through Foreign Currency Non-Resident (Bank) (FCNR(B)) deposits, External Commercial Borrowings (ECBs), and Overseas Foreign Currency Borrowings (OFCBs), with the RBI offering banks a three-to-five-year swap facility that effectively covered hedging costs.

The FCNR(B) window has seen strong flows so far, prompting the RBI to close the scheme on August 31, a month ahead of the original schedule. The OFCB and ECB schemes will continue to be open till December 31. According to RBI data, inflows under the three facilities totalled $56.85 billion between June 8 and August 13, of which FCNR(B) deposits accounted for $52.3 billion.

"Notwithstanding the early closure of the window, we believe banks could maximise the second half of August 2026 by putting their deposit mobilisation exercise on a hyperdrive. As such, we now expect the special forex inflows to potentially touch $85 billion by December vs our earlier expectation of $75 billion," economists at QuantEco Research said.

QuantEco projects the BoP to be in a $70 billion surplus in FY27, assuming an average crude oil price of $80-85 per barrel. According to latest data, the BoP was in a surplus of $2.9 billion in June, against a deficit of $0.4 billion a year ago.

Gaura Sen Gupta, chief economist, IDFC FIRST Bank, projects the full-year BoP surplus at $40 billion with the September quarter surplus alone seen at $44 billion. "Some part of the dollar inflows will be countered by the RBI allowing existing dollar buy-sell swaps to mature, as these will be replaced by longer-tenure swaps undertaken under the FCNR(B), ECB, and OFCB windows," Sen Gupta said. "Another factor that will counter some of the dollar inflows is spot dollar selling by the RBI to limit depreciation pressure on rupee," she said.

Apart from the boost from RBI's measures, India's external position has also been supported by remittances, which rose 34% year-on-year to $41.4 billion in the first quarter of FY27. Notably, the pace of rise in net transfers, which include remittances, slowed down to 9% in June. The key risks to the BoP are a rising goods trade deficit and higher global energy prices.

The merchandise trade deficit rose 23% y-o-y to $119 billion in the first four months of FY27.

"At the same time, services exports growth has seen a moderation compared with last year, amid ongoing AI-related disruption," ICICI Bank said in a report. Given that oil prices remain elevated, the goods deficit is projected to widen to $379 billion, with the CAD at $54 billion (1.4% of GDP), assuming an oil price of $80/barrel, the report added.

Higher oil prices, which have swung between $70 per barrel to $100 per barrel since early July, and the uncertainties from the war in West Asia continue to cloud India's external sector outlook, economists said.

FERTILISER SUBSIDY PROJECTIONS MAY MODERATE

Urea import prices fall 60% since Apr

SANDIP DAS
New Delhi, August 16

WITH EASING GLOBAL supplies and diversified imports, the landed cost of urea, India's most consumed soil nutrient variant, has declined by around 60% to $390/tonne now, down from a peak of close to $1,000/tonne in April.

In a major boost to supplies in the coming rabi season, the Rashtriya Chemicals and Fertilizers (RCF), one of the three agencies entrusted with fertilizer imports, has finalised bids for imports of 1.7 million tonne (MT) of urea at a price range of $390/tonne—$393/tonne this month against the price range of $ 935/tonne—$959/tonne in April, 2026.

The National Fertilizers (NF) tender in June drew bids around $ 449/tonne for urea.

The three agencies entrusted with imports for fertilisers—NF, RCF and Indian Potash—have so far released import orders of 4.2 MT of urea during April-July, 2026, out of which 3.5 MT has been delivered so far.

In FY26, out of the total consumption of 40 MT of urea, about 10 MT was imported as finished product.

Officials said that with softening prices, the government will reassess the initial fertiliser subsidy budget projected at the beginning of the current fiscal year due to a price spike caused by the West Asia war. The government has spent over ₹70,000 crore in 2026-27 so far under fertiliser subsidies which is 40% of the budget estimate of ₹1.77 lakh crore due to the rise in global prices of soil nutrients since the West Asia war.

The actual subsidy is likely to be over ₹15,000-₹20,000 crore higher than the ₹2.17 lakh crore incurred in FY25.

This is still much lower than the Department of Fertilizers' internal estimate in the middle of the serious supply disruptions in April-May, which suggested the subsidy bill could spike to even ₹3 lakh crore.

In FY26, expenditure on fertiliser subsidies was ₹2.17 lakh crore—₹1.42 lakh crore for urea and ₹74,999 crore for nutrient-based subsidy.

This was a 17% increase over the revised estimate of ₹1.86 lakh crore.

This, according to officials, is due to the rise in fertiliser prices from March 2026.

Industry sources said that urea prices went up sharply since the beginning of the West Asia war as supplies of LNG were severely disrupted because of conflict.

As part of its diversification plan, the government has started importing urea from several countries including Oman, Malaysia, Vietnam, Georgia, Nigeria, Russia, Finland, Egypt, Algeria, Turkey, and the Netherlands.

Import of other variants di-ammonium phosphate (DAP) and NPKs were procured from Russia, Morocco, Egypt, USA, Jordan, South Korea, Tunisia, and Saudi Arabia via the Red Sea.

According to the Department of Fertilizers, against the requirement of 11.88 MT of urea during April-July, 2026, the availability was 17.3 MT and sales of soil variants were over 10.7 MT.

Similarly for DAP, against the requirement of 3.42 MT, 4.1 MT was available while sales were 2.54 MT.

Last time global conflict impacted the subsidy outgo was in FY23, when fertiliser subsidy was at a record Rs 2.54 lakh crore as shipping supplies through the red sea was impacted due to Ukraine-Russia conflict. India imports about 70% of its fertiliser and its raw material usage.

Annual consumption of several variants of fertiliser in FY26 was over 70 MT.

COST RELIEF

- Rashtriya Chemicals and Fertilizers secured 1.7 MT of urea at $390-$393/tonne
- India ordered 4.2 MT of urea between April and July; 3.5 MT delivered
- Cheaper imports may ease subsidies, but FY27 costs could still exceed ₹2.17 lakh crore

House panel urges task force for DIPAM vacancies

THE STANDING COMMITTEE on Finance has flagged the "crippling" 43 % vacancy in the Department of Investment and Public Asset Management (DIPAM), and recommended setting up a task-force to ensure the early filling of all 38 vacant positions.

Lamenting that "no tangible progress" has been made in resolving vacancies at DIPAM since the Committee's report presented in March, the panel said, "for a department overseeing a public asset portfolio exceeding ₹ 42.76 lakh crore, routine administrative correspondence is grossly inadequate." The panel had noted that maintaining only 51 officers against a sanctioned strength of 89 - with critical shortages at the director (11 vacancies) and under secretary (8 vacancies) levels - "severely jeopardises" the department's ability to execute complex transactions. PTI

K'taka govt to protect livelihood of farmers

KARNATAKA CHIEF MINISTER D K Shivakumar on Sunday said that his government has a dual challenge of protecting the livelihood of farmers and also abiding by the law on the issue of releasing Cauvery water to Tamil Nadu.

Invoking rain gods to emerge from the crisis, the CM assured the state's farmers that their livelihood would be kept in mind while taking decisions on the matter.

He also asserted that the state's interests will be protected when it comes to the implementation of the Mekedatu project. "Our dams have not filled yet. We have two big challenges: Releasing water to Tamil Nadu, abiding by the law, and protecting our farmers...," Shivakumar said. PTI

Modi's FTA push to help MSMEs tap global markets, say exporters

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
New Delhi, August 16

PRIME MINISTER NARENDRA Modi's call to MSMEs to fully leverage India's growing network of free trade agreements (FTAs) is timely, as these pacts offer small businesses an opportunity to access larger global markets, integrate with global value chains and improve their competitiveness, exporters say.

They also said that with preferential market access now available across several major economies, the real opportunity lies in converting these agreements into export orders.

The PM on Saturday, said India has finalised FTAs with about 40 countries, presenting a massive opportunity for the country's MSMEs, and urged small enterprises to tap these opportunities.

Welcoming the government's move on FTAs, former chairman of the Council for Leather Exports (CLE) Aqeel Panaruna said that with progressive trade pacts and foreign trade policy opening new opportunities, India is firmly positioned for sustained growth and prosperity.

TRADE PUSH

- Exporters urge firms to turn FTAs into orders
- FTAs with about 40 countries open wider markets, help small firms, say exporters

RETAILERS LEVERAGE EXISTING NETWORKS AS BATTLE SHIFTS BEYOND DARK STORES

Q-comm takes the store route

ANEES HUSSAIN
Bengaluru, August 16

DELIVERY WARS

■ Traditional retailers are turning existing stores into fulfilment hubs

■ Emkay Global estimates a Tier 2 dark store needs around 800 orders a day to break even, against about 1,300 in Tier 1 cities

■ Existing stores offer a cost advantage, but order density remains key to making quick commerce viable

■ Vishal Mega Mart fulfils quick-commerce orders from 767 of its 819 stores across 520 cities

■ Spencer's earns about ₹110 gross margin per order against fulfilment costs of around ₹98

■ Reliance Retail's JioMart covers 5,500 pin codes, with grocery digital orders rising 116% YoY in Q1FY27

RETAILERS ARE TURNING their existing stores into quick-commerce fulfilment centres, taking on Blinkit, Zepto and Swiggy Instamart while requiring less investment than separate dark-store networks. Vishal Mega Mart, Reliance Retail and Spencer's Retail are expanding fast delivery through stores they already operate, while startups are taking it into smaller cities.

The shift changes the economics. Pure-play platforms have built dense dark-store networks for faster deliveries, while traditional retailers can use existing outlets and inventory to fulfil online orders. Vishal Mega Mart fulfils quick-commerce orders from 767 of its 819 stores across 520 cities. Of these, 423 are in Tier 3 towns, defined as cities with fewer than 200,000 people.

The model is contributing to revenues. Vishal's registered users crossed 14.1 million in Q1FY27, up 44%, while quick-commerce orders contribute 2-9% of a store's revenue, with at least 5% in most locations, Managing Director and CEO Gunender Kapur told analysts. The average bill value is around ₹800, while 20% of quick-commerce customers are new to Vishal.

Reliance Retail is pursuing a larger version, combining grocery outlets and dark stores with more than 2,500 fashion and lifestyle stores. Its JioMart platform covers 5,500 pin codes, with grocery delivered in under 30 minutes and other categories within two hours. Grocery digital orders rose 116% year-on-year in Q1FY27. CFO Dinesh Taluja said stores offer a wider assortment than typical dark stores and that dark stores operating from existing stores involve no incremental cost.

Spencer's offers an indication of the economics when volumes are sufficient. Its online arm Jiffy closed FY26 with revenue of ₹ 200 crore, up 37%, on 2.6 million orders. With an average order value of ₹760, it earns about ₹110 gross margin per order against fulfilment costs of around ₹98, CEO and MD Anuj Singh said.

The model is spreading beyond large chains. Apna Mart delivers in around 10 minutes from franchise-led neighbourhood stores in Tier 2 and Tier 3 cities. Technology providers are also lowering the entry barrier for regional chains.

Smaller cities could be the opportunity. Emkay Global estimates a Tier 2 dark store needs around 800 orders a day to break even, against about 1,300 in Tier 1 cities. Existing retailers already have stores, inventory and customers, giving them a cost advantage. But demand still has to generate sufficient order density.

Avenue Supermarts' experience with DMart Ready shows the limits. The service has been reduced from 25 cities in FY25 to 18 in FY26 and 11 now. Avenue E-Commerce's sales rose 17% in FY26, but Ebitda fell 43%, resulting in a ₹ 307 crore loss, as transport costs rose 34% in markets with weak order density. DMart has stuck to six-hour delivery windows for large-basket orders.

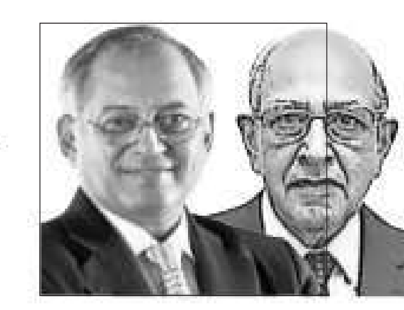
The battle may not be about who delivers fastest, but who can generate enough orders to make quick delivery economical. Existing stores give retailers a head start, but DMart shows that the advantage works only where demand is deep enough.

No replacements yet for Srinivasan, Singh on TEDT

● Trust deed needs 3 trustees

URVI MALVANIA
Mumbai, August 16

BOARD IN LIMBO



■ TEDT trustees have not discussed the appointment of new trustees after Venu Srinivasan and Vijay Singh left TEDT board in May

■ Restrictions on SRTT convening board meetings may have played a role in delaying the appointments

■ Singh and Srinivasan continue to serve on several allied Tata trusts

THE TATA EDUCATION and Development Trust (TEDT), part of the Sir Ratan Tata Trust & Allied Trusts, is likely to continue with a three-member board for now, with its trustees yet to deliberate on replacements for Venu Srinivasan and Vijay Singh, people familiar with the matter said.

The current trustees — Tata Trusts Chairman Noel Tata, Mehli Mistry and JN Mistry — have not discussed the appointment of any new trustees, after Srinivasan and Singh left the TEDT board in May, they added.

Tata Trusts did not respond to queries sent by FE on the matter. JN Mistry and Mehli Mistry were not available for comment at press time.

"According to the trust deed, the board needs a minimum of three trustees, which it has. So, for now, it will continue with three members only," people in the know said.

The restrictions on SRTT convening board meetings may also have played a role in delaying the appointments, since the governance of allied trusts is linked to the principal trusts under which they operate.

While TEDT does not hold shares in Tata Sons, the Tata Group's holding company, it is a vital philanthropic trust with more than ₹5,000 crore corpus.

Until May this year, Singh and Srinivasan were both trustees of TEDT. When their terms came up for renewal, Mehli Mistry is believed to have voted against their reappointment. Since the trust deed requires resolutions to be passed unanimously, neither could be reappointed.

The TEDT board has since continued to meet monthly to deal with routine matters. At one such meeting, Mehli Mistry is believed to have raised questions about Singh and Srinivasan continuing on the boards of several allied trusts even though they no longer serve on some of the key trusts.

Srinivasan currently serves on two of the five trusts under the SRTT & Allied Trusts umbrella — SRTT and the Navajbai Ratan Tata Trust — while Singh serves only on the latter.

Under the Sir Dorabji Tata Trust & Allied Trusts umbrella, Srinivasan serves on six of the nine trusts, while Singh serves on seven.

India's cautious AI rollout avoids expensive rollbacks

POULOMI CHATTERJEE
Bengaluru, August 16

EYE ON AI

■ Focus is shifting from deploying AI to ensuring it delivers measurable business value

■ Indian companies are now prioritising measurable use cases and clear accountability

THE AI BOOM may have encouraged companies globally to move quickly from experimentation to deployment, but a string of high-profile rollbacks has highlighted the risks of scaling the technology without adequate data, governance and operational readiness. In India, enterprises have generally moved more cautiously, helping them avoid some of the costly reversals seen overseas, but the focus is now shifting from adopting AI to ensuring that it delivers measurable business value.

In May, Starbucks discontinued an AI inventory tool across its North American stores after repeated errors in labelling and item counts. US automaker Ford last month re-hired 300 veteran quality inspectors after AI-powered cameras failed to meet its vehicle inspection standards. McDonald's also removed AI systems tested for order processing after the technology repeatedly misinterpreted customer orders and ingredients.

Indian enterprises have largely avoided such large-scale pullbacks, partly because fragmented databases, legacy technology and integration challenges have made companies more cautious about moving AI projects from pilots to production. "In India, the clearer pattern is tighter scrutiny, slower scaling, and selective movement from pilots to production," Biswajeet Mahapatra, principal analyst at Forrester, said. Enterprises are reassessing AI initiatives where the return on investment, governance, data readiness or integration remains weak, he added, but this does not amount to a wholesale pullback from the technology.

Instead, Indian companies are increasingly moving towards what industry executives describe as AI discipline, with greater emphasis on use cases where the benefits can be measured and accountability for deployment is clearly defined. "The rollback here is not from AI but from unmeasured AI," Kanakalata Narayanan, vice-president of engineering at Ascendion, said. Boards are increasingly asking where AI will translate into productivity, cost savings, risk reduction, better customer experience or revenue rather than simply whether a pilot can be launched, she said.

"In India, we continue to see strong momentum, with enterprises moving beyond experimentation and increasingly embedding AI into core business processes. The challenge is not AI adoption, but AI value realisation," Amit Kirti, strategy and execution services and AI leader at GDS EY-Parthenon, said.

Singh exits Bai Hirabai trust

VIJAY SINGH IS no longer a trustee of the Bai Hirabai Jamsetji Tata Navsari Charitable Institution (BHJTNCI), a position that had recently come under scrutiny.

Former Tata Trusts trustee Mehli Mistry had, in an objection filed with the Charity Commissioner of Maharashtra, argued that the trust deed requires its trustees to be of the Zoroastrian faith and residents of what was, in 1916, the Bombay Presidency. On this basis, he contended that Singh and Venu Srinivasan were ineligible to serve on its board.

Singh's term on SRTT, of which BHJTNCI is an allied trust, ended on August 14. In a letter to the SRTT board, Singh asked not to be considered for reappointment.

Under the provisions of the BHJTNCI deed, SRTT trustees also oversee the board of the Bai Hirabai trust. Singh's departure from BHJTNCI could, therefore, be linked to the cessation of his role as an SRTT trustee, legal experts said.

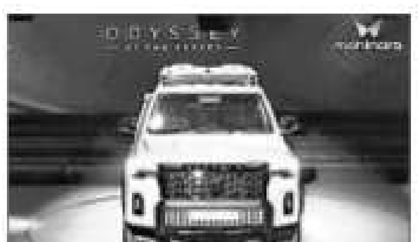
Mahindra bets on 'latent demand' for lifestyle pickups

AKBAR MERCHANT
Mumbai, August 16

TESTING MARKET



■ Mahindra to gauge demand for Scorpio Lifestyler over the next six months ahead of April 2027 launch

■ India prices to start below ₹19.79 lakh, undercutting lifestyle pickups like Toyota Hilux and Isuzu D-Max V-Cross

MAHINDRA & MAHINDRA is taking a calibrated approach to expanding its global footprint, with the automaker planning to spend the next six months studying potential buyers and use cases for its new pickup, the Scorpio Lifestyler. The company believes the vehicle can bridge the gap between SUV comfort, 4x4 capability and pickup utility. It has not set a domestic sales target, choosing instead to gauge market response and assess the size of the opportunity.

"We believe that the latent demand for an uncompromised choice means there's an open space for us to play," Nalinikanth Gollagunta, CEO, Automotive Division, Mahindra & Mahindra, said.

The production version of the Global Pik Up, will be sold as the Scorpio Lifestyler in India and Mahindra Lifestyler overseas. Prices in India will start below ₹19.79 lakh, substantially lower than those of existing lifestyle pickups such as the Toyota Hilux and Isuzu D-Max V-Cross.

Gollagunta said the early price announcement is intended to generate market feedback. "What we put out is a signal to the market so that we can get feedback," he said, adding that Mahindra wants to understand customer specifications and how demand varies across use cases.

Potential customers could include estate owners, weekend farmers and buyers seeking an SUV-like vehicle with additional cargo-carrying ability. Production could be ramped up depending on market response.

● PRATEEK MAHESHWARI, CO-FOUNDER, PHYSICSWALLAH

'We will slow offline expansion, focus on profitability'

PhysicsWallah's Q17 revenue growth was driven largely by higher revenue per student rather than enrolment growth. Revenue from operations rose 24% to ₹1,054 crore, while net loss narrowed to ₹88 crore from ₹127 crore. Paid users grew 2.4% to 2.49 million, with NEET's cancelled and re-conducted examination affecting enrolment cycles. Co-founder Prateek Maheshwari, in an interview with Anees Hussain, discusses the slower pace of offline expansion, the pause in K-12 offline plans and the company's AI roadmap. Excerpts:

Q&A

You are stretching the two-year offline expansion plan to four years. What changed?

Seventy of the 200 centres we had guided have opened. We had planned to add the remaining 130-140 over the next two years, but will now take four more years. We will slow new centre additions and focus on improving existing centres, processes and outcomes. We will continue entering new geographies, while Vidyapeeth revenue growth will remain above 20% in the coming years.

Why slow expansion now?

The priority is profitability. We wanted to make the entire offline business near profitable this year. Offline margin improved 475 basis points to -22% in the quarter. We took a conscious call to improve the student experience before expanding aggressively. At a blended level, we are growing 30%, so growth is not the concern. Our focus is on vernacular, state boards, Curious Junior and K-12. We will revisit faster offline expansion after a couple of years.

What happened to the offline K-12 plan?

We planned to allocate capital to it before the IPO, but have put it on hold. There will be no further capital allocation to K-12 offline this fiscal. We will first build K-12 online, and then consider offline. K-12 revenue has crossed ₹100 crore and grown 88%. By K-12 offline, we mean setting up independent schools, which requires significant capex. For now, we want to be frugal with capital.

Are you moving towards a hybrid offering?

Yes. We want to combine offline and online into a more scalable hybrid model. We will pilot it in a couple of cities and centres, mainly for JEE and NEET. There will be no revenue impact this year. Online offers strong teachers and NPS. Offline provides attendance, peer engagement and better course completion. We want to combine strengths of both.

With most growth coming from Arpu (average revenue per user) rather than enrolments, does affordability remain intact?

There is no pressure to raise base prices. Online ACPU (average collection per user) increased 10% to ₹4,311 and offline Arpu 7% to ₹12,633, while base batch prices are broadly unchanged. The increase comes from Infinity and Infinity Pro, which offer additional features such as 100,000 videos, personalised tests, AI-led doubt solving, mentorship and digital books. A ₹5,000 base batch costs ₹7,500 with Infinity and ₹12,000 with Infinity Pro. This allows Arpu growth without compromising affordability.

> WE WANT TO COMBINE OFFLINE AND ONLINE INTO A MORE SCALABLE HYBRID MODEL. WE WILL PILOT IT IN COUPLE OF CITIES & CENTRES

Is 2.4% enrolment growth the new run rate?

No, it was a one-off. NEET and government examination notifications affected enrolment timing. Offline revenue growth would have been 22-25% instead of 14% had the NEET cycle been on schedule. Since July, offline NEET enrolments have grown 82%, while online collections between July 1 and August 13 rose 51%. We expect stronger Q2 and Q3 trends. Our annual revenue growth guidance remains 30%.

When will the AI tutor become a product?

We will roll it out this year. It works in Hindi, Hinglish and English voice and is backed by more than 1 million questions. The pilot showed 95% lesson-level accuracy, below 1% hallucination and 1.8-2.2 second latency across over 300 students. The pilot cost was $0.2 per hour, and we expect this to decline as frontier-model token costs improve.

NMIA starts scheduled international freighter ops

AKBAR MERCHANT
Mumbai, August 16

NAVI MUMBAI INTERNATIONAL Airport (NMIA) on Sunday received its first dedicated international freighter aircraft, an Airbus A330F operated by Hong Kong Air Cargo, marking the commencement of a three-times-a-week service from Hong Kong. The service is expected to add six weekly cargo movements and carry around 60 tonne of import and export shipments per flight.

NMIA is expected to see 13 international freighter services commence operations as it builds connectivity with key cargo markets.

The Hong Kong service follows NMIA's first dedicated freighter operation, launched on August 1 by IndiGo Cargo to Sharjah. The service, which carried 20 tonne of goods on its first flight, will operate as required.

"With a significant increase in freighter activity expected by the end of August, we are rapidly expanding our international cargo network and strengthening connectivity with key markets across Asia, Europe and West Asia," a spokesperson for Navi Mumbai International Airport said.

NxtGen launches SpeedCloud Global

FE BUREAU
Mumbai, August 16

NXTGEN HAS LAUNCHED SpeedCloud Global, extending its managed cloud and AI services from India to international markets. The launch puts the company in direct competition with global hyperscalers, with the offering being pitched as a lower-cost, high-performance alternative.

SpeedCloud Global can deliver general workloads at 39-48% lower cost

The company said SpeedCloud Global can deliver general workloads at 39-48% lower cost than leading hyperscalers, with deployment possible within 48 hours.

"Today we take India's cloud to the world," said AS Rajgopal, managing director and chief executive officer of NxtGen.

"India is no longer only the back office of global technology; it is now building world-class cloud infrastructure and competing on performance and cost, on its own terms."

To mark the launch, NxtGen teams carried the SpeedCloud Global flag from a Himalayan pass in Ladakh at more than 18,000 ft to Marine Drive in Mumbai, India Gate in Delhi and the company's datacentre in Bidadi near Bengaluru.

NxtGen said it has more than 1,000 customers and serves over 200 government departments. It was named a 'Strong Performer' in The Forrester Wave: Sovereign Cloud Platforms, Q2 2026 report, and operates one of India's largest AI infrastructure footprints.

ZEE CASE SPOTLIGHTS TOUGH BALANCE BETWEEN PUNISHING PROMOTERS & PROTECTING SHAREHOLDERS

Caught in the crossfire of promoter lapses

VIVEAT SUSAN PINTO & JYOTSNA BHATNAGAR
Mumbai/Ahmedabad, August 16

COLLATERAL DAMAGE

When investors tolerate red flags

- In some cases, investors may tolerate some red flags if they believe the promoter can still generate profits and returns, say experts
- In Zee's case, mutual funds reduced their holding by 170 bps to 3.16% at the end of the June quarter from 4.86% at the end of March
- The IL&FS crisis, which involved a ₹91,000-cr financial default, showed how governance failures can destroy investor value

Regulations against wrongdoings

- Sections 241-242 allow eligible shareholders to approach the NCLT for oppression and mismanagement
- Section 245 qualifies shareholders to pursue class-action proceedings against companies, directors and auditors for wrongful or oppressive conduct

WHEN A PROMOTER IS accused of wrongdoing, the first casualty is often not the promoter's wealth but shareholder value. A regulatory ban can shut a company out of the capital market, a governance scandal can hurt its valuation and alleged diversion of funds can leave public investors nursing losses, even when they had no role in the misconduct.

The recent Zee Entertainment case illustrates the dilemma. The Securities and Exchange Board of India (Sebi) barred Zee from accessing the securities market for two months and its promoters, Punit Goenka and Subhash Chandra, for a year each over the alleged unauthorised use of company property as collateral for promoter-linked loans. The Securities Appellate Tribunal (SAT) on Friday allowed Zee to proceed with its ₹3,143.5 crore preferential issue while retaining the market-access ban.

For public shareholders, the stakes were immediate. About 96% of Zee's shareholders are public shareholders. Zee said it received 76.64% votes in favour of the fundraising plan, clearing the 75% threshold required for a special resolution.

The episode raises a broader question: how much collateral damage should shareholders bear when regulators punish promoter misconduct?

"There is always a tension when a public company has to bear the brunt of fines and adverse orders that are attributable to actions and omissions of the promoters and management," said Karam Daulat-Singh, managing partner at Touchstone Partners. In the Zee case, he said, SAT appeared to have "threaded the needle" by ensuring promoters did not escape accountability while recognising that the company as a whole should not suffer.

Different investors, different red lines

The impact of governance concerns also depends on the investor. Shriram Subramanian, founder and MD of proxy advisory firm InGovern, said investors have different "tolerance levels" for promoter misdemeanours.

Long-only pension funds and institutions such as Singapore's GIC, for instance, require "squeaky clean" management and place corporate governance high on their investment radar. Others may tolerate some red flags if they believe the promoter can still generate profits and returns. Some investors, he said, may even work with promoters despite governance concerns if they believe the economics remain attractive.

But that tolerance can disappear as red flags accumulate. In Zee's case, mutual funds reduced their holding by 170 basis points to 3.16% at the end of the June quarter from 4.86% at the end of March. Sister concern Dish TV also went through a prolonged governance battle involving institutional and minority shareholders, with repeated challenges to board appointments, financial results, and strategy.

Subramanian cited DHFL as an extreme example of promoter fraud and Satyam as a classic case of accounting fraud. The IL&FS crisis, which involved a ₹91,000-crore financial default, similarly showed how governance failures can destroy investor value.

What can shareholders do?

The Companies Act, 2013 provides several remedies. Sections 241-242 allow eligible shareholders to approach the National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT) for oppression and mismanagement. Section 245 enables qualifying shareholders to pursue class-action proceedings against companies, directors and auditors for wrongful or oppressive conduct.

The Jindal Poly Films proceedings are significant in this context. Minority shareholders alleged promoter-linked transactions caused value diversion of about ₹2,500 crore. NCLT admitted the Section 245 action in February 2026, making it an important test of shareholder class-action rights.

"Minority shareholders should not be made collateral damage of corporate governance failures towards which they had no knowledge or responsibility," said Saloni Shah, partner at Khanwilkar & Shah Associates. The Jindal Poly Films proceedings, she said, demonstrate the growing significance of collective shareholder action.

Regulatory intervention can also provide relief. Sebi acted against Ahmedabad-based Mishtann Foods over alleged diversion of rights-issue proceeds in 2024 and against Jaipur-based Debock Industries in the same year over alleged financial manipulation and siphoning of funds. In both cases, the regulator imposed restrictions on market access and on the concerned individuals.

The proportionality problem

Yet remedies can take time. Hardeep Sachdeva, senior partner at AZB & Partners, said regulatory action must consider whether restrictions on a company end up punishing shareholders who had no role in the misconduct. "The economic consequences of promoter misconduct" should, as far as possible, not become "collateral punishment for innocent shareholders", he said.

Raheel Patel, partner at Gandhi Law Associates, noted that restrictions on a listed company can affect fundraising, valuation and cost of capital. Zee and its promoters have challenged Sebi's order before SAT, with a further statutory appeal to the Supreme Court available on questions of law.

For shareholders, litigation is only one line of defence. Voting against promoter-backed resolutions, scrutinising related-party transactions and exiting when governance deteriorates can be equally important.

Pharma giants look beyond US, generics for margin protection

COMPANIES ARE BUILDING a wider geographic base across Europe, Russia/Commonwealth of Independent States (CIS), Latin America, Africa and other emerging markets while allocating more resources to complex generics, biosimilars, specialty medicines and GLP-1 therapies to reduce dependence on mature, high-volume-low-value US generics.

Dr Reddy's Laboratories' North America revenue fell 35% year-on-year to ₹2,205 crore in the first quarter, primarily due to lower sales of generic Revlimid (lenalidomide). Similarly, Sun Pharma's US sales fell 9.7% to $427 million due to lenalidomide price erosion and additional generic competition. But the company's global innovative medicines business grew 12.8% to $351 million helped by products such as Ilumya, Odomzo and Cequa.

Analysts at brokerages noted that the US generics business is facing a broader combination of price erosion, new competition and loss of exclusivity across mature products. Yet, the US market remains critical to the earnings. Q1 results indicate how the loss of individual products could affect overall growth.

Motilal Oswal said Lupin's US growth in Q1 was driven by base-business volumes and new launches, but was "offset by increased competition & loss of exclusivity (LoE) impact on certain products," with a mid-single-digit price decline due to additional competition in select products including Mirabegron. The brokerage expects Lupin's US revenue growth to be limited to a 4% CAGR over FY26-28 as incremental launches and base portfolio growth are likely to be largely offset by continued price erosion, higher competition and product-specific LoE impacts.

In a similar vein, in its assessment of Dr Reddy's, Axis Securities pointed to price erosion in North America and Europe generics with North American operations facing pricing pressure in key products, in addition to the gRevlimid cliff. The brokerage noted that the underlying base business, excluding lenalidomide, delivered double-digit growth across key geographies. To counter the slowdown in the US market, companies are steadily moving into products where competition is less intense. Lupin's results presentation, for example, shows that the company is targeting 20 complex product launches in regulated markets by 2028 covering inhalation, injectables and ophthalmics, besides five biosimilar filings. Its research and development strategy is being increasingly focused on complex generics and biosimilars. In the context of the pharma industry, regulated markets typically refer to the US, EU, UK, Japan, Canada and Australia where drug approvals and quality standards are more stringent.

ICICI Securities said the company has firm plans for GLP-1 opportunities, biosimilars and innovative products to be launched across more than 90 countries. The brokerage said the company's ability to consistently launch complex products across geographies would be a key determinant of its future performance.

Experts said the prospect of steep US tariffs on imported pharma products has added another layer of pressure to a market already facing pricing and competitive headwinds. Despite the impending tariff threat on imported generics, companies are not necessarily looking to immediately shift production to the US. Dr Reddy's CEO Erez Israeli recently said the company has two years before tariffs take effect and that it's not practical to move any facility in that timeframe.

But some companies are already responding by diversifying their geographical presence. Dr Reddy's, for example, recorded 13% growth in its Europe business in the first quarter while its emerging market business rose 31% to ₹1,830 crore. Russia and other CIS markets also grew 24% to ₹1,120 crore.

Axis Securities said Dr Reddy's emerging market growth was supported by new product launches across other international markets, favourable forex movements, price increases in select brands and higher volumes. It said management remains confident that early double-digit growth in Russia was sustainable over the medium term. Aurobindo Pharma's figures show a similar geographical shift. Europe grew 25.6% in Q1, while growth markets rose 37.7% compared with 8.1% growth in the US. The company is also expanding its biosimilar business in Europe while entering newer markets such as Mexico, Algeria and Uzbekistan.

Sun Pharma's generic semaglutide has been launched in South Africa and is expected to be launched in Brazil through a partner, the company's COO Aalok Shanghvi said in an analyst call last month. Besides this, the domestic market remains another important source of growth for large drugmakers. Sun's formulations business grew 16% in first quarter. At the same time, Dr Reddy's domestic business grew 17% during the quarter.

In India, the GLP-1 therapies offer a major new opportunity. Though the first quarter results also underline the execution risks associated with more complex products. Dr Reddy's had to halt commercial semaglutide supplies after an out-of-specification API issue leading to a provision of about ₹240 crore.

"The first quarter earnings have positively surprised investors as India growth for most players has turned out to be strong and for some names it is at a level we haven't seen in the last several years. There is more to this growth beyond GLP-1s. Cardiac, nephrology, oncology and diabetes are segments that seem to be doing well. Overall, the domestic pharma giants remain in pursuit to lower their dependence on US generics," said Vishal Manchanda, Senior Vice President (Institutional Research), Systematix Group.

AGM relief or not?

SRTT'S IMMEDIATE PROBLEM stems from a May 15 directive of the Maharashtra charity authorities barring it from holding meetings until an investigation into alleged governance lapses at the trust is completed. Repeated attempts to secure interim relief from the charity commissioner have so far been unsuccessful.

The restriction has assumed greater significance because SRTT and the Sir Dorabji Tata Trust (SDTT) must jointly nominate a representative of Tata Trusts, the largest promoter shareholder of Tata Sons, for the AGM. With SRTT unable to convene its board, the process of authorising its part of the nomination remains in limbo.

There is also no clear end in sight to the investigation that triggered the meeting ban. People close to the matter said a key hurdle is that SRTT and the complainant, represented by advocate Katyayani Agrawal, have been unable to agree on a common date to appear before the assistant charity commissioner conducting the investigation.

The Bombay High Court remains another possible avenue for the trust. Legal experts said SRTT could make a strong case against the charity commissioner's directive, particularly since it had filed caveats with both the charity authority and the High Court. Tata Trusts had also said earlier that the order was passed ex parte, or without hearing the trusts.

A court challenge, however, may not necessarily produce immediate or comprehensive relief. While the High Court could grant interim protection allowing SRTT to convene meetings, legal experts said securing broader relief at short notice could be difficult. The investigation itself may also not be expedited, given a Supreme Court directive cautioning higher courts against imposing rigid, automatic timelines on proceedings before lower courts.

The implications of the meeting ban now extend beyond Tuesday's AGM. Chandrasekaran's decision to step down has put in motion the process of finding his successor, and SRTT's inability to meet could complicate that exercise as well.

SDTT last Thursday passed a resolution to initiate the formation of the selection committee that will choose the next Tata Sons chairman. Three members of the committee have to be jointly nominated by SRTT and SDTT. For SRTT to authorise those nominations, it would once again need to convene its board.

What began as a regulatory dispute over SRTT's governance has therefore acquired wider consequences for Tata Sons at a sensitive juncture. Unless the restriction is lifted, it could affect not only the Trusts' participation in Tuesday's AGM but also the process for choosing the next chairman of India's largest business group.

Monday will provide the first indication of whether that logjam can be broken.

US READIES FRESH IRAN SANCTIONS PACKAGE

Israel strikes Lebanon

BLOOMBERG
August 16

LEBANON SAW ITS deadliest day of fighting in months as Iran and the US appeared to be at a standstill in negotiations ahead of the Monday expiration of their ceasefire agreement, while Washington preps fresh sanctions.

The Israel Defence Forces said on Sunday that it killed Abu Hassan Alaa, a senior Hezbollah commander, in southern Lebanon a day earlier. A total of 11 people died in the Israeli strikes — including several children — making them the deadliest since the sides agreed to a ceasefire at the beginning of June.

Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu said the strikes were in retaliation for a Hezbollah attack injuring three soldiers early Saturday. Israel said on Sunday it would strike the Iranian proxy group again should it feel threatened.

The fighting on the periphery of the Iran war may further complicate what appear to be deadlocked negotiations between Washington and Tehran. The sides are poised to arrive at the formal end of their own ceasefire agreement on Monday with no apparent path forward on the Strait of Hormuz and with the US readying an "economic isolation" plan to pressure Iran's capitulation.

Russia hits steel plant in fresh attacks on Ukraine

RUSSIA CARRIED OUT a wave of airstrikes on Ukraine overnight, killing two people at a steel plant, and Kyiv launched a heavy drone attack on the Moscow region that killed one person and set ablaze a warehouse used by Russia's leading e-commerce retailer.

Romania said an F-18 fighter on a Nato air policing mission had shot down a drone that breached its airspace during the latest attacks. It did not specify the origin of the drone, which entered from Moldova, but a Nato spokesperson said.

US President Donald Trump is reportedly readying new economic measures to force Tehran to capitulate. He told Fox News on Friday that the US plans to hit Iran's economy hard and that he didn't care if the conflict ends before the November US midterm elections, which will hinge on voter perceptions of the economy.

Jane Street loses $15 bn in its first down month in 10 years

BLOOMBERG
August 16

JANE STREET POSTED roughly $15 billion of losses in July — its first monthly slump in about a decade — as AI-focused hedge fund Situational Awareness swooned and dragged down asset prices across equity markets, according to a person familiar with the matter.

Jane Street, which invests in Situational Awareness and directly invests in AI ventures, suffered a rare and severe downturn amid volatile stock markets. The company's investment in the hedge fund, as well as wrong-way bets in Asian equity markets, drove part of the losses, said the person, who asked not to be identified citing private details.

"July was a bad month," Turner Batty, a Jane Street partner, said in an internal note.

Still, the firm has generated more than $40 billion of net trading revenue so far this year, more than it did in all of 2025 when it set a Wall Street record, the person said.

"Despite the large year-to-date increase in trading capital, the recency of these losses has caused us to locally be more selective about risk," Batty said.

"We've closed a significant portion of our risk in the specific areas we lost on in July, and have also reduced risk-taking in other strategies."

The market maker described the impact of the debacle at Situational Awareness while seeking to refinance billions of dollars of debt, as per the Financial Times, which earlier reported the loss.

Jane Street was rattled by Situational Awareness and the equity market turmoil as it was preparing to issue $14.6 billion of bonds this week to overhaul its debt load.

$9-12 bn FCNR hedging costs

THE 2.5-3.5% range reflects the cost the RBI is effectively absorbing by taking on the currency hedge for banks. A June analysis by Waterfield Advisors estimated the annual hedging cost at around 2.5%, equivalent to 12.5% of the amount raised over a five-year tenor. At the upper end, a 3.5% annual cost would imply an 17.5% cumulative outgo over five years.

Madhavi Arora, chief economist at Emkay Global Financial Services, has estimated that the roughly $9-10 billion cost on the inflows mobilised so far assumes a 3.5% annual hedging cost over five years.

The $70-billion scenario is not implausible given the pace of mobilisation. Gaura Sen Gupta, chief economist at IDFC FIRST Bank, expects FCNR(B) inflows to rise further as banks step up mobilisation before the facility closes. Earlier estimates from market participants had put potential inflows in the $60-70 billion range. At $70 billion, therefore, every 1 percentage point of annual hedging cost represents $700 million a year, or $3.5 billion over five years. At 2.5%, the five-year cost would be $8.75 billion; at 3.5%, it would be $12.25 billion.

The potential cost, however, is unlikely to represent a significant hit to the RBI's balance sheet. "There will be a cost, but it will not be significant given the size of the RBI's balance sheet," said Madan Sabnavis, chief economist at Bank of Baroda. The central bank's balance sheet increased 20.6% year-on-year to ₹91.97 lakh crore ($963.5 billion) at the end of March 2026.

More importantly, the gross hedging cost does not amount to an equivalent economic loss. The dollars brought into the country add to the RBI's foreign exchange reserves, which can be invested in interest-bearing foreign assets. The income from those assets would partly offset the cost of the hedge.

"If you are looking only at the cost side, you should also look at the fact that they will invest these reserves in short-term US Treasuries where the yield is quite high," said Gaura Sen Gupta.

The accounting impact could nevertheless be visible on the RBI's books. The cost of the hedge could result in an interim loss in the central bank's forward valuation account and may require additional provisioning. The scale of the inflows has already prompted the RBI to bring forward the closure of the special window. On Friday, the central bank said fresh FCNR(B) deposits would be eligible for the facility only if mobilised by August 31, a month earlier than the original September 30 deadline. Swaps against eligible deposits can still be availed of until September 11. The early closure itself underlines how quickly the scheme has exceeded initial expectations. The facility was introduced in June to encourage banks to raise three-to-five-year foreign currency deposits by allowing them to swap the dollars with the RBI while the central bank absorbed the hedging cost. The measure also removed the cost disadvantage that had previously limited banks' ability to offer competitive FCNR(B) rates.

Govt aims to clinch 5 BITs

HOWEVER, AS UNDER the 2015 Model BIT, taxation disputes will remain outside the purview of the investment treaties. The government is now identifying only the essential red lines and providing greater flexibility elsewhere.

The overhaul goes beyond dispute resolution and revises several other provisions, drawing on lessons from recent agreements. Investment treaties with the UAE and Israel, for example, depart from the 2015 model, extending protection to portfolio investments in shares, bonds and other financial assets, which were excluded under the earlier framework.

Attracting FDI is a top priority for the government as the country's burgeoning infrastructure sector needs large-scale private investment. Gross FDI inflows rose 17.3% to $94.5 billion in FY26 from $80.6 billion a year ago. However, net FDI inflows stood at $7.7 billion in FY26 from around $1 billion the previous year.

The restrictive 2015 BIT model was adopted after a series of high-profile arbitration disputes, including those involving Vodafone and Cairn, which challenged India's retrospective tax demands through international arbitration. Those cases prompted the Centre to terminate most of its older BITs.

NEW GUIDELINES TO TAKE EFFECT FROM APRIL 2027

ECL rollout pushes banks to overhaul data architecture

KSHIPRA PETKAR
Mumbai, August 16

UPDATED NORMS

- Banks need granular, reliable credit data covering multiple business cycles
- Data from core banking, loan origination, collateral and recovery systems must be brought together
- Technology must support PD, LGD, EAD, staging and forward-looking macroeconomic scenarios
- Experts estimate the integration layer alone could take 6 to 12+ months

AHEAD OF THE rollout of expected credit loss (ECL) guidelines from April 2027, banks are gearing up to overhaul their data architecture to meet the Reserve Bank of India's requirements. A key challenge will be integrating data from multiple systems to calculate credit losses.

Avinash Raghavendra, group head – IT & retail operations at Axis Bank, said, "In order to meet the regulatory expectations, changes are envisaged in the non-performing asset (NPA) management software. Discussions are currently underway on where changes are required and around third-party support."

"ECL is far more than an accounting change. It represents a large-scale transformation across data, analytics, risk management, and technology," said Dhruv Parikh, partner – financial services risk consulting, EY India.

To estimate credit losses using forward-looking information, banks will need to draw data from core banking systems, loan origination platforms, collateral management and recovery systems, credit bureaus, macroeconomic feeds and finance systems.

The RBI guidelines call for sufficiently granular credit-risk data, robust processes to identify and manage data-quality risks across internal and external datasets, and adequate historical loss data covering representative periods and variations across business cycles. Banks will also have to guard against material inconsistencies or selective use of data during aggregation, which could distort ECL estimates.

Recent tenders floated by Indian Bank, Indian Overseas Bank (IOB) and the National Bank for Agriculture and Rural Development (NABARD) show regulated entities preparing technology systems to handle probability of default (PD), loss given default (LGD), exposure at default (EAD), staging, macroeconomic scenarios and model recalibration.

Sagar Lakhani, partner at Uniqus Consultech, said many Indian banks' core banking software was not designed to retain the detailed historical data required for credit-risk assessment, making significant data-cleaning and correction work necessary.

Banks with multiple main banking systems could also face problems in making data consistent and matching records across systems. Older systems that cannot easily exchange data may require information to be transferred through files, while collateral data may be held separately and need to be organised before it can be reliably used to calculate expected credit losses.

"Realistically, banks should budget 6 to more than 12 months for the integration layer alone," Lakhani said.

Bankers' meet: Deposit growth in focus

FE BUREAU
Mumbai, August 16

INCLUSIVE APPROACH

- Two-day meet begins today
- Discussions will focus on how financial institutions and banks can collaborate to strengthen agri infra
- It will also include improving resource mobilisation
- Another area of focus is developing specialised banking products for the youth

BANKERS AND HEADS of financial institutions are set to deliberate over two days on key issues, including expanding banks' capital base for better liquidity management, deposit mobilisation, asset-liability mismatches and easing liquidity pressures.

The themes for the two-day strategy meet, to be held in New Delhi starting Monday, have been selected with a focus on inclusive economic development and ensuring a wider and more equitable distribution of credit across the country.

"It is a strategy meet where all operational issues will be highlighted and the ministry will give its feedback," said the chief of a public sector bank.

"Deposit growth is an issue for most of the banks, especially for the smaller ones. A lot of deliberations will be on how to bridge this gap and what additional steps these banks can take to mop up deposits. The FCNR(B) has given a relief now, but structural changes are required which are also likely to be deliberated," said a senior banker who will be part of the deliberations.

The event will be held under the aegis of the Department of Financial Services (DFS), bringing together top leadership from public sector banks (PSBs) and financial institutions such as SIDBI, NABARD and Exim Bank. Discussions will focus on how financial institutions and banks can collaborate to strengthen agricultural infrastructure, improve resource mobilisation and implement targeted programmes for the youth.

Other topics for discussion include strengthening rural infrastructure for agriculture and horticulture, developing specialised banking products for the youth, expanding priority sector lending to underserved segments, growing the credit card business and supporting global capability centres.

Banks have been relying on retail term deposits and wholesale deposits from companies to augment their resource base and fund credit growth. With household savings increasingly moving towards equity markets, the banking sector is facing a resource crunch. While larger banks, with extensive branch networks, have been able to mobilise current account, savingas account (CASA) and term deposits, smaller players have struggled to expand their deposit base.

● ANIMESH DAS, MD & CEO, ACKO GENERAL INSURANCE

'We will be in a happy place after distribution reforms'

Animesh Das, MD & CEO of Acko General Insurance, believes Irdai's proposed distribution reforms will put direct-to-consumer players like Acko in a 'happy place'. In an interview with Narayanan V, Das discusses why the Supreme Court's recent ruling on long-term third-party insurance may not improve compliance, industry's broker distribution model and how commission-led distribution reform can solve this problem. Excerpts:

Q&A

Why do you think penetration of long-term motor third-party insurance may not improve despite the recent SC ruling?

The big gap is that in younger cars or two-wheelers or private vehicles, the compliance rate was already high. Almost 85% of the population is taking insurance anyway for the first four years. Commercial vehicles account for more than 50% of all third-party claims, yet they sit entirely outside this mandate. A similar long-tenure bundled product was introduced in 2018, and the Insurance Regulatory and Development Authority of India (Irdai) had to withdraw it in 2020. Of the people who purchased five-year insurance, nearly 80% did not renew in the sixth year. There are a couple of reasons. One, consumers end up paying out huge premium at the start, and second, by the sixth year, their recall of even buying an insurance product is negligible.

What is the solution to increase the penetration?

There are some fundamental issues. Most insurance companies spend money on customer acquisition costs (distribution or commissions) and claims payouts. If the commission component keeps increasing because a company goes aggressive and shells out more commission, and if a customer needs to put an extra 2–3% or 3–4% every year into commissions, the claims pool keeps getting tighter. In that case, the customer will have to find ways to control this pool by not doing a fair job in settling claims, or by not delivering a great customer experience. I think this is fundamentally broken in the industry today. The bigger gap is in the current distribution model. The economics of how companies are growing means you are not making the product affordable. I think a reform in the commission system will help the industry improve this parameter.

MORE THAN HALF OUR PORTFOLIO IS RENEWAL BUSINESS, WHICH CARRIES VIRTUALLY NO DISTRIBUTION COST

How will the proposed distribution reforms impact direct-to-consumer players like Acko?

The proposed distribution reforms are aimed at commission-led channels and companies that are over-dependent on them for growth. Acko's model is structurally different, so we find ourselves in a comfortable place. Our D2C model is built to optimise expenses over time. Unlike an agent- or intermediary-led model, we do carry customer acquisition costs in the first year — largely advertising and marketing — but from the second year onwards, renewals come in at near-zero acquisition cost. That's a compounding benefit. Our expense of management ratio has improved by roughly 10% every year on the back of this factor.

Today, more than half our portfolio is renewal business, which carries virtually no distribution cost. This is fundamentally different from the commission-led part of the industry, where the cost of distribution is largely fixed as a percentage of premium and tends to rise year after year, with no natural lever to bring it down.

Our cost structure, by contrast, has a built-in glide path towards efficiency. I hope we have also done a decent job in delivering a good customer experience. If the market pushes consumers to organically find channels like this, we will be in a happy place.

Acko was traditionally known as a motor insurance provider, but now health accounts for nearly 50% of its portfolio.

We don't think about our business in terms of an ideal split between lines of business. Insurance isn't something people plan around in neat categories. They think about protecting their vehicle, health, travel, gadgets, as they come up in life.

MMDR AMENDMENT BILL, 2026

What the new mining Bill means for companies, investors & states

Last week, Parliament passed the Mines and Minerals (Development and Regulation) Amendment Bill. By restricting additional levies by state governments & addressing certain legacy exposures, the Bill ensures greater certainty over future costs & past liabilities for mining companies, writes Sidhartha Jain

● How will the new Bill improve tax certainty for mining companies?

THE ISSUE AFTER after the Supreme Court's 2024 ruling in the Mineral Area Development Authority (MADA) vs Steel Authority of India case was concrete. Jharkhand and Tamil Nadu enacted fresh levies on mineral-bearing land, while Karnataka's legislation covering mineral rights as well awaits Presidential assent. The Supreme Court permitted demands on transactions from April 2005, with exposure across public and private miners estimated in lakhs of crores of rupees.

The Mines and Minerals (Development and Regulation) Amendment Bill, 2026 (MMDR Bill) now addresses both dimensions: future levies by state governments would operate within conditions and restrictions prescribed by the Centre; past levies not deposited or recovered would become invalid, with amounts already paid not refundable. The outcome is not necessarily lower taxation but a coherent framework and greater certainty over future costs and past liabilities.

● How does India's overall tax and levy burden compare with others?

INDIA DIFFERS FROM major mining jurisdictions in both the incidence and design of its fiscal burden. The mines ministry-supported FIMI-EY study of 2025 places India's effective burden upwards of 50% of revenues even before auction commitments, compared with about 40% in Australia and South Africa and 34-40% in the Canadian jurisdictions studied. India's framework includes royalty, statutory contributions and, for auctioned mines, a continuing premium linked to mineral value. In comparison, Canadian mining taxes are largely profit-based, while South Africa follows a profitability-linked royalty structure. Post-MADA, the possibility of new State levies added further complexity, which the MMDR Amendment Bill now seeks to resolve.

TAX BURDEN ON INDIA'S MINING SECTOR AGAINST GLOBAL AVERAGE OF 35-40%

INVESTORS WILL ALSO WATCH THE CONDITIONS THE CENTRE NOTIFIES UNDER THE AMENDED LAW

● Will it help boost investment in critical minerals?

THE AMENDMENT COMES as India steps up its critical-minerals programme. The National Critical Mineral Mission envisages ₹16,300 crore of government expenditure and 1,200 exploration projects through 2030-31, alongside greater private participation in critical and deep-seated minerals. Fifty-six critical and strategic mineral blocks stand auctioned so far across successive tranches. Exploration capital is committed years before revenue arises and is therefore most sensitive to fiscal unpredictability. A stable levy regime, alongside other project fundamentals, strengthens the case for committing it to India's critical minerals.

● What about states' fiscal autonomy?

THE AMENDMENT DOES not extinguish the taxing powers recognised in MADA, but places their exercise within conditions and restrictions to be prescribed by the Centre. For mineral rights, Entry 50 of the State List contemplates Parliamentary limitation through a law on mineral development. The amendment also brings mineral-bearing lands within the MMDR framework, an area where MADA located the power of the states in Entry 49. This could raise questions on their fiscal autonomy; equally, mineral-rich states have legitimate revenue and local development interests. How the Centre frames these conditions, and how courts read the amendment, will shape the eventual balance.

● Likely impact on private investment & FDI in mining

INDIA PERMITS 100% FDI in mining via the automatic route, so the constraint is less access than project economics. The immediate effect is on balance sheets: invalidated legacy levies allow firms to reassess provisions, contingent liability disclosures and cash-flow planning, with staggered payments otherwise due from April 2026. For existing mines, the amendment provides visibility over future state-level fiscal costs; for new auctions, a clearer framework should aid project valuation and bidding decisions. Investors will also watch the conditions the Centre notifies under the amended law. Whether this translates into fresh investment will depend on the competitiveness of India's mining ecosystem.

● Is uniformity in mining tax likely?

COMPLETE FISCAL UNIFORMITY is unlikely. Royalty rates are already prescribed centrally, although revenues accrue to state governments, while auction premiums and mine economics vary across projects. The Bill brings greater consistency to the treatment of further state levies. It could also shift competitive federalism towards factors states can influence directly: geological information, infrastructure, faster approvals and post-auction facilitation. States can continue to differentiate themselves through the quality of their mining ecosystem, within a more consistent overall fiscal structure.

Guaranteed return policies give higher returns than FDs

FIXED SURVIVAL BENEFIT REASSURING IN TIMES OF MARKET UNDERPERFORMANCE

SAIKAT NEOGI

IF YOU WANT to ring-fence money for defined goals such as children's education, marriage or retirement, consider guaranteed return life insurance plans. They combine life coverage with tax-free survival benefits, offering yields that outpace fixed deposits.

In a volatile market, guaranteed return life insurance plans provide certainty by locking in a fixed survival benefit. Insurers are designing products around specific customer needs rather than offering a one-size-fits-all proposition. This includes different premium payment structures, income and payout options, policy tenures, deferred income choices and enhanced protection features.

Tailored for conservative savers

These plans are ideal for salaried professionals who can commit to a multi-year premium schedule ranging between 5 to 12 years. "It is an ideal choice for conservative savers looking for emotional and financial security without the stress of continuously tracking market performance," says Vaibhav Kumar, head, Products, Ecommerce and Enterprise COE, Axis Max Life Insurance.

For younger people, guaranteed return life insurance plans are useful when used alongside equity-oriented investments as part of a diversified long-term portfolio. "For individuals approaching retirement, the predictability of benefits and potential income options can become particularly relevant," says Gautam Boda, group vice chairman, JB Boda Group, an insurance broking firm.

Investment yield

Insurers decide the guaranteed rate at the onset of the policy based on prevailing investment yields. Depending on the product, there are multiple payout options such as lump-sum maturity benefits, regular income or even deferred income.

The life insurance protection acts as a financial shield by providing an immediate, tax-free death benefit of 10 times the annual premium to nominees in case of death during the policy term.

"If you need cash before the policy matures, some plans will let you take out a policy loan against it," says Sarita Joshi, head, Health and Life Insurance, Probus.

Guaranteed return life insurance plans should not be viewed primarily as wealth-creation instruments. "You should evaluate both dimensions — the guaranteed maturity/income benefits and the life cover — rather than looking at it from an investment-return perspective," says Sameep Singh, head, Investment, Policybazaar.

● YOUR MONEY

Portfolio overlap can compound the risks

KUSH GUPTA

WHILE DIVERSIFICATION REDUCES risk and creates long-term sustainability in investment portfolios, over-diversification can often lead to the dilution of investments in quality stocks. Your portfolio mix should meet a certain purpose or a specific goal instead of just accumulating funds.

Focused mutual funds have, on average, 25 to 30 stocks, whereas large-cap funds have, on average, 75 to 80 stocks. If you look at three-year returns, large-cap funds have stayed in the range of 11 to 13%, while focused funds have delivered 17 to 19%.

It is important to understand why this happens. Over-diversification means investors expose themselves to the entire breadth of the stock market by accumulating 150 or even 200 stocks across their diversified mutual fund portfolio. The broader market usually does not deliver very high returns because sectors have their own up and down cycles.

Meaningful diversification means that every mutual fund or stock included in a portfolio provides complementary support towards the investor's desired returns. For example, if one wants to diversify risk, they can select one large-cap fund, one mid-cap fund, one small-cap fund and one balanced fund. However, if they accumulate multiple funds from the same category, it would unnecessarily dilute investments.

Overlap leads to dilution

Let's discuss how overlap leads to dilution. If you pick some of the biggest large-cap funds, you will notice that all of them have over 30% exposure to the financial services sector. They also have over 15% exposure to the consumer sector. This means nearly 45% of the investments are going into the same bucket.

If you accumulate multiple large-cap funds, almost half of your portfolio becomes dependent on just two sectors. If there is negative sentiment in these sectors, your returns are likely to suffer. Many investors think that accumulating four or five funds from the same category will improve the chances of better returns. However, Indian markets are not broad enough, and returns across the large-cap space largely remain similar.

Finding the right portfolio mix

Overlap also increases complexity. If you hold multiple funds from the same category that perform broadly alike, it becomes difficult to decide which ones to retain. For investors without access to extensive research, identifying which sector or company is negatively impacting the portfolio becomes even more challenging.

Each category has a specific function depending on market sentiment, risk profile and macroeconomic factors. Investors should ideally stick to one fund in each category. If markets are expensive and risky, balanced funds may be suitable. If earnings growth is expected and the economy is booming, flexi-cap or mid-cap funds may be more appropriate. Long-term equity investors can rely on large-cap funds for stability, while investors with a higher risk appetite may bet on focused funds.

Why the government shouldn't simply celebrate more institutes in QS rankings

EXPANDING QS HEADCOUNT MEANS LITTLE IF INDIAN UNIVERSITIES FAIL TO BREAK INTO THE TOP 50

VIKRAM CHAUDHARY

LAST MONDAY, when the Ministry of Education informed the Lok Sabha that the number of Indian institutions in the QS World University Rankings had jumped from 11 in 2015 to 52 in 2027, it was hailed as a big achievement. Of course, a fivefold increase in global representation is proof that policy initiatives are working.

But behind this achievement lies a harsh reality — sheer headcount and global excellence are different things. If we treat '11 to 52' as a victory, we risk celebrating a metric that masks stagnation in the higher education system, a widening intra-national divide, and a gap between ranking optimisation and real-world outcomes.

MAMIDALA JAGADESH KUMAR, FORMER CHAIRMAN OF THE UGC

Rankings must be the byproduct of academic strength, and not the sole metric of success. Success must mean better teaching, good research, useful tech, capable graduates, and national benefit.

Top-tier stagnation

A closer look at these 52 institutes reveals that most gains have occurred in the lower tiers — the 500-1,500 rank band. India doesn't have a single university in the global top 50, and only two in the top 150 (IIT Delhi at 118, IIT Bombay at 134). Also, there are only 11 Indian institutes in the top 500. Contrast this with Singapore, East Asia, and China, which now boast six universities in the top 20 alone.

Academic leaders argue it's time India pivots from tracking headcount to providing research backing.

"For better global visibility, the first priority is funding for 7-10 years in areas such as artificial intelligence, semiconductors, quantum technology, clean energy, advanced materials and healthcare," says Mamidala Jagadesh Kumar, chairman, Board of Governors, IIM Calcutta, and former chairman of the UGC. "It should support the full research ecosystem, including shared laboratories, maintenance, research engineers, doctoral scholars, postdoctoral fellows, and professional research management."

Prof Kumar adds that breaking into the top echelons requires global integration and industry synergy: "A global talent programme can help institutes recruit outstanding faculty. International doctoral scholarships, faculty exchanges, and long-term research partnerships would further strengthen knowledge creation. Indian industry can co-fund translational research centres that maintain academic independence. Promising discoveries can then move towards prototypes, patents, and start-ups."

India's public universities

Because QS heavily weights metrics like citations per faculty and internationalisation, our public universities, which educate the vast majority, are disadvantaged, and our best — University of Delhi (322nd) and JNU (555th) — aren't competitive globally.

Celebrating these 52 — dominated by IITs, IISc, and deep-pocketed private players such as Lovely or Saveetha — distracts from the reality that public universities lack the basic infrastructure needed to compete globally.

Even among highly-ranked private universities that have entered QS, a disconnect exists between ranking metrics and student outcomes. While these universities score well on rankings, many fail the market salary test — offering graduate placement packages that lag behind their rank standing (see "Why India's 'world-ranked' private universities are failing the salary test"; tinyurl.com/2habu8rz).

"The rise from 11 institutions to 52 is encouraging, but it is important to look beyond the headline number," notes Ashok Varma, partner, Inclusion Ecosystem at Grant Thornton Bharat. "As the world's second largest higher education ecosystem, greater representation in global rankings is a natural outcome of expansion, stronger institutional participation, and improved alignment with international benchmarking frameworks. But it should be viewed as a milestone in a longer journey rather than a definitive measure of global competitiveness."

The true benchmark

Ultimately, the government's focus on expanding the headcount from 11 to 52 risks creating a false sense of security. A higher education strategy that celebrates lower-band inclusion while ignoring top-50 stagnation and public university decline is fundamentally flawed.

As Prof Jagadesh Kumar points out, rankings should be the byproduct of academic strength, not the sole metric of policy success. "Reaching the top 50 world university rankings should not be the only goal," Prof Kumar says. "Success must mean better teaching, influential research, useful technology, capable graduates, and national benefit. With long-term funding, transparent review, and institutional plans, higher rankings can naturally follow from stronger universities."

Until India can nurture institutions that consistently challenge the world's top 50 while elevating the baseline quality of its public universities, expanding the QS headcount remains a vanity exercise.

The evolving role of librarians in a digital world

VIJI THIYAGARAJAN

WHAT WOULD SR Ranganathan, regarded as the Father of Library Science in India, think if he walked into a library today? His idea that "library is a growing organism," has come to define the modern library which now blends its historic collections with online resources.

As India's digitally connected population grows, access to information isn't a challenge. Navigating it is. This is where the role of librarians has evolved — from answering questions to cultivating curiosity and independent learning. The NEP 2020 recommends stronger collaboration between educational institutions and libraries. The British Council's Reading Ambassador Programme illustrates this role by empowering young people to lead reading initiatives in their communities, while developing leadership and communication skills.

The future of libraries will not be determined by technology alone, but by the people who make technology meaningful. As collections become digital and information continues to proliferate, the librarian's role will grow. Technology can extend a library's reach, but cannot replace the human judgement and contextual understanding that librarians bring on board. In an age of AI and information abundance, librarians will remain the bridge between knowledge and understanding.

Layers of safety

The Phuket incident is a test of India's aviation safeguards, not of one pilot or one component

THE AIR INDIA Phuket-Delhi incident should not be reduced to either a technical failure or a pilot's positive drug test. The more important question is whether the safety system was strong enough to ensure that one failure did not become a potential catastrophe. On August 4, the Airbus A320neo suddenly lost around 300 feet in altitude, injuring 24 passengers and crew members. Airbus' preliminary analysis indicated that hydraulic pressure was temporarily lost across all three hydraulic systems, leaving key flight controls unresponsive for about four seconds. A post-flight fault log also revealed nine warnings within roughly a minute, involving hydraulic systems, flight controls, and the autopilot. Separately, the captain tested positive for marijuana in a confirmatory test. There is no established causal link between the drug test and the altitude loss. But together, these developments underline the importance of multiple, independent layers of protection in an industry where the margin for error is small.

Aviation safety is built on the assumption that machines can fail, people can make mistakes, and circumstances can deteriorate unexpectedly. Aviation relies on multiple safeguards, from backup systems and crew oversight to flight-control technology, maintenance protocols, and regulatory checks. The purpose is to ensure that a single failure does not cascade. The Phuket incident is therefore about whether each barrier worked as it should. The investigation must establish why safeguards failed, how warnings were handled, whether procedures were followed, and whether pilot screening and intervention were adequate.

That is particularly important because India's aviation industry is expanding rapidly, with airlines adding aircraft, routes, and pilots. In such an environment, safety cannot become a compliance exercise in which airlines simply meet the minimum requirement. Air India has responded by ordering substance screening for all its pilots, going beyond the regulatory requirement for random testing of a portion of flight crew. That is useful, but the larger issue is whether safety systems should depend primarily on random checks after an incident. Substance use, fatigue, and medication involve both safety and individual privacy. Yet the cockpit is not an ordinary workplace. The responsibility placed on a pilot extends to hundreds of lives, making robust disclosure, testing, and intervention mechanisms essential. The same principle applies to aircraft systems; for instance, warnings should trigger the right response and maintenance findings should be acted upon before they recur.

The lesson from the Phuket episode, therefore, should not be that one pilot failed or that one aircraft component malfunctioned. It should be that aviation safety is only as strong as the weakest layer of protection in the chain. The investigation must establish the technical sequence, the role of the crew, the circumstances surrounding the drug test, and whether existing procedures were followed. Airbus has called for inspections of the hydraulic systems, sensors, and wiring, while the Aircraft Accident Investigation Bureau continues its probe. The initial description of the episode as turbulence also underlines why accurate and transparent communication matters. Air India needs to demonstrate that its safety culture is not a set of manuals and audits but a system that can identify risks before they reach the cockpit. Passengers do not expect airlines to operate without failures. They expect enough safeguards to ensure that when a machine fails, a pilot falters, or an unexpected event occurs, the aircraft does not come close to becoming an accident. That is the standard by which this incident should be judged.

FROM PLATE TO PLOUGH

INDIA'S TRADE NEEDS TO REMODEL ITSELF AS A GLOBAL SOURCE OF SUSTAINABLE, PREMIUM HONEY

Let's honour the busy bee

ASHOK GULATI, SUVANGI RATH, & TANMOY ADHIKARY

Respectively Distinguished Professor, Fellow, and Research Assistant at ICRIER

WHILE INDIANS CELEBRATED Independence Day on August 15, the Americans celebrated the third Saturday of August, which fell on August 15 this year, as a National Honey Bee Day. Honeybees, according to the Food and Agriculture Organization, play the quiet role of pollinators, and are responsible for almost one-third of crop output globally, enhancing the yields of 87 out of 115 leading food crops. Moreover, they add to nutritional quality. If India has to make its agriculture productive and nutritious, bees must be treated as farmers' best friends. As you pass by the mustard fields of Uttar Pradesh and Rajasthan or the apple orchards of Himachal Pradesh, you would realise what bees can do. They have helped India become the second-largest producer of honey in the world, after China, and third-largest exporter of honey after China and New Zealand in value terms.

Beyond pollination, they have also helped farmers augment incomes through apiculture (honey bee farming). India's honey production has nearly doubled over the last decade, from about 76,000 tonnes in 2013-14 to roughly 151,000 tonnes in 2025-26, signalling scale in supply and capacity. Almost 70% of the honey produced is exported ($208 million in 2025-26), and India accounts for around 8.4% of global honey exports. However, India's export basket remains highly concentrated — the US absorbed about 76% of India's exports ($157.8 million) in 2025-26. And that runs a concentration risk in India's export markets, a taste of which was felt when the US suddenly imposed high tariffs on Indian imports. It was a big blow to Indian honey exporters and farmers, but the turnaround was also very swift in terms of diversifying export markets.

India's response was pragmatic. Shipments to countries like the Netherlands, Belgium, Germany, and Israel have begun, reflecting a shift towards markets that value natural, sustainably-sourced honey. At the same time, EU consumers are willing to pay a premium for traceable and environmentally responsible products, traits that India's multifloral and organic honey varieties can uniquely offer.

However, India's domestic market remains limited despite a large population. India's per capita honey consumption remains low (about 37 gm per year), indicating that a huge market is yet to be tapped. As more awareness about its health benefits spreads and retail penetration improves, a domestic market can help stabilise producer incomes while supporting premium quality exports.

This diversification mirrors a classic economic lesson — trade barriers often compel resilience and innovation. Rather than being confined to a single large buyer, India's honey sector is now spreading its wings across geographies. However, unit value realisation remains a constraint — Indian honey's unit value is about $1,858 per tonne, well below the world average and far from premium categories like New Zealand's Manuka. Upgrading quality, traceability, and branding is therefore essential. Price realisation can improve if exports are in branded retail packs rather than wholesale unbranded volumes.

Reforms and investments will determine if this moment becomes a structural transformation or a temporary reprieve. At the same time, investment in nuclear magnetic resonance-capable testing labs, cluster-based processing, GI branding for unique floral honeys (Sundarbans, Ramban Sulai), and setting up farmer producer organisations will lower compliance costs and enable entry into the premium European, Japanese, and East Asian markets. The bee product market (beeswax, propolis, royal jelly, pollen) is sizeable, valued at roughly $12.7 billion in 2023 and projected to grow, offering India a high-margin diversification route beyond bulk honey.

Crucially, sustainability must be central. Scientific beekeeping, pesticide management, and support for pollination services will protect both yields and ecosystem services that agriculture depends on. Initiatives under the National Beekeeping and Honey Mission and the Agricultural and Processed Food Products Export Development Authority's export support are steps in the right direction, but scaling them requires sharper targeting, labs, cluster grants, export promotion, and large-scale consumer campaigns ("Honey for Health") to grow domestic demand.

The Indian honey economy stands at a crucial juncture. The trade, once tethered to a single overseas market, needs to remodel itself as a global source of sustainable, premium honey. This requires the right blend of policy reform, quality assurance, and branding. Only then scale can be converted into genuine value, turning millions of hives into durable rural livelihoods. To mean anything beyond a date, the National Honey Bee Day should remind us that the jar on the shelf is the smallest part of the story. Every rupee of honey we export rests on a far larger, unpriced service — the pollination that fills the orchard, the oilseed field, and the vegetable plot, and quietly underwrites the food on our plates. The real measure of India's sweet revolution, then, will not be how much honey we sell, but whether we learn to protect the tiny worker that makes both the honey and the harvest possible.

Can our policymakers prioritise these silent workers that pollinate our crops and enhance rural prosperity? Can they set a time-bound target of doubling honey bee colonies by 2030, and double our share in the global market? As things stand, the Viksit Bharat 2047 vision is too distant and vague to assess its seriousness.

Economix 101 by Prof. René Goscinny

ATANU BISWAS

Professor of Statistics, Indian Statistical Institute, Kolkata

On his birth centenary, lessons from the French writer's Asterix comics remain contemporary, reminding that economies are made not of equations alone but of people

AUGUST 14 MARKED the birth centenary of René Goscinny, the French writer who, together with Albert Uderzo, brought Asterix to the world. It's a good excuse to return to the books — not merely for the jokes, the puns, and the indomitable Gauls, but for the sharp lessons hidden beneath the laughter. One can learn economics from Adam Smith, Marx, or Keynes. Or, if one prefers economics with magic potions, wild boars, and flying Romans, reading Asterix is the solution.

Goscinny and Uderzo never set out to write an economics textbook. Yet their little Gaulish village repeatedly becomes a laboratory of economic behaviour. Across the albums, we find bubbles, monopolies, artificial demand, taxation, trade, labour exploitation, real estate, environmental costs, and consumerism. Asterix, in its own mischievous way, becomes Economics 101, or maybe Economix 101 — with jokes.

Rome's problem with the Gauls is also an economic problem. Julius Caesar has tried military force, but the village refuses to surrender. War is expensive: soldiers, weapons, food, and administration cost money. So, in Obelix and Co. (1976), Caesar's adviser, Caius Preposterus, tries something clever. Instead of defeating the Gauls militarily, he changes their economic incentives. He begins buying Obelix's menhirs at absurdly high prices.

A menhir is a large stone. But once the Romans pay a fortune for it, it acquires something more powerful than usefulness: a price. Prices rise. Obelix becomes rich. Villagers abandon their occupations to make menhirs. Caesar discovers a principle: sometimes you can defeat people by changing what they value.

Preposterus creates demand for something nobody needed before. Romans buy menhirs; others assume they must be valuable; production expands. The menhir becomes a status symbol — a comic-book version of Veblen's conspicuous consumption. Then reality catches up: new producers enter, supply overwhelms demand, and confidence collapses. The menhir has not changed; only expectations have.

The menhir is therefore a joke about bubbles. It could be tulips, shares, or a digital token. While creating demand, Preposterus also discovers the inconvenient sequel: you cannot manufacture confidence indefinitely. And this is what makes Goscinny's economics so striking: written decades ago, the joke still feels uncannily current.

Goscinny's insight is once everything becomes a commodity, we may confuse what can be priced with what is valuable

There's opportunity cost. Every hour spent making menhirs is an hour not spent hunting or producing something useful. The Gauls become richer in money while losing some of the activities that make their community distinctive.

Surplus Dairiprodus, in Asterix and the Golden Sickle (1962), shows another route to profits. The corrupt Roman prefect controls the sickle monopoly and exploits scarcity to charge inflated prices. This is rent-seeking: making money through control of a market rather than by creating more value. Preposterus manufactures demand. Dairiprodus manufactures scarcity.

Then there is Ekonomikrisis, a modern businessman. In Asterix and the Black Gold (1971), Asterix and Obelix travel on his ship to West Asia in search of rock oil. Ekonomikrisis is a Phoenician merchant connecting markets — and an expert at making exploitation sound respectable. His galley rowers are called "partners". There is a partnership contract. It sounds progressive, yet he remains in charge. Black Gold also introduces resource economics: oil is valuable because it's scarce and useful, and whoever controls it gains economic — and often political — power.

In The Mansions of the Gods (1971), Caesar tries economic conquest. Instead of attacking the Gauls, the Romans build a housing development beside their village. Residents bring Roman consumption, reshaping the economy and community. Land values and local businesses change; the character of the neighbourhood changes with them. It's a comic-book version of gentrification. And Dogmatix, furious about the destruction of trees, may be the first environmental economist in comics. The builders profit while others bear the environmental cost. Economists call this an externality.

Asterix and the Cauldron (1969) gives us another economic problem: taxation. A neighbouring chief hides money from the Roman tax collector, dragging Asterix into the mess. Taxes change behaviour. If people think taxes are excessive — or evasion is possible — they look for ways around the system, creating an informal economy.

Asterix and the Chieftain's Shield (1968) adds an economic theme: wealth can outlive its owner and change hands with changing fortunes. The shield carries a history of ownership and power — a reminder that wealth has a way of travelling from one pocket to another, sometimes long after the original owner is gone.

But the deepest lesson may lie in what the village doesn't have. There's no stock exchange, advertising agency, quarterly earnings call, or GDP target. They are hardly rich. Yet they have food, friendship, music, festivals, and community. So, Obelix and Co. is more subtle than a simple attack on capitalism. Markets are useful; trade creates wealth; entrepreneurship can transform lives. But price and value are not the same thing. A menhir can have a huge price and little practical value; a forest can have a low market price and enormous ecological value; a village feast can be priceless. Goscinny's insight is that once everything becomes a commodity, we may confuse what can be priced with what is valuable.

And that's why Asterix remains so contemporary. People still manufacture demand, create monopolies, chase bubbles, speculate in property, dress up exploitation in corporate language, and evade taxes. Economies are made not of equations alone but of people — and people respond to incentives, expectations, vanity, imitation, greed, and fear.

So, if someone offers us ten times the usual price for something nobody wanted yesterday, we shouldn't immediately make ten thousand more. We should ask why. And if the buyer happens to be a smartly dressed Roman with a degree from the Latin School of Economics, we should do what Obelix should have done: put down the hammer. Keep the menhir. Go and have lunch with Asterix.

THE HUMAN FACTOR

Why it's OK if your best people occasionally leave

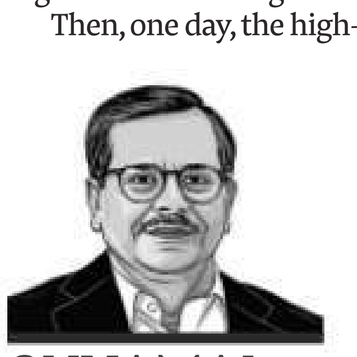
THERE COMES A point in the career of every successful executive when another promotion, a larger office, and a more elaborate job title cease to have quite the intoxicating effect they once did. The problem is usually arithmetic.

A newspaper report a couple of days ago described a procession of senior executives quitting large, generous employers to set up on their own. The proximate causes varied — a passion for wellness, a longing to "build something" — but buried in the piece was the real trigger: at some point, these people did the maths. However magnificently a firm pays its stars, the stars are still building somebody else's equity. The salary is rent; the asset belongs to the landlord.

What makes this delicious rather than merely sad is the role companies play in engineering their own heartbreak. Consider the modern corporate courtship of the "high-potential" employee. She is identified early, sent on leadership journeys, given a mentor, a sponsor, and a coach (these are different people, apparently), and rewarded with accelerated promotions. Above all, she is exhorted, in every appraisal and offsite, to "think like an owner".

She is encouraged to take ownership of problems, of outcomes, of the customer experience, of her own development. The one thing she may not take ownership of is the company. Think like an owner, by all means — just don't expect to appear on the cap table. It is the corporate equivalent of urging someone to fall in love while making clear that marriage is out of the question.

Then, one day, the high-potential employee takes the advice literally. If she is to think like an owner, she reasons, she might as well become one. The company reacts with wounded astonishment; HR convenes a task force on retention; consultants are summoned and someone proposes a "stay interview", which is like an exit interview except conducted while the hostage is still in the building.



SHYAMAL MAJUMDAR

shyamal.majumdar@expressindia.com

The retention machinery then whirs into action, and here the comedy deepens, because everything it produces is a smaller version of the thing the departing star actually wants. She wants equity; she is offered deferred bonuses. She wants autonomy; she is offered a "broader mandate", which means more meetings. She wants her name on the door; she is offered a title with the word "chief" in it, joining a C-suite now so populous that it resembles economy class on a budget airline.

None of this works, because the problem is not emotional but structural. An employment contract, however lavish, has a ceiling. Ownership does not. The executive who grasps this has not become disloyal; she has merely become numerate. Companies that spend fortunes teaching their people financial acumen should not be shocked when the lesson lands.

Which raises the genuinely interesting question: should companies even be trying this hard? The fashionable obsession with retention treats every departure as a failure, to be tracked, regretted, and benchmarked. But if your most ambitious people occasionally leave to build things of their own, that may be the surest evidence that you hired the right people in the first place. A firm that nobody ever leaves to start something is not a talent powerhouse. It is a very comfortable waiting room.

The wiser companies have quietly accepted this. They treat their best people as future alumni rather than lifetime property, stay on warm terms, invest in the odd spin-off, and occasionally hire their former stars' start-ups as vendors, acquiring back at a premium the talent they once had on salary. It is an expensive way to learn that the only reliable means of making employees think like owners is to let them own something.

The rest continue to perfect their retention strategies, their stay interviews, and their chief-of-everything titles — solving for everything, in fact, except the arithmetic. And the arithmetic, as every high-potential employee eventually discovers, always wins.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Inclusive growth

Apropos of "Building the middle" (FE, August 15), India's manufacturing push is encouraging, but the real test lies in making smaller firms part of the growth story. Large factories can raise output quickly, but local suppliers, skilled workers, and service providers determine whether industrial activity spreads. Governments should simplify compliance for MSMEs, ensure timely payments, and improve access to affordable credit and reliable power. Industrial clusters also need better roads, logistics, and common testing facilities. Firms must invest in training rather than depend entirely on imported skills and technology. A stronger domestic supply chain will make manufacturing more resilient and create better jobs. The objective should be a broader industrial ecosystem in which small enterprises grow alongside established large companies across India.

From real to reel

CONTENT HAS BECOME A STRONG EQUITY BUILDER FOR CELEBRITIES, TAKING THEIR INFLUENCE BEYOND THE BIG SCREEN

CHRISTINA MONIZ

LEADING BOLLYWOOD AND OTT stars are no longer relying on movies and entertainment to connect with audiences. From Sonakshi Sinha and Sameera Reddy to Genelia and Riteish Deshmukh, celebrities are hopping on to social platforms to leverage the growing influence of platforms like Instagram, Snapchat and YouTube.

Take actor Sameera Reddy. After more than a decade-long hiatus, she made her way back to the big screen this year with a political drama. Despite her time away from entertainment, she had amassed over 2 million followers on Instagram since 2020 with content on parenting, body positivity and wellness, working with brands such as Amazon and IndusInd Bank, among others. Reddy credits "authentic" content as the foundation of her social media rise.

"In 2020, I wanted to come back into the limelight and social media allowed me to do that, while continuing to be a hands-on mother," she says. Her popular online persona as "messy mama" along with her mother-in-law "sassy saasu" found many takers on Instagram.

Shradha Agarwal, co-founder & global CEO, Grapes Worldwide, says that content creation has become one of the biggest equity builders for celebrities. "Audiences want to know about their favourite celebrity's lifestyle, opinions, fitness routines and more. Google search trends show fans are actively seeking information beyond entertainment, making digital content a powerful tool for loyalty and deeper engagement," she says, noting that from a brand perspective too, this means higher endorsement value.

There is good money to be made on these platforms too. Farah Khan's popular YouTube cooking and celebrity vlog channel, for instance, actively scouts for brand advertising and high-profile corporate collaborations. Her show featuring unscripted kitchen banter with her cook Dilip has drawn many commercial endorsements. Her episodes have featured products such as kitchen tools and cooking ingredients and brands such as Licious and Duolingo have blended seamlessly into her cooking routines.

All this didn't come easy and viewers do take time to open up. Reddy has been unafraid to talk about mental health and postpartum challenges, while flaunting grey hair and skin sans make-up. "Initially, there was pushback on social media and some audiences didn't respond well to this kind of authenticity. But today, people appreciate it and many more creators are keeping things raw and honest," says Reddy.

THE RISE OF DIGITAL FAME

- Digital endorsements constitute 60%–75% of brand associations for A-list celebrities
- Traditional celebrity endorsements on TV & print dropped by 22% in 2025
- India crossed over 500 million active social media users in 2026

Authenticity over reach

The nature of brand collaborations has also evolved on the back of a changing dynamic. Traditional celebrity endorsements on TV and print declined in 2025 by 22%, as per data from TAM AdEx. A recent report by Kroll also shows that digital endorsements now constitute 60%–75% of brand associations for leading celebrities.

Audiences respond well to creators who offer a value-add, which could be entertainment, health or just aspiration, making them more attractive to advertisers too. Says Sonam Bhagat, CEO of hyperlocal news creator platform, Vygr Media, "A celebrity who offers parenting advice, fitness realities or humour has a clearer long-term proposition than one who posts only promo clips and brand tags. If the feed becomes too heavy with sponsorships, audiences do not respond well," she says. Celebrity creators with over 1 million followers can command large campaign packages crossing ₹25 lakh.

That said, every celebrity doesn't make a good influencer. Says Rajni Daswani, chief growth officer, people and business, SoCheers, "Staying relevant takes a little more work. Social media allows celebrities to build an extension of their personality and a direct relationship with audiences." The strongest brand collaborations are the ones that work with the personality the celebrity has actually built, rather than simply borrowing their fame.

Cinthol: Soap to skin care

FOREVER BRANDS

THE GODREJ BRAND IS BETTING ON BODY WASHES & ADJACENT CATEGORIES AS IT LOOKS BEYOND ITS TRADITIONAL FRANCHISE

VIVEAT SUSAN PINTO

BUILDING A LEGACY

- Cinthol was launched on 15 August 1952 by Burjor Godrej after he returned from Germany during World War 2
- The brand entered the market as a premium product aimed at younger, aspirational consumers
- Actor Vinod Khanna & cricketer Imran Khan represented the brand's aspirational image in the 1980s
- Cinthol Lime, launched in 1989, reportedly reached 8% market share within six months
- After 2001, Cinthol's portfolio expanded into deodorants, talcum powders, shower gels and men's grooming products

ON A TRAIN leaving Germany as Europe slid into war, Burjor Godrej, a second-generation Godrej family member and father of Adi and Nadir Godrej, carried an unfinished PhD thesis on fatty acids and soap chemistry. He could not have known then that the interruption would eventually lead to one of India's most enduring and loved consumer brands — Cinthol.

The brand name also emerged from Burjor's research. The original code name, "Synthetic Phenol", became "SYNTHOL", before "SYN" was replaced with "CIN" to create Cinthol.

Today, Cinthol is looking beyond the soap bar. The 74-year-old Godrej brand, launched on 15 August 1952, is seeking a larger presence in skin cleansing, with body wash and adjacent categories emerging as key growth avenues.

"In soaps, the strategy is to play holistically on the platform of skin cleansing," said Aasif Malbari, MD & CEO, Godrej Consumer Products (GCPL). "Skin cleansing lends itself to a number of attributes which includes soaps, face wash, body wash and so on," he said.

The opportunity comes as consumers increasingly move beyond bathing soaps. Cinthol's revenue is estimated to be ₹1,000 crore, giving it a 5% share of the ₹20,000-crore domestic toilet soap market. Lux, Liril, Santoor and Dettol are its competitors.

While soaps remain among India's most penetrated FMCG categories, growth is estimated at 3-4%. Smaller categories like deodorants and body wash are valued at around ₹6,000 crore and ₹1,000 crore respectively, growing at about 10-12% annually. Malbari said GCPL remains committed to strategically grow Cinthol.

Geography also offers headroom. Cinthol is a national brand but remains particularly strong in southern India. "It's currently a national brand, but obviously much more dominant in south," Malbari said, pointing to opportunities in other states. That ambition is rooted in an unusual origin story.

Burjor was studying in Berlin when World War II broke out in 1939. After returning to India he spent the next decade applying his research, working on a soap that could clean the skin while also deodorising it. The result was Cinthol, positioned as a premium soap aimed at younger, aspirational consumers.

Over the decades, its proposition remained linked to freshness, confidence and modernity. Celebrity endorsers such as Vinod Khanna and cricketer Imran Khan represented the brand's aspirational image in the 1980s.

Shah Rukh Khan followed in the mid-1990s, helping broaden the brand's premium positioning, while Hrithik Roshan and Virat Kohli brought a more contemporary, youth-oriented image to the brand.

After the 2001 demerger of Godrej soaps, Cinthol became a part of GCPL. Its portfolio expanded into deodorants, talcum powders, shower gels and men's grooming products.

For N Chandramouli, CEO, TRA Research, a brand consultancy firm, this ability to evolve has been central to Cinthol's longevity. The brand, he said, has evolved while remaining relevant to those seeking "freshness and fragrance".

Cinthol's "Alive is Awesome" positioning now carries that legacy into a new generation. The challenge is no longer simply to sell soap, but to turn its brand equity into a broader skin-cleansing franchise.

AFTER HOURS

KEN SEKHAR, MARKETING HEAD, POCO INDIA

The Job

The role demands staying plugged into culture because consumers move fast, trends move faster, and the community always keeps you on your toes. Thankfully, I genuinely enjoy the madness.

The Weekdays

My mornings begin with driving my daughter and her friends to school. After that, it's straight into work mode. Somewhere between meetings, launches, and endless notifications, I keep promising myself I'll become a gym person again.

The Weekend

Weekends are for slowing things down a little. Good meals with the family, catching up with friends, and taking the time to properly unwind. Add a couple of well-made cocktails to the mix and that's usually my idea of a good weekend.

The Toys

My POCO F8 Ultra is obviously always within arm's reach. The PlayStation 5 is my occasional escape hatch after a long week. I'm also mildly obsessed with coffee, so the Breville Barista Express Espresso Machine has become less of an appliance and more of a personality trait. And then there's my Royal Enfield Interceptor 650.

The Logos

The Lacoste endangered species campaign is still one of my favourites because it proved that a logo can evolve, make a statement, and still feel unmistakably true to the brand. I love when identity systems are confident enough to bend a little, have some fun, and still remain iconic.

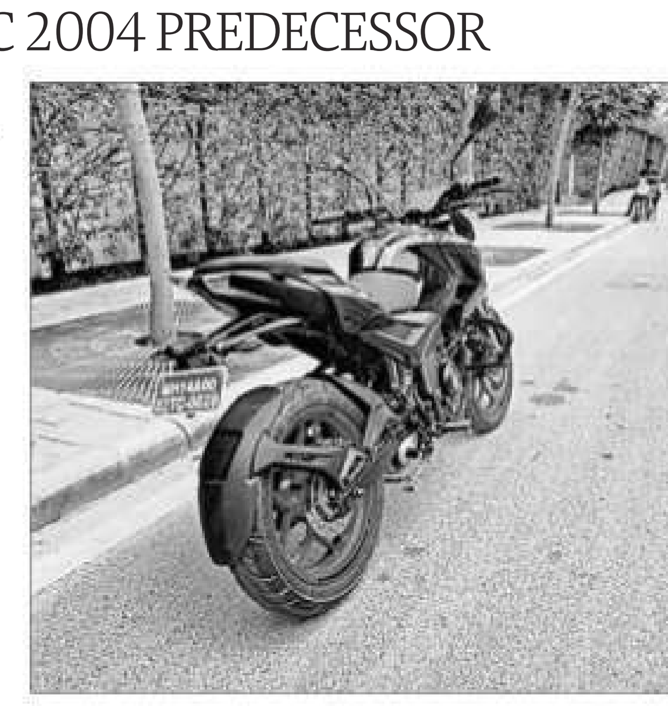
MOTORCYCLE REVIEW: BAJAJ PULSAR N160

Small displacement, big thrills

HOW BAJAJ'S NEW 165-CC STREETFIGHTER OUTPACES ITS CLASSIC 2004 PREDECESSOR

VIKRAM CHAUDHARY



THE PULSAR BRAND holds a special place in Indian motorcycling history. Back in 2004, I bought the original Pulsar 180, and recall riding it from Punjab to Delhi in 10 hours. Fast forward 22 years: after spending a day riding the new Bajaj Pulsar N160, I'm convinced I could do that same long-distance trip in eight hours today. That is a testament to how refined this machine has become, even as its rider has grown 22 years older!

Despite having a smaller displacement at 165 cc, the N160 feels punchier than my classic 180 cc. The engine offers an explosive start off the line, and a strong mid-range. Out on the highway, top-end performance settles into what you would expect from the 160-cc segment.

Ergonomically, Bajaj has struck a sweet spot. The seat is well-contoured — it supports long stints without feeling too hard or soft. What helps is its 151 kg kerb weight — even during the peak rush-hour stop-and-go traffic, where you constantly put your feet down to balance, the chassis balance ensures you do not tire out. Cruising through traffic is aided by responsive braking that inspires confidence.

That said, no motorcycle is without its shortcomings. The top-end power delivery tapers off when pushing hard towards the redline, leaving speed enthusiasts wanting a bit more oomph on highways. In addition, while the overall styling is aggressive, some of the switchgear plastics and body panel fitments could be a bit more premium to match its tech-forward positioning.

Priced competitively — there are two variants, the N160 S (₹1.34 lakh) and the N160 SS (₹1.43 lakh), ex-showroom — the bike is targeted at college students and young professionals seeking daily practicality, aggressive style, and performance. It bridges the gap between everyday commuter convenience and sporty thrills, proving that the Pulsar name continues to evolve intelligently.

Is India finally ready for lifestyle pickups?

SCORPIO GETAWAY DIDN'T WORK; LIFESTYLER CAN

VIKRAM CHAUDHARY

The Scorpio Getaway, 2007-19 (left) and the Scorpio Lifestyler (top)

THE ANNOUNCEMENT of Mahindra Scorpio Lifestyler — slated for April 2027 launch with a ₹19.79 lakh starting price — brings back memories of India's earlier tryst with lifestyle pickups. Over a decade ago, models like the Mahindra Scorpio Getaway and Tata Xenon XT tried but failed to crack the private vehicle market.

But while the Getaway didn't work, the Lifestyler can. Why?

Failure of first wave

When Mahindra launched the Scorpio Getaway in 2007, followed by Tata's Xenon XT in 2009, both flopped.

Commercial appeal: Such SUVs were considered goods carriers, not personal vehicles.

Lack of refinement: Backseat comfort was compromised by leaf-spring suspensions, NVH levels were high, and the cabin was basic.

The lifestyle shift

The post-Covid-19 period saw a surge in outdoor travel culture, self-drive road trips, overlanding, and long-distance touring. Premium SUVs are no longer bought solely for urban commutes, but also for hauling camping gear, bicycles, and off-road equipment.

A smart and sweet price spot

The sub-₹19.79 lakh entry price for the Scorpio Lifestyler addresses a big barrier in today's lifestyle pickup segment: affordability.

The Isuzu D-Max V-Cross is priced ₹25-30 lakh, while the bulletproof Toyota Hilux is pricier in the range of ₹32-37 lakh.

By targeting a starting price strictly under ₹19.79 lakh, the Scorpio Lifestyler creates a unique segment. "The first generation of double-cab pickups failed because automakers tried selling commercial trucks to private buyers," an analyst at a top consultancy told FE. "What Mahindra is attempting with the Lifestyler is exactly the reverse — selling a comfortable SUV with an open bed."

But can the Scorpio Lifestyler make lifestyle pickups mainstream by 2027? While it may not match the sales of 7-seater SUVs like the Scorpio-N, the car market is far more receptive to such SUVs than it was during the Getaway era.

STRICTER STANDARDS
Dario Amodei, CEO, Anthropic

Frontier AI models, like airplanes, should undergo technical testing and auditing, and be blocked or recalled if they fail to meet high safety standards

INTERVIEW: SHAILENDRA KATYAL, VP & MD, LENOVO INDIA

'India is a real capability hub inside our global operating model'

Indian enterprises are moving from AI experimentation to building the infrastructure, governance and talent needed to scale it. Shailendra Katyal, vice-president and managing director, Lenovo India, says hybrid computing, security and workforce readiness will be critical as AI moves deeper into business. He speaks to Sudhir Chowdhary about the shift in enterprise architecture, the role of edge and on-premise computing, the rise of agentic AI and the infrastructure needed to support it. Excerpts:

AGENTIC AI INTEREST WILL DOUBLE NEXT YEAR, BUT ONLY 10% OF THE ORGANISATIONS ARE READY

How are enterprise spending and customer priorities shifting?

We're in the middle of an AI techade, and India's tech industry is proof of it. Enterprises have stopped asking whether they should adopt AI. The question now is how fast, and how responsibly, they can scale it. Our CIO Playbook 2026 shows 99% of Indian enterprises planning to increase AI investment this year, with budgets rising 19% y-o-y. What's shifted is who's in the room: it used to sit with IT, now it's a boardroom topic. Spending priorities have moved and infrastructure and workforce readiness are getting as much attention as the models themselves.

Where are Indian enterprises placing their AI bets?

A year ago, the conversation was about proving the business case like pilots and ROI validation. Today, 59% of Indian organisations are already piloting or systematically adopting AI. The real issue we're seeing is what I would call the AI ROI gap: 96% of organisations are increasing AI investment, but only 27% have a full governance framework in place. That's a leadership inflection point-moving from isolated experimentation to true enterprise scale, deliberately, not by accident. India's AI journey reflects a builder mindset and enterprises aren't waiting for AI to be handed to them; they're building the infrastructure and governance to own it responsibly.

What role will devices, edge and cloud play in enterprise AI?

What people don't always realise is that inferencing costs, over a model's life, can run up to 15 times higher than training costs. That expense sits at the infrastructure layer, not the algorithm. This is part of why 84% of organisations globally, and 90% in India, are leaning toward on-prem and edge setups for AI workloads. It's not that the cloud lacks innovation; it's that accountability, data residency, and regulatory control have become non-negotiable at scale. Hybrid infrastructure is becoming less a cost decision and more a control decision— the right workload, on the right compute, wherever that is between device, edge, and cloud. That flexibility is what our hybrid AI strategy is all about.

Which technology trends will reshape Indian firms ahead?

Agentic AI is the obvious one. Interest is set to double next year, but only about 10% of organisations feel ready to scale it. This is a real readiness gap. Security is also moving further upstream, built into the lifecycle rather than an afterthought, especially as autonomous systems make more decisions on their own. And India's semiconductor push can't be ignored. It'll reshape how much of the compute stack gets built domestically, alongside digital public infrastructure.

Where does India fit into Lenovo's global strategy?

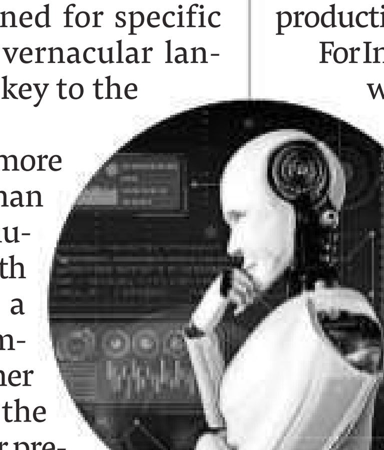
India is a real capability hub inside our global operating model. We manufacture here, run R&D facilities out of Bengaluru, and increasingly, innovation from India feeds directly into Lenovo's global portfolio. Our revenue growth for FY25-26 is a testimony. Revenue was up 23% y-o-y, Q4 alone growing 34%, largely on enterprise solutions demand. The biggest opportunity is enterprise AI at scale. India has the talent, the infrastructure momentum, and the appetite to lead the AI democratisation story, not just be part of it.

Small models, big impact

UMA GANESH

THE RACE FOR AI supremacy is a continuous process, with implications for the fortunes of countries and organisations. Like the Western world and China, India too needs to build models that give it a sovereign AI foundation. This foundation will help nations and organisations shape their future globally. It will also require sustained investment.

For India, however, a consistent focus on small AI models could deliver significant economic advantage. Small models designed to distribute intelligence, rather than produce it, could hold greater promise. Distilled from large models and trained for specific domains, local factors and vernacular languages, they could hold the key to the economic dividend.



AI, therefore, has to focus more on economic development than reasoning ability. A small manufacturer planning inventory with just-in-time replenishment, a woman artisan predicting demand for her products, or a farmer maximising yield through the right mix of crops and weather predictions are examples where AI based on local factors can be transformational.

The MSME segment, accounting for 31% of India's GDP, could immensely benefit from specialised small AI models. Its problems are well understood, and there is already a concerted effort to develop small AI solutions for different industries. These solutions, customised for production, sales, distribution and product development, need to be affordable and easy to adopt.

Instead of one large AI assistant capable of handling every query, individual assistants could handle functions of a firm. Small AI models could address these needs precisely and affordably. But this will happen only when AI models are designed around small businesses, rather than taking large AI models to them and expecting them to adapt.

The arrival of generative AI has raised concerns about job losses. The recent World Development Report states that 14.2% of jobs in high-income countries are exposed to GenAI, compared with only 4.5% in low- and middle-income economies. At the same time, 16.2% of jobs in developing countries could benefit significantly from AI through productivity gains.

For India, the question is not how many jobs AI will eliminate. It is how many workers and enterprises can become more productive with its help. For small AI models to work here, practical adoption is critical. Solutions need to be developed within limited budgets and made available in vernacular languages. They should work on low-cost devices, with limited connectivity and through voice rather than text.

India has the talent and capability to develop small AI models. Just as it has demonstrated its ability to implement digital financial applications such as UPI at scale, it could become a beacon for other developing countries with similar challenges in agriculture, healthcare, small businesses and education.

India may not need to build the biggest AI models to capture the biggest AI opportunity. It needs to make intelligence accessible, affordable and useful at scale.

Google bets on AI agents for coding

BIJIN JOSE

THE RACE TO build more capable AI models is shifting towards coding and AI agents. Google's new Gemini 3.7 Flash is designed to handle complex software engineering, multi-step planning and enterprise workflows while keeping the cost of running AI agents low.

The latest addition to Google's Flash family is being described as its "most intelligent workhorse model yet" for coding and AI agents. Arriving just three weeks after Gemini 3.6 Flash, the model leans heavily towards coding, software engineering, web development and agentic workflows.

The shift is significant because AI agents are expected to do more than answer questions. They can plan and execute a chain of actions, use tools and adapt when they face problems. Google said Gemini 3.7 Flash is better at debugging, resolving software issues and generating production-ready code, reducing the intervention developers need.

The improvements extend to web development too. Google said Gemini 3.7 Flash can generate more functional layouts and feature-complete applications with fewer prompts. It can also closely reproduce the design of a reference image, screenshot or design system. This could make it useful not just for developers but also for businesses looking to turn ideas into working digital products faster.

The model is not limited to coding. Google said it performs better in finance, law and biosciences, while also improving its ability to understand complex documents and handle real-world business workflows. This broadens its potential role beyond software development to other enterprise applications.

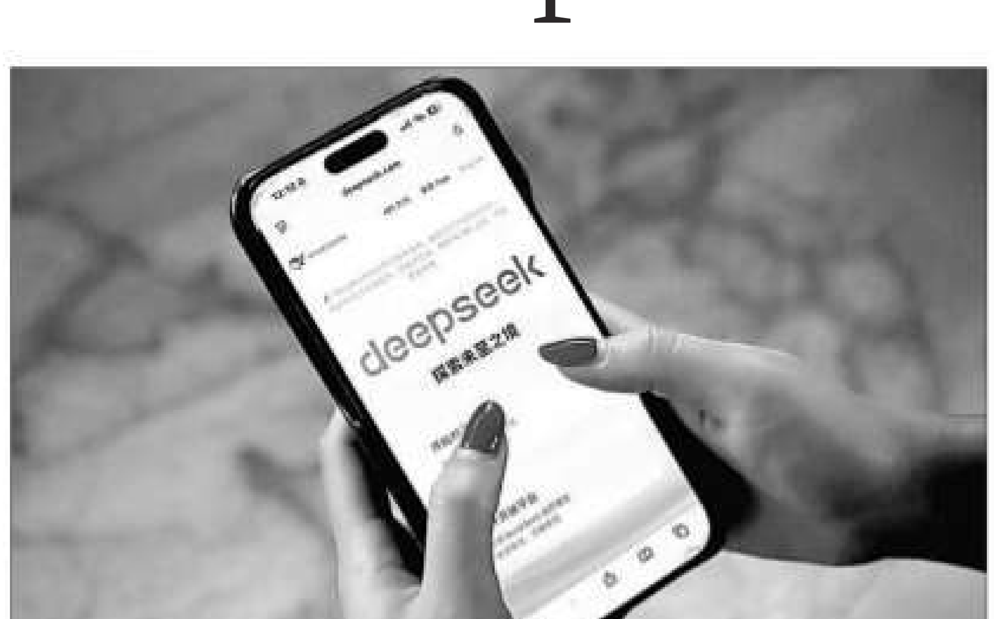
The larger bet is clear: as AI moves from answering prompts to completing tasks, models that can reason through several steps without constant human intervention could become increasingly important. Gemini 3.7 Flash is designed for precisely that transition.

WORLD VIEW

How much longer can China afford cheap AI?

CATHERINE THORBECKE

ULTRA-CHEAP CHINESE ARTIFICIAL intelligence is proving to be a major threat to the shaky economics of Silicon Valley. But the same price war is becoming just as risky for China's own AI sector. After warning customers to expect a significant increase in pricing for its services, DeepSeek unveiled new rates for its latest V4-Pro and V4-Flash models. The new structure marks a sharp jump, with some charges multiple times higher than before.



China's cheaper AI models put pressure on US players

Chinese firms have spent more than a year and a half proving they can make bleeding-edge models. The harder part has been figuring out how to get businesses and customers to pay for them. There are nearly 1,000 LLMs on offer in the country, with many competing on cheap tokens.

During off-peak hours, DeepSeek now charges $0.22 per million input tokens and $0.66 per million output tokens for its V4 Flash model. During peak hours, those rates double. Anthropic's top-of-the-line model charges $10 and $50 respectively for the same amount of units AI models use to process data.

BETTER MODELS GET STRONGER AS OLDER ONES BECOME CHEAPER

Beijing-based Moonshot drew global attention with the release of Kimi K3 model last month. By Chinese standards, API access to the open model was already priced high. But buried in its licensing terms was a twist: Companies offering Kimi K3 as a service and generating more than $20 million over a year must enter a commercial pact with Moonshot.

This is an inventive attempt to capture the value a model creates while still making the underlying technology open, and reveals the challenges of figuring out how to monetise without simply charging more for access. But revenue sharing may be harder to pull off than a straightforward price increase. The risk is that developers leave if companies can't lock them into their ecosystems tightly enough to make switching too much of a hassle.

The price war, meanwhile, is going global. OpenAI slashed prices for some of its GPT 5.6 lineup by 80% last month, the same week Moonshot opened API access to Kimi K3. And the rise of inexpensive Chinese models has pushed tech giants including Nvidia and Meta Platforms to invest heavily in cheaper, open American alternatives.

Companies may assume that spending more to launch better capabilities will allow them to charge a premium, but users may be learning a different lesson. Each generation gets better while the previous ones get cheaper, however enterprise customers don't necessarily need the most powerful model for routine task, any more than every commuter requires a Formula 1 racecar.

Matic puts voice into vacuuming

MATIC ROBOTS, A US-based robot vacuum maker, is upgrading its consumer model with advanced voice commands that will allow the product to clean messes or entire rooms without the user having to initiate the process from a mobile phone. The new feature, called Matic Cues, supports over 70 languages and will allow vacuum to follow a user through the home on command.

Chinese brands like Roborock, Dreame and Anker are often priced significantly lower and heavily promoted on Amazon and at big-box retail stores. But Matic is positioning this hands-free cleaning functionality as a standout differentiator.

Robot vacuums from other brands have supported voice controls through smart home platforms like Amazon Alexa and Google Home, though Matic's solution is unique in that it's being built directly into the robot itself. So far, it has sold over 13,000 units and the devices have collectively cleaned nearly 400 million square feet.

Big battery meets useful AI

IQOO Z11 LITE AIMS TO RAISE THE BAR IN THE MID-RANGE

SUDHIR CHOWDHARY

WITH MOST DEVICES in the sub-₹25,000 segment offering similar specifications, the challenge is to give buyers a reason to choose one over another. The iQOO Z11 Lite 5G does that with a 6,500mAh battery, smooth 120Hz display and practical AI tools.

ESTIMATED PRICE: ₹24,499 (6GB+256GB)

The 6.74-inch IPS LCD display is a key feature. Its 120Hz refresh rate makes scrolling smooth, while 1,200-nit peak brightness helps outdoors. The HD+ resolution is adequate for browsing, videos and social media.

The phone is powered by MediaTek's Dimensity 6300 5G processor, paired with 6GB RAM and 256GB storage. It handles everyday tasks such as browsing, streaming and multitasking comfortably. OriginOS 6, based on Android 16, provides a fairly current software experience.

The 50MP Sony main camera performs well in good lighting, but the setup is basic. There is no ultrawide camera, while the 5MP front camera is adequate for video calls and casual selfies.

Battery life is the Z11 Lite's biggest strength. The 6,500mAh battery should comfortably last a full day for most users, with 44W fast charging helping reduce charging time. An IP65 rating adds protection against dust and water splashes. Its AI features are another differentiator. AI Creation can summarise PDFs, brainstorm ideas, rewrite text and enhance notes. AI Captions can transcribe and translate videos and speech in real time, making it particularly useful for India's multilingual users.

The Z11 Lite 5G competes with offerings from Xiaomi, Motorola, Samsung and realme, making this a crowded segment. It does not try to reinvent the smartphone, but focuses on delivering a dependable everyday experience with a few useful extras. That makes it a well-rounded option for buyers seeking value without major compromises.

A little band with plenty to offer

A GOOD FITNESS band should be comfortable enough to wear all day and useful enough to keep you from taking it off. The Huawei Band 11 largely fits that brief, combining a lightweight 17g design with a bright 1.62-inch AMOLED display and useful smart features.

ESTIMATED PRICE: ₹6,499

The display reaches 1,500 nits, while more than 100 watch faces, Always-On Display and customisable widgets add flexibility. It handles notifications, weather, compass and calculator, and can also trigger your phone's camera remotely for group photos and selfies.

Sleep tracking is a strength, covering sleep phases, heart rate, SpO2, HRV and breathing disruptions, with recovery and sleep-quality insights. Around 100 workout modes cover activities from yoga to strength training.

Health features include 24/7 heart-rate monitoring, SpO2 and menstrual-cycle tracking. Pulse-wave analysis can detect signs of A-fib, though availability varies by region due to regulatory requirements. Overall, the Band 11 is a comfortable, capable everyday fitness companion.

THE BIG IDEA

BANKBAZAAR

Problem became platform

A FRUSTRATING HOME LOAN SEARCH LED TO A DIGITAL MARKETPLACE FOR FINANCIAL PRODUCTS

BankBazaar co-founders (L-R) Rati Shetty, CPO; Adhil Shetty, CEO; and Arjun Shetty, COO

S SHANTHI

THE IDEA FOR BANKBAZAAR, an online financial marketplace, began with a problem its founders experienced themselves. In 2007, co-founders Arjun Shetty and Rati Shetty were looking for a home loan and found it difficult to compare interest rates, processing fees, foreclosure charges and the different rules followed by banks. The experience led to a simple question: could a digital platform make financial products easier to compare and buy?

They took the idea to their friend Adhil Shetty, now co-founder and CEO, who was then working with Deloitte in the US. He had wanted to build something in India and the concept clicked. Within a month, he quit his job and returned to Chennai, where he began approaching banks and potential team members. "When Arjun and Rati came to me with the BankBazaar concept, it didn't just make sense, it clicked," he said.

The founders did not have much to show the banks at the time. They simply walked in and asked whether they would partner with them. The response was mixed. "We were the consumers; we had experienced the problem ourselves," Adhil said, describing the approach as a "well-informed leap of faith". The exercise also revealed an important constraint: even when customers could start a loan application online, banks still required an in-person meeting. That offline step remained a bottleneck for years.

The company was incorporated and spent about six months building the platform before going live in February 2008. In the early days, there were only three or four people sharing a cubicle. Its first proper office in Chennai had a single custom-made wooden table that could seat 50 people. Everyone worked around it, with no private offices or functional silos.

Watching the platform go live gave the team its first real proof that the idea could work.

> THE COMPANY'S PROPOSITION IS ABOUT COMPARING PRODUCTS AND HELPING CONSUMERS DISCOVER, ACCESS AND MANAGE FINANCIAL PRODUCTS DIGITALLY

"That feeling of seeing something you built actually work is impossible to replicate," Adhil said. The first capital came from personal money put in by a former boss and a close friend, followed by institutional investment from Chennai-based AV Thomas Infotech. BankBazaar has since raised $134 million across 11 rounds and counts Peak XV Partners, Amazon and Experian among its backers. In FY25, the company reported total revenue of ₹254 crore, operating revenue of ₹249 crore and an adjusted Ebitda profit of ₹4 crore. Its business has expanded beyond comparing loans and other financial products to include co-branded credit cards and Credit Strong, a subscription service that uses AI-generated personalised advice to help consumers improve their credit scores.

Execution, however, was harder than the original idea. "Power would go out. We needed a voltage stabiliser. The stabiliser had its own issues, so we needed a transformer," Adhil recalled. The experience forced the team to build technology, operations and basic infrastructure at the same time, and taught them that execution in India often requires solving problems from first principles.

The company also had to change its business model. Initially, it earned money for sending customers to banks, irrespective of whether those leads converted. It later moved towards annuity and co-brand programmes, aligning BankBazaar's revenue more closely with the bank's profitability. The founders also underestimated how much of the customer journey would remain offline. The introduction of video KYC during the Covid period, which removed the need for an in-person meeting, therefore became a significant shift.

The broader idea was to make financial buying less opaque for consumers, but BankBazaar's role evolved as the ecosystem changed. The company says it worked with the industry and policymakers on digital onboarding and video KYC, while continuing to build products around consumer engagement. Today, its proposition is less about simply comparing products and more about helping consumers discover, access and manage financial products digitally. That shift has shaped its evolution from a comparison site into a digital financial marketplace.

Gen Z's borrowing habit fuelling unsecured loans

AANCHAL MAGAZINE
New Delhi, August 16

TWO MUMBAI-BASED teenage girls travelled with their mother to Busan, South Korea, to attend a concert of Korean boy band BTS in June, financing much of their spending through a credit card.

A young couple travelled to Thailand for a vacation last year, spent well beyond their budget on credit cards, and have since then resorted to rotating money through third-party vendors to create artificial cash flow, as per a personal finance post on Reddit warning about funding small luxuries with debt.

While India's household debt has surged in recent years, financial sector regulators are particularly concerned about the composition of that debt. Non-housing retail loans — largely used for consumption — now account for more than half of household borrowings, and have grown faster than housing, agriculture and business loans, a trend flagged in internal discussions among policymakers.

As of March 2026, non-housing retail loans—primarily the consumption segment—constituted 58.4% of households' total borrowings, up from 54.9% of total household debt in March 2025.

Average outstanding debt per borrower rose to ₹4.78 lakh as of March-end 2025, from ₹3.41 lakh as of March-end 2018, according to Ministry of Finance data.

The sharpest increases have come in some categories of personal borrowing. While the risks to the Indian financial system from household lending remain contained, the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) has flagged household debt accumulation, particularly among lower-rated borrowers, as requiring "close monitoring".

Unsecured personal loans remain a particular vulnerability: In the small-ticket personal loan segment of less than ₹ 50,000, fintech firms have gained a higher 56.8% market share, after strong 41.6% credit expansion, well above the overall segment growth of 20.1%. Delinquencies stood at 6.4% as of March 2026. About 70.5% of fintech loan books are unsecured, with roughly half of these loans extended to borrowers under 35.

As per the latest CIBIL TransUnion data, the share of India's credit-eligible population that is credit-active has risen from 11% about a decade ago to around 28% now. Of the credit-eligible population of 890 million, close to one-third have, over the last year, taken a loan or have a loan running, or are paying EMIs or credit card bills.

Vande Mataram row: Sonia should apologise, says Shah

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
Jaipur/New Delhi, August 16

THE BJP ON Sunday stepped up its attack over the alleged insult to the national song 'Vande Mataram' during the Independence Day event at the Congress headquarters, with Union Home Minister Amit Shah demanding that Sonia Gandhi apologise to the nation and revered author Bankim Chandra Chattopadhyay for the "sin."

A complaint was filed at the IP Estate police station in Delhi seeking an impartial investigation and appropriate action against Congress leaders, while local BJP leaders lodged a complaint against Gandhi at Urva police station in Karnataka's Mangaluru.

Sumitro Chatterjee, a BJP MLA and a direct descendant of Bankim Chandra, wrote to Gandhi, the Congress Parliamentary Party chairperson, demanding an "unconditional apology over the alleged repeated attempts to stop the singing of the full version" of Vande Mataram at the AICC headquarters on aturday. BJP President Nitin Nabin alleged that Congress has shown disrespect to the national song to serve its "dirty politics of appeasement".

The Congress, which has refuted the allegations, claimed that Shah and the BJP were trying to divert attention from real issues and the "colossal failures of his and his Sahib's".

Bangladesh make history with first Test win in Australia

REUTERS
August 16

BANGLADESH CHASED DOWN 57 runs to complete a landmark nine-wicket victory over Australia in the series opener in Darwin on Sunday in one of test cricket's greatest upsets.

Mominul Haque cut Beau Webster to the fence to seal Bangladesh's first test win in Australia within four days in stifling heat at Marrara Oval, foiling a valiant century from home all-rounder Cameron Green.

The winning boundary triggered jubilation among Bangladesh's players, who jumped and shouted on the sidelines.

"This is the biggest win so far for Bangladesh in any format," said Bangladesh captain Najmul Hossain Shanto.

"Going forward, we want to do something special in the future."

Flooring a full-strength Australia, the world's top-ranked test nation in their own backyard, will be regarded by many as the South Asian nation's finest victory in 26 years of playing the game's longest format.

It took 23 years for Australia to host Bangladesh in a second test series since sweeping them 2-0 in 2003, so Shanto's side were determined to prove their worth.

Bangladesh had heroes throughout the match, but on day four it was spin-bowling all-rounder Mehidy Hasan Miraz striking the decisive blows as Australia were bowled out for 284. Having scored 65 with the bat in Bangladesh's first innings and caught-and-bowled Australia's usual saviour Steve Smith for 44 on day three, Miraz took another four wickets on the final day.

RISK TO INVESTORS

For details, refer to section titled "Risk Factors" on page 20 of the RHP.

1. Dependence on Project /Original Equipment Manufacturer ("OEM") business: Our business is more dependent on Projects/OEM business which contributed 67.55%, 69.16%, and 63.99% of our revenue from operations (excluding scrap sale and export incentive) for Fiscals 2026, 2025, and 2024, respectively, with the remaining contributed by our Maintenance, Repair, and Operations ("MRO") business, and adverse changes in either category may materially and adversely affect our business, financial condition, results of operations, and cash flows.

Business category	Fiscal 2026		Fiscal 2025		Fiscal 2024
	Amount (₹ million)	Percentage of revenue from operations (excluding other operating revenue)[(1)] (%)	Amount (₹ million)	Percentage of revenue from operations (excluding other operating revenue)[(1)] (%)	Amount (₹ million)	Percentage of revenue from operations (excluding other operating revenue)[(1)] (%)
Projects/OEM	2,979.70	67.55	2,595.76	69.16	1,746.09	63.99
MRO	1,431.34	32.45	1,157.69	30.84	982.18	36.01
Total revenue from operations (excluding other operating revenue)	4,411.04	100.00	3,753.45	100.00	2,728.27	100.00

Note:

(1) Other operating revenue includes scrap sales and export incentive during Fiscals 2026, 2025, and 2024, were ₹37.74 million, ₹31.81 million, and ₹19.83 million, respectively representing 0.85%, 0.84%, and 0.72% of our revenue from operations.

2. Dependence on demand trends in certain end use industries: Our performance is influenced by demand trends in certain end-user industries, in particular, metal and petro chemical industries which collectively contributed 41.13%, 42.90%, and 41.52% of our revenue from operations (excluding scrap sale and export incentive) for Fiscals 2026, 2025, and 2024, respectively. Negative developments in these sectors may materially affect our business, results of operations and cash flows.
3. Dependence on uninterrupted supply and stable pricing of primary raw materials: Our business depends on the uninterrupted supply and stable pricing of primary raw materials needed for the production of our products. These materials include metals such as copper, aluminium, stainless steel, nickel alloys, platinum, and rhodium; polymers and plastics; insulating materials; conductors and alloys for sensors; as well as adhesives, sealants, and specialized coatings. Significant volatility, increases, fluctuations, shortages, or delays in the supply of primary raw materials may adversely impact our business, financial condition, results of operations, and cash flows, particularly for project-specific or custom orders.
4. Dependence on a limited group of suppliers: 40.33%, 41.67% and 47.62% of our total purchases during Fiscals 2026, 2025 and 2024 were sourced from our top 10 suppliers. Dependence on a limited group of suppliers and absence of definitive supply agreements for raw materials may increase our exposure to supply disruptions, with the potential to adversely affect our business, results of operations, and cash flows.

5. Significant concentration of manufacturing units: As of the date of the Red Herring Prospectus, our Company, along with our Subsidiaries, and Joint Ventures operate 15 manufacturing units across the world, of which ten are located in Udaipur, India, and five manufacturing units are located overseas, i.e., in the United Arab Emirates, in the Republic of Korea (South Korea), in Indonesia, Germany and in Poland. Significant concentration of our manufacturing units at Udaipur in Rajasthan, India and operating risks at both domestic and international manufacturing units including infrastructure and location-specific shortcomings could result in disruptions that adversely affect our business, financial condition, results of operations, and cash flows.

6. Dependence on Subsidiaries/ Joint ventures for international market entry: Our approach to international expansion is heavily dependent on joint ventures ("JVs") and similar partnerships. Furthermore, we may not always have full visibility in all aspects of operations, decision-making, or risks arising within the JV and our overseas Subsidiaries, particularly in relation to legal or regulatory matters overseas. Our reliance on Subsidiaries / Joint Ventures for international market entry and product launches may expose us to operational and strategic risks, potentially impacting our business, results of operations, and growth prospects.

7. Risk of ability to control and respond swiftly within joint ventures: Our interests and those of our JV partners may not always be aligned, which can lead to further delays, increased costs, and potential disagreements. Our ability to control and respond swiftly within our joint ventures is constrained by the need for majority consent or unanimous consent or consent of our joint venture partner on key business actions, which may lead to delays or limit our operational flexibility, potentially adversely affecting our business, results of operations, and growth prospects.

8. Brand and business reputation related risk: Our business reputation and brand are important to the success of our business. Various factors, some of which are beyond our control, are critical for maintaining and enhancing our brand. Our inability to maintain and protect our brand and business reputation could adversely affect our business, prospects and financial performance.

9. As a result of the amalgamation of Marathon Heater with our Company, goodwill amounting to ₹1,061.28 million was recognized in our Restated Consolidated Financial Information for Fiscal 2025. Additionally, the increase in our net worth for Fiscal 2025 was primarily attributable to the overall effect of the amalgamation itself, and the consolidation of Marathon Heater's assets and liabilities into our balance sheet. Recognition of significant goodwill arising from the Marathon Heater amalgamation as at March 31, 2025 is a one-time event and may not be repeated in future periods. Any goodwill recognised in subsequent periods may arise from separate acquisitions and may not be comparable.

10. Dependence on temperature sensing solutions, electrical heating solutions and specialized cables: During Fiscals 2026, 2025 and 2024, 44.59%, 46.48%, and 60.58%, respectively, of our revenue from operations (excluding scrap sale and export incentive) was generated from temperature sensing solutions, while electrical heating solutions and specialised cables contributed 20.70%, 16.79%, and 3.90%, and 34.71%, 36.73%, and 35.52%, respectively. Any adverse changes in demand for any vertical may materially and adversely affect our business, financial condition, results of operations, and cash flows.

11. Our Company will not receive any proceeds from the Offer for Sale: The Offer consists of a Fresh Issue and an Offer for Sale. The Selling Shareholders shall be entitled to the net proceeds from the Offer for Sale, which comprise proceeds from the Offer for Sale net of Offer expenses shared by the Selling Shareholders, and our Company will not receive any proceeds from the Offer for Sale.
