MONTH-LONG BANKING FOR YOUTH DRIVE FROM OCT 2

FM gives PSBs a Gen Z challenge

FE BUREAU
New Delhi, August 18

PUBLIC SECTOR BANKS (PSBs) must reach out to colleges, universities and skill centres to bring young Indians into the formal financial system for the next phase of growth, Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman told PSB chiefs on Tuesday, proposing a month-long 'Banking for Youth' campaign beginning October 2.

She said banks should move towards a life-cycle approach to build long-term relationships from "campus to career". To attract tech-savvy users — noting that 66% of UPI transactions are made by those aged 18-29 — banks should offer lifestyle-linked benefits such as vouchers for fitness and wellness platforms.

"UPI and on-demand digital services are already familiar to them. They expect banking to be simple, intuitive, personalised, and available cool," Sitharaman said at the concluding session of the two-day PSB Confluence 2026 here, pointing out that private banks seem to be cool enough.

Boardroom bar may rise for lawyers, consultants

● Lower transaction limit between firms for consultants' dual position proposed

MANU KAUSHIK
New Delhi, August 18

A MUCH LARGER number of lawyers and management consultants will be barred from serving as independent directors (ID) on the boards of India Inc, as the government plans to prescribe a lower transaction limit between their professional firms and the companies for them to remain eligible for such roles.

According to a new provision in the Corporate Laws (Amendment) Bill 2026, the existing fixed 10% threshold would be replaced with "10% or such lower per cent" — a change that will allow the government to set a lower limit through rules later.

A lower threshold would mean that more transactions between professional firms and companies could affect the eligibility of their partners to serve as independent directors. For instance, if the threshold is reduced from 10% to 5%, a firm's transactions with a company that brings 6% of its gross turnover could deprive the eligibility of its proprietor, partners and employees of the opportunity to serve as independent directors on its board.

It's expected that the proposed change will reduce the pool of professionals eligible to serve as independent directors.

Industry estimates suggest that lawyers and management consultants account for about 15-20% of independent director seats in top-tier listed companies within the Nifty 500.

Experts believe that the provision is aimed at reducing potential conflicts where an independent director's professional firm has a financial relationship with the company.

India Inc's capex reality check

Mumbai/New Delhi/Chennai /Ahmedabad, August 18

INDIA INC'S INVESTMENT appetite is visibly returning, but converting project announcements into factories, power plants, transmission lines and infrastructure remains the harder half of the journey. Across sectors, companies are wrestling with a familiar checklist of ground-level frictions: land, right of way (RoW), statutory approvals, skilled workers, specialised contractors, transformers and grid connectivity.

The scale of the pipeline is what makes execution the central question. Fresh project announcements surged 27.7% year-on-year to ₹14.8 lakh crore in Q1FY27, according to the Centre for Monitoring Indian Economy (CMIE), while new private-sector announcements jumped more than 72% year-on-year to ₹13.3 lakh crore — driven by nuclear energy and data centres, among other sectors. The burst followed a mixed FY26, when fresh announcements slipped 13% year-on-year to ₹44 lakh crore.

There is an encouraging counterpart in the data: the value of stalled projects fell to a 12-year low of 5.5% in FY26, CMIE said, down from nearly 11% in 2014-15. India, in other words, has become better at finishing what it starts. The test now is to keep it that way as the pipeline swells — and to ensure a bigger order book does not quietly become a new backlog.

On the ground, top executives and experts say, that is easier said than done.

For the conglomerates leading the capex charge, the choke points begin literally at ground level. An Adani Group executive said RoW and workers for transmission-line erection were major constraints in project execution. "There is an acute shortage of gangmen for erection of transmission lines," he said.

Tata Sons AGM adjourned for want of quorum, a first

URVI MALVANIA
Mumbai, August 18

THE TATA SONS annual general meeting (AGM) was adjourned around 3 pm on Tuesday after it failed to meet the required quorum — the first time in the holding company's history that an AGM has been called off for lack of quorum. A new date for the meeting will be announced later, people in the know said.

The meeting, held virtually, was attended by shareholders including individuals and Tata Group companies. However, with the Sir Ratan Tata Trust (SRTT) barred from holding meetings, the largest shareholder — Tata Trusts, which owns 66% of Tata Sons — could not nominate a representative.

Tata Sons Chairman N Chandrasekaran, independent director Anita George and other Tata Sons officials joined from Bombay House. Noel Tata, chairman of Tata Trusts and a nominee director of the Trusts on the Tata Sons board, was present. Former Tata Trusts board member Mehli Mistry also attended, in his capacity as executor of Ratan Tata's will.

Also present were Tata Steel's Koushik Chatterjee, Tata Power's Praveer Sinha and Indian Hotels Company's Puneet Chhatwal, representing the group companies that hold cross-holdings in Tata Sons.

The meeting began at 2.30 pm. Under Tata Sons' Articles of Association, if quorum is not met within half an hour of the commencement of the AGM, the meeting stands adjourned. In the absence of the joint Trusts nominee, quorum could not be reached and the meeting was terminated. The way forward now hinges on the Maharashtra charity commissioner's decision on the ban on SRTT convening meetings. The trust has sought interim relief, so far without success.

SALARIES GO UP 45-55% AS REGULATORY SCRUTINY WIDENS IN STATES

Q-comm makes a dash for food safety staff

ANEES HUSSAIN
Bengaluru, August 18

QUICK COMMERCE PLATFORMS and dark store operators are scrambling to hire food safety supervisors and technical staff as widening inspection drives by state regulators jack up demand for experienced compliance personnel. And, the demand-supply mismatch has pushed up salary premiums for such professionals by as much as 45-55%.

The hiring scramble follows a series of licence suspensions, improvement notices and store closures in Maharashtra and Karnataka, putting dark store compliance under greater scrutiny and forcing operators to plug staffing gaps at short notice.

"There's a spike in mandates from quick commerce firms in the last two to three weeks," said Varun Sachdeva, SVP and APAC head at NLB Services.

According to multiple staffing firms FE spoke to, India needs about 1.3-1.5 million active certified food safety supervisors against an available pool of roughly 1-1.2 million, leaving a shortfall of hundreds of thousands. The shortage has pushed salary premiums for food safety professionals up 45-55% from early-2025 levels, with experienced candidates commanding the highest premiums, industry executives said.

"The supply-demand gap has not materially eased," said Deepesh Gupta, director and business head, general staffing, at Adecco India. "The market continues to see a shortage of experienced food safety supervisors, quality assurance (QA) professionals, food safety managers, HACCP (hazard analysis critical control point) specialists and technical compliance personnel." While the certified pool has grown since the Food Safety and Standards Authority of India (FSSAI) began tightening FoSTaC training requirements for e-commerce food operations in July 2025, staffing firms and industry executives said most of that growth has been at the entry level. The shortage is now particularly acute among experienced professionals who can conduct audits, manage cold chains and oversee corrective actions across multiple shifts.

The talent crunch is being compounded by hotels, restaurants and cold storage operators also competing for the same pool of experienced food safety professionals as inspections widen.

ANEES HUSSAIN
Bengaluru, August 18

AMAZON SELLER SERVICES (ASSPL), which operates Amazon's marketplace in India, posted a profit before interest and tax (PBIT) of ₹172 crore in FY26, its first profit at the operating line after depreciation, according to regulatory filings. The entity had turned Ebitda-positive in FY25, but depreciation on its India build had kept it below breakeven that year.

Its Ebitda rose 19% to ₹3,640 crore in FY26 from ₹3,047 crore a year earlier, with the Ebitda margin improving 37 basis points to 10.41% from 10.03%. Total income grew 15.5% to ₹35,574 crore from ₹30,805 crore in FY25, while total expenses were held to 14.8% growth, with revenue growth outpacing cost growth for the second straight year.

The bulk of the incremental revenue came from the Stores business, which contributed 68% of the year's growth. Stores revenue rose 12.6% to ₹28,795 crore, an increase of ₹3,233 crore over FY25.

Within Stores, P3P, or premium third-party — fees charged to large sellers — rose ₹1,512 crore, up 23%, the single-largest contributor to the year's growth. Advertising revenue added ₹1,497 crore, up 19.9%. S3P, or standard third-party — fees charged to small sellers — grew ₹412 crore, or 3.9%, with growth staying marginal on account of fee investments. Shipping revenue was ₹88 crore lower than a year earlier, reflecting investments in free shipping threshold waivers.

The fee investments were substantial and fell the hardest on the small-seller end of the marketplace. From April last year, Amazon India took referral fees to zero on products priced below ₹300 across more than 135 categories, covering roughly 12 million listings, and lowered weight handling fees for items under 1 kg.

DAILY IMPORTS DECLINE TO 1.9 MBPD FROM RECORD 2.8 MBPD IN JULY

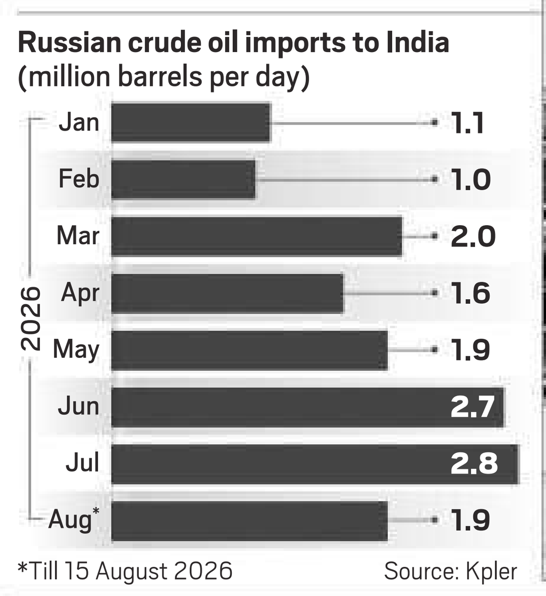
SAURAV ANAND
New Delhi, August 18

AUGUST DECLINE



INDIA'S RUSSIAN CRUDE imports have fallen sharply in August just as Moscow's production and export constraints are deepening, threatening to erode a key supply cushion for domestic refiners, at a time when the country's crude acquisition cost is again moving higher.

Russian crude supplies to India averaged 1.9 million barrels per day (mbpd) during the first 15 days of August, down nearly 32% from a record 2.8 mbpd in July, according to Kpler. Imports had climbed from 1.6 mbpd in April to 1.9 mbpd in May, 2.7 mbpd in June and 2.8 mbpd in July before the latest decline.

"Russian crude imports are expected to ease in August from the highs seen in June and July, primarily due to planned turnarounds at MRPL and the Panipat refinery, compounded by disruptions from drone attacks on Russian oil terminals," said Nikhil Dubey, lead analyst for oil markets at Kpler.

The fall has coincided with higher purchases from traditional West Asian suppliers. UAE crude deliveries stood at around 700,000 bpd in the first half of August, while Saudi Arabia supplied about 480,000 bpd, Kpler data showed.

For India, the supply squeeze comes alongside rising oil costs. The Indian crude basket averaged $88.62/bbl in August so far, up from $82.04 in July and $83.22 in June. It stood at $89.58/bbl on August 17.

At the same time, sour crude's share in the Indian basket rose to 25.06% in August from 20.60% in July. With Russian supplies easing, replacement barrels could raise import costs and put pressure on refinery margins.

Brent crude futures were at $91.07/bbl, while US West Texas Intermediate stood at $84.99/bbl, adding to the pressure as refiners seek alternatives to lower Russian flows.

The emerging shift comes as Rystad Energy has cut its Russian crude production forecast by 90,000 bpd, with output now expected to average 8.95 mbpd in 2026 before declining further to around 8.6 mbpd in 2027.

"The increasing frequency and effectiveness of drone attacks on Russian oil and gas infrastructure is no longer affecting only refineries; it's constraining the country's upstream sector as well," Daria Melnik, vice president, oil & gas research at Rystad Energy, said.

Russia's refinery throughput is forecast to average around 4 mbpd between July and December, almost 30% below the 2016-2023 seasonal average of about 5.7 mbpd. Rystad expects the country to process nearly 1.4 mbpd less crude in the second half of 2026 than historical seasonal patterns.

"Every barrel not processed by a refinery must either be exported, placed into storage or removed from production," Melnik said. While Russia managed the imbalance in June, "July demonstrated that its export system cannot consistently handle the additional volumes," she added.

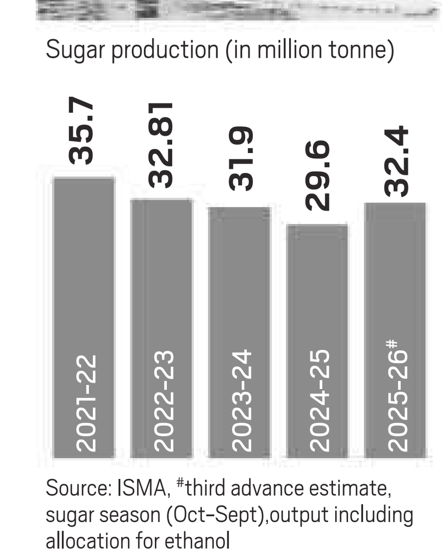
RETAIL PRICES RISE 13% YEAR-ON-YEAR

Govt planning to allow duty-free sugar imports

- Curbs on stock holdings also being discussed

SANDIP DAS
New Delhi, August 18

PRICE CONTROL



TO PRE-EMPT A spike in sugar prices during the coming festive seasons, the government is discussing several measures, including allowing limited duty-free imports and curbing the volume of the sweetener bulk traders can hold.

Sugar demand usually surges between August and November due to the festive season. The food ministry is also considering curbing stocks held by bulk traders and changing monthly allocations from sugar units.

The average retail price of sugar, according to the price monitoring cell of the Department of Consumer Affairs, was ₹52.3/kg on Tuesday, an increase of close to 13% year-on-year. In the last month, retail prices have increased by over 9%. To curb cheap imports and protect cane farmers, the government had imposed 100% basic Customs duty on sugar in February 2018.

Sources said that sugar yield may be impacted due to uneven monsoon rainfall distribution in key cane-growing areas like Maharashtra and Uttar Pradesh, which is driving price sentiments. The food ministry is also physically verifying stocks at sugar mills to ascertain the actual inventory position and ensure supply chain transparency.

To curb hoarding, discourage speculative trading and ensure the continuous availability of sugar at reasonable prices, the government imposed stock holding limits on sugar dealers from August 1 to November 30, 2026. Dealers must declare their sugar stocks and update their position weekly.

The order prohibits dealers from holding stocks exceeding 4,000 quintals of sugar for more than 30 days from the date of receipt.

"Sugar supply position for the coming months remains comfortable, and there is no fundamental concern regarding availability in the domestic market," Deepak Ballani, director general of the Indian Sugar & Bio-Energy Manufacturers Association (Isma) told FE. Ballani said the recent increase in sugar prices appears unjustified and is not supported by prevailing demand-supply fundamentals.

Isma projects the opening stock for the 2026–27 sugar season (October-September) to be around 3.5-4 million tonne (MT) which should be adequate to meet domestic consumption requirements. The opening stock on October 1, 2025 was 5 MT.

Officials said that although the season commences on October 1, sugar supplies after crushing enter the market by the end of November or early December. Thus, the opening stock of sugar plays a crucial role in price stabilisation.

As per the third advance estimate of sugar production for the 2025-26 season in February, 2026, the industry projected net sugar production at 29 MT, excluding 3.1 MT diverted for ethanol. However, the final sugar production figure for the current season is likely to be released next month.

India's annual sugar consumption is around 28 MT. Industry sources reported a shortfall in yield linked to the early onset of flowering in sugarcane in key growing regions of Maharashtra and Karnataka.

BPCL to raise up to ₹5,000 crore through NCDs

SAURAV ANAND
New Delhi, August 18

STATE-RUN BHARAT PETROLEUM Corporation (BPCL) has approved raising up to ₹5,000 crore through non-convertible debentures (NCDs), giving the refiner flexibility to tap the debt market in as many as 10 tranches over the next one year.

"The Board has approved the issuance of secured or unsecured redeemable Non-Convertible Debentures, in one or more series or tranches, for an aggregate amount not exceeding ₹5,000 crore," BPCL said in a regulatory filing. The allotment size, pricing and other terms will be determined at the time of each issuance.

The fundraise comes as BPCL continues investments across its refining and downstream businesses, while its latest earnings were weighed down by a sizeable impairment linked to its upstream subsidiary.

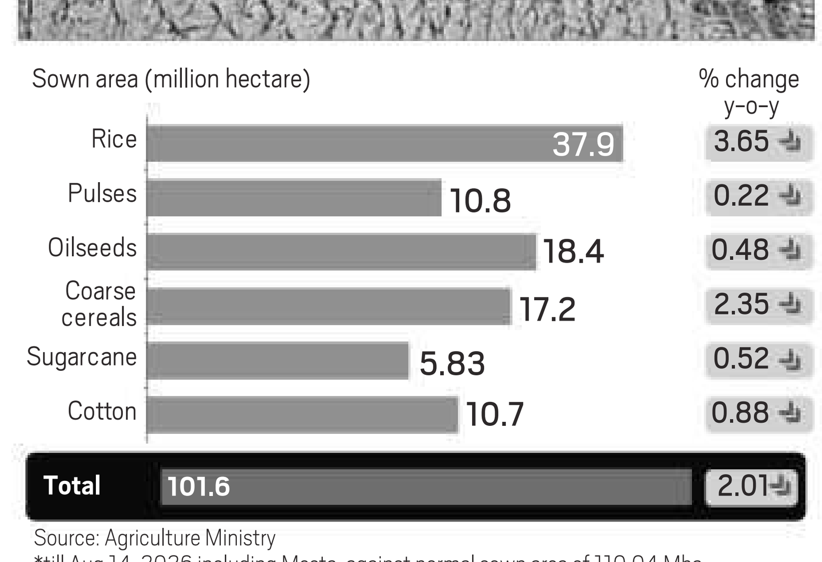
BPCL reported a net profit of ₹3,192 crore in Q1 FY27, below market expectations, after taking an exceptional ₹4,349-crore impairment charge on investments in Bharat PetroResources (BPRL). Operational performance remained stronger, with Ebitda at ₹10,061 crore and margin at 8.5%, supported by refining and marketing operations.

The refiner had cumulative impairment losses of ₹11,313.83 crore on its investment in BPRL as of March 31, 2026. Foreign-exchange losses also increased sharply to ₹1,644.22 crore in FY26.

KHARIF SOWING GAP AT 2%, SEASON TO END SOON

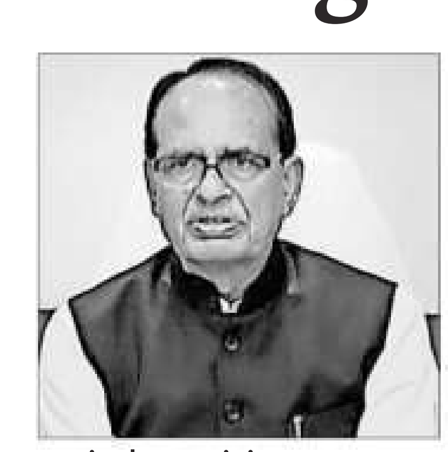
AN OVERALL IMPROVEMENT in rainfall since July has given a boost to sowing of kharif crops – including paddy, pulses, oilseeds, cotton and sugarcane – across the country. The total sown area of kharif crops – paddy, pulses, oilseeds, sugarcane and coarse cereals – has reached 101.6 million hectares (Mha) till August 14, down by just 2% from a year ago, reports Sandip Das.

The total sown area, at present, according to the agriculture ministry, is more than 92% of the normal kharif area of 110 Mha. Sowing activities are likely to continue till the end of August. Rice, the country's principal kharif crop, has been sown over 37.9 Mha.



El Nino impact on kharif crop unlikely to be huge: Chouhan

SANDIP DAS
New Delhi, August 18



Agriculture Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan

THE GOVERNMENT DOES not foresee any large impact of El Nino on kharif crop yield at present, as overall rainfall has been adequate for the requirement of various crops, agriculture minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan said on Tuesday.

"We don't see a huge impact of El Nino except in some places. The situation by and large remains good. Rainfall was sufficient to meet the full water needs of the crops," Chouhan said at a briefing.

He said the shortfall in kharif sowing, which was 11% last week, has narrowed and is expected to reduce further. He added that the situation was being reviewed regularly.

"As of now, we see no impact, while some areas of Karnataka and Telangana are facing water shortage where the impact will remain limited," Chouhan said. Deficient rainfall in some regions was unlikely to affect overall kharif output at this stage, he said.

Overall sowing of kharif crops, including paddy, pulses, oilseeds, cotton and sugarcane has picked up pace since July. The overall sown area in the middle of August was 101.6 million hectares, just 2% below the previous year. While 92% of the normal sown area has been covered so far, sowing, especially in the eastern region would continue till the end of August.

However, according to experts, uneven distribution is likely to impact the yield of several crops, especially pulses and oilseeds.

After a 35% rainfall deficiency in June, adequate rainfall since July, helped bridge the overall monsoon gap to 12.6% on Tuesday, which is still in the 'deficient' range.

In terms of regional distribution, the major deficit was in east and northeast India (-26%), south peninsular India (-22% and northwest India (- 11%).

The rainfed monsoon core zone of central India has received normal rainfall this season.

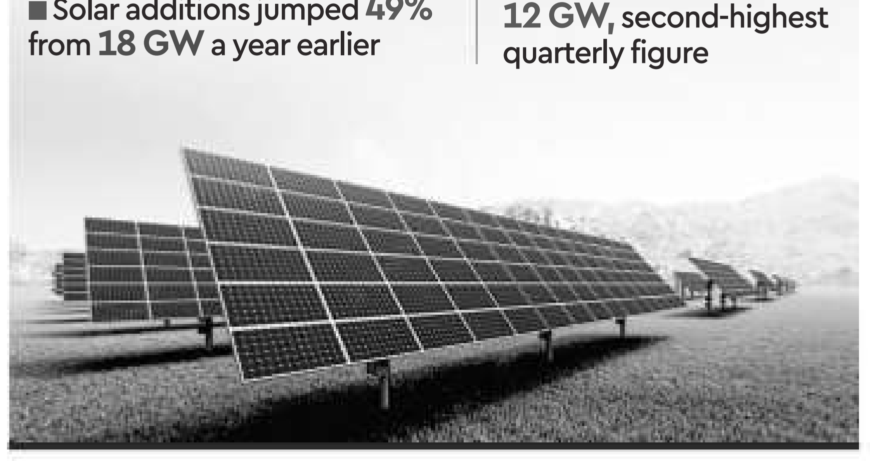
SAURAV ANAND
New Delhi, August 18

POWER-PACKED

- Large-scale solar capacity additions stood at 8 GW in Q2
- Solar additions jumped 49% from 18 GW a year earlier
- Solar accounted for 76% of 36 GW new power capacity
- June-quarter solar additions reached 12 GW, second-highest quarterly figure



INDIA ADDED A record 27 GW of solar capacity in the first half of calendar year 2026, up 49% from 18 GW in the year-ago period, as developers accelerated project commissioning ahead of key policy changes.

Solar accounted for 76% of the 36 GW of new power capacity added during January-June.

The commissioning rush was driven by rising clean energy demand and efforts to complete projects before the June 1 implementation of ALMM List-II for solar cells and the reduction in the inter-state transmission system charge waiver from 75% to 50% scheduled for July 2026.

India added 12 GW of solar capacity in the June quarter, the second-highest quarterly addition on record after 15 GW in Q1.

According to Mercom India Research's Q2 and H1 2026 India Solar Market Update, Q2 installations fell 24% sequentially but were 1% higher than 11 GW commissioned in the corresponding quarter of 2025.

Large-scale solar additions stood at 8 GW in Q2, down 37% from nearly 13 GW in the previous quarter and 23% lower than 10 GW a year earlier. The segment accounted for 68% of total solar installations during the quarter.

Gujarat led utility-scale installations in Q2 with a 40% share, followed by Rajasthan at 19% and Maharashtra at 17%. The top 10 states accounted for 98% of large-scale capacity commissioned during the quarter.

The cumulative installed solar capacity reached 165 GW as of June 2026, with large-scale projects accounting for 83% and rooftop solar 17%. Solar photovoltaic capacity constituted 30% of India's total installed power capacity and 57% of renewable capacity. Rajasthan remained the largest utility-scale solar market with 31% of cumulative installations, followed by Gujarat at 22% and Karnataka at 11%.

The strong commissioning numbers, however, came alongside a sharp slowdown in the project pipeline. Large-scale solar tenders fell 54% to 11 GW in H1 2026 from 24 GW a year earlier, while auctions declined 59% to over 5 GW from 13 GW.

In Q2, agencies issued over 5 GW of tenders, down 6% quarter-on-quarter and 22% year-on-year. Auctions fell 56% sequentially and 40% annually to nearly 2 GW as the market focused on executing previously awarded projects.

Future additions will hinge on timely PPAs and PSAs, transmission readiness, land and grid approvals, equipment availability and the commercial viability of projects awarded under earlier cost assumptions.

I-T dept launches drive against suspicious foreign remittances

SHUBHAM RANA
New Delhi, August 18

FOREX PROBE

- 394 entities covered in nationwide foreign remittance verification exercise
- Suspicious firms remitted large forex amounts over 3 years
- Entities reported little or no business activity
- Some firms were non-filers or reported very small turnovers

THE INCOME TAX Department has identified several "suspicious" firms with little business activity that remitted large amounts of foreign exchange over the last three years.

The department has now launched a nationwide verification exercise into suspicious foreign remittances.

Data analysis and ground intelligence showed significant overseas remittances by entities with little or no reported business activity, the Central Board of Direct Taxes (CBDT) said.

"A nationwide network of entities engaged in remitting funds abroad was uncovered during a search operation conducted on a group of fictitious charitable trusts involved in providing accommodation entries against bogus donations/contributions," the CBDT said.

Preliminary ground verification revealed that the entities making these remittances were either non-filers or were filing income-tax returns showing very small turnovers. These entities were not operating from the addresses they declared.

"The turnovers had no apparent correlation with the large amounts of money being remitted abroad. They also did not appear to match the stated purpose of the remittances, such as payment for freight, import of software, or import of consulting services," the CBDT said.

Further data analysis also revealed that a large number of Form 15CB certificates were issued by a relatively small group of professionals. The remitted funds were also received by a clustered group of entities, the CBDT said in a release.

Form 15CB, read with Rule 37BB of the Income-tax Rules, 1962, requires the accountant certifying a foreign remittance to verify its taxability with reference to the books of account and other relevant documents. "However, the findings raise concerns about whether adequate due diligence was carried out by the Accountants before issuing these certificates," the CBDT said.

Skymet lowers monsoon rain forecast to 85%

SANDIP DAS
New Delhi, August 18

PRIVATE WEATHER FORECASTING agency Skymet has downgraded its forecast of monsoon rainfall to 85% of the benchmark-long period average (LPA) from its forecast of 94% of LPA in April.

There is a 70% probability of drought, it stated.

"Growing El Nino and weak Indian Ocean Dipole will cast a shadow, and the month of September is likely to be rain-deficit by 20% of LPA," Skymet stated. August rainfall is forecast at 84% of LPA by the agency.

In May 2026, the India Meteorological Department (IMD) had downgraded its forecast of "below normal" southwest monsoon rainfall for June-September this year to 90% of LPA, from 92% in April, with a high 84% chance that the rains will fall in the "deficient to below normal" range. The met department is still holding on to their forecast for the monsoon season.

RETAILER TO SHIFT TO A MORE LOCALISED MODEL

Bata bets on style to woo consumers

ASHUTOSH MISHRA
New Delhi, August 18

BATA INDIA PLANS to extend its Zero Base Merchandising (ZBM) strategy to more than 900 stores by the end of 2026, as the footwear retailer shifts towards a more localised, consumer-led retail model amid a challenging external environment.

Zero-Based Merchandising (ZBM) means redesigning a store from scratch based on what customers in that specific location actually want to buy, instead of displaying the same products in every store. A Bata store in Gurgaon may therefore carry a different assortment from a store in Kochi or Jaipur, based on local demand patterns and customer profiles.

For Bata, ZBM is already operational across more than 800 stores and is aimed at tailoring store assortments to local demand, reducing clutter, improving product availability and making it easier for consumers to navigate stores, according to the company.

Retail remains central to Bata India's growth strategy. The company operates more than 2,000 brand outlets, supported by over 775 franchise stores, multi-brand distribution, direct-to-consumer platforms and marketplaces. More than 1,000 stores are omnichannel-enabled, while 70% of its stores offer hyperlocal delivery.

Bata India chairman Ashwani Windlass said the company was using the transformation to strengthen its competitiveness and improve agility, with product quality, contemporary styling, comfort and value at the centre of the strategy.

"FY 2025-26 was a year of purposeful transformation for Bata India. We are strengthening competitiveness, improving agility and preparing the business for sustainable growth," Windlass said.

He added that the company's renewed focus on product excellence, contemporary styling, enhanced comfort and superior value would "lend new vigour to the generational trust in the Bata brand and its value proposition".

The company is also focusing on improving execution across manufacturing, sourcing and supply chain.

In-store availability has improved by 8% in India, while inventory freshness has increased from the mid-70% range to around 90%, supported by seasonal product resets, according to the company.

Bata said it is also modernising its product portfolio across brands such as Hush Puppies, Power, Floatz, Comfit and its core Bata offerings, with greater emphasis on styling, comfort and value.

The company said it is targeting consumers who are increasingly influenced by digital channels.

FE BUREAU
Mumbai, August 18

WIPRO CONSUMER CARE & Lighting has acquired a 60% stake in premium skincare brand Dermatouch at an enterprise value of ₹387.5 crore, marking its first acquisition of a digital-first brand. This is also the company's third acquisition in a month, after snapping up Philippines-based S Brands Consumer Care for an undisclosed amount and TTK Healthcare's Good Home and Eva brands for ₹256 crore.

The remaining 40% stake in Dermatouch will be acquired over the next three years, the company said on Tuesday. Co-founders Anish Nagpal and Amit Purswani, along with the existing management team, will continue to run the business during this period. The latest acquisition is Wipro Consumer Care's 18th globally, as the FMCG company steps up its acquisition-led expansion across high-growth consumer categories.

Dermatouch reported revenue of ₹131 crore in FY26, up 114% from the previous financial year.

The brand has also scaled its sales volume to over 60,000 products a day, Wipro said.

Dermatouch sells science-backed skincare products targeting concerns including pigmentation, acne, brightening and sun protection.

Its portfolio includes face washes, soaps, serums, creams, moisturisers and sunscreens. The brand sells through its direct-to-consumer platform, online marketplaces and an expanding offline retail network. Its digital-first model and ability to build an offline presence were key factors behind Wipro's interest in the company.

VW's global rejig not to impact India ops

AKBAR MERCHANT
Mumbai, August 18

THE VOLKSWAGEN GROUP'S global restructuring will have no immediate impact on its Indian operations, with the country continuing to be viewed as a growth market, Piyush Arora, managing director and CEO, Volkswagen Group India, has said.

"India of course remains a growth market," Arora said. He added that the proposals being spoken about in the global media are not related to India and would not impact India in the short or medium term.

Against the backdrop of a global restructuring, the group is targeting a 4-5% share of India's passenger vehicle market in the medium term.

"In the medium term, we are definitely looking to increase our market share to 4 to 5% and we want to grow profitably," Arora said.

The Volkswagen Group plans to reduce its global model line-up significantly by 2030 as part of a wider restructuring aimed at lowering costs and simplifying operations. The restructuring could also lead to further job cuts and factory closures, with around 50,000 job reductions already outlined under earlier measures, according to sources.

Meta cautious on child sexual abuse material after government's hard talk

OJASVI GUPTA
New Delhi, August 18

THE GOVERNMENT'S FIRM messaging to Meta has translated into visible corrective steps and sharper vigilance around child sexual abuse material (CSAM) on its platforms, according to IT Ministry sources, who said that the Ministry of Electronics & IT (MeitY) had left no room for ambiguity that such content is unlawful and not protected by a safe harbour cover.

Sources said the government's approach is not aimed at censorship or restricting any category of coverage, but at ensuring platforms operate within Indian law and that any form of social media use is kept in check.

They added Meta's technical teams have briefed the ministry on how their content-recommendation algorithms function, describing the ongoing engagement as involving continuous 'judgment calls and tweaks' rather than a one-time fix. An IT Ministry official further said that Meta has displayed increased sensitivity and caution on CSAM and also some action, describing the response as "important and significant."

The government had made it clear to Meta that CSAM violates Indian law and that no safe-harbour protection is available for content that violates the law in such a manner, sources said.

Moreover, on repeatedly appearing flagged content they said Meta has indicated it is strengthening its internal filtering systems and expanding India-focused content moderation capacity with greater sensitivity to local cultural context. However, MeitY has stopped short of declaring satisfaction with the response so far, saying the ministry intends to keep monitoring outcomes on the ground rather than take assurances at face value.

Sources explained that the safe harbour "removal" per se is not done by an act of government, but in the court of law. Any violation of Section 67 of IT Act can lead to prosecution.

On differences relating to the WhatsApp username, sources said the matter is under examination as it doesn't involve just that particular platform, but other messaging apps as well.

WhatsApp's proposed username feature, which would allow users to communicate without sharing phone numbers, was under the radar over concerns it could increase risks of online fraud, phishing, digital arrest scams and impersonation. There is no rollout timeline yet, as the ministry is examining the issue in the context of messaging platforms more broadly than WhatsApp alone. On labelling of AI-generated content, people familiar of the matter said that the obligation runs across three levels — the individual posting synthetic content, the AI tool or computer resource used to generate it, and, failing both, the intermediary hosting it.

PREVENTION MODE

- Govt's approach not aimed at censorship or restricting any category of coverage
- Centre's approach aimed at ensuring platforms operate within Indian law
- Meta's technical teams have briefed govt on how their algorithms function
- Govt had made it clear to Meta that CSAM violates Indian law

WEH expands its startup focus beyond q-commerce

S SHANTHI
Bengaluru, August 18

VENTURE CAPITAL FIRM WEH Ventures is broadening its startup investment focus towards premiumisation, health and fitness, modern agriculture, IP-led manufacturing and the battery value chain, as investors are becoming more selective about opportunities in sectors such as quick commerce and consumer artificial intelligence.

The early-stage investor, which has backed startups, including NOTO, Animall, smallcase, Pratilipi and AppsForBharat since its inception in 2017, made four investments in FY26 and expects to make six in FY27.

It has already committed capital to startups in healthcare diagnostics, test-prep education and beauty and personal care, Deepak Gupta, general partner, WEH Ventures, told FE.

The firm expects to make around six to eight investments annually going ahead, focusing on companies where early capital can help establish proof points around products, customer adoption, teams and initial product-market fit.

Its investment decisions are based on the size of the market opportunity, founder-market fit and evidence of execution and resourcefulness, Gupta said.

"We try to enter at a stage where the capital can help the company establish important proof points," he said, adding that the firm also assesses how quickly founders can learn, adapt, build teams and make progress with limited resources.

WEH has also seen progress in its existing portfolio. Cybersecurity startup Mitigata, which the firm backed about two years ago, has expanded from cyber insurance and cyber security into the broader cyber resilience market and recently raised $15 million in a Series B round.

Premium fruit farming startup Fragaria Fruits, another portfolio company, has moved from pilot production to commercial-scale farming, demonstrating that technology can enable consistent local production of premium fruits.

The firm, however, remains cautious about the quick-commerce model, stating that speed and convenience do not translate equally across categories. It is similarly selective about consumer AI applications, where many products have yet to demonstrate durable engagement, differentiation or monetisation.

● RISHI AURORA, MANAGING PARTNER, IBM CONSULTING INDIA & SOUTH ASIA

'AI has evolved into an active participant in biz processes'

Drawing long-term value from artificial intelligence is not just about deploying more AI models but ensuring the scaffolding underneath is robust by redesigning workflows, according to Rishi Aurora, Managing Partner, IBM Consulting India & South Asia. In an interview with Poulomi Chatterjee, he discusses why Indian enterprises struggle to move past pilot programmes. Excerpts:

What separates BFSI firms that are successfully scaling AI adoption from those stuck with pilots?

The difference is rarely the AI model. It's the operating model around it. BFSI enterprises scaling AI successfully are the ones treating AI as a business transformation agenda rather than a technology initiative. They are moving beyond isolated use cases and redesigning end-to-end workflows across customer servicing, risk operations, compliance, fraud management and technology modernisation. What distinguishes these enterprises is their willingness to invest in the foundations required for scale.

How are consulting roles within IBM being trained and upskilled?

Clients today want consultants and partners who understand their industry, can navigate complexity and help translate AI investments into tangible business outcomes. At IBM, our focus is on developing consultants who combine industry expertise, business acumen and technology fluency. Platforms such as IBM Enterprise Advantage give consultants access to AI-powered assets, accelerators and best practices that help them solve client challenges while building practical AI expertise in the flow of work. At the same time, our Pi-shaped skills approach encourages consultants to pair deep domain knowledge.

What gives IBM an advantage over competitors in AI consulting?

IBM's advantage is that we've been on the same transformation journey many of our clients are navigating today. Through our Client Zero journey, we've applied AI across our own enterprise to reimagine how work gets done, generating more than $4.5 billion in productivity benefits while transforming key business functions at scale. That experience gives us a practical understanding of what it takes to move from experimentation to enterprise adoption.

Which AI agent use cases are delivering tangible business value for banks today?

The first wave of AI in banking was largely about prediction and insight. The next wave is about execution. Across BFSI, we are seeing AI agents move beyond assisting employees to actively orchestrating workflows, managing exceptions and helping banks handle increasingly complex, high-volume operations. Today, some of the strongest value is emerging in fraud detection, cybersecurity, KYC and AML, where the combination of scale, regulatory intensity and operational complexity makes them ideal candidates for agentic AI.

What's particularly interesting is that AI is evolving from an analytical tool into an active participant in business processes.

How has the focus on AI sovereignty changed how Indian enterprises choose AI models?

A year ago, most conversations were centred on model capabilities. Today, many enterprise leaders are equally focused on questions of control, trust and long-term flexibility. Increasingly, enterprises are recognising that digital sovereignty is a strategic advantage. The ability to determine where data resides, how AI systems are governed and which models can be deployed gives enterprises greater confidence to scale AI across critical business processes.

As a result, the discussion is shifting away from choosing a single LLM and towards building open, flexible AI architectures that preserve choice, support evolving regulatory requirements and avoid unnecessary lock-in.

The organisations that get this right will be better positioned to innovate while maintaining the trust and resilience needed at enterprise scale.

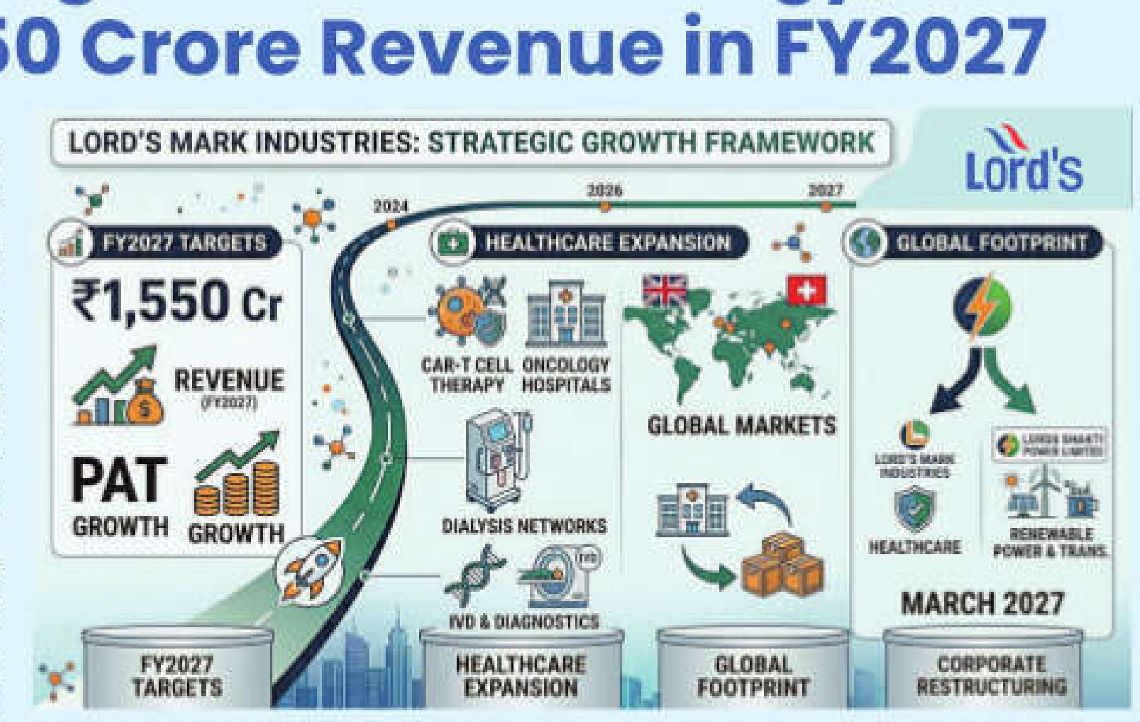
Lord's Mark Industries Outlines Strategic Expansion Across Global Healthcare, Advanced Diagnostics & Oncology; Targets ₹1,550 Crore Revenue in FY2027

Lord's Mark Industries Limited, a leading diversified healthcare and technology conglomerate, today announced a series of major strategic and business updates marking a transformative expansion of its global healthcare platform alongside a proposed corporate restructuring of its renewable energy division.

For FY2027, the Company expects consolidated revenue of at least ₹1,550 crore, representing over 20% growth compared to FY2026, and Profit After Tax (PAT) of at least ₹178 crore at a margin of 11.4%, reflecting a margin expansion of over 200 basis points. The majority of FY2027 growth will be driven by core operations in in-vitro diagnostics and renewable energy, with further operational momentum expected from FY2028 onward through the commercialisation of its sickle cell testing business and medical device platforms, Onco Spectra and TB Truth.

To optimise capital allocation and allow standalone healthcare evaluation, the Board of Directors proposes to demerge its Renewable Energy and LED business into a separate entity, Lord's Shakti Power Limited, by March 2027. Lord's Mark Industries will hold 60% in the resulting company, with existing shareholders receiving mirror equity. The demerged energy business will also expand into power transmission through transformer manufacturing.

On healthcare delivery and partnerships, Lord's Mark is entering an exclusive agreement with a leading global manufacturer to bring CAR-T cell therapy to India across five specialised centres, starting with Mumbai and Bangalore by March 2027, significantly lowering treatment costs to widen patient access. Through its new subsidiary, Lord's Mark Medicure Limited, the Company is launching an oncology hospital network in tier-2 cities to address critical care shortages, beginning with two pilot 70-bed hospitals in Vapi and Solapur supported by a planned ₹200 crore debt raise in December 2026. Additionally, the Company plans to establish 50 company-operated dialysis centres across India by March 2027 equipped with its proprietary RENALOS machines to transition toward recurring service revenues.



Lord's
hamesha aapke saath!

Expanding its international footprint, the Company incorporated Lord's Mark Industries UK Ltd-the first Indian company registered under the India-UK Free Trade Agreement-and is establishing Lord's Mark Industries Swiss Limited. Both entities will operate captive pathology laboratories supplied entirely from Indian manufacturing facilities while distributing diagnostic supplies across European markets. An application for NHS approval has been submitted. The subsidiary opens a developed-market channel for the Company's IVD manufacturing base at international price points.

On the innovation front, patient trials have been completed for the OneDNA genomic testing platform following ICMR approval, while the Biomescan Analytics Platform became the first software-as-a-medical-device (SaMD) in India to receive a manufacturing license under the Medical Devices Rules, 2017.

Commenting on the developments, Mr. Sachidanand Upadhyay, Managing Director, Lord's Mark Industries Ltd., stated: "Lord's Mark today stands at the most important inflection point in its history. Over the past decade we have built profitable, scaled businesses in diagnostics and renewable energy, the foundations of which now fund our next chapter. The guidance we have issued reflects the strength of our existing operations, with top-line growth of at least 20% and PAT growth of at least 50%. The subsequent announcements are what we build on top of them: cancer care reaching India's rural districts, advanced CAR-T therapy at affordable prices for Indian patients, and Indian-made diagnostics serving laboratories from the UK to Switzerland. Healthcare in India is moving from scarcity to access, and Lord's Mark intends to be one of the companies that makes that happen."

One Indian bank in global top 5? The climb is too steep

● Even all 12 PSBs merged into one would rank just 16th globally

KSHIPRA PETKAR & KISHOR KADAM
Mumbai, August 18

PRIME MINISTER NARENDRA Modi has set a new benchmark for Indian banking: at least one Indian lender among the world's top five. "The banking sector in India is flourishing; one Indian bank should be among the top five globally," Modi said in his Independence Day speech on Saturday.

So where do Indian banks currently stand on the global league tables — and what would it take to close the gap? The numbers tell a story of a sector that has grown rapidly at home but remains, by global standards, a middleweight punching in a heavyweight division. The gap is formidable.

A ranking by S&P Global Market Intelligence, based on banks' total assets, underlines the scale of the challenge. China's state-owned giants dominate the top of the table, with ICBC leading with a $7.65-trillion balance sheet, followed by Agricultural Bank of China at $6.97 trillion and China Construction Bank at $6.52 trillion. JPMorgan Chase ranks fifth with assets of $4.42 trillion

India's biggest lenders are some miles behind. State Bank of India, the country's largest bank, ranks 45th with assets of $877 billion, while HDFC Bank ranks 76th at $515 billion. To match the world's fifth-largest bank, SBI's balance sheet would need to swell roughly fivefold.

Consider this: even if all 12 Indian public sector banks were merged into a single entity, their combined assets of roughly $2.13 trillion would still leave it ranked 16th globally. Only a merger of the top 10 public and private sector banks would propel the combined entity into the global top 10.

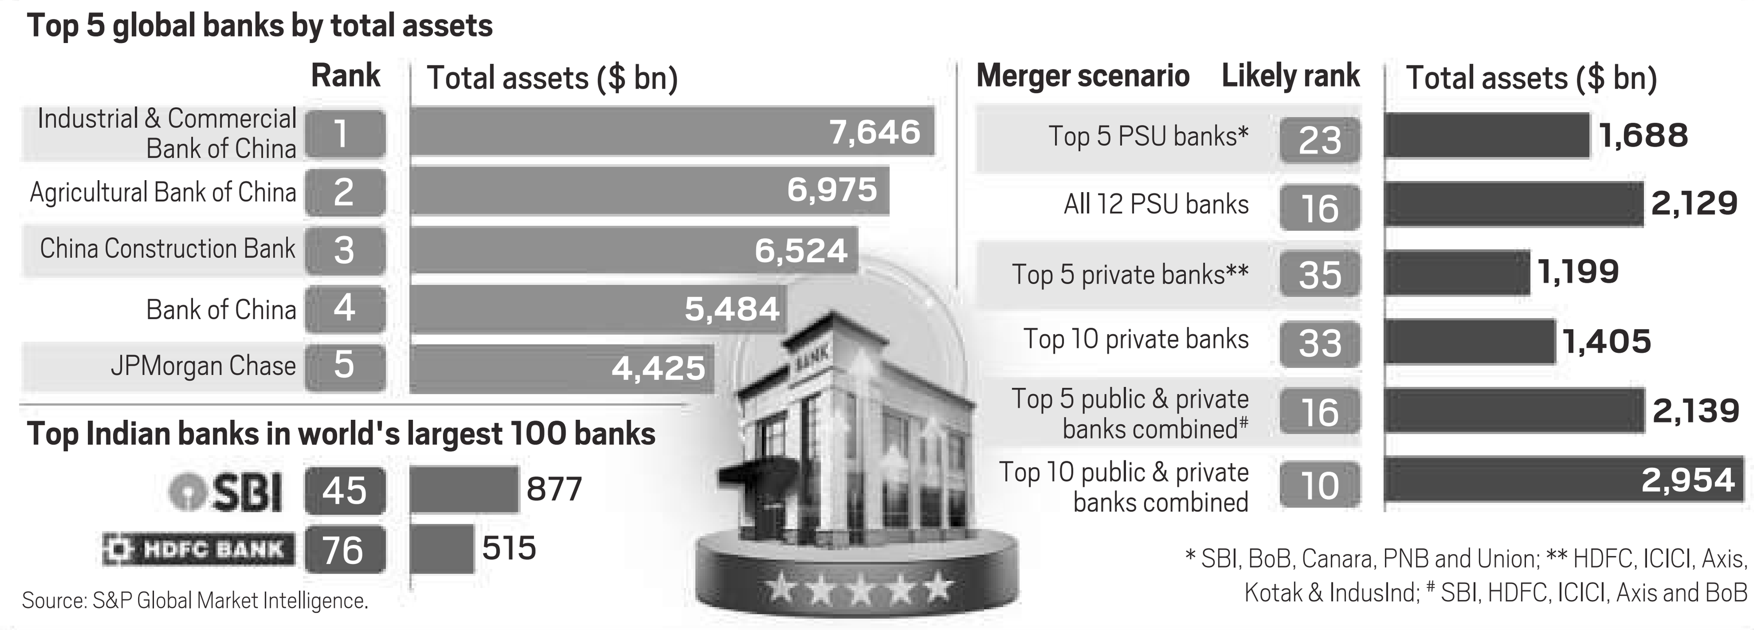
None of this makes the target a pipe dream, industry experts said, but it does make it a marathon rather than a sprint.

"Bridging this gap would require India's largest banks to approximately double or triple their balance sheets over the next two decades, which is ambitious but achievable," said Pratik Shah, national financial services leader at EY India.

Shah's road map to getting there runs through four areas: expanding balance sheets through greater capital mobilisation, developing the corporate bond market, deepening participation in international trade and cross-border financial flows, and leveraging artificial intelligence to improve productivity, risk management and customer experience.

Consolidation could shave years off the journey, said Neha Gupta, managing director and partner at BCG. India has already seen a preview of what a well-timed merger can do to the rankings. "Closer home, we saw that in the case of HDFC Bank, which jumped more than 25 ranks to enter the top 100 banks after its merger with HDFC Limited," Gupta said.

But bulking up comes with its own baggage. Gupta noted that the Indian regulator has already identified systemically important banks, and cautioned that squeezing a roughly $900-billion banking industry into two or three large lenders could leave the sector excessively concentrated. "So what we need is a few large global-scale banks, but also a set of smaller banks to serve the long tail," she added.



MARKET PLAYERS SEEK LIVE REFERENCE PRICES

Experts for narrower CAS price bands

KUSHAN SHAH
Mumbai, August 18

AFTER SECURITIES AND Exchange Board of India (Sebi) Chairman Tuhin Kanta Pandey's clarification that the closing auction session (CAS) is here to stay with tweaks, market players are looking forward to rationalisation of rules across parameters.

While brokerages are batting for a narrower than the +/-3% range within which market participants can place orders, mutual fund managers are following a wait-and-watch policy. The latter believes more time is required for the system to settle down and eventually take-off.

Chandan Taparia, head of derivatives and technicals at Motilal Oswal Financial Services, said there is currently little incentive for retail investors to place orders during CAS because of sharp price spikes and uncertainty over order execution. He has suggested that narrowing the 3% band could reduce volatility in index values.

Taparia also suggested that the reference price be calculated and displayed live to provide greater transparency before participants enter the closing auction. Increased participation by arbitrageurs could also help reduce divergence between the indices during CAS.

A senior official at a brokerage house suggested replacing the uniform order range with stock-specific bands based on the historical performance and volatility of individual stocks.

"As the weightage of stocks in the indices is not the same, we cannot have the same range for placing orders during CAS. Currently, large orders placed within this range in stocks with the highest weightage are leading to spikes in indices in the last 15 minutes," the official said.

KEY CHANGES SOUGHT

- Narrower price bands could curb volatility and price spikes during CAS
- Live reference prices may improve transparency and order execution
- Stock-specific bands could better reflect individual stocks' volatility and index weightage
- More sell-side participation and lower trading costs could boost CAS liquidity

SBI so far got $7-bn FCNR (B) deposits: Setty

PRASANTA SAHU
New Delhi, August 18

SBI Chairman CS Setty said he is hopeful of meeting the bank's target of $10 billion by August 31

STATE BANK OF India has so far mobilised $7 billion in foreign currency non-resident (bank) {(FCNR(B)} deposits, and is hopeful of meeting its target of $10 billion by August 31, Chairman CS Setty told FE.

"We originally gave guidance of $10 billion. It may be marginally lower than that. But we are trying to make up (to reach the $10 billion target)," Setty said. "We have enough feasibility. We have another 15 days to go."

On Friday, the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) announced the closure of its special swap window for FCNR(B), effective August 31, a month ahead of the original schedule of September 30. The central bank cited an "encouraging response" to the scheme for the decision.

Another top public sector banker, who attended the PSB Conclave in New Delhi, said the closure of the special FCNR (B) window was 'prudent' as the collection goal has been achieved. Higher deposits could be a liability later, the person added.

Given the cost of subsidised swaps, the Reserve Bank of India's decision to close the facility after securing adequate foreign exchange was prudent, analysts have said.

Godrej forays into pvt credit market

RAGHAVENDRA KAMATH
Mumbai, August 18

GODREJ INDUSTRIES GROUP on Tuesday announced a foray into India's $12-billion private credit space with a launch of a category-II alternative investment fund (AIF). The fund is targeting a corpus of ₹2,000 crore, comprising a base corpus of ₹1,000 crore and a greenshoe option of an additional ₹1,000 crore.

It will be offered through private placement to eligible investors, including high net worth individuals (HNIs), ultra high net worth individuals (UHNIs), family offices and institutional investors.

The fund will pursue a sector-agnostic performing credit strategy focused on established private mid-market companies with demonstrated operating performance and cash flows. Financing will be backed by hard collateral and comprehensive covenant protections, the group said in release.

Manish Shah, non-executive director, Godrej AMC and MD & CEO, Godrej Capital said private credit was a natural extension for the AMC. "Many well-run mid-sized businesses need capital that offers greater flexibility than conventional financing, without requiring them to dilute equity," Shah said.

He believes there is an opportunity to address that need by combining the Group's understanding of businesses with disciplined capital.

The fund will do growth financing and finance acquisitions, refinancing and working capital requirements, it said.

The Indian private credit market seen new entrants such as Nuvama, PAG this year and ASK Alternates and Lighthouse Canton launching new private credit funds.

Sundaram Alternates early this year raised a ₹2,500-crore real estate credit fund.

'Cash paradox' tricky for currency planning: RBI DG

FE BUREAU
Mumbai, August 18

THE RESERVE BANK of India (RBI) is facing a challenge in forecasting currency requirements and planning production and distribution as the rapid adoption of digital payments has not translated into a decline in physical cash usage, Deputy Governor Shirish Chandra Murmu said at an event organised by Bank Indonesia in Jakarta on August 13.

"Currency in circulation continues to grow at double-digit rates even as cash's share of individual transactions declines, thanks to growing digital payment adoption," Murmu said, calling it a "cash paradox". "That combination makes future demand harder to predict, which complicates our planning for production and distribution capacity," he added.

The RBI deputy governor said the decline in cash usage has not happened, particularly in rural and semi-urban areas, among low-income groups, older populations, and small businesses.

Murmu said the RBI is exploring ways to extend the life of banknotes, including surface coatings on the substrate and polymer notes for lower denominations.

He also highlighted the central bank's efforts to reduce the carbon footprint of the cash cycle. These include optimising the distribution network for greater efficiency and moving up the value chain in the disposal of banknote briquettes.

Over the past few years, RBI has produced 28-30 billion banknotes annually across six denominations, and disposed of roughly 21 billion pieces a year. As of now, 176 billion banknotes are in circulation in India. By comparison, roughly 56 billion US dollar bills and 30 billion euro banknotes were in circulation at the end of last year.

ICICI Bank mops up $750 mn via overseas bond issue

REUTERS
Mumbai, August 18

ICICI BANK HAS accepted bids worth $750 million for a new five-year US dollar bond at a spread tighter than initial guidance, two merchant bankers said on Tuesday, extending a wave of offshore fundraising by Indian lenders after the central bank opened a concessional swap window for foreign-currency deposits.

The deal is ICICI Bank's third dollar fundraising in a month and takes its total raised to $2.05 billion, putting it at the top of the chart in raising dollar debt since the Reserve Bank of India announced the window in early June.

Banks have been able to raise cheaper funds since the window was announced, giving them rupee liquidity that can support lending and investment and help margins.

ICICI Bank, the country's second-largest private lender by assets, priced the latest notes at a spread of 105 basis points over US Treasuries, below the initial guidance of 130 bps. The coupon was set at 5.4170%.

The latest issuance witnessed bids worth over $2 billion and the proceeds would be used for general corporate purposes. The notes will be rated Baa3 and BBB by Moody's and S&P, in line with the bank's existing ratings.

Infra bets fuel Adani's Nifty comeback

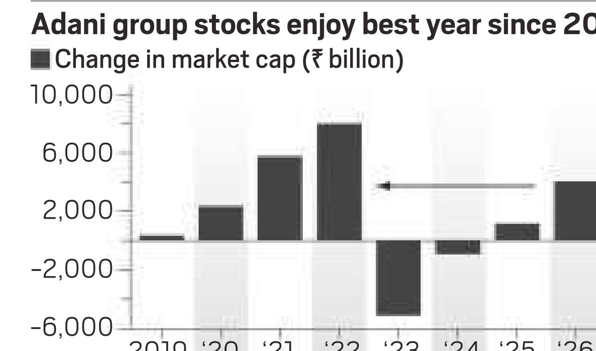
SAVIO SHETTY & ABHISHEK VISHNOI
August 18

ADANI ENTERPRISES is back to where it stood just before the conglomerate's crisis began more than three years ago: The best-performing stock on the domestic equity benchmark.

The shares have surged 34% so far in 2026, putting the company on track to end the year as the top gainer on the Nifty 50 Index. It last held that spot at the end of 2022, weeks before Hindenburg Research's short-seller report in January 2023 sparked a selloff that wiped more than $150 billion off the power-to-ports group's market value at one point.

The rally has come alongside share purchases from investors, including The Capital Group, Goldman Sachs Group, and SBI Funds Management as the conglomerate rebuilds investor support after the short-seller attack, bribery allegations against Gautam and Sagar Adani by US authorities and scrutiny from India's market regulator. Morgan Stanley in June rated Adani Enterprises as overweight, initiating the Wall Street bank's coverage on the stock.

ROARING RETURN



Note: 2026 data as on Aug. 17
Source: Bloomberg

The revival is refocusing the spotlight on Adani as a proxy for India's infrastructure boom. Investors are putting money into the conglomerate's ports, airports and power businesses, while overseas lender are also showing more willingness to take exposure. AdaniConneX, the group's data-center joint venture with EdgeConneX, recently secured a loan of about $800 million to fund its expansion.

"Adani is essentially playing the India growth story through infrastructure," said Vinit Bolinjkar, head of research at Ventura Securities, who has had a buy rating on the flagship since 2022. "Few businesses can offer the kind of 20- to 30-year visibility that Adani's infrastructure businesses can."

The comeback got another boost last week after a US District Judge permanently dismissed securities fraud charges against the Adanis. MSCI also raised the free-float factors for several Adani firms, increasing their weights in its gauges and potentially triggering buying by passive funds.

The gains have extended beyond the flagship. Shares of Adani Ports and Special Economic Zone have risen more than 14% so far this year. The company began full-fledged operations Tuesday at the Vizhinjam port.

The rebound still has some way to go. Foreign holdings in Adani Enterprises fell to a record low in June, according to Prime Infobase.

The business itself carries long-term risks. Infrastructure projects can take years to pay off, leaving Adani vulnerable to refinancing risks and regulatory changes, Morgan Stanley said in the June note.

Still, the conglomerate remains a conduit for investors betting on India's infrastructure story and willing to take on more risk. That interest has added more than ₹4 lakh crore in market value for group stocks this year, helping propel Gautam Adani back to the top of Asia's rich list. BLOOMBERG

PRESIDENT DONALD TRUMP said on Tuesday that talks between the US and Iran were neither taking place nor scheduled but the Strait of Hormuz was open, while Iran said the shipping route would remain closed until the US fulfilled the terms of an interim deal.

"There are no talks or conversations going on, or scheduled, with the Islamic Republic of Iran. The Naval Blockade remains in full force and effect. The Hormuz Strait is open and operating. All water mines have been removed or detonated," Trump said in a post on Truth Social.

Top Iranian negotiator Mohammad Baqer Qalibaf said in comments published by state media on Tuesday that the Strait would remain shut until the US met the conditions of an interim deal signed with Iran in June.

These conditions include the US lifting its blockade of Iranian ports, lifting oil sanctions, releasing Tehran's frozen assets, and ending threats and military operations on all fronts, Qalibaf told parliament. On Monday, Jared Kushner, Trump's son-in-law and special envoy, was optimistic about talks that he said were still underway.

Brent crude futures were up 59 cents, or 0.7%, at $91.46 a barrel. US West Texas Intermediate crude futures were up 75 cents. REUTERS

Meta targeted children to boost FB, Instagram use

● 'Meta knew platforms could harm kids but prioritised growth'

CALL FOR BIG CHANGES

■ Attorneys for Colorado, California, New Jersey, Kentucky leading 29 states, will give their opening statements

■ Meta CEO Mark Zuckerberg, Instagram head Adam Mosseri are expected to testify at the trial

■ Trial will test the four states' allegations that Meta designed Facebook and Instagram to be addictive to teens, misleading consumers about the platforms' safety for young users

META PLATFORMS INTENTIONALLY sought to addict children to its Facebook and Instagram platforms, a lawyer for California said on Tuesday at the start of a trial that could reshape some of the most popular apps on the planet.

A bipartisan group of 29 US states is suing Meta, seeking potentially tens or hundreds of billions of dollars in penalties and changes to how Meta does business.

Four lead states — California, Colorado, Kentucky and New Jersey — accuse Meta of designing Facebook and Instagram to hook young users, fueling anxiety, depression and even suicide, and misleading consumers about the platforms' safety.

Jurors will hear claims by all 29 states that Meta violated federal law by improperly collecting and using personal data of children while they used its platforms. Megan O'Neill, a deputy attorney general for California, told the eight-person jury in Oakland, California, that Meta's business model was to "hook the users, hold them for as long as they can, harvest their data, and then hide the truth from the public." "It worked especially well for kids," she added. REUTERS

OpenAI introduces 'ChatGPT for Teens'

OPENAI ON TUESDAY launched a version of ChatGPT tailored for minors, with parental controls and enhanced security features, as online platforms face scrutiny over the risks of AI chatbots.

The new "ChatGPT for Teens" mode will limit conversations about high-risk topics such as self-harm, violence and eating disorders, while offering educational tools that help students learn instead of sharing the answer, OpenAI said in a blog post.

It will automatically engage when a user is estimated to be under 18, or self-identifies their age as between 13 and 17, and will allow parents to set "Quiet Hours," manage certain settings and receive notifications when teens discuss sensitive topics.

The move aligns the ChatGPT creator with tech giants like Meta, which have bolstered protections for teens on their platforms amid mounting legal threats. —REUTERS

US 10-year yields climb to highest since 2025

The US Treasuries slid further on Tuesday, pushing yields higher by one to two basis points across maturities BLOOMBERG

A DEEPENING GLOBAL bond selloff sent the US benchmark yield to the highest since early 2025, as thin August trading met investors wary of inflation and a deluge of corporate debt supply.

US Treasuries slid further on Tuesday, pushing yields higher by one to two basis points across maturities. The 10-year yield crept up around two basis points to 4.75%, the highest in 19 months.

The moves were echoed across sovereign debt markets from Europe to Japan, fuelled by an uncertain outlook for inflation and changing bond-buyer demographics. Earlier on the day, Germany sold 30-year debt via banks paying the highest yield in 15 years.

"The selloff in Treasuries has become a macro event unto itself," Ian Lyngen, head of US rates strategy at BMO Capital Markets, wrote in a note to clients. A busy corporate issuance slate also contributed to Tuesday's moves. August issuance hit an all-time high for the month on Monday, topping $145 billion, as 12 issuers sold $9.1 billion of notes.

Even so, traders have backed off of their wagers on higher US borrowing costs this year after a series of economic data releases that support a wait-and-see approach at the Federal Reserve. In the interest-rate swaps market, traders were pricing in a roughly 35% chance that officials led by Chairman Kevin Warsh lift interest rates when they next meet in September. October is seen as a coin toss, with a hike not fully priced in until January 2027.

"We don't think the Fed hikes next month, but that doesn't mean the market is going to be pricing in a zero probability on the eve of the decision," Lyngen wrote. "Warsh's elimination of forward guidance has complicated the policy outlook to be sure." —BLOOMBERG

Pak SC orders ex-PM Imran Khan be moved to hospital from jail

THE PAKISTAN SUPREME Court (SC) on Tuesday ordered that jailed former prime minister Imran Khan be shifted to a private hospital for medical assessment and treatment within two days.

The order follows months of concern raised by 73-year-old Khan's family and supporters over his health, and repeated allegations of being denied access to adequate medical care.

The top court on Tuesday directed that Khan be taken to Shifa International Hospital in Islamabad "within the next two days" and he shall remain there until the next hearing on September 16. It also ordered the constitution of a medical board to assess the health of the former cricketer-turned-politician and treat him.

The SC also granted Khan one weekly meeting with his family during his stay at the hospital. Khan, the founder of Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf political party, has been in Rawalpindi's Adiala Jail since 2023, with several cases against him. —PTI

Sitharaman gives PSBs a Gen Z challenge

INDIA'S YOUNG POPULATION will increasingly shape the country's patterns of consumption, savings, investments, entrepreneurship and wealth creation, Sitharaman said, adding that early engagement with them is both a responsibility and a "significant opportunity" for banks.

The proposed campaign, beginning on Gandhi Jayanti, should target citizens aged 16 and above and "actively reach young people at the start of their financial journey", bringing them into the formal banking system. Banks should take the engagement to campuses rather than wait for young customers to visit branches, with colleges, universities and skill-building institutions serving as key touch-points for account opening and financial awareness.

The finance minister also suggested dedicated youth banking spaces such as 'Yuva Kiosks' or 'Yuva Banking Mitra' at branches, where employees could help young customers navigate banking, credit products, credit scores and government schemes.

She called for a web- and mobile-friendly youth banking portal that could provide simple guidance on KYC, safe banking, education, skilling, finance and entrepreneurship.

The portal could also direct users to nearby PSB branches to access services, including basic savings bank deposit accounts, while using quizzes, graphics, certificates and other interactive features to gamify financial awareness.

"The campaign should be the starting point for sustained engagement with young customers," she said, urging PSBs to become the "first and most trusted choice" for young Indians as they move through education, employment, entrepreneurship, investment and wealth creation.

On priority sector lending (PSL), she said success should be measured not merely through numerical targets but by whether credit is timely, adequate and productive. Banks should expand targeted agricultural finance, particularly for pulses and oilseeds, while aligning lending with the Prime Minister Dhan-Dhaanya Krishi Yojana.

Agricultural credit must also build climate resilience and reflect local conditions, with particular focus on small and marginal farmers.

"There cannot be one-size-fits-all," Sitharaman said, calling for financing suited to crops, climate, water availability and production conditions.

India Inc's capex reality check

NOTABLY, COMPANIES ARE no longer waiting for the ecosystem to fix itself. The Adani Group has set up a training centre in Jharkhand offering a free three-month course to build its own pipeline of linemen, and is ordering thermal equipment in advance amid shortages of boiler, turbine and generator components — in effect, stockpiling both skills and steel.

A senior Tata Group executive flagged the same pair of problems: RoW and grid connectivity. "Due to grid connectivity and load challenges, curtailments are happening," he said.

For the engineering firms that actually pour the concrete and string the wires, a project that is ready on paper does not guarantee a ready work front. Vimal Kejriwal, MD and CEO of KEC International, said converting investment intent into execution at a planned pace was a clear challenge.

"Transmission projects can face RoW, land, site-access and statutory-approval delays, while civil projects face shortages of skilled labour and specialised contractors," he said. The numbers give a sense of the strain: KEC's manpower requirement can reach 27,000-30,000 workers at peak periods. The firm is responding by substituting machines for missing hands — cranes, drone-assisted stringing, prefabrication and automated equipment.

Kalpataru Projects International has taken a similar route, using mechanisation, process improvements and training to address labour shortages. Amit Uplenchwar, director at the company, said RoW had been a challenge in some opportunities — enough, in fact, for the firm to simply walk away from projects carrying execution risk. That contractors are now pricing execution risk into their bidding decisions is itself a telling signal.

Hardware is the other pinch point. Simarpreet Singh, executive director and CEO of Hartek Power, said transformer lead times had stretched to 9-12 months, potentially leaving completed facilities waiting for grid synchronisation — a finished plant idling for want of a single piece of equipment. He also flagged shortages of skilled engineers, specialised EPC partners and certified technical site professionals.

Renewable energy shows how execution constraints can bite well before construction begins. Ravi Verma, member of the governing council of the Sustainable Projects Developers Association (SPDA), said the broader ecosystem was struggling to keep pace with investment.

"These constraints are also making global investors more cautious about participating in India's renewable energy growth story," he said.

The starkest number in the sector: around 43 GW of renewable power purchase agreements (PPAs) have been awarded but remain unsigned, Verma said. That gap between award and firm offtake leaves developers holding projects nobody has yet committed to buy power from — creating uncertainty and delaying capital deployment. A proposed ministry of new and renewable energy (MNRE) one-time relief mechanism, including a waiver of inter-state transmission system (ISTS) charges and deemed renewable purchase obligation (RPO) compliance for procurers, could help unlock these projects, he added.

> The starkest number in the sector: around 43 GW of renewable PPAs have been awarded but remain unsigned

Verma also pointed to a sequencing problem in renewable-rich states, where grid infrastructure is lagging generation capacity. "India has the capital, technology and investment appetite to support its clean-energy ambitions. But the priority now is to ensure that transmission, offtake, land, approvals, supply chains and policy frameworks move in parallel with generation capacity," he said.

That diagnosis — money is not the missing ingredient — was echoed by Shilpa Kumar, managing director and head of British International Investment (BII) India. "The solution is not more capital but better aligned capital," she said, advocating patient development-stage funding and experienced partners to manage execution risk.

Pratik Agarwal, chairman of Resonia & Serentica Renewables and MD of Sterlite Electric, framed it as an incentive-design problem. "The need of the hour is to expedite transmission to match renewables," he said, arguing that the framework should reward early completion rather than merely penalise delay.

The constraints are not confined to energy. Gokul Jaykrishna, chairman of Ficci Gujarat Council, said India had made significant progress on ease of doing business, but "there is a long way to go" and labour laws need improvement. Sometimes the disruptions are almost prosaid.

Mahesh Patel, managing director of Procyon Technology, which makes fasteners for oil and gas firms, said labour shortages delayed his factory expansion after workers returned to West Bengal for Assembly elections last year. "There is a need for automation that will reduce workforce," he added.

Yet the story is not uniformly one of friction — and Tamil Nadu offers proof that speed is possible. J Rafiq Ahmed, managing director of Kothari Industrial Corporation, said group firm Phoenix Kothari Footwear's Perambalur plant in the state became operational within a year of its 2022 agreement and now employs more than 3,000 people. Where land, labour and approvals align, projects can move from paper to payroll in twelve months.

India's capex challenge, in short, has shifted shape. For much of the past decade, the question was whether companies wanted to invest at all. That question has largely been answered: capital and appetite are increasingly available, and the announcement pipeline is the fattest in years.

The new test is one of logistics rather than confidence — whether land, labour, power, equipment and approvals can move in sync, and at the pace the pipeline now demands.

The stalled-projects ratio at a 12-year low suggests the system has learned to execute. The ₹14.8-lakh-crore quarter will show whether it has learned to execute at scale.

Tata Sons AGM adjourned...

THE BAN STEMS from an ongoing investigation into alleged governance lapses at SRTT; it could be lifted once the investigation concludes, though that will depend on the pace of the probe and its report.

It is not yet clear whether SRTT will approach higher judicial authorities for interim or longer-term relief. Once the ban is lifted, SRTT will need to convene a board meeting to nominate a member to jointly represent it and Sir Dorabji Tata Trust, the other key promoter trust, and to decide how the trust will vote on the AGM's agenda items.

Apart from approval of the year's accounts and dividend, the agenda includes the renewal of N Chandrasekaran's directorship on the board. The Trusts are believed to have blocked the second week of September for their next board meeting, though this too is contingent on SRTT getting relief from the meeting ban.

Only after that is the Tata Sons board expected to meet and finalise a new date for the AGM, the people cited above said.

Tweak FCRA Bill

Stronger oversight is justified, but overreach is no solution for NGOs

THE FOREIGN CONTRIBUTION (Regulation) Amendment Bill, 2026, has been referred to the 31-member Joint Parliament Committee for fine reading, following pushback from the Opposition and several other circles. To be sure, the Bill introduces a tighter framework for supervision, management, and disposal of foreign contributions and assets of an organisation that ceases to have an FCRA certificate. Raising concerns among stakeholders, the government can, practically at its own sweet will, decide not to renew an organisation's FCRA certificate, which will then automatically cause it to lose all assets created from foreign funds. A designated authority will take over the assets, with the promise that the funds accruing to the Consolidated Fund of India will be used for a similar public purpose. To allay the concerns of entities undertaking religious activities, an assurance is given that if an attached asset is a place of worship, its religious character will be preserved.

Yet, the provisions have been interpreted in many quarters as intention to target minority institutions. Moreover, the current Act and the Bill do not give the entities concerned an opportunity to be heard or appeal against the cancellation of FCRA certificates. The Bill additionally provides that certificate cessation shall lead to asset vesting. Critics say this provision reinforces the "draconian" nature the Act acquired after the two sets of amendments in 2010 and 2020. Several stringent clauses not contained in the original 1976 legislation are already part of the Act.

FCRA licence renewal was largely routine and easy until recent years; in practical terms, a licence once granted remained valid for life. Indeed, this led to large-scale misuse of the facility. Not all units receiving foreign contributions are above board. Hence, the requirement to renew the licence every five years was introduced in 2020. Uncertainty about renewal chances has also interrupted the flow of funds into legitimate entities and often disrupted their activities. There is no denying that the non-governmental organisation (NGO) sector in India has undertaken a tremendous amount of good work in various sectors, including education and health. At last count, 14,450 units held FCRA certificates, with annual funds inflow to these being about ₹15,000 crore.

The government has the power to reserve the right to suspend/cancel FCRA licences on serious grounds like conviction in charges of fomenting communal tension, religious conversion attempts, or gross misuse of funds. However, the allegation of rising instances of selective targeting of institutions may not be entirely baseless. Apart from an intent to closely regulate the entities receiving foreign contributions, and their activities, the review of FCRA is also aimed at curbing their wasteful spending and fund diversions. This is, however, a goal other economic laws can achieve. The government would do well to desist from micromanaging the NGO/civil society organisation activities through measures like capping the administrative expenditure at 20%. Burdening these units with a complex web of compliance requirements is unreasonable and would impede their very functioning. If the FCRA licence of an NGO is not renewed on time, that itself will block the fund flows to them, and hamper ongoing work. That is sort of a double-edged sword. The government needs to win the trust of all stakeholders by reaching out to them, and proactively discouraging arbitrary administrative actions. Lack of an appeal mechanism against abrogation of licences and asset vesting is clearly untenable and might not stand judicial scrutiny.

Ageism in the age of AI

THERE'S A NEW ruthless sport in corporate India: It is called "Guess Who Turns 45 Next?" The prize is a calendar invite titled "Strategic Realignment Discussion".

Across tech, consulting, BFSI, and even family-run conglomerates that once treated employees like extended relatives, mid-career professionals are being "restructured," "repurposed," or "right-sized." These are elegant words for a simple reality: too senior, too expensive, too yesterday. Older workers report feeling "discarded like used tissue". In India, employers admit preferring under-35 hires for their "energy" and "adaptability", that is lower salary expectations and a tolerance for 11 pm official messages.

Start-ups worship the 25-year-old founder who codes through the night. Large enterprises, once proud of long-service awards, now speak lovingly of "digital natives" while quietly wondering if anyone over 45 knows how to open Claude without calling IT support. AI did not invent age bias. It merely gave it a dashboard. Recruitment software screens CVs for "recent skills", "keyword density", and "career gaps". This is modern code for: if your graduation year suggests you once used a fax machine, goodbye. Performance analytics tools measure productivity in neat graphs. What they struggle to quantify are non-linear skills: judgement, pattern recognition, crisis management, political sensitivity — the boring things that prevent companies from collapsing.

In the IT sector, the squeeze is particularly poetic. On one side is younger, cheaper talent willing to learn five coding languages. On the other are AI systems that do not ask for increments, bonuses, or work-from-home flexibility. In the middle: the 47-year-old project manager wondering if experience has a resale value.

Upskilling is useful. But it doesn't erase structural bias. Nor does it guarantee relevance. The uncomfortable truth? AI threatens everyone. Policymakers celebrate India's demographic dividend but India Inc psychology is oddly confused. In promotions, seniority still matters. In hiring, youth reigns supreme.

The result? Leadership gaps. Mid-career professionals exit prematurely. Younger managers get promoted before their emotional maturity catches up. Teams become efficient but brittle. Cultures grow fast but shallow. Employee costs are lowered, speed is optimised, but depth is compromised.

The old learn-climb-coast route is gone. The new model is cyclical: learn, lead, unlearn, relearn, repeat. Every decade demands reinvention, every five years recalibration. Here are some thoughts to consider.

Build a brand beyond your business card: If the credibility lives only inside the company's email domain, you are one restructuring away from invisibility. Write. Speak. Teach. Share insights. Visibility is insurance.

Hedge your skill portfolio: Pair human capabilities like strategy, judgement, communication that machines can't do with AI. The goal is to become difficult to automate and even harder to ignore.

Lead before you are allowed to: Titles are granted. Influence is built. Volunteer for cross-functional projects. Mentor someone. Learn to connect dots across silos. Leadership is a practice, not promotion.

Prepare for Career 2.0: The second act might not resemble the first. Advisory roles, entrepreneurship, academia, social impact, etc. are not consolation prizes.

Stay stubbornly human: AI can draft emails, analyse trends, compose poetry. It can't care, inspire trust, or sit across from a worried employee and sense what is unsaid.

Economies thrive on both youthful energy and accumulated experience. When organisations treat mid-career professionals as depreciating assets, they create cultures of anxiety. Younger employees notice. Loyalty evaporates. Everyone quietly updates LinkedIn. Wisdom is expensive. So are mistakes.

Ironically, the obsession with youth may accelerate the very instability companies fear. When employees believe they have a 15-year expiry date, they optimise for short-term gains. Why invest emotionally in an institution that may politely escort you out at 45? The tragedy is not that some careers may plateau at 45. The tragedy is complacency — at 35. Relevance is not a gift bestowed by HR. It is a discipline.

In the age of algorithms, birthdays are irrelevant. Reinvention is everything. So whether you are 28, confidently energised, or 58, strategically seasoned, the real question remains: when the next wave of automation rolls in, will you be clinging to yesterday's expertise... or surfing tomorrow's opportunity?

TATA LEADERSHIP

HOW THEY ARE SORTED OUT IS WHAT IS IMPORTANT SO THAT THERE ARE NO PERMANENT WINNERS OR LOSERS

Differences are only natural

R GOPALAKRISHNAN
ISHAAT HUSSAIN

The authors are former directors of Tata Sons and together served Tata for over 50 years

IN THE LAST fortnight, media reportage of Tata has been prolific — from the chairman of Tata Sons not offering himself for a third term in February 2027, speculations around succession, and relationships among leaders to unearthing performance appraisal of leaders through Google Search and much more.

An Ngram analysis of Tata news reportage in August shows a huge increase in words like governance, transparency, trust, and so on. Are the recent developments in Tata signs of flaws in governance and transparency? Or do they reflect the reality that views can differ among individuals? Society teaches us that differences are normal, but how they are sorted out is important so that there are no permanent winners or losers.

The babble has been so intense and assertive that we were reminded of the adage that those who know do not speak and those who speak do not know. The reportage also made us recall the lines, "Kuch to log kahenge, logon ka kaam hai kehna, chhodo bekaar ki baton mein kahin beet na jaaye raina", from the Kishore Kumar song in Amar Prem.

That the heads of Tata Sons and Tata Trusts had professional differences is not a secret. Whether the differences were small or large, legitimate or misplaced, ego-driven or not, are all matters that only the pair concerned will know. Such a situation can occur between two perfectly well-intentioned and honourable people, and that seems to be so in this case. Indeed, it happens in other relationships like among married couples.

Common sense and experience tell us that conflicts and differences can be salvaged only through conversation, convergence, compromise, and commitment. Importantly, if salvaging a situation is not possible through reconciliation and readjustment, then a dignified and mutual separation is a valid course. Whatever the facts are, top-level differences should not affect the institution negatively.

And it is likely that that recent actions have been motivated by precisely this consideration.

History offers many cases where what appeared to be a difference of opinion was not addressed and ended up contributing to undesirable conflicts. Graceful and early resolution is essential, and often the preferred path.

If salvaging a situation is not possible through reconciliation and readjustment, then a dignified and mutual separation is a valid course

Julius Caesar and Pompey the Great were thick political allies in Rome — in fact, Pompey was Caesar's son-in-law — until personal distrust, rivalry, and competition for prestige gradually poisoned the relationship. Caesar's conquest of Gaul made him extremely powerful, and Pompey became concerned that Caesar would dominate Rome. Their growing conflict could not be resolved through negotiation or compromise. Finally, in 49 BCE, Caesar crossed the Rubicon and initiated the civil war with rival Pompey the Great.

Around World War I, Kaiser Wilhelm II ruled in Germany, King George V in England, and Tsar Nicholas II in Russia, all related as cousins. Wilhelm's impulsive behaviour, insecurity, and strained personal relations helped diminish the relationships, leading to the war. Of course, the war was not caused by just family relationships, but personal mistrust among family members lessened the opportunities for compromise.

There are three common patterns suggested by history. First, honour and prestige become key. Second, leaders personalise disputes. Third, miscommunication creates exaggerated perceptions of insults.

In the Tata case, the leaders could not resolve their issues through conversations and convergence, so the differences were extinguished through graceful adjustments. Above all, the leaders have protected their institutions.

However, such episodes tempt everyone to analyse and comment. It is in this context that Padma Shri poet, Bashir Badr, wrote, "Parakhna mat, parakhne se koi apna nahi rahta, kisi bhi aaine mein der tak chehra nahin rehta" (If you analyse too much then you will lose relationships, just as a mirror does not hold a reflection for long).

Conspiracy theories circulate where none or some may be true. In this case, some view it as a Tata Trusts versus Tata Sons dispute, some others as a Parsi versus non-Parsi dispute, yet some others as a promoter versus professional dispute, or even as an issue of capital allocation discipline. It is fruitless to criticise, analyse, and paralyse, based on assumptions.

Two facts are clear. First, in accordance with well-established Tata retirement policies, the Tata Sons chairman would anyway have given up executive positions from June 2028 upon turning 65 years of age. Therefore, the board must have had some succession plan for June 2028. Second, renewing the chairman's contract for a third term was a unanimous decision of the Trust members in September 2025, 17 months before even the ongoing contract would come up for renewal. It is this unanimous decision of the Trusts that led to the likely change in the tenure and dates of the chairman's succession. The matter appeared on the Tata Sons board agenda at the instance of the Trusts in February this year. It appears that one director expressed reservations about certain economic and business issues. In this background, bearing the interests of the employees, investments, and business of Tata Sons, the chairman has gracefully announced his timely decision not to seek re-election for a third term. The die has been cast, and attention must change to effective succession.

Tata is a rare national jewel. It is a business group that most Indians respect and love. How many business enterprises around the world can you think of that people respect and love? You can count them on your fingertips. The Tata family — employees, retirees, vendors, shareholders, and families — exceeds the populations of Belgium, the Netherlands, and Switzerland combined.

Let us, therefore, wish Tata all the best in finding a successor and returning the enterprise to its mission of creating employment, family advancement, and national prosperity.

Leaving it unfunded is UPI's biggest risk

MONICA JASUJA

Chief Expansion and Innovation Officer, Emerging Payments Asia

Case for reintroducing MDR shouldn't end with better economics for ecosystem participants, but enable stronger technology, better products, more innovation and deeper financial inclusion

EVER SINCE THE Taxation and Other Laws (Amendment) Bill, 2026, proposed changes to Section 10A of the Payment and Settlement Systems Act, public debate has collapsed into one anxious question: Will UPI now cost money to use? It will not.

What the Bill actually opens up is a merchant discount rate (MDR), or a fee some businesses may pay to banks and payment service providers (PSPs) for processing select high-value transactions on UPI. The real debate is not about whether people will pay to use UPI. It is about how the system that keeps it free for them gets funded.

The anxiety is understandable. UPI became part of daily life in India precisely because it was free, fast, and simple, and any hint of change to that feels personal. But the reintroduction of MDR on high-value UPI person-to-merchant transactions is not a change to that promise. It is what protects it.

A reasonable charge on select high-value merchant transactions, which is lower than other payment methods, can enable banks and fintechs/startups to make investments that are much needed to strengthen infrastructure. The to-do list includes enhancing cybersecurity, driving innovation, and most importantly bringing an additional 600 million citizens and 50 million merchants to digital payments.

The 600-million figure comprises two identifiable groups — smartphone users who already have a bank account and data connectivity, and feature phone users who have a bank account but have not yet been brought into UPI.

According to the National Payments Corporation of India (NPCI), UPI reaches approximately 500 million monthly active users and 230 million daily active users. The next 600 million users are not a stretch. They are already banked, reachable, and sitting just outside the current base. We do not lack the appetite for digital engagement, but its conversion into daily payment behaviour.

Additionally, the penetration of digital payments in India is about 40% of the adult population on the user side and around 50% for the merchant side. Brazil's Pix offers a useful comparison — it now reaches roughly 91% of the country's adult population, built in under five years. India's headroom is not hypothetical.

The twin statistics above highlight the significant growth potential for the Indian payment ecosystem. In two decades, building payment systems across five markets, I have seen this pattern before — adoption rarely stalls for lack of appetite. It stalls for lack of infrastructure investment behind it. Given India's demographics, economic growth, and geographical spread, its UPI ecosystem has the structural potential to grow manifold.

A calibrated MDR on select high-value UPI merchant transactions is not an entirely new cost or commercial construct

As I see it, there is a clear flow chart. A UPI free for users and small merchants leads to strengthening of the ecosystem economics, which in turn enables investment, leading to improved technology, innovation, and security. This combination leads to deepening financial inclusion and ultimately delivers better outcomes for end users.

Reintroducing MDR does not mean consumers will be charged for making UPI payments. The fundamental proposition that made UPI inclusive and accessible therefore remains intact.

MDR can create sustainable economics that drive the next wave of growth and innovation for the digital payments ecosystem. Stakeholders like banks and PSPs continuously invest in infrastructure, merchant servicing, customer support, compliance, risk management, and operations.

Moreover, large merchants already absorb substantial costs for accepting digital payment methods. Based on the previous year's card spends, the economics on these transactions together amounted to more than ₹40,000 crore in the last financial year. In other words, large merchants already understand paying for the acceptance and processing of digital payments at scale. Seen in this context, a calibrated MDR on select high-value UPI merchant transactions is not an entirely new cost or commercial construct. The more relevant question is whether such a charge is reasonable, proportionate, and directed towards sustaining and strengthening the payment ecosystem.

In this scenario, MDR can create a sustainable commercial model that enables these participants to continue investing as the ecosystem expands. My argument is: Let us think beyond cost recovery and focus on creating the economic incentive to invest in the future of digital payments.

A larger digital ecosystem also requires continuous investment in cybersecurity and trust. This means banks, fintechs, and other participants need to continuously strengthen fraud detection, threat monitoring, risk systems, authentication, and AI-led capabilities. UPI is not unsafe today. However, maintaining trust at an ever-increasing scale requires continuous investment to stay ahead of evolving threats.

A stronger ecosystem can deepen financial inclusion. Thus, financial inclusion should now move beyond simply enabling someone to make a digital payment. Sustainable economics can support greater investment in merchant acceptance, underserved markets, accessible and vernacular solutions, and products designed for people and businesses that remain at the edges of formal finance.

Last but not the least, as globally accepted sustainability models teach us, the benefits must ultimately flow back to the end user. The case for reintroducing MDR should not end with better economics for ecosystem participants. To reiterate, those economics should enable continued investment that results in stronger technology, better products, more innovation, and deeper financial inclusion.

Free is not the same as costless. Somebody has always paid to keep UPI running. The only question is whether that cost is paid honestly, by the transactions that can afford it, or paid invisibly, by a system running on borrowed time.

Some will remember this as the moment India funded its infrastructure honestly. Others will only ask if UPI stayed free. Both are right. Only one is the whole story.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Countering US

The article "Review bilateral trade strategy" (FE, August 18) should sensitise the Indian government. There are strong reasons to counter the erratic tariff hikes imposed by the US. Trump's quixotic actions are often reversed by US courts themselves. His policies and arbitrary actions are not subscribed to even by people in his own country. Importing some products remains viable even after the tariff hike. Extraneous reasons like child labour, traditional items, disregard for illegal sanctions, etc. are used as tools to maintain an upper hand, which are not appreciated even by American think tanks. India should not buckle under pressure for any reason and should retaliate in equal measure. Unfortunately, the mood of the government appears to be submissive, for reasons not explained. Corrections are imminent.

—AG Rajmohan, Anantapur

Justifiable closure

Apropos of "A prudent pause" (FE, August 18), the RBI's decision to close the foreign currency non-resident (bank) special window early appears justified. Large dollar inflows can temporarily strengthen the rupee, but excessive dependence on foreign currency deposits may create vulnerabilities when global financial conditions change. The recent pressure on the rupee underlines the need for caution. At the same time, genuine non-resident investors should not face unnecessary uncertainty. The RBI should therefore communicate its policy decisions clearly and well in advance, while maintaining adequate foreign exchange reserves to manage sudden volatility. A stable rupee cannot be achieved through short-term measures alone.

Being quick & premium

QUICK COMMERCE PLAYERS ARE LEANING TOWARDS GOURMET FOOD OFFERINGS TO IMPROVE UNIT ECONOMICS & ADVERTISING REVENUE

KARTIKAY KASHYAP

IN THEIR QUEST to achieve profitability and better unit economics, quick commerce players are rearranging their basket of offerings. Zepto is rolling out premium grocery service Select; Blinkit has expanded its Gourmet Store; Flipkart Minutes recently launched its premium grocery range, coupled with a premium snacking private label brand Pykd, while Amazon Now is piloting Gourmet Picks. This transition comes after specialist players such as FirstClub and the premium fresh produce brand Handpickd threw their hats into the ring.

For any retailer, higher sales value equals higher absolute margin per basket. According to a recent Bernstein report, most large quick commerce platforms now report an average order value in the range of ₹500-700. A premium basket, in comparison, could be worth ₹1,500-2,000. "Net-net, the basket sizes for premium products can be anywhere from 30% to 200% higher compared to mass product baskets," says Santosh Sreedhar, partner, Avalon Consulting.

But it's not just about margins — it's also about fulfilling a growing demand.

The gourmet food segment has seen rapid growth in recent years. Valued at around $5.4 billion currently, it is projected to reach $24.5 billion by 2034, expanding at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of close to 18%, according to data published by IMARC Group. The volume occupied by super-premium products in the e-retail spending basket is growing at 12% or so and is now visible even in rural demand. "It's a small share growing much faster than the whole," says Sachin Modgil, associate professor, operations & quantitative techniques, IMI Kolkata.

Premium products also feed the advertising pipeline for quick commerce brands because some of them are still quite young and brand discovery is everything for them. "While premium baskets offer stronger margin potential than mass baskets, the opportunity extends beyond margins to product discovery," says Nikhil Sethi, partner & national leader, consumer goods, KPMG India.

Additionally, while the large FMCG houses drive volume and offer lower commissions to these platforms, fragmented premium and D2C brands have no such leverage and accept higher take rates (the percentage of total transaction value that a platform or marketplace keeps as fee or commission for facilitating a sale).

A GROWING OPPORTUNITY

- The gourmet food market is valued at around $5.4 bn and is projected to reach $24.5 bn by 2034, expanding at a CAGR of 18%
- Average order value for premium products can be anywhere from 30% to 200% higher compared to mass product basket
- Take rate for platforms in premium and gourmet category is 20% higher compared to mass products
- Challenges like inventory management remain. Physical gourmet supermarkets like Foodstories & Freshpik are yet to prove their business model

Uphill task

Experts argue that urban consumers have got accustomed to ultra-fast delivery timelines and are increasingly willing to trade up for immediate, last-minute celebratory treats, specialty coffee, or gourmet snacks. For their part, having moved past the initial phase of rapid customer acquisition, platforms like Blinkit, Zepto, and Instamart want to offer existing users new reasons to stick to their apps rather than move on for better choice.

But there are challenges in scaling the gourmet category. Experts say inventory forecasting in this segment is far from easy. Since premium products do not drive volume and the customer base is small, managing perishable product storage is tricky. Then there is the challenge posed by niche players like FirstClub that have built their brand on the promise of cleanliness and quality. Kushal Bhatnagar, partner, Redseer Strategy Consultants, says such platforms offer products from niche D2C brands that are not available on regular quick commerce platforms.

In any case, "the absolute scale for gourmet stores is yet to be tested", says Vinay Singh, co-founder & partner, Fireside Ventures. Physical gourmet supermarkets like Foodstories or Freshpik continue to navigate the challenges of scaling luxury and gourmet grocery retail profitably in a price-sensitive Indian market. For instance, the operating revenue of Spencer's Retail subsidiary Nature's Basket fell 14% YoY to ₹59.3 crore in Q1FY27 with a loss of ₹19.5 crore in the same period.

On the bright side, the Spencer's Retail subsidiary has been able to stabilise its annual revenue run rate at around ₹323 crore. The company has improved gross margins sequentially in the June quarter by sharpening focus on premium food retail and experiential formats, moving away from aggressive mass-market expansion toward a sharper emphasis on affluent urban catchments and higher-margin categories.

Change is the new normal

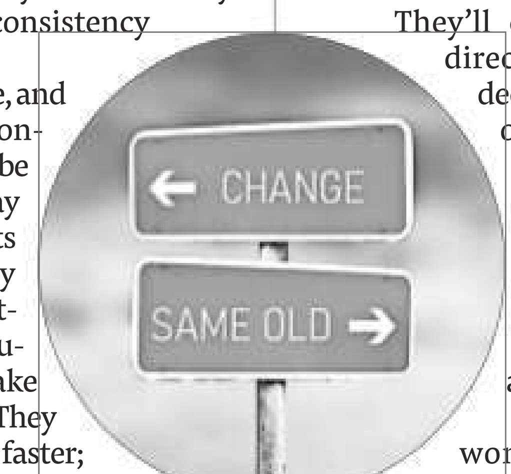
VIBHOR GULATI

FOR YEARS, DISRUPTION was something businesses prepared for. Today, it's simply how business works.

Every few months, something changes the rules. AI is reshaping how content gets created. Quick commerce is changing how people discover and buy products. Consumer attention is fragmented across platforms that barely existed a few years ago. By the time brands adapt to one shift, another one is already underway.

The brands that continue to grow are the ones that have accepted one simple truth: change is no longer an exception. It's the operating system.

One question I often hear from brands is, "How do we stay consistent when everything around us keeps changing?" My answer is always the same. Don't confuse consistency with rigidity.



A brand's values, purpose, and promise should remain constant. Everything else should be open to evolution. The way consumers discover products has changed. The way they trust brands has changed. Naturally, the way brands communicate has to change too. Take the rise of Blinkit and Zepto. They haven't just made deliveries faster; they've fundamentally reset consumer expectations. Convenience is no longer a differentiator; it's the baseline. That shift has compelled brands to rethink everything from product packaging and inventory planning to media investments and visibility on quick commerce platforms. That's what permanent disruption looks like in practice.

We've seen the same evolution in influencer marketing. Brands that once treated creators as an optional media extension are now building creator-first strategies that influence discovery, drive conversations and, more importantly, deliver measurable business outcomes. It's no longer about collaborating with the biggest names. It's about partnering with voices that consumers genuinely trust.

The same applies to technology. AI has made marketers faster, smarter and far more efficient. But efficiency alone doesn't build brands. People don't remember brands because they produced more content. They remember brands because they made them feel something, solved a problem or became part of culture. That's still a human job.

In my view, the brands that will thrive over the next decade will share three qualities. They'll experiment without losing direction. They'll make faster decisions without compromising on strategy. And they'll treat learning as a competitive advantage rather than waiting for certainty before taking action.

The pace of change isn't slowing down. If anything, it's accelerating.

The brands that succeed won't be the ones trying to predict every disruption. They'll be the ones building organisations that are comfortable operating within it. In an era of permanent disruption, adaptability isn't just a marketing capability, it's a leadership mindset. The brands that embrace it won't just survive change; they'll define what comes next.

Skin in the game

BURGER KING BELGIUM has turned TikTok's 'tanmaxxing' trend into an advertising and marketing tool this summer. The brand introduced its 'Leave The Flame Grilling To Us' campaign that turned painful sunburns into a visual storytelling moment.

The visual creatives draw parallels between overexposed skin and Burger King's iconic flame-grilled cooking, delivering a simple reminder that the grilling is best left to the experts. The photographs used in the campaign shows sharp white lines left behind by caps, sunglasses, necklaces and shorts, and rebrands each one as evidence of flame grilling. Without using the image of a burger, the brand lets the tan line and the headline do the selling.

The brand used an ongoing summer trend of exposing body skin to deepest suntan possible and connected it with its decade — old grill positioning — where Burger King differentiates itself from others with its flame-grilling process — giving its burgers real grill marks and a smoky flavour. The brand rolled out the campaign across social, digital out-of-home and the tram network along the Belgian coast, placing the ads exactly where the sunburn happens.

Paytm's unusual deal: Who owns, who gains?

A Paytm block deal has put the spotlight on an unusual ownership arrangement involving Founder Vijay Shekhar Sharma, his investment vehicle Resilient Asset Management and former shareholder Antfin. Although Resilient is selling the shares, Sharma will not receive the proceeds. Here is how legal ownership and economic interest came to be separated.

What is the Paytm transaction?

RESILIENT ASSET MANAGEMENT, an overseas investment vehicle wholly owned by Paytm founder Vijay Shekhar Sharma, is selling a part of its holding in One97 Communications, Paytm's parent, through a block deal. Ordinarily, the shareholder selling the shares would receive the economic benefit. Here, however, the value realised by Resilient will accrue to Antfin under an earlier agreement between the two entities. Paytm is not a party to the transaction, nor is Sharma selling any part of his direct holding. The deal is therefore less about its size than about the unusual rights attached to the shares being sold.

Why is the arrangement unusual?

THE ARRANGEMENT SEPARATES three elements that normally travel together: legal ownership, voting power and economic interest. Resilient holds the shares in its name and exercises the associated voting rights, giving Sharma greater influence over Paytm. Antfin, however, retained the economic interest, entitling it to the value realised when those shares are sold. Thus, one party controls how the shares are voted while another enjoys their financial value. Such structures are possible through contractual instruments, but are relatively uncommon in widely held listed companies because the registered shareholder is usually also the ultimate economic beneficiary.

How did this arrangement originate?

IN AUGUST 2023, Resilient acquired a little over 10% of Paytm shares from Antfin. Instead of paying cash immediately, Resilient issued optionally convertible debentures (OCDs) to Antfin as consideration. The transaction transferred legal ownership and voting rights to Resilient, while Antfin retained the underlying economic interest through the OCD agreement. It allowed Antfin to reduce its direct shareholding and Sharma to emerge as Paytm's largest voting shareholder without making an immediate cash payment. The latest sale is effectively the monetisation of part of that earlier holding, with the proceeds being applied according to the original contractual arrangement.

Is Vijay Shekhar Sharma selling his Paytm stake?

NOT IN THE conventional sense. Sharma's direct holding in Paytm remains unchanged. The shares are being sold by Resilient, which he owns, but he will not receive their economic value because that belongs to Antfin under the OCD arrangement. The transaction will reduce the number of Paytm shares legally held by Resilient and, consequently, the voting rights exercised through it. It should not, however, be viewed as Sharma personally cashing out of Paytm.

The distinction is important: while his aggregate voting influence may decline, his personal direct investment and the wealth represented by that holding are unaffected by this sale.

~2.95%

OF ONE97 COMMUNICATIONS'S EQUITY WORTH ₹2,949 CRORE CHANGED HANDS

THE DEAL IS LESS ABOUT ITS SIZE THAN ABOUT THE UNUSUAL RIGHTS ATTACHED TO THE SHARES BEING SOLD

What this deal means for Antfin

ANTFIN HAD ALREADY exited its direct shareholding in Paytm, but continued to retain an indirect economic interest through the OCDs issued by Resilient. The block sale enables part of that interest to be monetised. Its financial exposure to Paytm will therefore decline further, even though it was not the registered owner of the shares being sold. This is another unusual feature of the transaction: the sale appears in the market as one by a Sharma-owned entity, while its economic effect is to facilitate Antfin's continuing exit. It further unwinds a relationship that was once central to Paytm's ownership structure.

What should shareholders take away from the deal?

FOR INVESTORS, THE immediate issue is the additional supply of shares and the market's ability to absorb it. The more important governance issue is the distinction between ownership on paper and the ultimate economic beneficiary. Investors should track how much of Resilient's holding remains covered by the OCD arrangement, how its voting rights change after the sale and when Antfin's residual economic interest will be extinguished. The transaction does not alter Paytm's operations or Sharma's position as founder and chief executive. But it illustrates how contractual arrangements can make a company's real ownership economics more complex than its shareholding table suggests.

AMID ROW OVER E20 FUEL

First talks underway on feasibility of an E10 option as well

SUKALP SHARMA
New Delhi, August 18

AMID THE ROW over E20 fuel, comprising 80% petrol and 20% ethanol, being the only standard petrol variant sold across the country, early exploratory discussions within the government and the industry are underway on whether E10 petrol, which has 10% ethanol, can also be retailed for older vehicles alongside the E20 fuel, according to sources aware of the matter.

India achieved 20% ethanol blending in petrol last year, five years ahead of the original deadline. There has been opposition to the E20 fuel from various quarters, with claims ranging from notable reduction in mileage and engine component wear in older vehicles whose engines were not designed for higher ethanol blends.

On its part, the government has been trying to allay fears, saying the drop in mileage in older vehicles would be 3-5% at most, and would be outweighed by E20's benefits as it is a superior fuel. It has also consistently rejected claims that E20 fuel could damage engine components.

Questions have also been raised on why motorists aren't being offered the choice of pure petrol, E10 and E20 fuels. Some Opposition leaders have also raised questions over this lack of choice.

The discussions, described as "preliminary" and "keeping the older vehicles in mind", are being held on various technical as well as non-technical aspects of the country's complex fuel retail supply chain, and no concrete conclusions have been arrived at yet, sources indicated.

They said the backlash from certain quarters against E20 and the lack of choice for consumers, specifically those with older vehicles, particularly two-wheelers, that were certified for E10 petrol, led to the initiation of these discussions. In July, the government had said that offering multiple grades of base fuel across the country would create an "enormous logistical challenge", apart from raising costs and reducing operational efficiencies in India's complex fuel retail network.

It also said that the current base fuel E20 is cleaner and superior than pure petrol and lower ethanol-petrol blends, has required massive investments, and that reverting to a lower blend level will not be prudent on various counts.

Questions have also been raised on why motorists aren't being offered the choice of pure petrol, E10 and E20 fuels

Petrol is the second most consumed petroleum fuel in India – about 43 million tonne of petrol was consumed in the country in 2025-26.

But a rethink now appears to be on the table. An opinion article co-authored by Chief Economic Adviser V Anantha Nageswaran called for lower ethanol-petrol blend, say E10, to also be available alongside E20 fuel. While the views expressed in the article were personal, this is the first instance of a high-ranking government official publicly calling for more petrol options to be made available.

"Restoring a lower blend at the pumps, say, E10, alongside the option to buy E20, would calm most public concern, lower total ethanol use instead of raising it, and protect the existing fleet while the retrofit programme catches up," Nageswaran and Akash Poojari, a consultant in Department of Economic Affairs (DEA), wrote in their article.

A request for comment sent to the Ministry of Petroleum and Natural Gas (MoPNG) on the matter did not elicit a response.

According to auto industry insiders, petrol vehicles manufactured and sold after April 2023 are considered fully E20-compliant as this was mandated under the Bharat Stage 6 (BS6) phase two emission norms. This means that all vehicles currently being sold by manufacturers are fully compliant with E20, but most vehicles that were sold prior to 2023 are not.

The permissible life of a petrol vehicle in the National Capital Region (NCR) is 15 years, which means that cars manufactured in 2022 can be in use until 2037 under the current norms. According to a senior oil industry official, making two base variants of petrol available simultaneously isn't "simple and straightforward", and would involve various complexities. "It will be like introducing a new petrol variant altogether, that too in large volumes. Apart from the base fuel (E20), we do have two-three premium petrol variants, but their consumption is minuscule compared to the base petrol, so it is not too complicated to offer some volumes of such fuels along with E20...," the industry official said.

ALTERNATIVE OPTION

- Backlash over mileage, engine wear and lack of consumer choice prompted discussions
- First public call from senior govt official for offering E10 alongside E20
- Vehicles sold before April 2023 are largely not fully E20-compliant
- Petrol cars made in 2022 can remain on NCR roads until 2037
- Parallel E10 supply chain would pose major logistical & infra challenges
- India consumed about 43 million tonne of petrol in 2025-26

Goyal to visit Japan from August 24-27

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
New Delhi, August 18

COMMERCE AND INDUSTRY Minister Piyush Goyal on Tuesday said that he will visit Japan from August 24 to hold discussions on strengthening trade and investment ties between the two countries.

Japan has set an investment target of 10 trillion yen (about ₹60,000 crore) in India over a decade.

Addressing a Japanese delegation here, the minister said this investment is already visible on the ground, in Mumbai-Ahmedabad High-Speed Rail, Japanese-assisted metro systems in Delhi, Ahmedabad, Bengaluru and Chennai, and in 11 Japanese industrial townships across eight states.

Talking about Prime Minister Narendra Modi's vision of a developed India by 2047 through seven streams or 'Sapta Dhara' - manufacturing, agriculture, technology, infrastructure, energy and defence, green and blue economy, and India's civilisational soft power, he said these very pillars of transformation are where the strengths of India and Japan. "This is not only a growth story but our pledge to become a trusted partner in global progress," Goyal said.

He added that India-Japan bilateral trade of $27.5 billion in 2025-26 is still a fraction of bilateral potential.

NSE seeks IPO valuation of ₹5.26 lakh cr

INDIA'S LARGEST STOCK exchange held several investor meetings across Boston, New York, San Francisco, London, Singapore and Hong Kong, according to the people. The meetings involved about 120 large global investors such as BlackRock, Capital Group, GQG Partners, Janus Henderson Group and Allspring Global Investments, among others, they said.

NSE had been expecting approval from the Securities and Exchange Board of India for its draft prospectus by early August, but that timeline has been pushed back about three weeks because of changes to the list of selling shareholders with the addition of SBI Capital Markets, the people said. Changes to the IPO documents require a 21-day period for public feedback, they said.

The IPO is now expected to launch in the second half of September, the people said.

At the top of the marketed range, NSE would rank sixth in market value among global exchange operators, narrowly behind London Stock Exchange Group and just ahead of Nasdaq. CME Group and Intercontinental Exchange are currently the top of the list at about $97 billion and $86.9 billion, respectively.

At a $55-billion valuation, NSE's sale of the 6% stake on offer could raise about ₹31,500 crore, surpassing the ₹27,870 crore raised by Hyundai Motor India in 2024, the country's largest IPO to date.

The exchange filed its draft prospectus in June for an offering that will consist entirely of secondary share sales.

Amazon Seller posts...

IT ALSO CUT closing fees on self-shipped orders, from ₹45 to ₹20 for products below ₹300 and from ₹35 to ₹26 for those priced between ₹300 and ₹500.

A second and much larger round was announced in March this year.

Zero referral fees were extended to products priced under ₹1,000 across more than 1,800 categories, taking coverage to about 125 million listings, a more than tenfold expansion.

Referral fees were also cut by 4% to 9.5% in high-demand categories priced above ₹1,000, including apparel, healthcare, home improvement, home appliances, personal care, grocery, pet care, footwear and automotive, while Easy Ship fees were reduced by over 20% for products below ₹300.

Amazon has said sellers can save up to 70% on total selling fees under the revised structure, and that new seller signups grew close to 50% after the first round. Because the expansion landed in the last two weeks of FY26, almost all of its impact will show up in FY27.

The cuts track a wider retreat from commission across e-commerce platforms in India. Walmart-owned Flipkart extended its own zero-commission threshold to products below ₹1,000 in November 2025 and moved Shopsy to a fully zero-commission structure, while Meesho has built its seller base on a no-commission model.

The FY26 numbers extend a turnaround that began two years ago.

ASSPL had narrowed its net loss to ₹374.3 crore in FY25 from ₹3,469.5 crore in FY24, with revenue from operations at ₹30,138.6 crore.

The improvement in profitability comes even as Amazon steps up spending in India. The company announced an investment of over ₹2,800 crore in 2026 towards fulfilment and last-mile infrastructure and worker welfare programmes, and has committed $48 billion in India through 2030.

A large part of that is going into Amazon Now, its quick commerce service, which it has taken to 100 cities on the back of more than 1,000 micro-fulfilment centres, up from around 300 in April.

In June it began adding over 100 larger-format urban fulfilment centres across Bengaluru, Chennai, Delhi-NCR, Hyderabad and Mumbai, carrying four times the selection and extending the minutes-delivery range from groceries and essentials into apparel, electronics, jewellery and furniture. That build puts it in direct competition with Blinkit, Instamart, Zepto and Flipkart Minutes.

Boardroom bar may rise...

AN INDEPENDENT DIRECTOR is expected to take decisions in the interest of the company, while the professional firm might have an interest in retaining business from it or its group.

"The change gives the government flexibility to respond to evolving market practices and regulatory expectations. It could bring higher scrutiny to commercial relationships between professional firms and companies where their partners serve as independent directors," said Subodh Dandawate, associate director (regulatory advisory) at Nexdigm.

Currently, as per Section 149 of the Companies Act, 2013, an individual associated as an employee, proprietor or partner with a legal or consulting firm can face disqualification as an independent director if transactions between the firm and the company (or its holding, subsidiary or associate company) amount to 10% or more of the firm's gross turnover. Further, the Bill allows an independent director to continue with the legal or consulting firm as long as transactions with the company remain below the prescribed limit. It also states that "every independent director shall ensure that he continues to fulfil the requirements specified under sub-section (6) during the term of his appointment."

A 31-member joint parliamentary committee (JPC) has recently recommended changes to the Bill, including clarifications on the independence requirements that directors must continue to meet during their tenure and the application of the cooling-off provisions to group companies.

"The impact of this provision will depend on the threshold it ultimately prescribed and the accompanying rules on measurement, disclosure and ongoing compliance. Companies and professional firms will need robust, group-wide systems to monitor relevant engagements while ensuring that the implementation framework does not create unnecessary duplication in certification requirements — an issue recognised by the JPC, which also noted that the proposed amendments seek to strengthen the continuing independence of independent directors," said Manendra Singh, partner at Economic Laws Practice.

Food safety...

AT THE STORE level, the pressure is already visible. A dark store operator in Andheri West, Mumbai, who did not wish to be named, said the facility had been shut pre-emptively to complete compliance requirements before inspectors arrived and would reopen once records and staffing were in place. Multiple operators in Bengaluru's Koramangala and JP Nagar said they had started hiring at short notice, with certified candidates taking longer than usual to find.

Operators are increasingly using contract consultants as a stopgap rather than waiting to fill permanent positions. Industry experts said this could create compliance on paper without necessarily changing day-to-day practices, since consultants brought in for an audit cycle are not responsible for operations between inspections.

"Passing audits and completing paperwork do not always result in proper food-safety practices at the store level," Sachdeva said. "With the current backdrop of a series of raids on quick-commerce dark stores, the approach may change as companies reassess their food safety and compliance requirements," Gupta added.

The regulator's own findings point to gaps in the staffing and oversight of food handlers. In its order suspending Blinkit's Malad West store's licence, the Maharashtra FDA listed the absence of medical examination and regular health records of food-handling staff, and a lack of personal hygiene and protective equipment, among the violations.

The pressure is likely to increase during the festive season. Adecco expects demand for food safety talent to rise 15-25%, while NLB Services expects quick commerce companies to increase temporary hiring by 35-40%.

The developments come as enforcement has intensified over the past two weeks. Maharashtra has suspended 14 dark store licences linked to Blinkit, Zepto and Instamart. Karnataka has sealed a Zepto warehouse in Hoskote taluk and flagged lapses at a Zomato Hyperpure facility in Bengaluru.

HIGH-POWERED PANEL TO EXAMINE NEET PROTEST INCIDENTS

Police excesses: SC to form probe panel

ANANTHAKRISHNAN G
New Delhi, August 18

HEARING A CLUTCH of petitions ranging from alleged use of excessive force against protesters to allegations of sexual assault and online harassment, the Supreme Court on Tuesday proposed the formation of a high-powered committee to investigate all issues related to the Jantar Mantar protest.

A three-judge bench, headed by Chief Justice of India Surya Kant, indicated that the committee would comprise a former Supreme Court judge, a former High Court Chief Justice and a retired police officer who had held the rank of Director General of Police.

The bench, also comprising Justice Joymalya Bagchi and Justice V Mohana, said it had already secured the consent of a former CBI chief and a retired state police chief for the assignment.

JPSC-JSSC aspirants wave the national flag as they celebrate after the Jharkhand government accepted their demands and cancelled the JSSC-CGL examination and all exams conducted on behalf of TDPL, in Ranchi on Monday ANI

"We have obtained consent of a former Director of CBI to be a member, a very eminent officer who retired a couple of years ago. We have also obtained consent of a former Director General of Police of a state, which has nothing to do with this. He is also a retired officer," the CJI said.

He told the parties that the two options were being kept open because the court did not want anyone to raise any allegation in the future against the presence of the CBI officer.

"We don't want to disclose the name because we don't want any embarrassment to the officials. Out of the two, who do you think we should include in the committee? Or you leave it to us," the CJI said.

He said if the parties provide their suggestions on the committee's terms of reference, the order may be out Wednesday itself. "Once your suggestions come, we will be able to release the order tomorrow," he said.

"We are quite sure that the committee will give an immediate voice and audience to any victim who approaches it," the CJI said.

"We will await the recommendations which the committee will make from time to time, and the necessary legal consequences must follow," he said.

The July 20 march towards Parliament by protesters, led by the Cockroach Janta Party, was stopped by security personnel who used lathis and tear gas to disperse the crowd. There were allegations of security forces using pellet guns and surveilling students using facial recognition technology.

To a counsel representing a woman who alleged she was being attacked on social media for participating in the protest, the CJI said the committee will look into allegations concerning sexual assault and online harassment and victimisation of other vulnerable persons through social media.

"Whosoever is responsible, there can be no excuse and no justification. It must be taken seriously and taken to its logical conclusion. That is why we are constituting a high-powered committee. The committee will look into each and every aspect of these matters," he said.

Solicitor General Tushar Mehta, appearing for the Centre, said the facial recognition technology used at the site only registered the details of those who already had criminal records.

He said except for 2,873 such individuals in grave cases involving murder, rape, abductions, etc., the cases against others could be quashed.

Advocate Vrinda Grover said the court could consider using Article 142 powers to quash the FIRs against student protesters as assured by the state.

To this, Mehta said, "FIRs against student protesters must be quashed. How, it's for Your Lordships to decide. But as I already pointed out, some elements with serious criminal antecedents also infiltrated. They will have to be investigated."

CJP warns govt against opposing FIR quashing

THE COCKROACH JANTA Party (CJP) on Tuesday accused the Centre of resisting the Supreme Court's bid to facilitate quashing of FIRs against students and protesters and demanded that the outfit's members be included in the high-powered committee announced by the court to examine allegations of police excesses and violence against cops.

"If the government does not immediately demonstrate concrete steps towards honouring the July 25 commitments, the Cockroach Janta Party will convene its National Working Committee within the next two days to decide the next course of nationwide action," CJP chief spokesperson Saurav Das told reporters. He said the outfit had called off its nationwide agitation on July 25 in good faith after the government gave commitments on withdrawal of FIRs, protection of protesters from punitive action and compensation to affected families.

The SC said three times to the govt today that you should give us this list

In a statement posted on X, Das said the Supreme Court had sought a list of FIRs registered against students and protesters across the country from the Union government so that it could consider quashing them at one go by exercising its powers under Article 142.

He alleged that the Union government's lawyer did not commit to furnishing the list and instead resisted the move. Das said if the government does not take concrete steps towards honouring the July 25 commitments, the CJP's National Working Committee will meet in the next two days.

"What CJP does next will depend entirely upon what the Government of India chooses to do now," he said.

Speaking to the media outside the Supreme Court, Das said the apex court during the day's hearing on the alleged violence against protesters on July 20 in and around Jantar Mantar had asked the government three times to provide a list of FIRs registered against protesters.

"The government has not given a commitment to the Supreme Court today that they are going to give it (the list of FIRs). The SC said three times to the government today that you should give us this list, only then will we quash it." He demanded that the government submit to the Supreme Court the list of cases that can be quashed. —PTI

CISF security, four-tier checks for NTA exams

AFTER MULTIPLE EXAM paper leaks and other irregularities, the Centre on Tuesday announced a major overhaul of the examination systems at the National Testing Agency (NTA).

The changes include a four-tier paper-checking process, removal of 600 experts along with onboarding of new ones and CISF-secured offices.

"A four-tier question paper checking system will be put in place to strengthen the scrutiny of examination papers," the statement said, adding that about 25 officials will be inducted in next two to three weeks, while further induction plan has also been reviewed. In addition, NTA offices will be shifted to the new premises on a war footing where security will be reinforced with CISF teams.

The measures come after Union Education Minister Pralhad Joshi held a meeting with the Secretary, Department of Higher Education, NTA Director General and other senior officials to review the steps being taken by the agency, particularly after the recent issues with the University Grant Commission-National Eligibility Test (UGC-NET) June 2026 examination.

India's ageing population rewrites realty playbook

● Senior living mkt set to touch ₹1 L-cr by 2030

GEETA NAIR
Pune, August 18

INDIA'S RAPIDLY AGEING population is opening up a massive new real estate opportunity, with developers and investors set to deploy around ₹13,000 crore in senior living projects over the next 3-4 years. The market is expected to quadruple to ₹1 lakh crore by 2030, while demand for senior housing is projected to reach 30 lakh units, according to a Colliers India report.

As many as 30-40% of new project launches are likely to be in Tier II/III cities and spiritual hubs. Organised supply could increase from the present 25,000 units to one lakh units by 2030. According to Colliers, India's senior living market currently stands at around ₹3,000 crore, almost 70% higher than the 2024 level. The penetration rate in the segment is expected to rise from above 1% to 4% over the next 3-4 years, the report said.

"India's senior living market is entering a period of accelerated growth, driven by strong demographic shifts and evolving socio-economic dynamics. With a rapidly expanding elderly population and rising demand for professionally managed senior housing and care solutions, the market presents significant long-term growth opportunities, Badal Yagnik, Chief Executive Officer and Managing Director, Colliers India. Increasing policy support, growing investor participation and collaboration among leading developers and healthcare operators are likely to redefine senior living offerings across the country," Yagnik said.

According to Colliers, the segment is seeing an increase in strategic partnerships with healthcare service providers. Institutional investors are forming joint-venture platforms with leading real estate developers and planning to expand their senior-living footprint across key markets.

Take, for instance, Shremoha, a premium senior living platform, which has announced senior living development partnerships in Pune and Gurugram. It has tied up with Tru Realty for its Kekarav project in Pune, and with KREEVA in Gurugram. Shremoha is a partnership between Shrem Group and Emoha, a part of Age Care Labs. Saumyajit Roy, co-founder and CEO of Emoha Elder Care and co-founder of Shremoha, said that the future of senior living is not about care alone but about creating places where people can continue to live with purpose, independence and meaningful human connections. Sujay Kalele, managing director, TRU Realty, said they will deliver 250 residences at the Kekarav Township in Pune. KREEVA founder Gautam Kanodia said they were partnering with Shremoha on their upcoming multigenerational project in Gurugram.

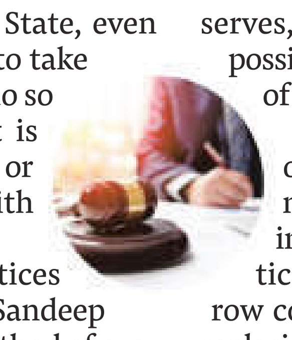
Real estate company Pioneer Urban is also developing a 164-home senior living project, Advait, in Gurugram across 2.6 acres.

According to Colliers, the regulatory environment for senior living is being strengthened to bring greater standardisation, transparency, operational efficiency and accountability. Haryana and Maharashtra have taken proactive steps towards establishing dedicated guidelines and policies for senior living projects.

Apex court dismisses plea seeking abolition of execution by hanging

THE SUPREME COURT on Tuesday said the State, even when authorised to take away life, cannot do so in a manner that is arbitrary, excessive or incompatible with human dignity.



A bench of Justices Vikram Nath and Sandeep Mehta said the method of execution must satisfy the constitutional requirements that it minimises suffering and preserves, to the greatest extent possible, the inherent dignity of the condemned.

The bench made the observations while dismissing a petition seeking abolition of the practice of executing a death row convict by hanging and replacing it with methods such as intravenous lethal injection.

In its verdict, the top court said among all punishments permitted by the law, death penalty stands apart in its severity and finality.

"When a court of law, upon due adjudication, imposes a sentence of death for a crime, the State, through its constitutional machinery, is called upon to carry out a punishment of the gravest nature, one that, once executed, is incapable of being undone," it said. —PTI

f. Management's perception of risk factors;
- The Chemicals and Vinyl businesses are energy-intensive in nature, leading to cost and sustainability-related challenges. Further, sugarcane production, crop yields and recovery rates remain sensitive to climate-related risks and changing weather conditions.
- Escalating geopolitical tensions and changes in global trade policies, including sanctions, protectionist actions and export restrictions, may result in fluctuations in raw material prices, limited availability of key inputs, and disruptions in international logistics and transit routes. Such developments could affect production costs, working capital cycles, operational stability, and continuity of supplies.
- Certain businesses being capital intensive, can expose the company to financial risks.
- Certain businesses viz. sugar, fertilizer, and agri-inputs are subject to regulatory interventions & climate risks which can impact operations and profitability.
- Risk of data loss, and information security and privacy breach can lead to accidental exposure of confidential information, result in regulatory non-compliance and attract legal liabilities which may also result in risk of financial/business loss.

MANAGEMENT'S RESPONSIBILITY

3. The preparation of the Form DPT-1 is the responsibility of the Management of the Company, including the preparation and maintenance of all accounting and other relevant supporting records and documents as prescribed by the Companies (Acceptance of Deposits) Rules, 2014 ("Rules"). This responsibility includes collecting, collating and validating data and presentation thereof in Form DPT-1 and the design, implementation and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and presentation of the Form DPT-1 and applying an appropriate basis of preparation; and making estimates that are reasonable in the circumstances.

AUDITORS' RESPONSIBILITY

5. Our procedures have been planned to obtain all information and explanations that we considered necessary to provide limited assurance on the absence of defaults, if any, in the repayment of deposits or in the payment of interest on such deposits accepted either before or after the commencement of the Act and the making good of defaults, if any, identified. Further, it is our responsibility to verify, based on the information and explanations provided to us by the Management, that, in case the Company has committed a default in the repayment of deposits accepted either before or after the commencement of the Act or in the payment of interest on such deposits, the Company had made good the default and a period of five years has lapsed since the date of making good the default as the case may be. The Guidance note requires that we comply with the ethical requirements of the Code of Ethics issued by the ICAI. The procedures performed in a limited assurance engagement vary in nature, and are less in extent than for, a reasonable assurance engagement and consequently the level of assurance obtained in a limited assurance engagement is substantially lower than the assurance that have been obtained had a reasonable assurance engagement been performed.

2. Risks related to maintaining acquisitions and strategic investments:
   We may not be successful in identifying and negotiating acquisitions, alliances or investments on terms favourable to us or at all. The benefits of an acquisition or strategic transaction may also take considerable time to develop, and we cannot be certain that any particular transaction will produce the intended benefits or benefits at all and may incur losses.
3. Risks related to Objects of the Offer and its utilization:
   We intend to use the Net Proceeds towards investment in the growth of our platforms. The Emerging Business is a newer business for our Company and its success will depend in part on our ability to design and develop new product offerings that meet the needs of Merchants. Moreover, our funding requirements and proposed deployment of Net Proceeds of the Offer are based on management estimates and have not been independently appraised by a bank or a financial institution and if there are any delays or cost overruns, our results of operations may be adversely affected.
4. Risks related to our business with Merchants:
   Our results of operations and cash flows are significantly impacted by the operational results and business decisions of our Merchants, the web traffic they are able to generate, and our ability to attract Merchants through online channels, all of which are beyond our control.
5. Risks related to our cross-border business:
   Expansion into new international markets may be challenged by limited local expertise, partner networks, and heightened competition. Significant investments may be required to grow our cross-border business, with uncertain timing and realization of returns.
6. Risks related to negative operating cash flow:
   We have incurred negative cash flows from operations in Fiscal 2024, and may incur negative cash flows in the future as we invest in growing our merchant base, product portfolio and business operations. The table below sets forth our net cash flows from / (used in) operating activities for the Fiscals indicated.

7. Risks related to arrangement with our logistics partners:
   Our non-exclusive arrangements with logistics partners may result in service prioritization for competitors, contract non-renewals, or competitive offerings, adversely affecting our business and financial performance.
8. Expansion Risk:
   We may face challenges expanding into new business verticals or product categories, potentially leading to the incurrence of substantial expenditure and/or delayed returns on investment, which could adversely affect our business, financial condition, cash flows and results of operations.
9. Risks related to management of our fulfilment centres:
   Inability to efficiently manage fulfilment centres or renew related lease and warehouse management agreements on favourable terms may adversely affect our business and financial performance.
10. Offer-related risk:
    The Offer is being undertaken as a Fresh Issue of Equity Shares as well as an Offer for Sale of Equity Shares by the Selling Shareholders. The proceeds from the Offer for Sale will be paid to the Selling Shareholders and we will not receive any proceeds from the Offer for sale.
11. Since Company has incurred loss in Fiscal 2026 based on Restated Consolidated Financial Information, the basic and diluted EPS is negative, and hence, the Price to Earnings ratio is not ascertainable. The average industry peer group PE ratio is 47.75 for Fiscal 2026.

RISK TO INVESTORS

For details, refer to section titled "Risk Factors" on page 28 of the RHP.

1) Revenue dependence on sale of Active Pharmaceutical Ingredients ("APIs"):

We derive almost all of our revenue from the sale of API products, including corticosteroid and steroidal-hormones. In addition to manufacturing API products that we sell, we offer our services as a contract development and manufacturing organisation ("CDMO") for specialty pharmaceutical and nutraceutical companies. Any reduction in demand for API products, and our top products in particular, or a temporary or permanent discontinuation in our manufacturing operations for such products, could have an adverse effect on our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

Particulars	Fiscal 2026		Fiscal 2025		Fiscal 2024
	Amount (₹ million)	Percentage of revenue from operations (%)	Amount (₹ million)	Percentage of revenue from operations (%)	Amount (₹ million)	Percentage of revenue from operations (%)
Sale of APIs (A)	8,350.05	96.07%	7,447.54	99.10%	7,162.47	100.00%
Sale of complex injectables (B)	330.50	3.80%	-	-	-	-

2) Audit and inspections risk: We operate in a highly competitive industry where regulatory standards are not only extensive but also continuously evolving. We are required to comply with regulations and quality standards stipulated by regulatory authorities and certain of our customers. Our manufacturing facilities and products are subject to periodic inspections and audits by these regulatory authorities and customers. If we are not in compliance with the requirements prescribed by such authorities or terms stipulated in contracts with our customers, we may be subject to regulatory actions, including issuance of warning letters, imposition of sanctions, amendment or withdrawal of our existing approvals, product seizure, interruption of our operations, or claims resulting from non-compliance with contractual obligations.

3) Dependence on export markets: As of March 31, 2026, revenue from external customers outside India contributed 67.04%, 55.19% and 59.97% of our revenue from operations in Fiscals 2026, 2025 and 2024, respectively. Our inability to handle risks associated with our export sales could adversely affect our sales to customers in foreign countries, our results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

Particulars	Fiscal 2026		Fiscal 2025		Fiscal 2024
	Amount (₹ million)	Percentage of revenue from operations (%)	Amount (₹ million)	Percentage of revenue from operations (%)	Amount (₹ million)	Percentage of revenue from operations (%)

4) Tariff and anti-sourcing risk: Revenue from the United States represented 13.12%, 4.02% and 8.97% of our revenue from operations for Fiscals 2026, 2025 and 2024. The imposition of tariffs or other anti-sourcing measures by the United States could increase our costs, affect the competitiveness of our products and adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

5) Customer concentration risk: We derive a substantial portion of our revenue from certain key customers, with our top ten customers accounting for 57.59%, 55.90% and 61.65% of our revenue from sale of products in Fiscals 2026,2025 and 2024, respectively. Any loss of, or reduction in orders from, these customers could adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

6) Geographic concentration risk: As of March 31, 2026, we operated the Rau Facility and the Pithampur Facility in the state of Madhya Pradesh in India. In addition, our Ujjain Facility and our Mhow Facility, which we have commissioned and where we have started R&D and pilot-scale operations as of March 31, 2026, are also located in Madhya Pradesh. Any adverse developments affecting Madhya Pradesh or its surrounding regions could adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows. A slowdown, interruption or shutdown in our manufacturing operations could have an adverse effect on our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

7) Supplier concentration risk: We depend on certain suppliers for raw materials for our operations. Purchases from our top ten suppliers accounted for 25.50%, 18.41% and 50.33% of our total expenses in Fiscals 2026, 2025 and 2024, respectively. Any loss of such suppliers or non-performance of their obligations could adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

Particulars	Fiscal 2026		Fiscal 2025		Fiscal 2024
	Amount (₹ million)	Percentage of total expenses (%)	Amount (₹ million)	Percentage of total expenses (%)	Amount (₹ million)	Percentage of total expenses (%)
Top five suppliers	1,501.96	21.16%	850.41	13.97%	2,293.90	38.81%
Top ten suppliers	1,810.15	25.50%	1,120.78	18.41%	2,974.31	50.33%

8) Competition risk: We operate in a highly competitive market. We face competition both within our API manufacturing business and in our role as a CDMO, which we have recently commenced. An inability to compete effectively may adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

9) Dependence on imported raw materials: We procure a portion of our raw material requirements from different countries, including China and the United States. Any adverse developments in these countries, or the laws governing our imports from these countries, could disrupt our raw material supply and adversely affect our results of operations, financial condition and cash flows

10) Product development risk: Our success depends on our ability to develop and commercialise new products in a timely manner. Our research and development ("R&D") efforts are central to our ability to build, scale, and sustain complex manufacturing technologies across platforms. If our research and development efforts do not succeed, or the products we commercialise do not perform as expected, the introduction of new products may be hindered, which could adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows. In order to remain competitive, we must develop, test and manufacture new products, which must meet regulatory standards and receive requisite regulatory approvals.
