JUNE EXPANSION LED BY MANUFACTURING, ELECTRICITY

IIP growth highest in nearly two years

SHUBHAM RANA
New Delhi, July 28

INDIA'S INDUSTRIAL OUTPUT, as measured by the Index of Industrial Production (IIP), grew at the quickest pace in nearly two years in June on the back of a broad-based improvement in industrial activity, data released by the Ministry of Statistics and Programme Implementation on Tuesday showed.

IIP growth rose to a 23-month high of 7.3% year-on-year in June from 5% in May. A favourable base effect also helped the rise in the headline growth number. The index had grown just 2.2% in June 2025. The last time IIP growth was higher was in July 2024, when it was 7.8%. Sequentially, the general index rose a modest 0.5% in June, slower than the 3.6% month-on-month rise seen in May.

The June data is only the second print to be based on the new IIP series, with 2022-23 (April-March) as the base year, compared with FY12 in the old series. The new IIP series, released in June, tracks more items and covers more industries such as rare earth minerals, gas supply, and water supply. Manufacturing and electricity & gas supply sectors led the rise in IIP growth in June. The two sectors make up 87% of the total weight of IIP. Among use-based groups, capital and intermediate goods indices grew much faster than the composite index, while consumer durables also held strong.

Manufacturing sector, which has the highest weight in the new IIP series at 76%, grew 7.8% in June, the highest in seven months.

INDIA'S LARGEST CONSUMER goods company, Hindustan Unilever (HUL), is sharpening a strategy that has become critical in an uneven consumption environment: nudging consumers up the value ladder while ensuring entry-level products remain affordable. As commodity inflation resurfaces amid the West Asia crisis, HUL is relying on premiumisation, calibrated price hikes and its wide portfolio to serve both aspirational and value-conscious shoppers.

The strategy comes as companies navigate a mixed fast-moving consumer goods (FMCG) market, wherein rural growth continues to outpace urban growth and inflation has returned to categories such as soaps and detergents. HUL, however, says its breadth of brands across price points gives it an advantage in protecting volumes even as it nudges consumers towards higher-value products.

"We are obsessed with volume-led revenue growth. That continues to be our priority," HUL Chief Executive Officer and Managing Director Priya Nair said in a post-results media interaction on Tuesday, underscoring that growth — not margins — will continue to dictate pricing decisions. HUL reported a 10% underlying sales growth in the June quarter, its strongest in 13 quarters, with growth evenly split between price and volume (5% each).

Myntra's Sinha to drive Instamart strategy shift

ANEES HUSSAIN
Bengaluru, July 28

SWIGGY ON TUESDAY appointed former Myntra Chief Executive Nandita Sinha as CEO of Instamart, signalling a strategic shift at its quick commerce business as the company looks to improve profitability through better merchandising, premiumisation and private labels rather than relying solely on expansion and discounting.

Sinha will take charge on August 3, succeeding Amitesh Jha, who resigned with immediate effect to pursue opportunities outside the company. The announcement comes two days before Swiggy reports the results for the April-June quarter, when the company had guided Instamart to achieve contribution-margin break-even.

The appointment suggests Swiggy believes its biggest challenge is no longer attracting customers but making larger shopping baskets profitable. Instamart already has the highest gross average order value among the leading quick commerce players at around ₹700, well ahead of Blinkit's ₹518.

Passive MF folio additions plunge 99%, lowest ever

KUSHAN SHAH
Mumbai, July 28

MUTUAL FUNDS ADDED 76,500 folios in passive funds in the first quarter of FY27, the lowest since the Association of Mutual Funds in India (Amfi) began making folio data public in April 2019. Folio additions plunged 99% from about 6.9 million in the previous quarter. This comes at a time when the overall folio count of passive schemes reached an all-time high of 57.19 million in June.

In comparison, active equity funds added 3.13 million folios during the quarter, while hybrid schemes added about 784,000. Even debt schemes, considered less popular among modern investors, added about 666,000 folios.

Alok Singh, chief investment officer, Bank of India Mutual Fund, said, "The improving geopolitical situation in May and June led to increased investor interest in equity, while more conservative investors allocated to hybrid schemes." The sharp decline in passive fund folio additions came after a record 6.9 million additions in Q4FY26, driven largely by strong investor participation in gold and silver ETFs.

Basic AI to stay free, while heavy cloud usage may cost

Samsung's AI plan: Pay-as-you-use

SHOBHANA SUBRAMANIAN
New Delhi, July 28

SAMSUNG PLANS TO adopt a hybrid pricing model for its artificial intelligence services, charging professional users for intensive cloud-based usage while continuing to offer basic on-device AI free to most consumers, JB Park, CEO and president of Samsung Southwest Asia, said.

"Samsung is taking a different approach that is not limited to on-device AI. We are also offering cloud-based AI through partnerships with other companies," Park said at a media interaction in London last week.

As the industry moves towards cloud- and partner-based AI, Samsung's pricing will depend on the nature and intensity of usage. Some partner services could come preloaded on its devices, but customers may have to buy tokens to access cloud-based features. "Sometimes you have to use tokens, and tokens are not free," he said.

Cloud services also entail substantial investments in data centres. At the same time, memory-chip prices have risen more sharply than expected and could continue climbing for the next couple of years, Park said.

Samsung has absorbed some of these costs over the past eight months rather than passing them on fully to customers.

"If you compare how much competitors have raised prices, Samsung's increase has been relatively small because we have been absorbing part of the cost," he said. The company is also bearing the financing cost of offering interest-free instalment plans of 24-30 months on flagship devices, he added.

Although Samsung has its own semiconductor business, Park ruled out preferential treatment for its Device eXperience, or DX, division, saying the group's businesses compete internally. "It is in Samsung's DNA. We compete internally, but we also compete externally," he said.

Competition is particularly intense in India's home-appliances market, where the presence of several Chinese brands has put profitability under pressure.

STEPS UP FUNDING PLAN FOR HOUSING AND INFRA PROJECTS

HUDCO to raise $2 bn via overseas loans by Dec end

MUKESH JAGOTA
New Delhi, July 28

DOLLAR DEALS

■ HUDCO has already mobilised ECBs worth $700 million & another $1.3 billion in loans have been tied up, its CMD Sanjay Kulshrestha said

■ The loans will be a mix of dollar and yen denominations, and raised using the RBI's concessional dollar-rupee swap facility

■ As of June-end, HUDCO's external borrowings stood at ₹15,927 cr or 10% of its outstanding debt of ₹1.53 lakh cr

■ Kulshrestha said HUDCO will increase its loan book to more than ₹2L cr by year end

STATE-RUN HOUSING AND Urban Development Corporation (HUDCO) will raise a total of $2 billion through External Commercial Borrowings (ECB) by December this year, as part of its plan to step up funding for housing and infrastructure projects. While it has already mobilised ECBs of $700 million, another $1.3 billion in loans have been tied up and will be availed by the end of 2026, Chairman and Managing Director Sanjay Kulshrestha said here on Tuesday.

The loans will be mix of dollar and yen denominations, and raised using the Reserve Bank of India's concessional dollar-rupee swap facility.

Until now, all foreign loans for the state-owned urban infrastructure company have been in yen; this is the first time HUDCO is raising dollar loans.

The external loans raised earlier cost 6.25%, including hedging expenses.

As of June-end, HUDCO's external borrowings stood at ₹15,927 crore or 10% of its outstanding debt of ₹1.53 lakh crore. HUDCO has not raised loans abroad in the last two financial years.

The RBI swap window became operational on June 8 and will expire on December 31. It allows public sector companies to raise overseas loans with a maturity of 3 years or more between June 8 and December 31 this year. Funds raised by state-owned companies in other currencies must be converted to dollars. The dollars raised by these companies must be handed over to the RBI, which will offer Indian rupees in return. Upon loan maturity, PSUs can get dollars back from the RBI for redemption.

RBI will bear the hedging costs but will charge a 1.5% swap fee annually. Some state-run companies have asked the RBI to extend the period for which the special window is available until March 31, 2027. This request considers the business cycle, as loan demand is highest in January-March, the last quarter of the financial year.

Through the swap facility the RBI expects banks and PSUs to raise $85 billion, which would add to reserves and support the rupee.

Kulshrestha said HUDCO will increase its loan book to more than ₹2 lakh crore by the end of this financial year. In the April-June quarter, HUDCO's loan book expanded to ₹1.73 lakh crore from ₹1.62 lakh crore. The blended cost of borrowing declined to 6.95% in the first quarter (April-June) from 7.17% in the January-March quarter.

In the ₹1 lakh crore Urban Challenge Fund launched in April, HUDCO acts as a catalyst and financier. The fund seeks to leverage market finance, private participation and citizen-centric reforms for delivering high-quality urban infrastructure.

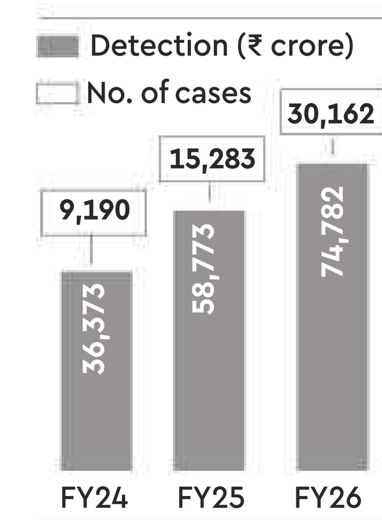
Since the fund's guidelines were issued, projects worth ₹31,000 crore have been sanctioned across the country and ₹60,000 crore of projects are in the pipeline, Kulshrestha said.

Under the fund a minimum of 50% of project financing must be mobilised from market sources, including municipal bonds, bank loans and Public–Private Partnerships (PPPs). The remaining share can be contributed by states, Union territories (UTs), urban local bodies (ULBs) or other sources.

Fake input tax credit claims hit nearly ₹75K cr in FY26

SHUBHAM RANA
New Delhi, July 28

FRAUD CHECK



■ The number of cases has risen over threefold between FY24 and FY26, govt data showed

■ This rise, experts say, shows not only higher tax evasion but also enhanced enforcement

THE NUMBER OF and amount involved in fake input tax credit (ITC) cases detected by the government under the Goods and Services Tax (GST) have seen sharp spikes in the last two years, data shared by the finance ministry showed on Tuesday. This rise, according to experts, shows not only higher tax evasion but also enhanced enforcement by the government.

The government detected ₹74,782 crore in fake ITC claims under GST in 2025-26 (April-March), up 27% from ₹58,773 crore detected in FY25, Minister of State for Finance Pankaj Chaudhary told the Rajya Sabha on Tuesday. In FY24, the amount involved in such cases was just ₹36,373 crore.

"These cases of ITC fraud have been detected across diverse sectors dealing in both goods and services, including iron & steel, textiles, plastics, paper products, plywood, cement, copper and various service sectors such as Works Contract Service, Manpower supply services, Real Estate Services etc," Chaudhary said in a written response to a question.

"The increase in detected ITC irregularities should not be viewed solely as a rise in tax evasion," said Bipin Sapra, partner and indirect tax policy leader, EY India. "The higher numbers are also a reflection of the GST administration's increasing use of technology, data analytics, and stronger enforcement against fake invoicing and fraudulent credit networks." According to Harpreet Singh, partner, indirect tax at Deloitte India, enhanced use of digital tools, e-invoicing data, and automated matching by GST Network (GSTN) is assisting the tax administration in real-time flagging of anomalies and outliers on ITC.

The number of cases has risen over three-fold between FY24 and FY26, government data showed. "Crucially, cases nearly doubled from 15,283 to 30,162 in FY26, while average detection per case declined—showing that authorities are identifying a wider and more granular universe of fraud," said Manoj Mishra, partner and tax controversy management leader, Grant Thornton Bharat.

Fertiliser sales, stocks signal adequate supply

SANDIP DAS
New Delhi, July 28

POSITIVE SIGN

■ Firms have sold around 17 MT of urea, AP, muriate of potash, PK variants of soil nutrients to farmers halfway through current Kharif season

■ This is against a requirement of 38 MT for the entire season

DESPITE THE SUPPLY disruption from the West Asia crisis, fertiliser companies have sold close to 17 million tonne (MT) of urea, di-ammonium phosphate (DAP), muriate of potash, and NPK variants of soil nutrients to farmers halfway through the current Kharif season. This is against a requirement of 38 MT for the entire season.

Sources said that thanks to diversification of imports following the closure of the Strait of Hormuz and a rise in domestic production, current fertiliser stocks are close to 14 MT, which should be sufficient to meet the demand for soil nutrients in the next couple of months.

In the Kharif season of 2025, companies sold 33.18 MT of fertilisers (urea – 19.3 MT, DAP – 4.63 MT, Potash – 1.09 MT and NPKs – 8.14 MT) to farmers through biometric authentication.

As per the revised demand for fertilisers by agriculture in the current Kharif season, urea demand was projected at 19 MT, against which 9.79 MT of key soil nutrients has been sold so far in the current fiscal year. Current urea stock is around 6.87 MT.

This implies any shortage may be marginal, although region-wise availability will need management.

Against the projected DAP demand of 6 MT in the ongoing season, 2.35 MT of soil nutrient variants have been sold till now, while the current stock is 4.02 MT.

For NPK fertilisers, over 4 MT has been sold so far this season while fertiliser companies have 4.51 MT in stock.

Houthi threat keeps crude supply chain on edge

SAURAV ANAND
New Delhi, July 28

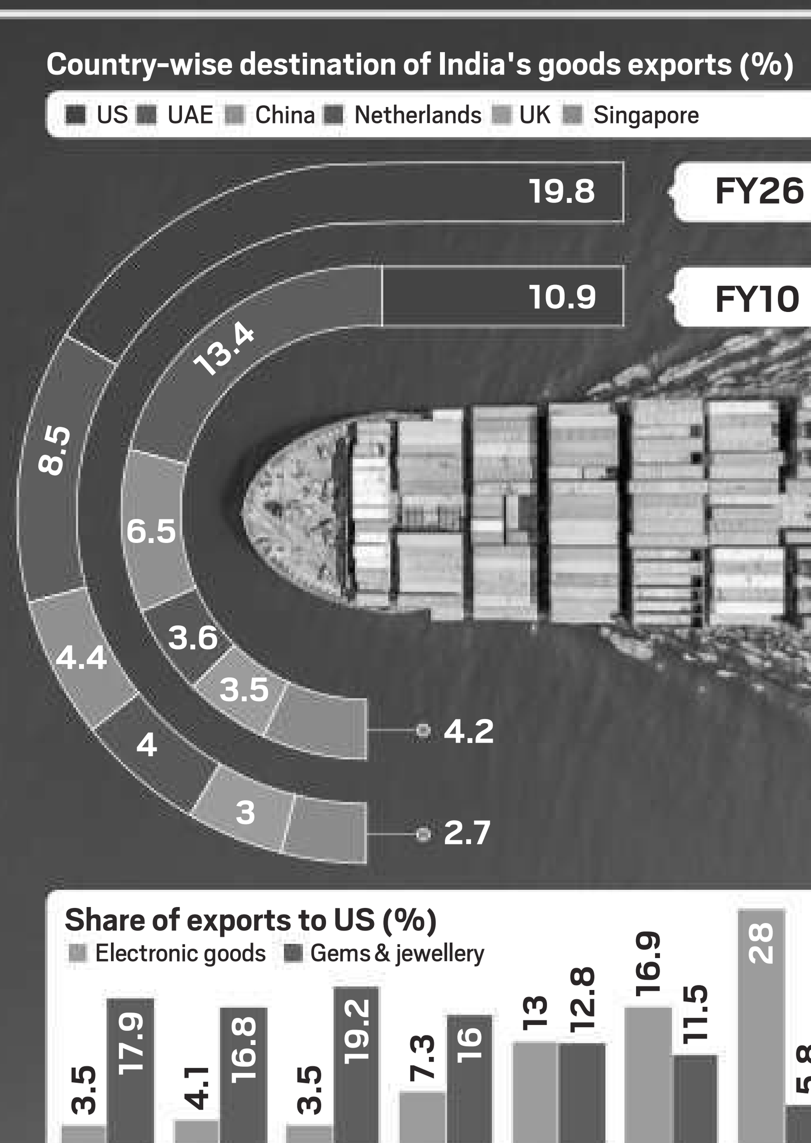
VESSEL TRAFFIC THROUGH the Bab el-Mandeb Strait rose to 28 on Monday, a four-day high, but remained well below the July 14 peak of 46, keeping India exposed to higher freight, insurance and delivery costs as Houthi threats put Saudi Arabia's alternative oil-export corridor at risk.

Saudi Arabia's East-West pipeline allows crude to bypass the constrained Strait of Hormuz and reach Yanbu on the Red Sea. But cargoes headed to India and other Asian markets must still cross Bab el-Mandeb, turning the waterway into a second choke point for supplies already travelling through an emergency route.

The volatility has already affected India's crude costs. The Indian crude basket fell $14.50 from $103.33 a barrel on July 23 to $88.83 on July 27.

US SHARE IN INDIAN EXPORTS STABLE DESPITE EXTRA TARIFFS

EXPORTS TO THE US accounted for 20% of India's total merchandise shipments in FY26, doubling from 11% in FY10, reports Saikat Neogi. The FY26 share of India's largest export market in its goods shipments remained the same as in FY25, despite the Donald Trump administration's reciprocal tariffs on most Indian goods in the second half of last fiscal. However, the share of shipments to the United Arab Emirates fell to 8.5% in FY26 compared with 13.4% in FY10 and China's share dropped to 4.4% from 6.5% during the same period. In contrast, the share of shipments to the Netherlands rose marginally to 4% from 3.6%. The share of electronic goods (including mobile phones) exported to the US grew sharply from 3.5% in FY20 to 28% in FY26.



Grid constraints prevent absorption of solar power enough for 1.4 mn homes

SAURAV ANAND
New Delhi, July 28

POWER PLAY

■ The curtailment came during peak summer quarter, even as power demand touched record 270.82 GW on May 21

■ Solar curtailment stood at 2,417 GWh in April

■ It rose to quarterly high of 3,235 GWh in May & eased to 2,481 GWh in June

■ Curtailment refers to the forced reduction of electricity generation when grid is unable to absorb power being produced

INDIA CURTAILED 8.1 terawatt hours (TWh) of solar electricity during April-June 2026—enough to meet the annual power needs of nearly 1.4 million households—as transmission bottlenecks and grid-security requirements prevented the system from absorbing the available clean energy.

The curtailment came during the peak summer quarter, even as electricity demand touched a record 270.82 gigawatts (GW) on May 21 amid intense heatwave conditions and increased use of cooling appliances.

Curtailment refers to the forced reduction of electricity generation when the grid is unable to absorb the power being produced. India curtailed a total of 8,133 gigawatt hours (GWh), or 8.1 TWh, of solar generation in the first quarter of FY27, Minister of State for New and Renewable Energy and Power Shripad Yesso Naik informed Parliament on Tuesday.

Solar curtailment stood at 2,417 GWh in April, rose to a quarterly high of 3,235 GWh in May, and eased to 2,481 GWh in June. One TWh is equivalent to one billion kilowatt hours (kWh).

"As per information received from Grid Controller of India Limited, solar power curtailment and restrictions are being carried out to maintain grid security and due to a mismatch between the commissioning of transmission lines and RE projects," Naik said in a written reply.

The government said renewable energy projects coming online ahead of schedule, coupled with delays in transmission infrastructure, were forcing grid operators to restrict solar generation.

May recorded the highest level of curtailment despite the country registering its all-time peak power demand during the month, highlighting the widening gap between renewable capacity additions and transmission readiness.

Responding to whether renewable energy curtailment had emerged as a challenge to India's clean energy transition, the government said such restrictions were necessary to ensure the reliable and secure operation of the electricity grid.

Stock limits on sugar from Aug 1

SANDIP DAS
New Delhi, July 28

AIMED AT CURBING hoarding and speculative trade, the government on Tuesday imposed stock holding limits on sugar dealers across the country during August 1–November 30.

The order prohibits dealers to hold stocks more than 30 days from the date of receipt or more than 4,000 quintal of sugar at any given point.

The recent increase in ex-mill prices of sugar - the price at which sugar mills sell to wholesalers and traders - is not supported by the prevailing demand-supply fundamentals, according to an official statement.

"It has also come to notice that hoarding by certain traders, dealers and market intermediaries, along with speculative transactions and paper trade without the actual physical movement of sugar from mills, has contributed to creating an artificial perception of scarcity in the market," it stated.

The curbs have been imposed under the Essential Commodities Act, 1955 and the Sugar (control) order, 2025. All sugar dealers will have to declare their sugar stocks and update inventory every week through the Department of Food and Public Distribution's portal.

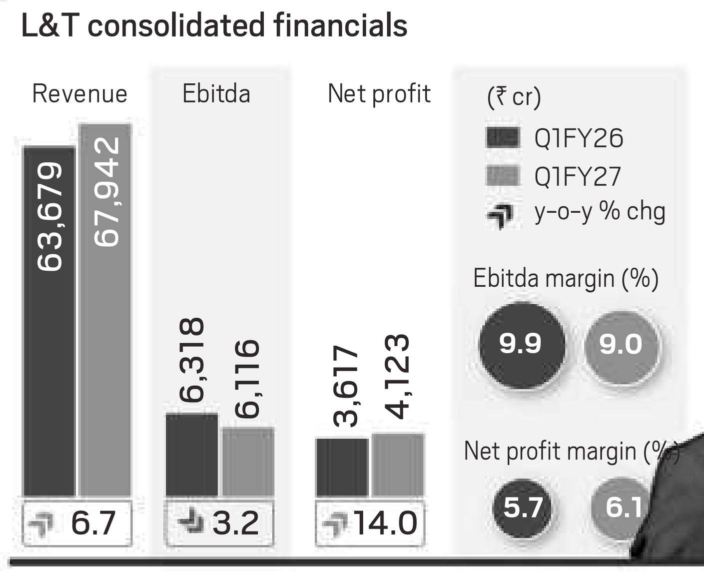
ROBUST PERFORMANCE

L&T consolidated financials



SN SUBRAHMANYAN, CHAIRMAN & MD, L&T

We have managed to maintain momentum by rotating its focus across sectors and geographies while maintaining robust cash flows

LARSEN & TOUBRO (L&T) on Tuesday reported a better-than-expected performance for the April-June quarter, with consolidated net profit rising 14% year-on-year to ₹4,123 crore, driven by healthy execution and strong order inflows despite an uncertain global environment. Revenue also came in ahead of Street expectations, while the engineering and construction major said supply-chain constraints continued to limit the pace of execution.

Revenue rose 7% to ₹67,942 crore from ₹63,679 crore in the year-ago period, ahead of the consensus estimate of ₹67,545 crore. On a sequential basis, net profit declined 23%. Earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation, and amortisation (Ebitda) fell 3.2% to ₹6,116 crore, reflecting pressure on operating margins.

Order inflow during the quarter increased 14% year-on-year to ₹1.08 lakh crore, led by wins across residential and commercial buildings, transportation infrastructure, ferrous metals, offshore wind and heavy engineering. International orders accounted for ₹60,702 crore, or 56% of the total order inflow. The company's order book stood at ₹7.8 lakh crore at the end of June, up 5% over March 2026, with overseas projects contributing 52%.

Chairman and Managing Director SN Subrahmanyan said the company had maintained growth momentum despite geopolitical uncertainties by balancing its exposure across sectors and geographies while sustaining strong cash flows. He said the quarter reflected the resilience of L&T's diversified portfolio. During the quarter, the company completed the sale of Nabha Power and signed a share purchase agreement to divest its stake in the Hyderabad Metro Rail special purpose vehicle.

Looking ahead, L&T remains confident of sustaining order momentum. Chief Financial Officer and Director R Shankar Raman said the company is pursuing an opportunity pipeline of nearly ₹15 lakh crore, split almost equally between domestic and international markets. Infrastructure and utilities account for nearly half the pipeline, while hydrocarbon projects represent opportunities worth about ₹3.5 lakh crore and renewable energy around ₹2.5 lakh crore. At an estimated win rate of around 20%, the company expects to achieve its order inflow guidance for the year.

Raman acknowledged that revenue growth could have been stronger had equipment and material supplies arrived on schedule, saying execution was constrained by delays in the supply chain during the quarter.

INDIGO HAS DOUBLED down on its long-term growth plans despite warning that geopolitical tensions, volatile fuel prices and currency fluctuations could weigh on the aviation sector in FY27, saying India is entering a multi-decade aviation growth cycle that will underpin its biggest global expansion yet.

In its FY26 annual report released on Tuesday, the airline said the near-term outlook for Indian aviation remains vulnerable to geopolitical uncertainties, particularly in West Asia, which have resulted in intermittent airspace restrictions, higher operating costs on certain international routes and the risk of schedule disruptions. It also flagged volatility in global crude oil prices and foreign exchange rates as continuing risks to airline cost structures.

Despite these headwinds, Managing Director Rahul Bhatia said the structural drivers of India's aviation market remained firmly intact. "The rise of an aspiring middle class, rapid infrastructure development, digital transformation, manufacturing expansion and the increasing global integration of Indian businesses are all driving unprecedented demand for connectivity," he said, adding that IndiGo was positioning itself to lead what it believes will be a multi-decade aviation expansion in the country.

That confidence is reflected in the airline's strategy to transform itself from a predominantly domestic low-cost carrier into a global network airline. Bhatia described the coming decade as the most significant phase of international expansion in the company's history.

The airline said the induction of Airbus A321XLR aircraft, along with the planned addition of Airbus A350 wide-body jets, will allow it to enter new markets and gradually expand long-haul operations. To support that strategy, IndiGo plans to increase the share of owned and finance-leased aircraft to 30-40% of its targeted 600-aircraft fleet by 2030, up from around 20% currently, reducing its reliance on operating leases.

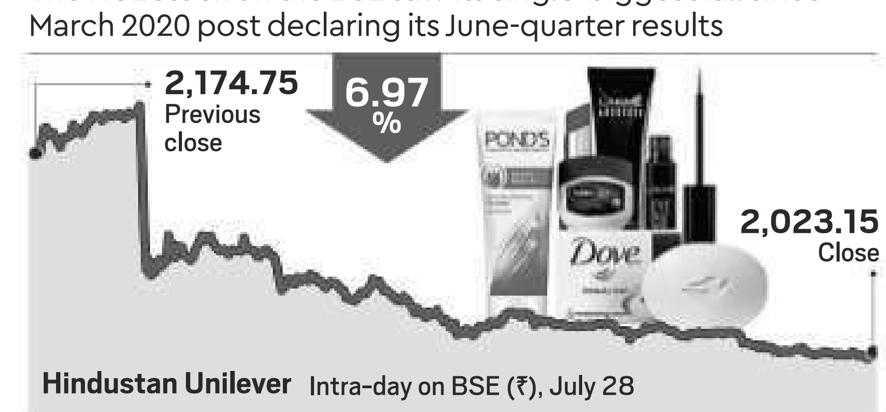
HUL Q1 net profit slips 3% on one-off expenses

VIVEAT SUSAN PINTO
Mumbai, July 28

FREE FALL

The HUL stock on the BSE saw its single-biggest fall since March 2020 post declaring its June-quarter results



HINDUSTAN UNILEVER (HUL), the country's largest consumer goods company, on Tuesday reported a 3% year-on-year decline in its consolidated net profit to ₹2,673 crore for the June quarter (Q1FY27), impacted by a one-off tax credit reported in the year-ago period. Revenue rose over 10% to ₹17,341 crore compared to ₹15,757 crore in the same period last year.

Excluding exceptional items, profit after tax increased 9% year-on-year to ₹2,731 crore. Tax outgo for the quarter nearly doubled to ₹939 crore from ₹485 crore a year ago. Exceptional items expenses for Q1FY27 stood at ₹115 crore on account of restructuring costs, against ₹90 crore in Q1FY26. Shares of HUL fell 6.97% on Tuesday to ₹2,023.15 on the BSE, its single-biggest fall since March 2020. HUL was also among the top losers on the Sensex and Nifty.

While revenue was broadly in line with Bloomberg consensus estimates of ₹17,571 crore, the profit missed Street expectations of ₹2,811 crore. Volume growth for Q1 came in at 5% , below analysts' estimates of 6-8%.

In Q4FY26, HUL had reported a 21.4% year-on-year rise in net profit to ₹2,992 crore, and 7.6% growth in revenue to ₹16,351 crore. Volume growth had touched a 15-quarter high of 6%.

Underlying sales growth in Q1 accelerated to 10% — the highest in three years — with an equal contribution from volume and pricing (5% each). However, the company cautioned that the progress of the monsoon and geopolitical tensions in West Asia remain key factors to be monitored from an inflation perspective. The India Meteorological Department has predicted the possibility of El Nino affecting rainfall during the second half of the monsoon season.

"Despite global geopolitical volatility, the Indian economy demonstrated resilience, supported by proactive fiscal and monetary policy measures," said Priya Nair, CEO and managing director, HUL. "The underlying demand environment remained stable during the quarter."

Ebitda margin stood at 22.8% in the April-June quarter, staying within the company's guidance of 22-23% despite a volatile operating environment.

Next decade is India's, says Unilever CEO

VIVEAT SUSAN PINTO
Mumbai, July 28

CONSUMER GOODS MAJOR Unilever will continue to invest aggressively in India to strengthen its market leadership, with Chief Executive Officer Fernando Fernandez describing the country as central to the company's long-term growth strategy.

"We will invest in India to protect the leadership position we have. We really believe that the next decade is the decade of India," Fernandez told investors during the company's June quarter earnings call on Tuesday. "We enjoy a privileged position there (India), and we believe that it will be a key contributor to the growth story of Unilever."

Fernandez said HUL had "achieved record market share in both laundry and hair", its "two biggest categories" in the country. HUL is Unilever's subsidiary in India.

Fernandez also highlighted improvements in the company's distribution network.

"One of the key drivers of the growth we are seeing in India is the improvement in general trade. This is a channel that was not growing for us but is now growing in the mid-to-high single digits," he said.

WHY ONE OF INDIA'S MOST TRUSTED GROUPS KEEPS LOSING ITS WAY IN REAL ESTATE

Tata Realty: The house that Tatas couldn't build

RAGHAVENDRA KAMATH
Mumbai, July 28

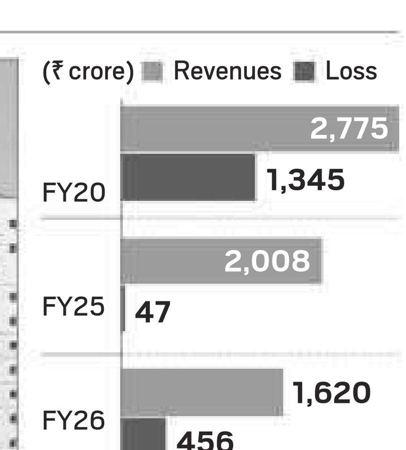
LOST GROUND

Tata Realty had the brand, capital and credibility advantage but failed to build scale over the years. Here's why:

INCONSISTENT STRATEGY: Moved from affordable housing to commercial real estate and is now back to premium residential projects

LACK OF FOCUS: Tata group's management focus was on larger businesses, limiting sustained attention to the realty business

LOCALISED BUSINESS: Failed to build a national presence in the residential market



Source: Tata Sons FY26 annual report

IT COULD WELL be the story of a company from one of India's most storied groups that never found its footing in real estate. That is puzzling, because Tata Realty & Infrastructure (TRIL) had almost every advantage a developer could ask for—brand, capital and credibility. Yet it failed to build scale as rivals with lesser pedigrees raced ahead.

The numbers tell an uncomfortable story. TRIL's loss of ₹456 crore in FY26 was considerably narrower than the ₹1,345 crore recorded in FY20. But the recent trajectory may concern the group: the loss widened nearly tenfold in a year, from ₹47 crore in FY25.

Revenue offers little consolation. The top line contracted at a compound annual rate of 8.59% between FY20 and FY26, falling 19% to ₹1,620 crore in FY26 from ₹2,008 crore in the previous year.

Set against the industry's leading performers, the divergence becomes stark. Over the same six years, profits at Lodha Developers, Prestige Estates and DLF compounded annually by 29%, 21% and 68%, respectively. Their revenues also grew—at compound annual rates of 5%, 7% and 5%, respectively—while TRIL's moved in the opposite direction.

Sources in the Tata group have an explanation. They attribute the FY26 loss largely to the completion of affordable-housing projects launched years ago and housed in loss-making Tata Housing, a TRIL subsidiary. They say it reflects the accounting of old wounds rather than the emergence of new ones. But conversations with industry veterans point to a deeper issue—a company that never quite decided what it wanted to be.

A TRIL spokesperson did not respond to an email seeking comment.

Part of TRIL's predicament reflects a structural reality of Indian real estate: it remains a stubbornly local business. Land acquisition, approvals, consumer preferences and political equations vary from one city to another, and few developers have cracked the code of operating profitably at a national scale. Barring Godrej Properties, industry watchers say, hardly anyone has built a genuinely pan-India presence that delivers both scale and profitability.

"After reaching a certain scale—say, ₹8,000-10,000 crore of annual pre-sales—most developers need to move beyond a single market to sustain growth," says Amit Bagri, managing director and CEO of Kotak Mahindra Investments. "Growing beyond one's core market is never easy. Even today, barring four or five players, there are no genuinely multi-location or national players in the residential market."

Even the industry's giants have stumbled outside their home markets. DLF once expanded into Mumbai and Kolkata, only to retreat from both. It has recently returned to Mumbai, this time with the safety net of a joint venture.

But TRIL's deeper affliction, according to those who have watched it closely, is strategic restlessness. While successful competitors picked a lane and stayed in it, TRIL repeatedly changed direction.

The company entered low-cost housing in the late 2000s, only to withdraw later. It then announced it would reinvent itself as an office-property developer. Today, it is back to launching premium residential projects.

"They lacked focus. They lacked the understanding needed to drive the market and grow," says the CEO of an investment firm on condition of anonymity. The Tata brand was never in question, he adds, nor was the ability to finance projects. What was missing was a consistent strategy and the execution required to support it.

A senior property consultant in Mumbai puts it more wryly: TRIL had a knack for getting the timing wrong. It bet on residential property when that market was struggling and pivoted towards offices just as that segment turned.

The Tata group sees the shifts differently. Sources insist the exits and pivots were rational responses to changing market conditions rather than evidence of indecision. "Low-cost housing was becoming unviable. Hence, we exited it. Being a Tata company, we met our commitments to buyers even though we suffered losses," says a group source. It is a reminder that withdrawing from a segment while still delivering every promised apartment can be an expensive form of integrity.

After nearly a decade without signing new housing deals, the company is stirring again, with projects in Mulund and Ghansoli in the Mumbai Metropolitan Region. "Despite all the issues, we completed 25 projects and delivered 15,000 apartments," the source says.

There may be a simpler explanation, one that goes to the heart of how the Tata group works. Real estate in India rewards obsession—the promoter who knows every file in every municipal office and treats each parcel of land as a personal campaign. Oberoi Realty, DLF and Prestige possess that DNA. TRIL, the investment firm CEO argues, does not.

"Tata is a large group with several priority sectors, and real estate does not appear to rank very high among them," he says. In a business where bureaucracy and politics are woven into every project, success demands sustained management time and attention—the one currency that a sprawling conglomerate fighting much bigger battles may be least willing to spend.

For a group that builds everything from salt to software, real estate may simply be the business that never received its undivided attention. The question now is whether the return to premium housing represents a genuine reset—or merely one more turn of the wheel.

Birla Group shrugs off global challenges

FE BUREAU
Chennai, July 28

KUMAR MANGALAM BIRLA
CHAIRMAN, ADITYA BIRLA GROUP

We have been pretty unscathed despite the fact that we have a presence across so many countries

DESPITE ONGOING GEOPOLITICAL tensions and the resulting increase in fuel prices, the core businesses of the Aditya Birla Group have remained largely unaffected, according to Kumar Mangalam Birla, chairman of the Aditya Birla Group.

"We have been pretty unscathed despite the fact that we have a presence across so many countries," Birla said during an interactive session at the 190th Annual General Meeting of the Madras Chamber of Commerce & Industry in Chennai on Tuesday. He said the biggest impact of geopolitical tensions has been the rise in fuel prices.

"In most cases, we have been able to pass on the additional cost to our customers," Birla said, attributing this to the benefits of onshoring, friend-shoring and the Group's deep customer relationships.

The Aditya Birla Group is a $72-billion multinational conglomerate with interests spanning metals, cement, textiles, chemicals, financial services and telecom. As of June 1, its consolidated market capitalisation stood at over $118 billion, with operations across 41 countries.

On the challenges of raising manufacturing's share in GDP, Birla said the issue is not unique to India. Citing Hindalco Industries' proposed $6-billion aluminium recycling and rolling facility in Bay Minette, Alabama, he said the company had to relocate the project because of environmental considerations.

"We changed our site because of environmental considerations. It is pretty much similar across countries. It's not like we're the only ones facing such issues," he said.

Birla also recalled Hindalco's $6-billion acquisition of Novelis, a global leader in flat-rolled aluminium products and the world's largest aluminium recycler, in 2007, describing it as an "audacious proposition".

"Novelis operated in 11 countries and generated revenues more than three times the size of Hindalco's. But the strategic logic was compelling," he said.

Birla noted that while Hindalco was primarily an upstream aluminium producer, Novelis was the global leader in value-added downstream rolled products used in automobiles, aerospace, beverage cans and other specialty applications, where margins are significantly higher. The acquisition helped Hindalco emerge as one of the world's leading aluminium companies.

"More significantly, we achieved overnight what would otherwise have taken perhaps a decade and tens of billions of dollars to build organically," Birla said, highlighting the Group's long-term vision and conviction.

Airtel tops June subscriber race

URVI MALVANIA
Mumbai, July 25

BHARTI AIRTEL MAINTAINED its lead in subscriber additions in June 2026, adding 2.99 million wireless users, while market leader Reliance Jio added 2.15 million, according to data released by the Telecom Regulatory Authority of India (TRAI).

Vodafone Idea also continued to add subscribers, with net additions accelerating to 163,757 in June from 121,289 in May. However, most of the growth continued to come from the machine-to-machine (M2M) or enterprise connections segment, a business that generates significantly lower average revenue per user (Arpu). Excluding M2M connections, Airtel added 1.05 million users in June, trailing Jio's 1.48 million additions. Vodafone Idea, meanwhile, lost 0.46 million users, indicating a moderation in subscriber churn from a loss of 0.83 million in May.

Overall, India's telecom subscriber base rose to 1.348 billion in June from 1.343 billion in May, although net additions slowed to 4.96 million users from 6.95 million a month earlier, according to the telecom regulator.

Both urban and rural markets registered net subscriber additions during the month.

JLR India bucks global slowdown with record sales in Q1

AKBAR MERCHANT
Mumbai, July 28

JAGUAR LAND ROVER (JLR) India reported a record 11% year-on-year increase in retail sales to 1,665 units in the first quarter of FY27, driven by sustained demand for its flagship Range Rover and Defender models. Wholesale dispatches rose 4% to 1,694 units during the June quarter.

The company's core SUV portfolio comprising the Range Rover, Range Rover Sport and Defender accounted for more than 85% of retail sales in the quarter, with the Defender retaining its position as JLR India's best-selling model.

The performance comes as the company looks to capitalise on opportunities arising from the India-UK Free Trade Agreement (FTA). During the quarter, JLR reduced prices of the Range Rover SV and Range Rover Sport SV following the implementation of the trade pact, which lowered import duties on eligible British-built vehicles.

The price cuts have triggered a sharp increase in customer enquiries for the high-performance SV variants, while demand for bespoke customisation options across both models has also strengthened.

"The first quarter performance was driven by sustained demand for the Range Rover, Range Rover Sport and Defender. The India-UK FTA presents an opportunity to expand the reach of our specialised SV products and bespoke offerings, while our strong product pipeline positions us well for the rest of FY27," said Rajan Amba, managing director, JLR India.

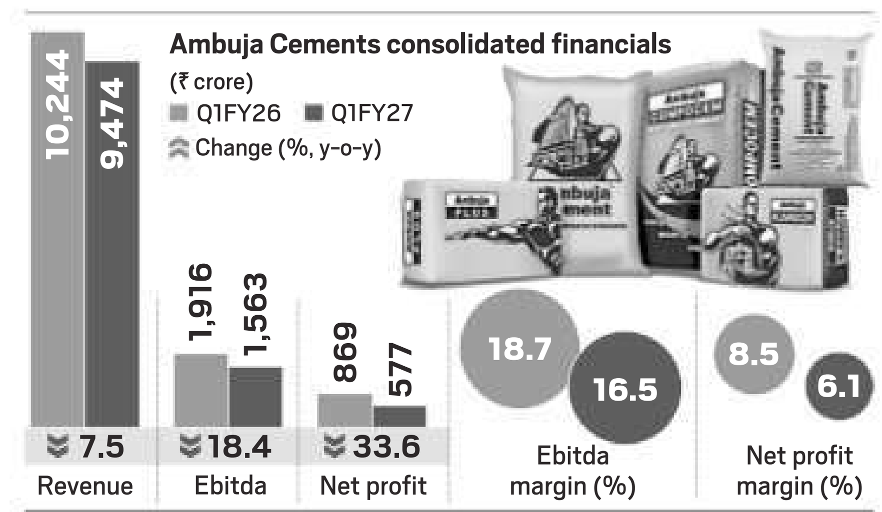
REPORT CARD



ADANI GROUP'S CEMENT and building materials arm, Ambuja Cements, reported a 33.6% year-on-year (y-o-y) dip in net profit attributable to owners for the first quarter of FY27, due to declining revenues. Profit attributable to owners stood at ₹577 crore (Q1FY26: ₹869 crore), though it beat Bloomberg estimates of ₹372 crore.

Revenue from operations during the June quarter fell 7.5% y-o-y to ₹9,474 crore, trailing Bloomberg's estimate of ₹10,244 crore on the back of lower sales volumes.

Earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortisation (Ebitda) declined 18.4% y-o-y to ₹1,563 crore, slightly above Bloomberg estimates of ₹1,525 crore. The Ebitda margin stood at 16.5%, down 210 basis points (bps) from year ago, but up 330 bps over the previous quarter. Ebitda per tonne declined 13% y-o-y to ₹931 (Q1FY26: ₹1,069), and was up 26.67% over the March quarter. Ambuja Cements in its earnings release said that the Indian cement sector faced cost pressures in Q1 from higher imported fuel prices, along with elevated freight and logistics costs resulting from geopolitical developments in West Asia.

The fzirm reported quarterly sales volumes of 17.1 million tonne, down 7.1% from the corresp onding quarter last year.

Ferns N Petals plans to go public in 2028

ASHUTOSH MISHRA
New Delhi, July 28

ONLINE FLORAL AND gifting platform Ferns N Petals (FNP) is targeting an initial public offering (IPO) in calendar year 2028, with the firm stepping up efforts to strengthen governance, financial discipline and operational predictability before tapping the public markets, Global CEO and Director Pawan Gadia told FE in an interaction.

While the firm did not disclose a formal timeline or other details, Gadia said the investors and leadership team are aligned on taking FNP public, with the eventual listing depending on business readiness and market conditions. "The priority is to build a strong, profitable and predictable company," he said, adding that public markets demand consistent quarterly performance. The listing plans come after FNP crossed the ₹1,000-crore revenue milestone. The company reported revenue of ₹1,085 crore in FY26 while remaining profitable, Gadia said.

Within India, FNP is increasingly seeing its next phase of growth come from tier-II and tier-III cities

Within India, FNP is increasingly seeing its next phase of growth come from tier-II and tier-III cities, supported by its network of over 300 physical stores and deliveries across more than 400 cities. Internationally, its UAE business, which started as a pilot in 2015, is expected to cross ₹500 crore in revenue in FY27, while operations in Singapore, Qatar and other Southeast Asian markets continue to expand.

Gaming makes up one-fifth of consumer PC market: Dell

OJASVI GUPTA
New Delhi, July 28

GAMING DEVICES ACCOUNT for around one-fifth of India's consumer PC market, according to Raj Kumar Rishi, vice president and general manager, Consumer Business, Asia Pacific and Japan, at Dell Technologies, who described gaming and AI PCs as the company's fastest-growing consumer segments.

"We are largely becoming a gaming PC-driven market. The ecosystem is building for the same," Rishi said in a conversation with FE. Dell has rolled out its widest-ever consumer portfolio in the country, headlined by the Alienware 15, starting at ₹1,28,990, and a new XPS 13 priced at ₹79,900 - a price point the premium XPS brand has never reached in India before, Rishi said. This launch also includes Dell 14S and Dell 16S.

"We are continuously looking at opportunities to broadbase our addressable market and bring the right price," Rishi said,, adding that the expanded portfolio enables Dell to reach customer segments it had not previously served.

Rishi linked the strategy to India's demographics, noting that nearly two-thirds of the population is under 35 and many gaming laptops also double up as tools for young creators and entrepreneurs.

Rishi said the generation is increasingly working from cafes and homes rather than traditional offices. As a result, Dell sees itself as a broader technology company spanning PCs, storage and AI servers, rather than merely a laptop maker.

The Dell 14S and Dell 16S are powered by the latest Intel Core Ultra and AMD Ryzen AI 400-series processors, with NPUs delivering up to 50 TOPS. Priced from ₹1,19,990 and ₹2,29,990, respectively, they are aimed at everyday productivity and content creation, unlike the gaming-focused Alienware 15.

Dell currently holds an estimated 15-16% share of India's consumer PC market and is banking on the new portfolio to expand that further, though Rishi declined to specify a target.

Samsung's AI plan: Pay-as-you-use

"MUCH LIKE THE mobile market 10 years ago, Chinese brands keep knocking on the doors of the Indian market. Some arrive and fade away like a tsunami. I see a similar trend in consumer electronics," Park said.

Despite the cost challenge posed by Chinese rivals, Samsung is seeking to retain its leadership in displays and home appliances, he said.

Nearly 65% of Samsung's flagship smartphones in India are sold in tier-II, tier-III and rural markets, where demand is growing at a double-digit pace and faster than in the metros. Competition in foldable smartphones — which account for about 20% of Samsung's India flagship sales — is expected to intensify with Apple's entry into the segment.

Park believes the arrival of more brands will expand the foldable-phone market.

Cutting prices, however, is not the answer to gaining share, he said. Samsung will instead seek to differentiate its devices by optimising applications for the foldable format and improving how they appear and function on larger screens.

Another differentiator is Samsung's connected ecosystem of smartphones, watches, home appliances and displays, which can be managed together and made more energy-efficient with AI.

The company's research and development centres in Noida and Bengaluru are also developing features for Indian consumers. One such feature is Pay Now, which facilitates timely bill payments through Samsung Wallet. It will debut on the company's new foldable phones and initially be available exclusively in India.

Passive MF folio...

GOLD AND SILVER ETFs added 2.17 million and 2.34 million folios, respectively, during the quarter. In Q1FY27, however, gold ETFs added only 78,227 folios, while silver ETFs saw their folio count decline by about 162,000. Debt-oriented ETFs also recorded a decline of nearly 944,000 folios.

Sandeep Tandon, CIO and money manager, Quant MF, attributed the decline in gold and silver ETF folios to falling prices, which resulted in losses for investors who entered the market near the peak of rally.

Singh said gold and silver do not generate cash flows and are driven by relative valuations. "Their attractiveness deteriorates when the US dollar performs well, leading to lower inflows into gold & silver, which investors often use as a hedge against dollar depreciation," he said. Despite the decline in commodity-linked schemes, equity-oriented domestic index funds and equity-oriented domestic ETFs continued to attract investors in Q1FY27, adding nearly 456,000 and 340,000 folios, respectively. International ETFs and overseas fund of funds investing in active funds also recorded growth in folio counts.

Singh said the selective performance of mid- & small-cap stocks during the quarter made bottom-up stock selection more important, prompting investors to favour active equity schemes over passive funds. Tandon said the weaker performance of passive schemes compared with active funds contributed to a global shift in investor preference towards active strategies in recent months.

Borrowers postpone bond issuances on volatile yields

RENEWED GEOPOLITICAL UNCERTAINTIES and heightened market volatility are prompting corporate bond issuers to stay on the sidelines, making it harder and costlier for borrowers to access the market.

After a rush to lock in lower yields in June, activity has slowed over the past two weeks. Listed issuances stood at ₹58,781 crore in July till (27th), down from ₹98,995 crore in June, according to Prime Database. Overall issuances, including private placements, stood at ₹92,799 crore, compared with ₹1.16 lakh crore in June. Major issuances have been largely absent over the past two weeks.

"The recurring cycle of escalation and temporary de-escalation in the West Asia crisis has created an unusually volatile environment for global financial markets. Every fresh military development has triggered sharp spikes in crude oil prices, only to be followed by equally sharp corrections whenever temporary ceasefires or diplomatic efforts emerge," said Venkatakrishnan Srinivasan, founder and managing partner, Rockfort Fincap LLP.

"This headline-driven market has made it extremely difficult for issuers and investors to establish any meaningful pricing benchmark. This has once again prompted borrowers to adopt a wait-and-watch approach," he added.

Oil prices surged to $100 a barrel before easing to around $83 in a short span, reflecting the uncertainty. The rupee also came under pressure, pushing the benchmark 10-year G-Sec yield above 6.80% before it eased to around 6.76% as crude prices fell.

Consequently, the yield on the 10-year AAA-rated bond rose 10-15 basis points to 7.55% before easing to around 7.40%, according to Bloomberg data. The yield on the three-year bond rose by as much as 25 basis points.

Bond yields had fallen sharply in June following measures by the central bank and the government to support the rupee. This triggered a surge in issuances in June and early July as borrowers rushed to lock in lower yields. In contrast, issuers had deferred borrowing plans in April and May amid elevated yields and persistent geopolitical tensions.

Market participants also said issuers are holding off ahead of the monetary policy announcement scheduled for next week.

"After the renewed strikes, corporate bond yields have gone up by 10 bps, which led to a slowdown in issuances. However, I expect the inflows from the RBI's measures to support yields," said Puneel Pal, head of fixed income, PGIM Mutual Fund.

"High volatility is not good for any market. That has dented sentiment and kept yields volatile. Once markets calm down, activity should pick up, but for now the persistence of volatility is the main factor holding back issuances," he added.

Srinivasan said investors have become increasingly selective, with long-tenor AAA issuers expected to continue attracting demand. "Similar to April and May, we expect another shallow month for the primary bond market, with overall corporate bond issuances likely to decline sharply as issuers defer borrowings until market conditions stabilise," he said.

Market participants expect issuers to return once conditions stabilise and geopolitical tensions ease, giving them greater confidence to raise funds at more predictable yields and better pricing.

"Once crude oil prices, one of the key drivers of bond yields, begin to decline, we may see a revival in corporate bond issuances in the coming months," said Mataprasad Pandey, vice-president, Arete Capital.

'Will use FCNR(B) funds to cut bulk deposit reliance'

Raising low-cost resources is the top priority for Canara Bank, Managing Director and Chief Executive Officer Brajesh Kumar Singh says. He speaks to Manju AB about how the bank is shedding bulk deposits and is focusing on retail and term deposits to improve its net interest margins (NIMs). Excerpts:

It has been less than two months since you have taken charge of Canara Bank. What are the key strategic changes you are planning?

Our first priority is to raise low-cost resources. That would mean increasing the share of CASA (current account savings account) deposits to 32% from around 30% now. The other priorities are improving net interest margins (NIMs), yields on advances, asset quality and customer experience.

We are ramping up loan growth, particularly in the MSME segment. We will also focus on human resources and are planning special training programmes for women, who constitute 33% of our workforce.

You come from banks where CASA and NIMs are higher. Are you planning to move away from lending below 7%, which could be impacting Canara Bank's NIMs?

We will not do sub-7% lending. Whenever such loans come up for reset, we are working towards resetting them in our favour. We are ready to shed many of these advances and opt for higher-yielding assets. The market is slightly better now.

Do you think the NIM has bottomed out at 2.5%?

We have protected our NIM at 2.52% as of June-end and have the aspiration and ability to raise it further. However, our guidance for FY27 remains at 2.60%, considering headwinds in the ecosystem.

Our cost of deposits came down by 27 basis points in the June quarter. We are shedding bulk deposits and increasing the share of retail and term deposits. Our net interest income crossed ₹10,000 crore for the first time in the June quarter.

You also have an ambitious target for FCNR(B) deposits.

We currently have $800 million and will cross $1 billion by the month end. Our target is to garner $2.5 billion through FCNR(B) deposits, ECBs (external commercial borrowings) and OFCBs (overseas foreign currency borrowings). Of this, FCNR(B) deposits should touch $1.5 billion. We will use these funds to reduce our reliance on bulk deposits.

We have bilateral tie-ups with foreign banks. We are also collaborating with larger Indian banks that have a significant overseas presence for KYC verification and facilitating remittances to India.

Are you strategically increasing the share of RAM (retail, agriculture and MSME) in your loan portfolio?

There are many benefits of doing this, including better leverage, diversified risk, lower credit costs and greater opportunities for cross-selling. We have increased the RAM share to 59% from 58% a year ago and want to take it to 60%, or even 62%.

Corporate credit growth is also holding up well for you. What is driving demand?

Private capex and government undertakings are driving credit demand. Working capital is the mainstay of this demand. There is significant demand from power execution companies, battery manufacturing firms, HAM projects and data centres. There is also demand from green energy companies. We have also financed NABARD and SIDBI.

Canara Bank was pursuing corporate defaults of about ₹2.5 lakh crore involving companies such as Gupta Power Infrastructure and Aircel, among others. What is the status of these accounts?

Most of the large accounts have either been resolved or sold off. About 18 large corporate accounts have been transferred to NARCL (National Asset Reconstruction Company). They are at different stages of resolution. We are not holding any large corporate accounts on our books. Corporate defaults are slowing down for us.

OUR PRIORITIES ARE: RAISING LOW-COST RESOURCES AND IMPROVING NET INTEREST MARGINS, YIELDS ON ADVANCES, ASSET QUALITY AND CUSTOMER EXPERIENCE

DII EQUITY INFLOWS IN JULY LOWEST IN 15 MONTHS

CUMULATIVE EQUITY INFLOWs from domestic institutional investors (DIIs) crossed the ₹5 lakh-crore mark for the first time in 2026, data sourced from the BSE show. DIIs purchased shares worth ₹5.02 lakh crore during the January-July period, accounting for 64% of record inflows of ₹7.88 lakh crore in entire 2025. However, monthly DII equity investments moderated in recent months. After hitting a record ₹1.43 lakh crore in March, the number declined to ₹32,041 crore in July, marking the lowest monthly inflows in 15 months.

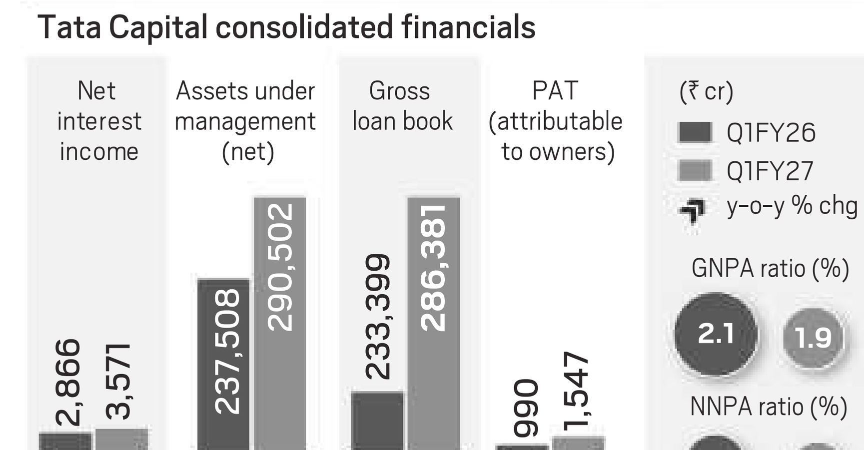
Tata Capital net profit rises 56% on robust loan growth

● Expansion in gold loans to boost retail mix

FE BUREAU
Mumbai, July 28

Tata Capital consolidated financials



TATA CAPITAL ON Tuesday reported a 56% jump in its consolidated net profit for the quarter ended June to ₹1,547 crore, aided by a robust loan growth.

The net interest income rose 25% on year to ₹3,571 crore for the reporting quarter, with fee income rising 20% and investment income growing 5% on a year-on-year basis. Operating expenses rose 21% to ₹1,621 crore.

The annualised return on assets (ROA) increased to 2.3%, compared with 1.8% in the year-ago period. The return on equity increased to 13.7% from 12.5%.

The gross loan book expanded 23% on year to ₹2.86 lakh crore. Net assets under management (AUM) grew 22% to ₹2.90 lakh crore, of which retail and the small and medium enterprise (SME) book formed 85.4% and the corporate book comprised 14.6%. The unsecured retail constituted 10.3% of the net AUM.

The non-bank lender forayed into gold loans in the reporting quarter by acquiring an 88.6% stake in Yogakshemam Loans. "We have applied to the Reserve Bank of India for the acquisition and expect to get an approval by the end of the calendar year. In the next 2.5-3 years, we plan to add more than 500 branches and take the gold loan book to ₹4,000-5,000 crore," Managing Director & CEO Rajiv Sabharwal said in the post-earnings media call.

With the addition of the gold loan business, the share of retail lending within the combined retail and SME portfolio is expected to increase, though the overall retail and SME mix will remain in the 85-88% range, he added.

As per the investor presentation, disbursals for high-margin products grew 38%.

The lender has scaled up disbursements for unsecured products after addressing delinquency trends in personal loans and the microfinance book, while securing the portfolio through government schemes. "The book growth will catch up with disbursal growth in the next few quarters," the management said.

The gross non-performing asset ratio improved to 1.9% from 2.0% a quarter ago and the net NPA ratio stood at 0.8% as against 0.9%. The annualised credit cost stood at 1% in April-June as compared to 0.9% a quarter ago.

"We remain watchful of geopolitical developments, inflationary trends and monsoon-related risks, but continue to see a broadly supportive environment for credit growth," Sabharwal said. He also said the board has discussed the possibility of unlocking value in Tata Capital Housing Finance. The company will wait for the RBI to classify it as an upper-layer NBFC, after which it will have about three years to decide on a listing.

Strong NII growth drives City Union Bank net profit

FE BUREAU
Chennai, July 28

CITY UNION BANK on Tuesday reported a 25% year-on-year increase in its net profit to ₹383 crore for the first quarter, boosted by a robust growth in net interest income (NII).

Interest income rose 24% year-on-year to ₹1,985 crore while interest expenses increased 19% to ₹1,165 crore. As a result, net interest income (NII) grew 31% to ₹820 crore. Other income remained flat at ₹244 crore.

Higher provisioning, however, weighed on profitability. Total provisions increased 37% year-on-year to ₹198 crore, primarily due to a 60% jump in tax provisions to ₹120 crore. Other provisions rose to ₹78 crore from ₹70 crore in the year-ago period.

Advances grew 25% to ₹67,645 crore, while deposits increased 21% to ₹79,342 crore. As of June 30, 2026, the total business stood at ₹1.47 lakh crore, up 23% from a year earlier. The retail, agriculture and MSME (RAM) portfolio, including non-agriculture gold loans, accounted for 80% of total advances.

Low-cost current account and savings account deposits constituted 26% of the deposit base, while term deposits accounted for 49%. The asset quality improved, with the GNPA ratio declining to 1.73% at the end of June from 1.91% in the previous quarter.

Dharmendra Pradhan was welcomed in Parliament. What kind of hubris is this? On one side there is sorrow, and you are garlanding him

The risk from rising oil prices is real but broad-based price pressures are not yet entrenched

LITTLE HAS CHANGED in West Asia since the Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) last met in early June, with uncertainty surrounding the Iran-US war persisting. Crude prices fell sharply to around $72 a barrel on hopes of a truce, but the subsequent re-escalation of hostilities pushed them back into the $90-100 range. At its June meeting, the MPC left the policy rate unchanged at 5.25%, even as the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) raised its FY27 inflation forecast by 50 basis points to 5.1%. Governor Sanjay Malhotra flagged the risk of second-order effects, including higher wages, but retained the neutral policy stance. The August meeting will, therefore, be less about responding to a fresh shock than assessing whether the risks identified in June have become sufficiently persistent to warrant action.

With few signs of an early truce, elevated oil prices remain a concern. Crude is currently trading at around $88 a barrel — below the $95 assumption underlying the RBI's growth and inflation forecasts, but high enough to keep price pressures alive. If oil remains at these levels, another round of fuel price increases cannot be ruled out. Retail inflation rose more than expected to 4.4% in June, partly reflecting higher pump prices, and the July print could be higher still. The food inflation outlook also warrants attention. Although kharif sowing has progressed reasonably well and the rainfall deficit has been almost eliminated, crop shortfalls that push up food prices cannot yet be discounted. Nor can the indirect impact of expensive fuel on transport, manufacturing, and distribution costs. The longer crude remains elevated, the greater the likelihood that what began as a supply shock spreads to the wider price basket.

There is, therefore, a case for raising rates pre-emptively rather than risking falling behind the curve. But there is an equally strong argument for waiting for clearer evidence that inflation is becoming generalised. As Malhotra observed recently, policymakers have yet to see signs of broad-based price pressures becoming entrenched. Core inflation remained benign at 2.4% in May and 2.5% in June, suggesting that underlying demand pressures are contained. The risk of higher fuel, food, and input costs spilling over into the wider price basket is real, but it would be prudent to wait for evidence of such a pass-through — or signs that inflation expectations are becoming de-anchored — before raising rates. The neutral stance gives the MPC the flexibility to hold or move in either direction as the data warrant, without diluting its commitment to price and financial stability.

Importantly, the RBI no longer needs to raise rates primarily to support the rupee. Around $32 billion has flowed in, largely through the special foreign currency non-resident (bank) deposit scheme. With a further $30-40 billion expected by the end of September, concerns over balance-of-payments pressures should ease considerably. The governor has also sought to allay liquidity concerns, explaining that rupee funds released against deposits swapped with the RBI enter the system with a lag, while higher government balances have temporarily absorbed liquidity. This suggests that the present tightness need not be read as a deliberate monetary signal. The economy, meanwhile, has remained resilient despite higher US tariffs and disruptions caused by the West Asia conflict, though some areas of weakness persist. That resilience gives the MPC room to raise rates later if inflation broadens or expectations begin to shift. For now, however, a pause would be the more considered course.

POWER POINT

CHANDRASEKARAN'S LONG GAME FINALLY HAS PUBLIC NUMBERS — AND THEY CUT BOTH WAYS

Fair defence, but the clock is real

SHYAMAL MAJUMDAR

shyamal.majumdar@expressindia.com

EVERY GENERATION OF Tata leadership has had its leap of faith. Jamsetji Tata committed his fortune to steel and an institute of science when colonial India scarcely possessed an industrial economy. JRD Tata persisted with civil aviation long before it promised commercial returns. Ratan Tata endured years of scepticism over the Jaguar Land Rover acquisition before it became one of the group's finest strategic decisions. None of these would have survived had they been judged after two or three years.

N Chandrasekaran is asking for the same indulgence. Tata Sons' FY26 annual report is, in effect, an argument that semiconductors, aviation, electronics, batteries, and defence should be viewed through a decade-long lens rather than an annual one. It is also the first time that the chairman has publicly and systematically defended investments that have reportedly become the principal point of discussion between him and Noel Tata.

Chairmen's letters are usually exercises in measured optimism. This one reads more like a philosophical defence of long-term investing. Chandrasekaran invokes Jamsetji Tata's decision to back an institute of science he would never see completed and draws a direct line to today's investments. "Chips are the new steel," he writes. Air India's transformation, he argues, "must be seen as a five- to ten-year journey". The recurring theme is that the Tata group must build for India in 2047, not merely report quarterly profits in 2026.

As strategy, the argument is persuasive. Large manufacturing businesses rarely reward impatience. Semiconductor fabs consume billions before producing a commercially viable wafer. Airlines are notorious for destroying capital before creating value. Battery manufacturing demands years of investment before scale delivers competitive costs. Judging such businesses by annual profits is like judging a bridge after its foundations have been laid.

The annual report also demonstrates that the group is hardly under financial distress. Tata Sons' standalone profit rose by 21.8% to ₹31,961 crore in FY26. Consolidated profit jumped 52% to ₹1.7 lakh crore, more than five times the level of FY20. The holding company remains debt-free and holds net cash of ₹21,841 crore. This is not a conglomerate betting its survival on a handful of risky ventures.

Nor is every new investment struggling. Tata Electronics, established only in 2020, has already become the group's fourth-largest company by revenue, at ₹1.31 lakh crore. It has achieved operating break-even and manufactured 12% of the global leader's smartphone volumes last year. Even Noel Tata is understood to have acknowledged the remarkable speed of this ramp-up, while seeking greater transparency on the performance of its individual businesses, including mobile manufacturing, the Gujarat semiconductor fab, and the Outsourced Semiconductor Assembly and Test project.

> The FY26 annual report makes a thoughtful and credible case for patience. The reports that follow will have to make the case for progress

Yet this is only half the story.

The same annual report that makes the case for patience also reveals the scale of the challenge. The combined FY26 losses of Air India, Tata Digital, Tata Electronics, Agratas, and Tejas Networks approached ₹30,800 crore, almost double the previous year's ₹16,000 crore.

Air India alone accounted for ₹22,238 crore of losses, more than twice the previous year, even as revenue declined. Tata Digital's losses widened despite its strategic reset. Tejas Networks, after the successful BSNL rollout, saw revenue collapse as orders dried up, exposing the risks of dependence on a single customer. Agratas lost over ₹1,100 crore before commercial production had even begun. Elsewhere, Tata Chemicals slipped into the red, Tata Realty and Tata Projects continued to lose money, while Tata Teleservices added yet another chapter to a restructuring story that has stretched over two decades.

The issue, therefore, is not whether Tata Sons can afford these investments. It clearly can. Nor is it whether losses are acceptable while businesses are being built. In many industries, they are inevitable. The real issue is something subtler — capital allocation.

Conglomerates do not distinguish themselves merely by making bold bets. They distinguish themselves by continually reassessing those bets as new information emerges. Good capital allocation requires conviction at the beginning, but humility thereafter. It demands knowing when to invest more aggressively, when to slow down, when to alter strategy, and, occasionally, when to accept that an original assumption no longer holds. Patience is a virtue. Persistence can become a vice if it blinds management to changing realities.

The debate is unlikely to be about whether Tata Sons should invest in semiconductors or aviation. Those decisions have effectively been made. The more important question is whether the board is receiving enough information to judge the quality of execution, the pace of improvement, and the continuing case for fresh capital. That's what gives investors confidence that bold strategies will remain disciplined.

The timing also matters. The conglomerate's financial strength ultimately rests on TCS, whose market value has fallen sharply over the past year amid questions about how artificial intelligence may reshape the IT services industry. Chandrasekaran is confident that TCS will emerge stronger from that transition. He may well be right. But it is precisely when the principal source of cash faces greater uncertainty that scrutiny of capital allocation elsewhere inevitably intensifies.

None of this weakens Chandrasekaran's central argument. History suggests that many of Tata's finest businesses demanded patience before they rewarded it. But history also suggests something else. Successful institution-builders are remembered not only for taking bold decisions but for adapting them as circumstances evolve.

Four years ago, at a Leadership Award event in Mumbai, Chandrasekaran offered a revealing glimpse into his management philosophy. "The only person who doesn't make mistakes is someone who doesn't do anything," he said. "It's scary actually, if you're right all the time." The remark sounded casual then. Read alongside the annual report, it feels more like a statement of belief. Institution-building, in Chandrasekaran's telling, demands bold decisions, some of which will inevitably look expensive before they look wise.

But the larger obligation lies elsewhere — to recognise mistakes early, measure them honestly, and correct them decisively. The still-undisclosed three-year plan must therefore deliver dated loss-reduction targets for Air India, a credible path to viability for Tata Digital's pivot, greater transparency at Tata Electronics, and a more diversified order book at Tejas. Chandrasekaran has reportedly begun deferring aircraft deliveries and tempering Air India's expansion. The instinct is right; it now needs to be public, measurable, and binding.

The FY26 annual report makes a thoughtful and credible case for patience. The reports that follow will have to make the case for progress. That, ultimately, is the standard by which not only Chandrasekaran, but every great institution-builder, is judged.

From boycotting Coke to chasing clicks

THERE WAS A time when a trip to Jantar Mantar came with a familiar script. A group of earnest protesters would gather under the shade of the trees, unfurl hand-painted banners, and launch into speeches against the evils of globalisation. Coca-Cola and Pepsi were reliable villains. So were Enron, the WTO, and, depending on the season, any multinational corporation that happened to be investing in India. Pamphlets flew around more freely than bottled soft drinks. Television cameras would eventually arrive and the evening news would carry a 20-second clip of the day's outrage.

Fast forward three decades and Jantar Mantar still protests. Only the props have changed.

The banner is now designed less for those standing in front of it and more for the smartphone camera behind it. The speech is edited into a 30-second Reel. The slogan doubles up as a meme. The volunteer carrying water is accompanied by another carrying a power bank. The success of the protest is no longer measured merely by the size of the gathering but by whether the hashtag trends.

History, it turns out, has a delicious sense of humour. Many of the old movements viewed multinational corporations as symbols of an unequal global order. Global brands represented corporate excess. Consumerism was suspect. Markets were to be questioned. Universities such as JNU became known for resisting the entry of multinational food chains, stating that campuses should not become extensions of corporate India. The neighbourhood dhaba was celebrated. The multinational burger was viewed with suspicion.

Today, the burger may still not make it to campus, but Meta, Google, and X arrive without resistance. In fact, they are among the most important participants in almost every protest, even if they never show up physically.

RISHI RAJ

rishi.raj@expressindia.com

Every movement today has an unofficial digital headquarters. WhatsApp mobilises supporters. Instagram amplifies the message. YouTube hosts speeches. X keeps the debate alive long after the crowd disperses. The protest may begin at Jantar Mantar, but it reaches the rest of the country only after passing through the servers of some of the world's largest technology companies.

Somewhere along the way, the multinational stopped selling cola and started selling attention.

None of this necessarily makes activists hypocrites. They would rightly maintain that social media platforms are simply tools. One uses the infrastructure that exists. Previous generations used newspapers and television because that was where the audience was. Today's audience lives on smartphones. If Instagram is where people are, that is where the protest must be.

Fair enough. But irony has never depended on intent. The same protest that questions corporate power also anxiously checks whether the algorithm is being kind. Organisers who once worried about foreign corporate influence now worry about whether the Reel has crossed a million views. The movement against multinational corporations now depends, at least in part, on multinational digital platforms to be heard.

Perhaps that is simply how power has evolved. In the 1990s, influence travelled through products. Today, it travels through platforms. The companies have changed, but the dependence on large global networks has not.

It also says something about how protest itself has evolved. The old grammar of dissent consisted of pamphlets, slogans, and press conferences. The new grammar is memes, short videos, and viral jokes. Humour has become a political language. The revolution, it seems, has acquired a social media manager.

If someone were transported from the Jantar Mantar of the late 1990s to the one that exists today, the biggest surprise would probably not be the issues being protested. It would be the sight of protesters pausing midway through a demonstration to check engagement numbers, frame the perfect shot, and ask someone, "Did you upload it yet?"

From "Boycott Coke" to "Please like, share, and subscribe" is not quite the journey India's protest movement set out to make. Yet here we are.

History, as always, has the last laugh.

Yes, the Hong Kong of old is over

STEPHEN S ROACH

Faculty member at Yale University and former chairman of Morgan Stanley Asia

Pro-China camp continues to tout Hong Kong's resilience, but conveniently leaves out the fact that resilience has come to depend on direct Chinese intervention

HONG KONG DESERVES credit for putting up a fight. In the nearly two and a half years since I expressed the apparently controversial opinion that Hong Kong is "over", the city's boosters have orchestrated a determined campaign to prove otherwise.

At first glance, this heroic defence seems to have some merit. Hong Kong's economy has been relatively resilient, and a resurgence of the Hang Seng Index has erased memories of the 2018-20 collapse stemming from political turmoil. Moreover, the city has reclaimed its position as the global IPO leader, giving it bragging rights as Asia's premier financial centre. Paul Chan, Hong Kong's financial secretary, and other leading government officials consistently sing its praises.

Beneath the surface, however, the story is very different. Beijing's hostile takeover following the pro-democracy demonstrations of 2019-20 has transformed Hong Kong into just another big Chinese city. Today, its Mandarin name, Xianggang ("fragrant harbour"), which celebrates the city's pre-colonial Chinese heritage, seems more apt than Hong Kong, a phonetic translation from Cantonese, the city's long dominant dialect.

This dramatic transformation into Xianggang is the real story. Hong Kong's defenders are in denial about this new chameleon-like identity, instead viewing it as another example of the city's inherent resilience. Nice try.

IPO leadership, long the most precious jewel in the city's financial-services crown, is a glaring case in point. But the city's return to the top spot in 2025 was driven by listings of mainland Chinese companies such as CATL, Luxshare Precision, Z.ai, Momenta, and Montage Technology. They account for a significant share of recent funds raised. Hong Kong is less a thriving global IPO market than a major platform for Chinese issuers.

The rule of law, long regarded as one of Hong Kong's greatest institutional advantages, has been severely compromised. In 2020, China bypassed the legislature and imposed a sweeping national security law. Four years later, Hong Kong's lawmakers rushed through Article 23, an expansion of the 2020 security law that integrated China's national security framework into the city's legal system. These changes have stifled open debate, led to new arrests and harsh sentences for previously imprisoned activists, led to closures of independent bookstores, and destroyed any semblance of a free press.

> The city's return to the top spot in financial services in 2025 was driven by listings of mainland Chinese companies

Moreover, six foreign judges have resigned from Hong Kong's Court of Final Appeal, calling the independence of the city's highest judicial authority into question. Among the exits was Jonathan Sumption, one of England's most brilliant jurists, who warned in the Financial Times that a Mainland strain of "judicial 'patriotism'" was poisoning the city's legal system.

Lastly, there are the people. While Hong Kongers remain proud of their heritage, and the city's overall population has held steady at around 7.5 million since 2020, there has been a dramatic shift in the composition of the workforce. The Hong Kong government does not publish official emigration statistics by nationality, but research points to a significant outflow of expats, including many mid- and senior-level professionals, since 2020, followed by a surge of Chinese workers from the mainland. Walking the streets of Hong Kong today, one is just as likely to hear Mandarin as Cantonese.

Taken together, this represents a fundamental transformation in Hong Kong's character. The city's stunning outward appearance remains. But that hardly justifies the tales of competitive innovation that the pro-China camp spins. Conveniently left out of this narrative is that this resilience has been largely made in China, not in Hong Kong. China's stock-market stimulus of September 2024, for example, propelled equity markets upward, unleashing a torrent of Chinese IPOs that were consciously steered to Hong Kong's sophisticated equity-distribution platform. And now the PRC's "national team" is attempting to do it again.

It is obvious that Hong Kong's economic performance is closely correlated with China's. Thus, sluggish Chinese GDP growth, which slid even further below target to 4.3% in the second quarter of 2026, will undoubtedly weigh down Hong Kong's growth.

The Hong Kong government seems to think that Chinese-style central planning offers new hope for its economy and recently launched its first five-year plan. But, as China is painfully learning, such plans can often over-promise and under-deliver. This suggests that until there is a meaningful test of the downside — for the economy or the equity market — any conclusions drawn about Hong Kong's resilience are premature.

To some extent, I have become a lightning rod in the "Hong Kong is over" debate. Hong Kong and Chinese officials are quick to pounce on my comments. Local journalists often ask if I am ready to admit that I was wrong (particularly after I conceded that a managed stock market has risen more than I had expected). Just the other day, a leading reporter messaged me: "'Hong Kong is over' seems over. What would you say about it?" Well, let me be clear: the Hong Kong of old is, indeed, over. Go to Xianggang and see for yourself.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Attracting FDI

Apropos of "Making capital welcome" (FE, July 28), the RBI's proposed overhaul of foreign investment regulations marks a significant step towards creating a simpler, transparent, and investor-friendly regulatory framework. By consolidating rules, clarifying definitions, modernising investment structures, and improving compliance under FEMA, the RBI seeks to align regulations with the government's FDI policy. Sustained FDI growth will depend on coordinated action by both the RBI and the government. It is not only about about attracting FDI but also retaining it. For that to happen, consistency in policy and regulations, digital governance, infrastructure development, skilling manpower, and most importantly faster dispute resolution are necessary. That will turn India into a sought after destination for foreign capital.

Manual scavenging

At long last, when there was no steps to prevent deaths caused by manual scavenging, the apex court has rightly issued contempt notices to the chief secretaries of five states for not complying with the directions issued in 2023. Not just manual scavenging, many problems of people can be addressed at the bureaucratic level, but the red tape, inept handling, and governance deficit are stumbling blocks. There has to be a qualitative shift in administration to make the bureaucracy more responsive in addressing social maladies such as poverty and unemployment, besides eradicating governmental corruption.

FOR THE MOST part, brands that decided to flaunt their 'Indianness', restricted their overtures to visual aids like peacocks and elephants but used brand names like Peter England, Royal Enfield or Monte Carlo.

There's a shift now.

Judging by the growing number of Indian brands with Hindi, Sanskrit or other local language inspired names, Indian companies are no longer coy. Whether it is Nappa Dori, Kama Ayurveda or Araku Coffee, brands are reframing Indianness as identity, not just a product feature.

What changed? Indian names today no longer signal limitation but rather authenticity and modern rootedness, observes Adrine D'mello, AVP, White Rivers Media. "Consumers now reward cultural specificity when packaging and product quality remain strong. Domestic buyers possess higher confidence in local positioning because global movements prioritise craft and origin stories. This allows domestic identity to drive premium market value and customer loyalty," he says.

These brands combine Indian names with international design standards and clean aesthetics, says D'mello. Their strong execution and consistent customer experience make cultural origin a powerful global differentiator that commands higher margins.

N Chandramouli, CEO, TRA Research, agrees that geographical indication or a GI indicator has historically always held greater weight, signalling premium quality assurance and differentiation. "We've seen that with luxury brands like France's Louis Vuitton or even scotch whiskies from Scotland. What has changed in the last 7-8 years in the confidence among Indian consumers and brands, and a greater pride in cultural attributes and origins. Today, people across the world observe Yoga Day, something that was unimaginable decades ago," he notes, adding that Indian manufacturing and product quality have also come a long way, strengthening domestic brand trust and credibility.

The proof is in the response from international consumers and business conglomerates. Spanish beauty and fashion major Puig, for example, holds a majority stake in Kama Ayurveda. The brand, which already has a presence in London, is now set to expand across Europe, Asia and the US. Jaipur Rugs today sells handmade carpets across over 60 countries, and even turned heads last year at Wimbledon, transforming its tennis court into a court of carpets with 93 rugs.

Designer Sabyasachi's jewellery has been worn by global stars such as Jennifer Lopez and Rihanna, while Nappa Dori recently made its way into London and Dubai, with an eye on a larger global expansion. Premium Indian coffee maker Araku has seen success not just in India, winning approval from the country's parliamentarians, but also in locations such as Paris.

Authenticity matters

Consumers today are drawn to brands that have a genuine sense of identity and are fatigued by anonymous branding, remarks Rajni Daswani, chief growth officer, people & business, SoCheers. "The strongest brands have treated their Indian identity as provenance. Brands like Kama Ayurveda and Forest Essentials invested heavily in ingredient transparency, so that Ayurveda felt credible and contemporary. The second thing they did was remove the premium-experience risk. Their packaging and visual identity are comparable to those of high-end global brands," says Daswani. She adds that a discerning consumer is willing to pay a premium when a brand offers traceability, craftsmanship, and a distinctive point of view. In that equation, Indian identity becomes a clear advantage.

Aside from the Ayurvedic beauty brands, she identifies other standout brands such as Fabindia and Raw Mango that have leveraged their Indian identity well.

In India and abroad, names rooted in Indian languages no longer feel like a compromise and are earning greater respect, points out Amit Shankar, chief creative officer, Hashtag Orange. "The brands getting this right haven't just held on to an Indian name for the sake of it. They've paired it with genuinely strong quality, thoughtful design, and a story worth telling. It's less about looking back with nostalgia and more about standing tall with pride. It has made 'Indian' stand for craftsmanship and depth, rather than tradition alone," he explains.

Despite the growing acclaim for Indian identity markers, experts note that relying on Indianness alone as a marketing ploy is no guarantee of success. "Indian identity works best when it is backed by something tangible. Global consumers are happy to engage with unfamiliar names if the product itself is exceptional," says Daswani.

New local brands with international ambitions should ideally invest in explaining their meaning clearly, allowing consumers to connect and relate to them, suggests Shankar. "At the same time, it is essential to match the brand's origin story with equal investment in quality and customer experience. The brands that succeed stay confident, remain consistent, and allow the product itself to build credibility," he observes, noting that this transforms a desi name into a lasting global asset rather than a passing trend.

Don't speak louder; listen better

SHAKTI BANERJEE

BRANDS TODAY OPERATE in an environment where one campaign can create immense cultural relevance or trigger instant backlash. The temptation, therefore, is to remain safely neutral. Yet our research among Gen Z across metro and smaller cities suggests that neutrality itself is becoming a risk.

Contrary to popular belief, Indian Gen Z is not a homogeneous group of hyper-liberal, trend-chasing consumers. They are far more nuanced. They are ambitious yet rooted, digitally connected yet culturally anchored, progressive yet deeply conscious of family and societal expectations. The difference between a metropolitan consumer and one from a smaller town is not in the aspiration, but in the way that aspiration is expressed.

Many marketers continue to assume that Gen Z buys into every "purpose-led" narrative. Our findings suggest otherwise. They appreciate brands that challenge outdated norms, but only when the commitment feels genuine. They are quick to reward authenticity and equally quick to identify performative activism. Claims around sustainability, cruelty-free products, inclusivity or social responsibility are not accepted at face value.

The question is not whether brands should take risks. The real question is which risks are worth taking. The safest strategy today is not to be controversial for attention. It is to be authentic with conviction.

This generation has grown up questioning inherited norms. They trust creators who explain rather than celebrities who merely endorse. They are willing to switch brands if another one feels more transparent, relevant or aligned with their values. Loyalty is earned through consistency rather than legacy.

The greatest opportunity lies beyond metropolitan India. Consumers from smaller towns are often portrayed as conservative. Our study found something different. Many of them aspire to challenge existing social conventions but negotiate these changes within the realities of family and community. OTT content, digital platforms and online communities often become safe spaces where they encounter progressive ideas before expressing them in real life. Brands that understand this tension can build relevance without appearing confrontational.

This also changes the role of communication. Gen Z is not looking for brands that simply speak louder. They expect brands to listen better. They seek products that reflect who they are becoming rather than who they have always been.

Perhaps the misconception is that Gen Z is driven purely by instant gratification. While they value experiences and self-expression, they are also future-focused. Financial stability, career growth, personal well-being and informed decision-making coexist with their desire for individuality. They are experimentative, but rarely impulsive.

For marketers, this presents both an opportunity and a challenge. The brands that will succeed will be the ones willing to take the right risks. Challenging conventions where it matters, remaining consistent when scrutiny follows and recognising that for Gen Z.

Carlsberg brings football closer

- Campaign: If Carlsberg did...
- Brand: Carlsberg
- Agency: Fold7

CARLSBERG COULD NOT keep itself away from the football fever this year. The global alcobev brand brought back its "If Carlsberg did..." campaign — giving it a football spin.

The brand installed 'Goal Posters', an activation campaign that transformed everyday advertising spaces as spontaneous places to play. Placed across cities in the UK, the goal-shaped posters invite passers-by to stop, kick a ball around and rediscover the simple joy of a casual game with friends. The posters were intalled in locations like Sutton Walk, Shoreditch Tunnels in London, and Bridge Street in Manchester.

The campaign was based on the brand's new research which found that while 75% of adults are watching football, nearly one-third have not played the game in over six months. The campaign helps to bridge the gap between being a spectator and a participant for the people. The activation also supports Carlsberg's wider association with football through its sponsorship of UEFA National Team Football and UEFA Euro 2028.

What is a PMS?

PORTFOLIO MANAGEMENT SERVICES or PMS are customised investment solutions designed for high net-worth individuals. Since 2021, a minimum investment of ₹50 lakh is required to avail these specialised investment solutions. Due to its customised nature, clients pay performance-based fees and can impose minimum performance benchmarks. PMS is offered in two modes: discretionary where the portfolio manager is given the authority to make all investment decisions and non-discretionary mode where the portfolio manager is required to take consent from the client for any investment decision. Discretionary PMS can invest in listed stocks, bonds, commodities while non-discretionary PMS is allowed to invest up to 25% of assets in unlisted equity.

Sebi has also proposed to allow discretionary PMS to invest up to 10% of their assets in investment grade unlisted debt securities. While PMS potentially offer a lot of flexibility and liquidity because of their structure, the PMS investor incurs tax liabilities on gains arising from each portfolio churn during the investment period.

What is MF-PMS?

MF-PMS IS A new framework proposed by Sebi to effectively serve mass-affluent investors who seek professional portfolio management services for their mutual fund investments. Unlike conventional PMS, MF-PMS will invest only in direct plans of mutual funds, exchange traded funds (ETFs) and specialised investment funds (SIFs). The minimum investment threshold has also been reduced from ₹50 lakh to ₹25 lakh.

WEALTH CREATION

How MF-PMS can change the investment landscape

The Securities and Exchange Board of India (Sebi) has proposed a mutual fund-portfolio management services (MF-PMS) category with reduced investment threshold and compliance norms. The proposed framework is expected to boost investor and intermediary participation, writes Kushan Shah

What this means for portfolio managers

THE NEW FRAMEWORK reduced the minimum net worth requirement for portfolio managers from ₹5 crore to ₹2 crore, allowing in smaller registered investment advisers and distributors. Apart from this, Sebi has eased compliance requirements making additional employees and a dedicated dealing room optional. It has also proposed a simplification in the format and requirements of disclosures. The certification for principal officer has been proposed to be simplified along with a reduction in qualification and experience mandates.

MF-PMS WILL INVEST IN DIRECT PLANS OF MUTUAL FUNDS, EXCHANGE TRADED FUNDS AND SPECIALISED INVESTMENT FUNDS

₹25 lakh

MINIMUM INVESTMENT UNDER THE PROPOSED MF-PMS FRAMEWORK

How will the new framework apply to distributors and advisers?

MUTUAL FUND DISTRIBUTORS registered under the MF-PMS framework will be required to maintain an arm's length relationship between their activities in MF-PMS and their activities as a mutual fund distributor through a separately identifiable department or division. The distributors will also be required to have client-level segregation for their services in MF-PMS and mutual funds. Thus, the distributors will not be allowed to offer mutual funds and MF-PMS services to the same client under the same entity. The regulator has also clarified that existing portfolio managers will be able to offer MF-PMS through separate products launched under the MF-PMS framework.

What will be the charges levied on investors?

THE REGULATOR HAS proposed to allow portfolio managers to levy a fixed management fee, up to 2.5% of the client's assets under management. Apart from this, portfolio managers can levy a performance-based fee or a combination of fixed and performance-based fee with the consent of the client. The regulator has also proposed to waive exit load on MF-PMS to protect investors from double-charging of exit loads at the underlying mutual fund level along with the MF-PMS.

Likely benefits of new framework

THE MF-PMS FRAMEWORK could broaden access to portfolio management as investors in the ₹25-50 lakh fund range can now utilise the services of a professional portfolio manager. MF-PMS is also expected to be more tax-efficient compared to the conventional PMS since investments in mutual funds and SIFs will not be taxed for portfolio churn. The move is expected to boost inflows in direct plans of mutual funds and SIFs. The reduced net-worth and compliance norms are expected to bring in smaller advisers. The move is also expected to increase accountability among distributors and make the fee-based advisory model more popular. Sebi has expressed the hope that it will foster a more accessible and inclusive professional investment landscape.

How big is the PMS industry?

AS OF JUNE 2026, the PMS industry manages ₹43.26 lakh crore. However, a high proportion of these assets (₹32.44 lakh crore) are from PF/EPFO investments made by employers in permissible securities. Non-EPFO assets of the industry are close to ₹10.82 lakh crore. The industry has 526 portfolio managers with a distributor network in excess of 20,000. According to the Association of Portfolio Managers in India, the biggest portfolio managers include 360 ONE Portfolio Managers, Aditya Birla Sun Life Asset Management, Enam Asset Management, ICICI Prudential Asset Management and Avendus Wealth Management among others.

J&J offers $5.5-bn settlement to end 15-year legal battle

DIETRICH KNAUTH
New York, July 27

JOHNSON & JOHNSON (J&J) SAID on Monday it would pay an estimated $5.5 billion to resolve tens of thousands of lawsuits alleging its baby powder and other talc products cause ovarian cancer, in a landmark deal that could end a contentious legal battle that has dogged the company for a decade.

J&J said the settlement covers about 76,000 claims, including ones consolidated in federal court in New Jersey, and related cases in state court, representing nearly all of the remaining talc claims against the company. J&J previously settled most of the cases alleging that its talc contained asbestos and caused mesothelioma.

Plaintiffs' law firms confirmed the deal on Monday, saying it was a good resolution after a decade-long court battle. The deal must be accepted by 95% of the ovarian cancer claimants in state or federal court before it becomes final.

J&J's vice president of litigation, Erik Haas, said the claims were "meritless" and that the company was willing to settle in order to get closure.

"While we are confident the company would have ultimately prevailed with further litigation, as it has in the vast majority of cases tried to date, this resolution allows the company to put this matter behind it and remain focused on its mission to develop medicines and devices that save lives," Haas said. J&J expects to pay $3 billion in 2027, and it will make further payments in 2028. But the deal could be worth more, depending on how many people participate in the settlement. Chris Seeger, an attorney who represents about 2,500 clients with talc claims and helped negotiate the agreement, said J&J could ultimately pay $7 billion or more. The settlement assigns specific values to qualifying ovarian cancer claims but does not cap J&J's total payout, he said. "We got a fair settlement, and our clients are going to be happy with it," Seeger said in an interview.

THE TALC BATTLE

- Estimated settlement: $5.5 bn
- Covered tens of thousands of lawsuits, including 76,000 claims
- Plaintiffs alleged talc-based baby powder caused ovarian cancer due to asbestos contamination
- Decade-long legal battle may finally come to an end
- Plaintiffs support the settlement as a fair resolution
- J&J denied its talc products caused cancer or contained asbestos
- Talc-based baby powder discontinued in the US in 2020; replaced with a cornstarch-based version
- Litigation resumed in March 2025 after J&J's "Texas two-step" bankruptcy strategy failed following three bankruptcy filings through a subsidiary

Deal after courtroom wins

J&J reached the settlement after a series of wins in court, including victories in individual trials, successful efforts to disqualify plaintiffs' lawyers from the litigation, and court rulings against experts that plaintiffs had used to prove their cases in court. J&J won a significant court victory in the long-running legal battle last week, when a federal judge cast doubt on individual plaintiffs' ability to prove that talc specifically caused their ovarian cancer.

J&J has long denied that its talc products caused cancer, saying that talc was safe and did not contain asbestos. The company stopped selling talc-based baby powder in the US in 2020, switching to a cornstarch product. The litigation resumed in March 2025, after being put on hold for more than three years while J&J unsuccessfully pursued a strategy known as the "Texas two step," filing three bankruptcies through a shell-company subsidiary in an effort to settle the cases. Each bankruptcy ended in dismissal. Before the bankruptcy attempts, J&J had a mixed record in talc trials, with a multibillion verdict in favour of 22 women who said baby powder caused their ovarian cancer. The company won some trials outright and had other verdicts reduced on appeal.

Unlike the proposed bankruptcy settlements, Monday's agreement applies only to existing claims and does not address future lawsuits.

- Semicon rout widens as investors reassess AI boom

BLOOMBERG
July 28

A SELLOFF IN semiconductor stocks deepened as signs of progress in China's advanced chipmaking compounded worries about the sustainability of the artificial intelligence spending boom.

The US technology-heavy Nasdaq 100 fell 1.8%, putting the index on track to enter a correction after falling 10% from its last record. The Philadelphia Semiconductor Index retreated for a fourth straight session in its longest losing streak this year.

The MSCI World Semiconductor index has plunged 16% this month to track its worst performance since 2022, although it remains about 28% higher for the year.

"When one trade becomes this crowded, investors don't wait for bad news, they simply need a reason to take profits," said Violeta Todorova, senior research analyst at Leverage Shares. "After an extraordinary rally, expectations had become almost flawless. When valuations leave no room for disappointment, even small changes in sentiment can trigger deep corrections."

Shares in US chip and memory stocks slid in early trading on Tuesday, with Intel, Advanced Micro Devices, Sandisk, Western Digital and Seagate Technology Holdings falling more than 5%.

South Korea's Kospi sank 11%, with memory giants Samsung Electronics and SK Hynix each sliding more than 14%.

European semiconductor-related stocks also underperformed, although to a lesser degree. Infineon Technologies AG and STMicroelectronics NV fell 6.9% and 4.7%, respectively.

ASML Holding NV dropped 3.4%, extending a pullback from Monday triggered by a report that a Chinese state-backed company had begun mass producing immersion deep ultraviolet lithography machines for chipmaking.

MAJOR QUAKE JOLTS JAPAN

An aerial view shows the damaged Aeon Mall shopping centre, where, an explosion occurred after an earthquake with a preliminary magnitude of 7.1 struck Japan's southern Kumamoto prefecture, in Kashima Town, Kumamoto on Tuesday. A tsunami advisory was temporarily issued but was lifted within two hours, the Japan Meteorological Agency said. Many people were feared trapped in a stricken shopping mall, authorities said, after the quake toppled buildings, sparked fires and reportedly injured more than 100. AP

Myntra's Sinha...

YET IT HAS struggled to convert that advantage into profits, losing nearly ₹85 on every order through FY26, the highest among the three major players. The company now appears to be betting that improving product mix and margins, rather than merely driving volumes, is the next phase of growth.

That strategy had already begun taking shape under Jha. In his farewell note, Swiggy Group CEO Sriharsha Majety credited him with launching private label Noice, one of Instamart's biggest margin bets, and strengthening the company's differentiation strategy. In its Jan-March quarter shareholder letter, Swiggy had said Instamart would pursue a more differentiation-led and not value/price-led strategy, signalling that the business intended to rely less on discounts and more on exclusive products and higher-margin categories.

Sinha's experience at Myntra closely aligns with that approach. During her tenure, the fashion platform moved from losses to profitability by expanding higher-margin private labels, growing beauty into a meaningful business and increasing the contribution of premium and global brands.

The broader management reshuffle at Swiggy reinforces that direction. Over the past month, chief operating officer Ankit Jain and chief business officer Hari Kumar exited the company. Swiggy subsequently appointed former Oyo executive Gautam Swaroop as chief business officer with responsibility for category management and brand partnerships.

Store additions slowed to just seven during the quarter, taking the network to 1,143 dark stores. Whether the strategy pays off, however, remains uncertain. Sinha's challenge will be to lift margins without compromising the speed and convenience that customers expect from Instamart.

HUL walks the premium-mass...

THE COMPANY EXPECTS commodity inflation to remain volatile, estimating sequential inflation, or price hikes, of 2-5% in the September quarter owing to crude oil-linked inputs and palm oil.

In the June quarter, HUL reported a 3% year-on-year decline in consolidated net profit to ₹2,673 crore, impacted by a one-off tax credit in the year-ago period. Revenue for the period stood at ₹17,341 crore, up 10.1% from ₹15,757 crore in the same quarter last year.

Instead of fully passing on higher costs, HUL is taking what it calls a calibrated approach. Chief Financial Officer Niranjan Gupta said the company passed on only about half of the inflation through pricing in the June quarter while maintaining Ebitda margins at around 23%, within its guided range. "We'll continue to take some calibrated, measured steps on pricing and continue to drive savings as well," Gupta said.

The balancing act is most visible in personal care. Premium soap brands Dove and Pears continue to post double-digit growth, while body wash — penetration of which in India remains in the low single digits — is emerging as HUL's next premiumisation opportunity. "We are extremely well placed to keep moving consumers up that value ladder," Nair said of soaps.

Yet, the company acknowledges that a large part of India's consumption still sits at the lower end of the price pyramid within soaps. Rather than sharply increasing prices on entry-level products, particularly those sold at fixed price points such as ₹10 and ₹20 packs, HUL opted to cut grammage to preserve affordability in the June quarter.

"Our portfolio straddles across the price pyramid and benefit pyramid," Nair said. "Our portfolio insulates us, whether it's the breadth of our portfolio across categories or the depth of our price-brand architecture."

That strategy extends beyond soaps. In beauty, HUL is scaling up premium brands such as Minimalist and Simple while extending legacy brands including Dove and Vaseline into higher-value categories. Minimalist is now approaching an annual revenue run rate of ₹800-900 crore and is growing 40-50% year-on-year, according to Nair.

At the same time, HUL is attempting to democratise premium categories rather than keeping them exclusive. It recently introduced ₹10 sunscreen packs as part of its effort to expand a category whose penetration remains low.

"Penetration of sunscreens in India is under 2%. Our opportunity is to democratise sunscreen at scale," Nair said.

The strategy reflects HUL's broader view of the Indian market. While premiumisation remains a long-term structural trend driven by rising incomes and changing consumer preferences, the company believes growth will come only if it can simultaneously serve the country's vast mass market.

IIP growth highest... in two years

"MANUFACTURING OUTPUT GROWTH, witnessed a sharp uptick in June 2026, contributing as much as 199 basis points of the 235 bps uptick in the IIP growth relative to May 2026," said Aditi Nayar, chief economist at rating agency Icra.

Within manufacturing, 11 of the 23 sub-sectors saw double-digit growth in output in June. Electrical equipment, motor vehicles, and textiles saw the highest growth within manufacturing of 34%, 17.5%, and 13.7%, respectively.

The improvement in the manufacturing sector output suggests "the industrial recovery is slowly finding its feet and getting generalised," said Megha Arora, director at India Ratings and Research. Only four manufacturing sub-sectors — petroleum products, chemical products, wearing apparel, and wood products — saw a contraction in output in June.

Growth in electricity and gas supply output rose to a 25-month high of 10.6% in June from 10.3% in May, with production likely benefiting from the higher temperatures and deficient rainfall across the country. Electricity and gas supply output had contracted year-on-year by 2% in June 2025. Electricity production rose 11.4% in June, while gas supply fell 0.1%, impacted by the war in West Asia. Within electricity, non-renewable sources grew 13% in June, higher than the 7.3% growth seen in renewable sources.

Water supply, sewerage, and waste management — the newest addition to IIP — grew 6.1% in June, higher than 5.5% in the previous month. Mining and quarrying sector output rose y-o-y for the first time in six months, growing 1.0% in June. The growth in mining and quarrying output was driven by metallic minerals.

Use-based classification

Four of the six use-based categories saw higher growth in June compared to May. The output in the primary goods segment grew at a nine-month high of 4.9% in June. Output of the primary goods, which has the highest weight among the use-based categories, had risen 2.7% in May 2.1% in June 2025. Intermediate goods grew 9.3% last month, higher than 5.8% in May. Infrastructure goods grew 7.5% in June, consumer durables 7.7%, and consumer non-durables 4.9%.

The capital goods segment led the rise in use-based categories, growing 14.2% in June, though slower than 15.5% growth seen in May. "Capital goods sector continued to grow and maintain its lead. The segment's performance along with growth in infrastructure/construction goods and intermediate goods – indicates increased investment activity," Arora of India Ratings said.

Visa to cut about 2,600 tech jobs

VISA PLANS TO cut 7% of its workforce, or about 2,600 jobs, a company spokesperson said on Tuesday, as the payments processor seeks to become more efficient, about six months after a similar move by its closest peer.

The job cuts will primarily affect technology and product teams.

"I have deep conviction that we are doing what is right for Visa, our clients and our partners as we continue to focus on driving efficiency across the company in order to reinvest in our highest potential opportunities," CEO Ryan McInerney wrote in a staff memo, excerpts from which were confirmed by the company spokesperson.

Earlier this year, peer Mastercard announced plans to lay off 4% of its global workforce, citing the need to refocus investments in different areas. Fintech firm Block also said in February it would cut nearly half of its workforce, or 4,000 jobs.

McInerney said Visa must keep evolving the way it operates to seize growth opportunities and stay ahead of industry changes, with AI playing a key role in accelerating that shift.

The layoffs underscore how companies are beginning to translate artificial intelligence investments into workforce changes, heightening concerns among workers and economists that the technology could replace jobs even as it drives productivity and profitability.

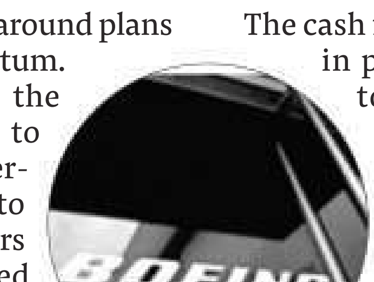
Boeing Q2 revenue tops estimates

BOEING ON TUESDAY reported a larger-than-expected quarterly loss after taking a $280 million charge on its troubled Air Force One replacement programme, but generated positive free cash flow as its turnaround plans gained momentum.

It took the charge due to higher engineering costs to ensure it delivers the two delayed US presidential plane replacements in 2028, contributing to a $428 million net loss for the second quarter.

The core loss per share of 76 cents was worse than analysts' average expected loss per share of 30 cents, according to LSEG data, though narrower than the $1.24 per share core loss in the same period last year.

Despite the losses, Boeing recorded $631 million of free cash flow, compared to a negative $200 million during the second quarter of 2025. The cash flow bump was due in part to higher customer payments than anticipated, according to the company.



Boeing's shares rose a little over 1.5% in premarket trading. The US planemaker is maintaining its guidance of $1 billion to $3 billion in free cash flow for the year, which would be its first positive result since 2023, as it increases production of its best-selling 737 MAX narrow-body jets.

Coca-Cola lifts annual forecasts

WHILE MANY FANS complained about World Cup hydration breaks slowing the pace of soccer games, top sponsor Coca-Cola said it was pleased with the boost to sales for its energy drinks that drove strong quarterly results and helped lift annual targets. It expects 2026 organic revenue growth of about 5%.

Mercedes Q2 Ebit rises 22%

MERCEDES-BENZ POSTED a higher profit in the second quarter helped by tough cost cuts, pushing its shares up on Tuesday, but intense Chinese competition dented the outlook for car sales and revenue. The results were a rare respite for investors in the German automotive sector

Gucci sales eases amid turnaround

Sales at Kering's flagship brand Gucci fell less than expected in the second quarter, as strong U.S. demand for its new handbags partly offset weaker spending elsewhere, suggesting the luxury group's turnaround efforts are gaining traction. Gucci sales totalled €1.4 billion ($1.6 billion), above analysts' consensus forecast of €1.37 billion, or a 4% decline, according to Visible Alpha. < AGENCIES

CALLS FOR REFORMS TO REGULATE DRUGS PRICING

House panel seeks curbs on 'non-scheduled' drug prices

MANU KAUSHIK
New Delhi, July 28

A PARLIAMENTARY PANEL has asked the government to push for tighter regulation of non-scheduled medicines, noting they account for 82% of India's pharma market by value and largely remain outside direct price control of the National Pharmaceutical Pricing Authority (NPPA). In its action-taken report, the standing committee on chemicals and fertilisers rejected the government's replies on 7 of its 11 recommendations and reiterated the need for comprehensive reforms to the Drugs (Prices Control) Order (DPCO).

The report noted that around 4% of the non-scheduled market has weighted average mark-ups exceeding 100% over the price charged to distributors, while 87% of the market has mark-ups of up to 45%.

"The apparent lack of any control over trade margins, especially in the case of non-scheduled drugs, leaves the door open for widespread profiteering at the cost of patients," the panel observed, asking the department of pharmaceuticals (DoP) to revisit the current mechanism that merely restricts annual MRP (maximum retail price) increases to 10% for such medicines. "Although they are technically restricted from increasing the MRP by more than 10% annually, the absence of initial price fixation renders this control largely meaningless," it added.

The report also questioned the legal architecture of the DPCO, arguing that the regulation, in its current form, is structurally inadequate to curb pricing malpractices in India's pharma sector.

"While the DPCO empowers the NPPA to regulate medicines included in the NLEM, it fails to extend this regulatory authority to unscheduled drugs. This regulatory gap allows manufacturers to launch non-scheduled formulations, both branded and generic, at arbitrary points," the panel said.

The committee has also sought 'closer regulatory scrutiny' of non-scheduled fixed-dose combination (FDC) medicines, stating these drugs account for a substantial share of prescriptions but remain outside effective price regulation despite concerns over irrational combinations. The panel also expressed dissatisfaction over the government's slow progress in institutionalising the Trade Margin Rationalisation (TMR) framework, an approach that has so far been deployed only through extraordinary powers under Paragraph 19 of the DPCO for anti-cancer medicines and select medical devices.

Further, the committee has sought details from the government of non-scheduled drugs carrying mark-ups exceeding 100%. "The committee feels that relying only on exceptional power clauses may not be sufficient to protect public interest in the long term and a permanent, transparent system must be put in place at the earliest to regularly monitor MRPs and trade margins for life-saving drugs like anti-cancer medicines," the report stated.

PSUs seek 3-mth extension for concessional forex swap

FE BUREAU
New Delhi, July 28

LEADING PUBLIC SECTOR undertakings (PSUs) have requested the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) to extend its special concessional foreign exchange swap facility by three months past its current December 31 deadline to support capital expenditure.

In a recent high-level meeting with central bank officials, representatives from leading PSUs urged the regulator to keep the concessional window for External Commercial Borrowings (ECBs) operational through the final quarter of the financial year.

Industry sources familiar with the discussions highlighted that the bulk of annual capital expenditure and debt raising by public sector firms takes place in the fourth quarter. An extension through March 2027 would ensure uninterrupted access to lower-cost foreign currency hedging, facilitating higher mobilisation of funds for large-scale projects.

The central bank had originally introduced the special US dollar-rupee forex swap window in June to shore up the country's foreign exchange reserves, stabilise the rupee, and ease balance-of-payments (BoP) pressures.

The swap window is available to banks too for mobilising deposits through Non-Resident Indians (NRIs) and Overseas Citizens of India (OCIs). Banks can raise Fresh Foreign Currency Non-Resident (Bank) or FCNR(B) deposits with a tenure of 3-5 years from June 8, 2026, to September 30, 2026.

PM holds second high-level meeting with secys

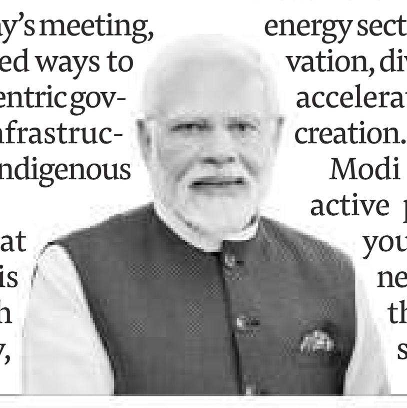
FE BUREAU
New Delhi, July 28

PRIME MINISTER NARENDRA Modi on Tuesday chaired the second meeting with secretaries of various government departments, reviewing the future agenda of ministries dealing with finance, economy, commerce & industry, and technology sectors.

Last week, Modi reviewed progress of rural development, agriculture, social welfare and allied sectors.

During Tuesday's meeting, the PM highlighted ways to enhance citizen-centric governance, boost infrastructure, and develop indigenous technologies.

Modi said that energy security is closely linked with national security, economic stability and citizens' welfare. The PM also said India must achieve self-reliance in the energy sector through innovation, diversification and accelerated capacity creation.



Modi called for the active participation of young entrepreneurs in key sectors, the government said in a release.

The PM stressed that while India is making significant investments in infrastructure, equal priority must be given to developing domestic capabilities in critical sectors.

"PM says government must always remain youthful, dynamic and forward-looking, continuously adapting to new challenges and opportunities with agility and innovation," the release said.

NEET PROTEST: CJI-BENCH ASKS CENTRE, STATES TO RESPOND

SIT may probe police action: SC

ANANTHAKRISHNAN G
New Delhi, July 28

UNDERLINING THE NEED to fix accountability, the Supreme Court on Tuesday considered setting up a Special Investigation Team for a "completely independent, transparent, fair probe" into allegations of police excesses on those protesting against exam paper leaks in Delhi and other states.

Ordering the release of "children under the age of 18, who have been reported to be arrested or detained in connection with the ongoing protests and who do not possess any criminal antecedents", the bench of Chief Justice of India Surya Kant, Justice Joymalya Bagchi and Justice V Mohana said, "The NCT of Delhi and other States may proceed with the investigation of the FIRs registered; however, no coercive measures shall be taken against the protesting students. Such protection, nonetheless, shall not be extended to the persons with criminal antecedents."

The bench said it would take a call on an independent probe after examining the responses of the Centre and states. As an interim measure, it directed that CCTV, drone and body cam footage, wireless communication and PCR notes related to the protest be preserved.

The petitioners have demanded that the probe committee should be headed by a former Chief Justice of India.

The bench, however, said "prior to issuing any such order based on a tentative opinion, we consider it appropriate, in the interest of justice, to afford a brief period to the NCT of Delhi and the Union of India to submit their respective versions through an affidavit accompanied by relevant material. Likewise, we find it necessary to grant a short hearing to the various States where similar acts of violence have occurred, as the proposed investigation will encompass inquiries into such incidents within those States as well".

It sought replies from the Centre and the governments of Delhi, Maharashtra, Bihar, Assam, West Bengal, Kerala, Madhya Pradesh and Uttar Pradesh where police cracked down on protesters who had joined the Cockroach Janta Party-led protest against exam paper leaks.

The bench was hearing petitions on alleged police excesses, the counsel for families of injured police personnel and some journalists who were allegedly attacked.

"The allegations made by the petitioners, prima facie, establish a compelling case for an independent and impartial investigation into the incidents of violence. Such an investigation will adequately address the allegations presented by the family members of the police personnel, as well as the issues raised by the learned Solicitor General of India," it said.

PROBE WITH ACCOUNTABILITY

Key orders	What the court said
SIT probe under consideration	Peaceful protest is a constitutional right
Release detained minors (without criminal record)	Independent, transparent probe needed
No coercive action against protesting students	Accountability must be fixed
Preserve CCTV, drone and body-cam footage	Law must punish all excesses
Protect protesters' digital data	Probe meaningless without responsibility: CJI

Modi's Facebook post removed briefly; Meta apologises

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
New Delhi, July 28

THE GOVERNMENT ON Tuesday summoned Meta's public policy head after Prime Minister Narendra Modi's post of July 23 — addressing youth and promising stringent measures against paper leaks — was briefly restricted by the US-headquartered social media giant.

IT Secretary S Krishnan said that while Meta has apologised and admitted they made a mistake, the Ministry of Electronics and IT (Meity) is not happy with the explanation given and is seeking more details from the company.

"It is good that they have apologised and admitted what they did was a mistake. But we are not happy with the explanation...it is not adequate and we are seeking more details," Krishnan said.

Meanwhile, sources told PTI that Meta informed the government that a glitch in its automated content filters caused Modi's Facebook post removal for a brief while. Sources added that Meta has also offered to ringfence high-profile accounts to avoid a repeat.

According to Meta, the content was removed "in error" and has since been restored on the platform.

Govt terms anti-paper leak Bill affirmation of commitment

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
New Delhi, July 28

AFTER SIX DAYS of stalemate, a discussion on the anti-paper leak Bill began on Tuesday in Lok Sabha with the government describing it as a reaffirmation of ruling dispensation's commitment to safeguard the welfare of students but opposition hit back over the lathi-charge on protesters, saying every blow on them hurt the government's prestige more than the backs of the youth.

Initiating the debate on the Public Examination (Prevention of Unfair Means) Amendment Bill, 2026, Union Minister Jitendra Singh said the government finished an unaccomplished task to bring a law to prevent examination malpractices in 2024.

The Opposition has been raking up the NEET paper leak issue since the Monsoon session began on July 20. As a result, no legislative business could be taken up in Lok Sabha until Monday.

CBI files charge sheet

The CBI on Tuesday filed a charge sheet before a special fast-track court in the NEET UG 2026 paper leak case, officials said.

The court is likely to take up the matter on Wednesday, they said.

Big salaries find new homes beyond metros

- Manufacturing powers tier-II salary gains, finds TeamLease data

FE BUREAU
New Delhi, July 28

INDIA'S SALARY GROWTH landscape is undergoing a significant shift, with the country's largest metropolitan centres no longer having a monopoly over high-paying opportunities. A growing number of tier-II cities are rapidly narrowing the wage gap with established employment hubs, driven by manufacturing expansion, industrial corridor development and rising enterprise investments.

According to the TeamLease Jobs and Salaries Primer FY27, cities such as Ahmedabad, Nagpur, Visakhapatnam and Jaipur are emerging as new salary-growth destinations, with projected increments matching — and in some cases surpassing — those of major metros.

The study, based on a survey of 1,268 businesses across 23 industries and 20 cities, analyses salary trends for entry-level roles across key sectors, including manufacturing, information technology, banking, logistics, retail, healthcare, education and financial services.

Among India's six largest metros, Chennai is projected to record the highest average salary increment in FY27 at 9.7%, followed closely by Pune and Hyderabad at 9.6% each. Bengaluru is expected to see a 9.4% rise, while Mumbai and Delhi are projected at 9.3%.

However, the report highlights a growing trend of smaller cities catching up with traditional employment centres.

Ahmedabad is expected to deliver a 9.5% salary increase, placing it ahead of Bengaluru, Mumbai and Delhi, and at par with Visakhapatnam. Nagpur follows with a projected 9.4% growth, while Jaipur is estimated to record 9.3%, putting these emerging centres on a similar footing with some of India's most established job markets.

TeamLease said the changing salary pattern reflects a broader transformation in India's economic and employment ecosystem. Unlike earlier growth cycles, which were largely driven by technology hiring in metros, the current momentum in several smaller cities is being fuelled by manufacturing investments, industrial expansion and enterprise operations.
