Tata Trusts steps up battle as legal heavyweights join

● Singhvi: SC defended Tata Sons' Articles of Association

FE BUREAU
Mumbai, September 20

TATATRUSTS ON Sunday challenged the validity of Tata Sons' decision to reappoint N Chandrasekaran as chairman, arguing that the September 17 resolution failed to meet a key requirement under the holding company's Articles of Association (AoA), even as both sides assembled leading corporate lawyers and litigators for a potential legal battle.

The Trusts, which hold about 66% of Tata Sons, said the AoA require the affirmative support of at least a majority of directors nominated by them before a board decision can take effect.

FROM BOARDROOM TO COURTROOM

■ Tata Trusts challenged the validity of Chandrasekaran's reappointment as chairman for a further 5-year term

■ Affirmative support from Trust-nominated directors mandatory as per AoA

■ Both camps have now assembled heavyweight legal teams ahead of a possible court battle

■ Trusts advised by Cyril Shroff, Deshmukh and Vasani; senior advocates Chinoy, Singhvi and Rohatgi retained

■ Tata Sons and Chandrasekaran advised by Anagram Partners; Salve and Kadam retained as senior advocates

With two Trust-nominated directors currently on the Tata Sons board, it argued that both had to support the resolution.

At the September 17 meeting, Tata Trusts Chairman Noel Tata opposed Chandrasekaran's reappointment, while the other Trust-nominated director, Venu Srinivasan, supported it. The Tata Sons board backed a further five-year term for Chandrasekaran, beginning February 21, 2027. The Trusts said the split between its two nominees meant the affirmative-vote condition prescribed by the AoA was not satisfied. "Whether the result of the vote was 4:1, or any other figure, is irrelevant. A condition is either met, or it is not. In this case the condition was not met," it said. It also rejected the contention that a casting vote could cure the deficiency.

SPECIALISED INVESTMENT FUNDS (SIFs) marked their first anniversary with a sharp acceleration in assets, with net assets surging 35% to ₹31,175 crore in August from ₹23,177 crore a month earlier, driven by strong investor interest in equity and hybrid strategies.

The surge comes at a time when monthly systematic investment plan (SIP) contributions to mutual funds also touched an all-time high of ₹32,297 crore in August, highlighting continued investor interest in equities despite tepid performance of benchmark indices over almost two years.

SIFs completed a year on September 17 since the launch of the first new fund offer (NFO). Positioned between traditional mutual funds and more sophisticated products such as portfolio management services (PMS) and alternative investment funds (AIFs), SIFs have a minimum investment threshold of ₹10 lakh and have gained traction particularly among affluent and high-net-worth investors. While September numbers are yet to come, the category has been a stellar performance till now.

The growth in SIFs was broad-based. Net assets of equity SIFs jumped 47% during the month, while hybrid SIF assets rose nearly 30%. Three NFOs collected ₹1,420 crore, while investor folios increased 33%, suggesting that the expansion was driven by both fresh launches and a widening investor base.

Smartphone battle shifts gears as specs converge

New Delhi/Mumbai, September 20

THE SMARTPHONE BATTLE in the ₹15,000-30,000 segment is moving beyond the familiar race to offer more RAM, bigger batteries and higher-resolution cameras, as increasingly similar hardware leaves brands with fewer ways to stand apart.

The change is reflected in a fragmented market, with no single Android brand commanding a dominant position. Vivo led India's smartphone market with an 18.4% share in Q2 of CY2026, followed by Samsung at 16.4%, Oppo at 13.8%, Xiaomi at 9.7% and Realme at 9.3%, according to IDC. In the first half of CY2026, Vivo had a 19% share, Samsung had 16.7%, Oppo 14.5%, and Xiaomi and Realme had 9.1% each. In 2023, Samsung was India's largest smartphone brand with a 17% share. The narrowing gap between brands comes as specifications have increasingly become standard across competing models.

"In the ₹15,000-30,000 segment, specifications are increasingly becoming hygiene factors rather than the sole differentiator," said Swarn Bajaj, founder and CEO of P3S Ventures, a smartphone retail distributor. Consumers enter stores with two or three comparable devices shortlisted, he said, leaving brands to compete on camera and software experience, design, availability, after-sales support and ease of purchase.

Warehousing returns shrink as costs surge

RAGHAVENDRA KAMATH
Mumbai, September 20

THE WAREHOUSING SECTOR is facing a squeeze on returns as rising competition for operational assets and sharp increases in land prices push down yield-to-cost ratios, even as warehouse rents rise at a slower pace.

Yield-to-cost, a key measure of returns in real estate, is calculated by dividing the net operating income generated by an asset by the total original investment. For operational warehouses, the ratio has declined to 6.5-7% from 8.5-9% a couple of years ago, as more institutional investors chase a limited pool of ready, income-generating assets, industry experts said.

Recent transactions indicate the extent of the compression. Singapore-based Mapletree Logistics Trust bought a warehouse near Bhiwandi earlier this year from Morgan Stanley for ₹389 crore, at a

Campus placements have a new choice: Build, not join

POULOMI CHATTERJEE
Bengaluru, September 20

AN UNSETTLED ENTRY-LEVEL technology job market, coupled with the growing ease of building a company using artificial intelligence (AI), is pushing more engineering students to consider entrepreneurship over the traditional campus placement route.

Faculty and investors at leading engineering institutions say they are seeing a sharp rise in students exploring startups, helped by easier access to capital, mentors and incubators.

The shift is particularly visible as AI is reducing the cost and manpower required to build technology products. A small team can now use AI tools across coding, research and product development, allowing students to attempt ventures

AS BUSINESSES INCREASINGLY move towards using multiple AI models for different tasks, a new opportunity is emerging for Indian startups in the layer that decides which model should handle a particular request.

Instead of competing with global technology companies to build foundational models, startups such as Indierouter AI, Staqu Technologies and NthEye are developing AI model routers that sit between users and multiple models. The router analyses a request and directs it to the model best suited to the task, while managing factors such as cost, speed, accuracy, reliability and data governance.

For instance, a routine cus-

■ For India, the real opportunity lies in building intelligent AI orchestration platforms, not just API aggregators tomers query or email summary could be routed to a smaller and cheaper model, while a complex coding or reasoning task could be sent to a more powerful model. For sensitive information, the routing layer can also impose rules on which models can access particular data. This allows enterprises to use different models without having to manage each one separately.

The shift is significant because building a foundational AI model from scratch requires massive computing capacity, large volumes of high-quality training data, specialised talent and substantial capital. "For most startups, competing directly with large global technology companies that have already invested billions of dollars in developing foundational models is therefore difficult," Jaspreet Bindra, co-founder and CEO of AI & Beyond, told FE.

"Model routers are not necessarily competing with foundational models; they are helping businesses make better use of the growing number of models available to them," he added.

The early signs of adoption are already visible in India. Audio-video analytics startup Staqu Technologies, which has incorporated model-routing capabilities into its agentic framework, has more than 100 clients using its AI Model Router and is targeting over 200 clients over the next year.

"The routing framework is already part of our real-world AI deployments, including facial recognition, number plate recognition, violence detection, attribute-based search and gait-based re-identification," Atul Rai, CEO and co-founder, Staqu Technologies, said.

APRIL-AUGUST SHIPMENTS NEAR $20 BILLION

India's exports to core BRICS rise 34%

MUKESH JAGOTA
New Delhi, September 20

INDIA'S EXPORTS TO the four core BRICS economies of Brazil, China, Russia and South Africa surged 34% in April-August this year to $19.9 billion, from $14.9 billion in the corresponding period last year, signalling a sharp acceleration in shipments to the bloc's original members. The growth in exports to the core BRICS members was substantially faster than the increase in India's exports to the expanded 11-member grouping. India's exports to all BRICS countries rose 13% year-on-year to $34.5 billion during April-August, from $30.5 billion in the same period last year, according to an analysis by the Ministry of Commerce and Industry.

The stronger performance of the four core members has also increased their weight in India's export basket. Their share of India's total exports rose to 9.2% in April-August, from 8.1% in the corresponding period of 2025.

"India is not only strengthening its trade footprint within BRICS but is also becoming more integrated with the bloc's largest economies. With exports to core BRICS growing nearly three times faster than exports to the broader BRICS grouping, these markets are increasingly emerging as a key pillar of India's export strategy," a senior official said.

TRADE TIES GETS STRONGER

China was the largest contributor to the increase among the core BRICS economies, with Indian exports rising 39% to $9.6 billion during April-August. South Africa recorded the fastest growth, with exports increasing 58% to $4.82 billion during the first five months of the financial year. Exports to Brazil and Russia also recorded double-digit growth of 13% and 11%, respectively. Shipments to Brazil stood at $3.46 billion in April-August, while those to Russia were at $2.04 billion.

The acceleration comes at a time when BRICS is seeking to deepen economic integration through easier market access, stronger supply chains, digital trade and greater use of local currencies.

The push received fresh impetus at the 18th BRICS Summit in New Delhi last week, where leaders adopted the New Delhi Declaration and advanced a series of initiatives aimed at facilitating trade and investment among member countries.

The measures cover trade facilitation, customs cooperation, global value chains, digital services, MSMEs, agricultural trade and cross-border payments.

The expansion of BRICS to 11 members has also widened India's potential trading market beyond the original Brazil, Russia, India, China and South Africa grouping. Egypt, Ethiopia, Iran, the UAE, Saudi Arabia and Indonesia have joined the grouping, opening additional opportunities for Indian businesses in areas ranging from energy and minerals to agriculture, manufacturing and services.

The summit's focus, however, extended beyond increasing trade volumes to addressing practical barriers that constrain commerce among member countries.

The Strategy for BRICS Economics Partnership 2030 is being positioned as the broader framework for economic cooperation, while the BRICS Global Value Chains Action Plan for 2026-30 seeks to strengthen and diversify supply chains and increase the participation of developing economies in higher-value production.

Customs cooperation is another important element of the emerging trade architecture, with BRICS members. Digital trade and services also received considerable attention at the summit, an area of particular importance for India given its strong position in IT and business services.

Record pulses buffer of 4.5 MT may help prevent price spikes

SANDIP DAS
New Delhi, September 20

THE GOVERNMENT'S BUFFER stocks of pulses have risen to a record 4.5 million tonne (MT), which would be used to curb price rises in case of any shortfall in kharif output and forthcoming rabi or winter crop prospects.

The current stock is well above the buffer norm of 3.5 MT.

The strategic reserve of pulses is largely built through procurement from farmers under the agriculture ministry's Price Support Scheme (PSS) by agencies such as farmers' cooperative Nafed and the National Cooperative Consumers' Federation (NCCF), as well as through some imports under the Price Stabilisation Fund.

The stock comprises 1.95 MT of gram or chana, 1 MT of tur, 0.88 MT of moong and 0.56 MT of masur or lentils. According to sources, these stocks will be released in a calibrated manner to contain any price spikes. The government usually releases pulses through open market sales and supplies them to states for welfare schemes

SUPPLY CUSHION

■ Current stock is well above 3.5 MT of buffer norm

■ Chana accounts for 1.95 MT of the reserve

■ Govt holds 1 MT of tur, 0.88 MT of moong, 0.56 MT of masur

■ Pulses acreage falls 1.42% y-o-y to 11.84 mn hectares

■ Kharif pulses harvesting is expected to begin by Oct-end such as PM-Poshan, the Integrated Child Development Services (ICDS) and the Public Distribution System (PDS).

"The time to initiate market intervention programmes for pulses will be decided once we get a clear picture of the impact of El Nino on crops for both kharif as well as forthcoming rabi or winter crop prospects," an official told FE.

Officials said kharif crop prospects are still being monitored to assess the possibility of a fall in output due to a rainfall shortfall in key growing regions of Karnataka and Maharashtra.

Acreage under kharif pulses, including tur, urad and moong, stood at 11.84 million hectares as of September 18, down 1.42% year-on-year. Harvesting of these crops is expected to begin towards the end of October.

Retail inflation in the 'pulses' category stood at 3.61% year-on-year in August 2025.

Average retail prices of major pulses—tur, gram and urad—rose to ₹123.43/kg, ₹88.23/kg and ₹122.63/kg, respectively, on Saturday, according to the price monitoring cell of the Department of Consumer Affairs (DoCA). This represents increases of 7.19%, 0.79% and 7.42%, respectively, compared to the previous year.

Officials said there has been no unusual rise in retail pulse prices, citing the government's stable import policy.

NLC India to scale up mining, renewables

SAURAV ANAND
New Delhi, September 20

STATE-RUN NLC INDIA (NLCIL) plans to nearly double its mining capacity to 104.35 million tonne per annum (MTPA) and expand its renewable energy capacity more than fivefold to over 10 gigawatts (GW) by 2030, as it scales up both conventional and clean-energy operations, Ministry of Coal said in a statement.

NLCIL currently has a mining capacity of 59.1 MTPA, power generation capacity of 8,405 MW and an operational renewable energy portfolio of around 1.8 GW. By 2047, the company aims to raise its mining capacity to 115.85 MTPA and renewable energy capacity to 32.7 GW.

"Coal and lignite continue to serve as the nation's baseload anchor," the ministry said, outlining NLCIL's expansion strategy to meet rising electricity demand while supporting decarbonisation.

The company is developing

1,980-MW supercritical thermal units at Ghatampur and ultra-supercritical pit-head projects of 2,400 MW at Talabira and 4,000 MW at Machhakatta.

NLCIL is also commissioning first-mile rail connectivity infrastructure with a combined capacity of 63.5 MTPA across five locations to reduce dependence on road transportation.

Through its green subsidiary, NLCIL Renewables, the company aims to achieve a 50% clean-energy share in its generation mix. Its battery energy storage portfolio includes projects in Tamil Nadu with a capacity of 250 MW/500 MWh, Rajasthan (300 MW/1,800 MWh), Gujarat (275 MW/550 MWh) and West Bengal (50 MW/200 MWh). The company is also planning pumped-storage projects in Tamil Nadu and Odisha.

NLCIL is also constructing a 4-MW solar-powered green hydrogen pilot plant at Neyveli and collaborating with IIT Madras on advanced carbon capture systems.

ICAI brings PSB branch auditors under peer review

● Targets 1-year disposal of disciplinary cases

MANU KAUSHIK
Kochi, September 20

THE INSTITUTE OF Chartered Accountants of India (ICAI) will extend the mandatory peer review requirement to all component auditors undertaking public sector bank (PSB) branch audits from January 2027. The institute is also planning to reduce the time taken to dispose of disciplinary cases against chartered accountants (CAs) to 365 days from the current two to three years, ICAI president Prasanna Kumar D said.

The peer review requirement will now cover component auditors of PSBs, while principal auditors of PSBs are already covered under the existing framework.

Peer review is currently mandatory for firms undertaking statutory audits of listed entities, specified large unlisted public companies, entities that have raised more than ₹50 crore from the public or from banks and financial institutions, and public-interest entities. The requirement also applies to firms providing attestation services with three or more partners.

ICAI currently has more than 1,000 peer reviewers, and the institute is also considering extending the requirement to auditors of private sector bank branches. The expanded exercise is expected to cover around 15,000 audit firms, according to ICAI officials.

Simultaneously, it has shifted the peer-review process from a manual system to a web portal, covering the process from application to issuance of the certificate.

"Earlier, 4,000-5,000 firms used to be certified by us, with the certification valid for three years. Now, even 30,000-40,000 CA firms can be peer reviewed in a year. To that extent, we have increased our capacity," Kumar said.

On disciplinary action, around 400 cases are pending

SYSTEM UPDATE

■ PSB branch audit to come under mandatory peer review from January

■ 15,000 firms are expected to be covered by expanded exercise

■ ICAI currently has more than 1,000 peer reviewers

■ 30,000-40,000 CA firms can be peer reviewed in a year

■ Peer-review process has shifted from a manual system to a web portal, covering the process from application to issuance of the certificate before ICAI's disciplinary benches after a prima facie opinion has been framed and accepted. Kumar said the institute aims to bring the disposal time down to 365 days, without seeking changes to the existing disciplinary procedure for now.

"We are trying to dispose of these cases within one year. At present, we are not planning any procedural reforms. Instead, we are devoting our time and energy to achieving this target," Kumar said.

ICAI's disciplinary process begins with a complaint or information received by the institute. The matter is examined by the independent Directorate of Discipline, which seeks a response from the respondent and subsequently gives the complainant an opportunity to respond. Based on the responses and documents, the directorate prepares a prima facie opinion, which is then considered by the disciplinary bodies — the Board of Discipline or the Disciplinary Committee.

● SAURABH GARG, SECRETARY, MINISTRY OF STATISTICS AND PROGRAMME IMPLEMENTATION (MoSPI)

'New series GDP estimates likely to be significantly more stable'

India's latest GDP growth figures have faced criticism from former bureaucrats and policy-makers regarding issues ranging from allegedly "sharp revisions" of previous quarter prints to a perceived lack of transparency in employing the double deflation method to compute estimates of real GDP. Ministry of Statistics and Programme Implementation (MoSPI) Secretary Saurabh Garg counters these criticisms in an interview with Shubham Rana, and asserts that the new GDP series was compiled after extensive consultations with stakeholders and discussion papers. For more transparency, the 'Sources and Method' document for the new series will be released in September, he says, adding that back-series data based on new series will be published by the end of the current year.

How would you respond to ## the criticisms over the GDP estimates?

GDP estimates are compiled using a well-established statistical framework, based on the internationally accepted System of National Accounts. The new GDP series with base year 2022-23 has further strengthened this framework by incorporating newer data sources, improved estimation methods and better coverage of economic activities. We have been evaluating all the raised points/feedback. We attempted to explain many of the points. Mixing an old-series nominal GDP denominator with a new-series numerator yields invalid growth rates. The changes in nominal estimates in new series over old series, are mainly due to incorporation of methodological improvements such as use of Annual Survey of Unincorporated Sector Enterprises (ASUSE) and Periodic Labour Force Survey (PLFS) data for estimates of Unincorporated Sector Enterprises compared to proxy indicators due to non-availability of regular annual data in old series, etc.

Adoption of the internationally acclaimed double deflation method for the input-intensive manufacturing sector in the new series has accurately captured the real GVA in the new series compared to the single deflation method, by which the movement of both output and input prices were kept the same.

For more transparency, we are going to release the 'Sources and Method' document of new series in September. Also, we plan to release back-series by end of the current year.

What are the sources for the price indices being used for double deflation? What data is being used for input prices for double deflation?

The transition to double deflation was not sudden. It was built on extensive experiments and detailed analysis using historical time-series data from the Annual Survey of Industries (ASI) spanning the period of 2011-12 to 2023-24, Supply Use Tables (SUT), WPI of the 2011-12 series and PPI series under the guidance of ACNAS.

Further, the Department for Promotion of Industry and Internal Trade (DPIIT) initiated the exercise for compilation of Output Producer Price Index (PPI) and hence, the base revision of GDP was an opportune time to introduce double deflation.

Although named 'output PPI', the expanded commodity basket released by DPIIT tracks ex-factory basic prices for final goods as well as a comprehensive set of intermediate goods used as inputs across industries such as bauxite, coking coal, electricity, refined palm oil, and cement. Item-level price indices from the output PPI are mapped directly to around 1,000 unique input item structures drawn from ASI data for 28 manufacturing compilation categories.

Even before the new GDP series was introduced, large revisions to GDP growth figures were an issue. Can we expect less steep revisions to growth numbers in the new GDP series?

While periodic revisions remain a standard and necessary feature of national accounts as preliminary estimates transition into final estimates upon receiving complete administrative and corporate accounts, growth rate revisions in the new series are expected to be significantly more stable.

Reconciling production-side Gross Value Added (GVA) and expenditure-side GDP often resulted in sizeable statistical discrepancies due to different data sources used in their compilation. In the new series, compilation of GDP by production and expenditure approaches has been integrated with the Supply and Use Tables (SUT) framework. SUT acts as a balancing matrix, ensuring that input-output balances and commodity flow match across all sectors rather than relying on mathematical smoothing or unverified residual balances.

India could not develop PPI for decades despite several attempts because producers would not share prices. How has this been addressed in the new

PPI series?

The perception that creating a PPI required establishing entirely new, inaccessible price-collection channels from unwilling producers is incorrect. Under the previous 2011-12 series, price quotations for compiling the WPI for manufactured products were already collected directly from factory floors as ex-factory basic prices, excluding downstream GST and transport costs.

Because the physical source of price collection, the factory gate, remained identical, the logistical mechanism for gathering producer quotations was already institutionalised.

The primary advancement of the new PPI lies in incorporating export prices to capture external demand and lifting valuation principles strictly with national accounting basic prices, rather than changing how factory quotations are gathered from producers. The response rate is good with respect to price collection for PPI.

Centre moves to fix offtake, pricing gaps for biogas

SAURAV ANAND
New Delhi, September 20

ONLY 217 OF India's 1,929 registered compressed biogas (CBG)/Bio-CNG plants have been commissioned, prompting the Centre to introduce assured gas purchase, administered pricing and capital subsidies to address offtake and financing bottlenecks that have held back commercial operations.

Another 357 plants were under construction as of August 13, according to government data. Under the Ministry of Petroleum and Natural Gas's operational guidelines for the ₹23,731-crore GOBARdhan scheme, up to 100% of eligible gas available for sale can be procured, at a price of approximately ₹98 per kg. The scheme also provides capital assistance of up to ₹30 crore per project.

The interventions come amid substantial untapped production potential. India could produce around 62 million metric tonne (MMT) of CBG annually from an estimated 472 MMT of feedstock, with animal waste accounting for nearly 41% of the potential, according to an Equirus report released this month.

The ministry's guidelines acknowledge that existing procurement arrangements had constrained investment. Earlier offtake depended largely on market-based procurement and reasonable endeavours provisions, creating uncertainty for developers and "weakening the business case", the document said.

Under the revised framework, eligible producers can opt for assured purchase of up to 100% of CBG available for sale, subject to technical and operational feasibility. Plants will be mapped to city gas distribution (CGD) entities or geographical areas, while clusters can be aggregated for injection into trunk pipelines.

Demand will also be supported through mandatory procurement by CGD entities. The CBG obligation has been fixed at 3% in FY27 and 4% in FY28 of gas supplied across the CNG transport and domestic

Amid Russia, West Asia conflicts, India has a new problem: Sulphur

HARISH DAMODARAN
New Delhi, September 20

INDIA HAS STAYED off a potential food crisis by importing enough urea and liquefied natural gas to enable domestic production of high-nitrogen fertiliser.

But there is another critical commodity, sulphur, whose soaring prices — again, linked to the escalating West Asia and Russia-Ukraine conflicts — is impacting the availability of di-ammonium phosphate (DAP), single super phosphate (SSP) and other major complex fertilisers.

Since the start of this year, landed (cost plus ocean freight) prices of sulphur imported into India have doubled to $1,050-1,100 per tonne. The main reason: Ukrainian long-range drone and missile attacks on Russian oil refineries and gas complexes and Iran, likewise, targeting the energy infrastructure of Saudi Aramco, QatarEnergy and Abu Dhabi National Oil Company.

Only a tenth of the world's sulphur output is directly mined. The rest comes as a byproduct of petroleum oil refining (56%) and natural gas processing (34%). Environmental rules mandate desulphurisation — removal of sulphur from crude oil and raw gas — for the production of clean, low-emission fuels.

This recovered sulphur is, however, essential for agriculture. The fertiliser sector alone accounts for roughly 60% of the 70 million tonnes (mt) annual global sulphur consumption. Most of the world's sulphur gets converted into sulphuric acid that is, in turn, a core chemical for manufacturing all fertilisers containing phosphorous (P).

"The primary source of P is rock phosphate. But this mined ore cannot be used as fertiliser unless broken down into a water-soluble form (for plants to absorb) by reacting with sulphuric acid. Without sulphur and sulphuric acid, there can be no DAP, SSP or popular complex fertilisers such as 20:20:0:13, 10:26:26 and 12:32:16," explained an industry official.

India's own yearly sulphur consumption is 3.8-3.9 mt, with the fertiliser industry's share at 2-2.1 mt. As a byproduct of the oil and gas industry, sulphur was previously imported at prices well below $200 per tonne — even sub-$100 in many months of 2019 and 2020. Being a flammable material, sulphur cannot be stored for too long.

"There are storage and disposal challenges also in sulphuric acid, which is a byproduct of copper and zinc smelting. In 2020, we were importing it from non-ferrous metal smelters in Japan and South Korea at even minus $20 per tonne (free-on-board price at the port of origin)," the official said.

That changed with the Russia-Ukraine war. Import prices of sulphur rose to $400-500 per tonne during March-June 2022. It was temporary though, as prices reverted to the earlier sub-$200 levels from late-2022 through early 2025.

India, Bangladesh to form trade task force

INDIA AND BANGLADESH are engaged in a discussion to set up a joint task force aimed at expanding bilateral trade and investment, a statement said on Sunday.

"The Indian High Commission is maintaining regular communication and discussions with the governments of both countries to expedite the formation of the task force,"

India's deputy high commissioner in Dhaka, Pawankumar Tulshidas Badhe, was quoted as saying by the Bangladesh Chambers of Commerce and Industries (FBCCI) in Dhaka.

According to FBCCI, Badhe met M Fazlul Hoque, administrator of FBCCI and said that the proposed task force could play an important role in expanding bilateral trade.

Nabard-backed agri-fintech onboards over 300,000 KCCs

SANDIP DAS
New Delhi, September 20

DIGITALISATION IS CHANGING the experience of farmers who once had to make multiple visits to banks and stand in long queues to access agricultural credit.

The National Bank for Agriculture and Rural Development (Nabard), in collaboration with Vadodra-based agri-fintech startup 24X7 Moneyworks Consulting, has onboarded more than 300,000 Kisan Credit Card (KCC) applications across cooperative banks and Regional Rural Banks (RRBs) since December 2025.

"The eKCC portal is designed for cooperative banks, primary agricultural credit societies (PACS) and it is used for Aadhaar authentication of farmers, land record validation and loan limits based on crop details and area under cultivation," Ranjeet Gautam, founder, MD & CEO, 24X7 Moneyworks Consulting, told FE.

Gautam said that in less than a year, the initiative has expanded across nearly 238 cooperative banks and around 32,000 PACS. Nearly 170,000 KCC applications have been electronically onboarded through this cooperative network. He said farmers often do not know the scale of finance available for each crop in their district. Through the eKCC portal, they can check their eligibility limits for agricultural loans.

In FY26, credit to the agriculture sector from commercial banks, cooperatives and regional rural banks crossed ₹32.5 lakh crore, with about 60% of the total comprising short-term crop loans. The rest was disbursed as investment loans to agriculture and allied sectors.

Under the Modified Interest Subvention Scheme (MISS) of the agriculture ministry, KCC holders are provided short-term agricultural loans of up to ₹3 lakh at an interest rate of 7% per annum to meet working capital requirements. The scheme provides an additional interest subvention of 3% for prompt repayment, bringing the effective interest rate down to 4%.

Bank officials said conventional loan application processes for KCC holders are 'fraught with inefficiencies', including multiple visits to banks, long turnaround times of three to four weeks and a

MOVE COMES AMID A SERIES OF DATA BREACH INCIDENTS

AI forces IT firms to rethink on cybersecurity defences

POULOMI CHATTERJEE
Bengaluru, September 20

AS ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE (AI) becomes increasingly embedded in enterprise systems, India's major IT services firms are widening their cybersecurity defences to cover not just employees and devices but also AI applications, APIs and agents.

The move comes amid a series of data breaches at TCS, HCLTech, Cognizant and Hexaware Technologies disclosed in August, highlighting the vulnerabilities that remain even as companies strengthen their security posture.

The shift is centred around Zero Trust, a security model under which no user, application or device is trusted by default and access is continuously verified. With employees using AI-powered applications and services becoming increasingly connected to enterprise data, companies are now having to extend the same principle to AI systems.

"At Infosys, our approach to cybersecurity is anchored in security for AI and Zero Trust," said Umashankar Lakshmiapathy, EVP and co-head of cloud, infrastructure and security services, cybersecurity and Cobalt at Infosys. The company is strengthening its defences against AI-enabled threats and working with cybersecurity firms including CrowdStrike, Palo Alto Networks, Zscaler and Microsoft.

DIGITAL SAFEGUARDS

■ Series of data breaches at TCS, HCLTech, Cognizant and Hexaware Technologies disclosed in August

Shift is centred around Zero Trust, a security model under which no user, application or device is trusted by default

■ AI tools themselves can become a route through which sensitive information leaves an organisation

■ The recent breaches have also highlighted the importance of controlling access to cloud environments

Infosys is also focusing on employee training through its LEX learning platform and cyber labs. Mphasis, meanwhile, is combining Zero Trust with continuous threat monitoring, proactive threat hunting and AI-assisted detection, while also strengthening AI governance, access controls and data protection, Ravi Vasanthraj, global delivery head at the company, told FE.

The challenge, however, is not restricted to hackers breaking into corporate systems. AI tools themselves can become a route through which sensitive information leaves an organisation, sometimes without any malicious intent.

"Most AI-related data leaks are not very sophisticated attacks. They are accidental: an engineer pastes source code into a free chatbot, a team feeds customer contracts into an unvetted summarisation tool," Debashis Singh, chief information officer at Persistent Systems, said.

Persistent has put in place AI data governance policies that classify information such as personally identifiable information, source code, financial data and intellectual property, and specify what can be processed by AI systems.

Access is governed through identity- and role-based controls, while the company conducts AI-specific teaming to test for prompt injection, data leakage, model manipulation and unauthorised retrieval.

The recent breaches have also highlighted the importance of controlling access to cloud environments. Last month, a hacker claiming responsibility for the incidents said sensitive employee information had been obtained through a Microsoft

Azure tenant login using compromised credentials.

Cybersecurity experts believe Zero Trust remains central to protecting enterprises, but the model itself needs to evolve as AI becomes more deeply integrated into corporate systems.

"It is critical to have Zero Trust now but the model must also evolve as AI does. All prompts, training data used to train your large language model and the external model outputs are potential risks in the environment," said Daryl Pereira, director and head of the office of the chief information security officer for Asia-Pacific at Google Cloud.

Companies will also need a scanning layer between external AI models and internal IT systems to identify potentially malicious data, while API rate limiting can help contain brute-force attacks, he said.

Maruti sees AMT driving next leg of CNG growth

NITIN KUMAR
New Delhi, September 20

MARUTI SUZUKI EXPECTS automatic transmission to open up a new pool of buyers for CNG cars, potentially taking the fuel's share in its portfolio beyond the current 43%, as the country's largest carmaker looks to overcome supply constraints and tap growing demand for lower running-cost vehicles.

The company has introduced automated manual transmission (AMT) options on the CNG versions of the Swift, Dzire and Baleno, bringing automatic convenience to three of its high-volume models. The move comes as CNG's share of the country's passenger-vehicle market has risen to 32% in August from 26% a year earlier.

"CNG penetration in our portfolio is around 43%. I think this number will grow after the launch of CNG AMT," Partho Banerjee, senior executive officer – marketing and sales, Maruti Suzuki India, said.

The strategic significance of the move is that CNG has historically involved a trade-off for customers who wanted an automatic car. Buyers had to choose between the lower running cost of CNG and the convenience of an automatic transmission. Maruti now expects to address that gap.

The company currently sells close to 80,000 CNG vehicles a month and commands more than 70% of India's CNG passenger-vehicle market, according to Banerjee.

But the bigger constraint for Maruti is currently not demand. "We have a capacity restriction on the total CNG vehicles," Banerjee said, adding that the company is allocating CNG vehicles depending on waiting periods. "As soon as they are able to further increase the CNG supplies, we can take it to the next level."

Maruti's current CNG production capacity is around 18,000 units a month, according to the company, meaning the ability to increase supply could determine how quickly the carmaker converts the additional demand created by the automatic variants into sales.

Maruti Suzuki is entering the crucial festive season with just 16 days of inventory across its dealer network, well below the company's preferred level of around 30 days, as stronger-than-expected demand has outpaced the pace of production ramp-up.

Maruti is therefore pursuing a mix of CNG, compressed biogas, hybrids and EVs rather than relying on a single powertrain technology.

The company has set a target of selling nearly 1 million green vehicles—including CNG, hybrid and electric vehicles—in FY27.

For CNG specifically, the AMT rollout could be significant because it brings the fuel option to customers who may have previously rejected it due to the lack of an automatic transmission.

TenderCuts targets 22 new stores in Chennai over next 12 months

S SHANTHI
Bengaluru, September 20

TENDERCUTS, AN omnichannel meat and seafood startup, plans to add around 22 new stores in Chennai over next 12 months. It currently operates 18 stores in Chennai.

"Rather than spreading ourselves thin across multiple geographies, we want to build greater density in high-potential Chennai micro-markets," Sasikumar Kallanai, founder and CEO, TenderCuts, told FE.

The firm believes there is significant room to grow within Chennai first before aggressively expanding to other cities.

The company undertook restructuring over the past two years, shifting to smaller neighbourhood stores with a lean capex model.

The rebuilt business now has 40,000 monthly active transacting users, an 85% repeat rate and blended customer acquisition cost below ₹100, with revenue predominantly driven by organic and repeat customers.

The founder added that this has caused the shift from near closure two years ago to Ebitda-positive operations today. "Our focus now is to make profitability repeatable and scalable without compromising affordability or quality," he added.

For FY26, TenderCuts reported gross revenue of ₹65.65 crore and net revenue of ₹62.82 crore. The company has achieved positive Ebitda at both the store and consolidated levels.

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
New Delhi, September 20

FMCG COMPANIES ARE likely to hold prices through the festive season despite a rise in commodity prices, including sugar, and the impact of geopolitical disruptions, as they seek to protect consumer demand and maintain volume growth amid improving consumption.

Leading industry executives said companies have already gone for judicious increases of around 2-5% in the June quarter to partly offset higher input costs and are unlikely to raise prices further before the end of the festive season, even as margins remain under pressure.

The sector has been facing renewed cost pressures, with sugar prices touching a new high, alongside a sharp increase in costs of key inputs such as edible oils, coffee, cocoa and crude oil derivatives used in packaging, amid geopolitical disruptions and supply concerns in global markets.

While most companies have absorbed a significant part of the inflation through cost-control initiatives and portfolio management, they remain focused on protecting volume growth, even as pressure on margins remains elevated, industry executives said.

Adani Power to invest ₹48k cr in 3,200-MW Assam project

RAGHAVENDRA KAMATH
Mumbai, September 20

ADANI POWER WILL invest ₹48,000 crore in its upcoming 3,200-MW thermal power project in Assam.

Assam chief minister Himanta Biswa Sarma on Sunday laid the foundation stone for Adani Power (APL) 3,200 MW ultra-supercritical thermal power plant (USTPP) at Chapar in lower Assam's Dhubri district.

"In just a few years, this project will become the largest power generation asset in the Northeast.

"It will fuel industries, give businesses the power to scale, and help bring affordable electricity to homes," said Jeet Adani, director, Adani Group.

The Chapar plant is part of a ₹63,000-crore power investment in Assam, with commissioning in phases from December 2030.

Across sectors, investments in the state will exceed ₹80,000 crore, with projects already moving from commitment to execution and set to create jobs, infrastructure and new economic opportunities across Assam over the

The thermal power project will also create opportunities for local contractors, suppliers, transport operators and service providers, enabling them to participate in and grow alongside the Adani Group's expanding vendor ecosystem in Assam.

The project is expected to generate up to 20,000 jobs in the construction phase and around 5,000 jobs once operational, adding to Assam's power generation capacity.

Adani said they have already conducted 4 to 5 job drives there, and 4,500 local youth from Assam have already been hired.

The Adani Group's businesses in Assam will generate around 40,000 direct and indirect job opportunities for the people here, he said.

He said they are also looking beyond thermal power in Assam.

"Assam is blessed with breathtaking natural geography, abundant water resources, renewable energy potential and a highly strategic location," he said.

● VIKAS OBEROI, CHAIRMAN AND MANAGING DIRECTOR, OBEROI REALTY

‘We are seeing a clear flight to quality’

After its successful NCR foray, Oberoi Realty is scouting for opportunities in the region and other cities. The company has lined up a number of projects in Mumbai Metropolitan Region which analysts said will position it well to ride next leg of growth.

In an interview, Vikas Oberoi, chairman and managing director of the company, speaks to Raghavendra Kamath about their strategy in the current residential markets and challenges faced by the sector. Excerpts:

How are residential sales behaving now? How are festive sales looking in your core market of MMR? Demand for the right product in the right location has held up well. The buyer today is largely an end user, and end users buy homes they can trust will be delivered, in neighbourhoods they want to live in, from brand names they know.

That has worked very well in our favour. MMR remains a deep and resilient market, and the festive period has historically brought serious buyers to the table. Sentiment going into the season is healthy. What we are seeing is a clear flight to quality, where established developers with a delivery track record continue to see steady traction while the broader market is more selective.

Many developers are calibrating launches due to approval delays and market softness. What has been your strategy?

Our approach has always been disciplined rather than reactive. We launch when the product is ready, when the approvals are in place, and when we believe the market is right. A strong balance sheet gives us the patience to wait for the right moment, and that patience is a competitive advantage, not a compromise. Approvals in this business also require perseverance, and we have built the internal capability to navigate that without cutting corners.

Experts say there is an oversupply of luxury properties above ₹20 crore in Mumbai, Bengaluru and NCR. What is your take?

Luxury is not one single market, and I would be careful about treating it as one number. There is genuinely differentiated product in prime, scarce locations, and there is me-too product that borrows the luxury label without the substance. The first continues to find committed buyers. The second is where the pressure shows up, and that is not an oversupply problem as much as a differentiation problem. At the very top end the buyer is highly discerning about the product, its location, design, brand and delivery record. When you get that right, demand follows.

When you do not, no price point protects you.

REDEVELOPMENT IN MUMBAI IS A GREAT OPPORTUNITY FOR THE CITY TO GET REBUILT

What is your launch pipeline for FY27 and what GDV are you looking at?

We do not put out forward-looking guidance on launches or GDV. What I can say is that we have a strong land bank and a clear sense of the quality and scale of what we intend to build. We would rather let each project announcement carry its own weight when the time is right, than commit to numbers in advance. Our record of what we have delivered is the fairest guide to what we are capable of delivering.

How do you view the redevelopment opportunity in Mumbai, and what are the challenges?

Redevelopment in Mumbai is a great opportunity for the city to get rebuilt. A large part of its building stock is ageing, and redevelopment is how the city renews itself and unlocks real value for both residents and developers. The opportunity is genuine and it is large. The challenges are equally real. You are dealing with societies and members, rehabilitation commitments, consent, and long approval timelines, all before a single tower comes up. It is as much about trust and patience as it is about capital. This is precisely where a developer with a balance sheet, a delivery record and the credibility to see a project through has a natural advantage, because members are handing you their homes and their faith.

How has the West Asia conflict impacted players such as you?

Our business is domestic and largely end-user driven, so the direct impact on us is limited. Global uncertainty of this kind tends to show up indirectly, through commodity and input costs, and at times through sentiment.

HFCs scout for long-term funding

KSHIPRA PETKAR & CHRISTINA TITUS
Mumbai, September 20

HOUSING FINANCE COMPANIES (HFCs) are seeking a wider pool of long-term funding beyond the National Housing Bank (NHB), particularly for affordable housing lenders, as bank funding remains largely short to medium term and access to longer-tenure capital remains limited. Long-term funding is relatively expensive for HFCs, prompting them to rely on shorter-tenure borrowings to protect profitability, industry executives said. “NHB can fund up to 35% of an HFC’s incremental portfolio. Lenders can also raise capital through non-convertible debentures, but access to the bond market is largely restricted to higher-rated institutions. Smaller HFCs face greater funding constraints,” a source said. The source added that while the RMBS Development Company (RDCL) mechanism has been introduced to deepen

■ Smaller & affordable lenders need to diversify sources to avail of long-term capital

■ NHB can fund up to 35% of an HFC’s incremental portfolio, a source said access to long-term funds, it has been used only twice so far. RDCL, a subsidiary of NHB, was set up to develop the residential mortgage-backed securities market and facilitate securitisation of housing loans. Calling for a broader and more diversified funding base, Sukesh Bhowal, MD and CEO of Motilal Oswal Home Finance, said long-term funding avenues for affordable housing should be widened beyond NHB by drawing in insurance companies, pension funds and other institutions. “Incentives such as tax benefits could encourage them to participate,” Bhowal said. He also stressed the need to create additional low-cost refinance avenues, apart from NHB, focused on affordable housing. The source cited above said existing provisions allow insurance companies and pension funds to invest in long-term bonds, but such instruments need to gain wider acceptance. “I hope that over the next two to three years this will pick up because any new instrument faces some initial resistance from investors,” the source said. However, access to funding is not uniform across the sector. Jinay Gala, director at India Ratings and Research, said HFCs rated AA and above continue to have adequate access to bank and capital-market funding, with the challenge more pronounced for smaller lenders seeking longer-tenure funds.

“Any entity which is AA rated and above has good access to funds from the capital market as well as banks,” Gala said. Domestic lenders typically provide funding for three to five years, while HFCs seeking longer-tenure capital can turn to development finance institutions, Gala said. “DFIs are the only route for now,” he said, adding that overseas borrowing also entails hedging costs. Bank credit to HFCs has accelerated sharply in recent months, rising 21% year-on-year to ₹3.82 lakh crore in July, compared with growth of just 0.2% a year earlier, according to the Reserve Bank of India’s sectoral deployment of bank credit data. Despite the sharp increase in bank funding, industry executives said access remains skewed towards larger, better-rated HFCs, while the tenure of bank loans remains relatively short. For smaller and affordable housing lenders, this leaves a continuing need for diversified sources of long-term capital.

Charges to sustain UPI, help maintain viability

■ MADAN SABNAVIS

THE ETHOS BEHIND having the UPI is twofold. The first is furthering financial inclusion as it reaches the bottom of the pyramid. The second is that it has eased making transactions for all people whether the purpose is for person-to-person or person-to-merchant. The system cost was being borne by banks, payment service providers, government and NPCI, with users not being charged anything. The cost involves technology infrastructure and maintenance which includes upkeep as well as protective structures against fraud. The new policy to make it payable should be viewed against this perspective.

which is discounted buffers in this cost and hence we may not be aware of the transmission of the same. Against this background, the MDR which has been announced on UPI should be viewed. The charge is at 0.4%, which is much lower than what is being charged on cards. Under the new scheme, customers have been exempted fully from the charge, and it is the merchant who will be paying the same. Hence, the customer should actually not feel any different. Now, let us look at the position of merchants. Smaller traders will not be affected as sums of less than ₹2,000 have been exempted. Also, if monthly transactions are less than ₹1 lakh, there is an exemption from this charge. A further cap of ₹300 put on other transactions based on scale is reasonable. The obvious question to ask is what the global practices are. UPI is likened to M-Pesa of Africa. It was more of a telecom run operation (which is why the M of M-Pesa) rather than banks which is the case of UPI. M-Pesa has a graded approach where even the customer has to pay a fee for cash transfers or purchases though small amounts are fully exempted. The charge could be around 0.55% for the merchant. In fact, for cash transfers from a company to the employee, the former has to bear the cost while the recipient receives the full amount. While the UPI is a unique payments system to India, there are similar structures in Brazil (Pix) and Singapore (PayNow). For both these systems, the customers don’t pay any charge, and it is the merchant who bears the cost. In Thailand, the PromptPay does not charge the customer for small amounts, but a graded system comes in when amounts involved are high. The system chosen for UPI seems to be the most reasonable. In fact, the rules have been drafted keeping in mind two factors: The need to have an income flow for maintaining the architecture and ensuring that the customer and small business are not affected. Hence, 96% of all the merchant transactions which were being conducted with UPI will remain outside the ambit of the charge. The UPI has been one of the biggest innovations in the country which has furthered financial inclusion. The JAM trinity has helped to formalise the economy and also ensure that small businesses are better able to procure credit from the banking system as there is a clear history of income flows. To sustain this system and maintain its viability, the present levies are minimal but will help to support banks, payment services and UPI application providers and further scale up operations.

Microfin credit guarantee scheme finds few takers

THE CREDIT-GUARANTEE SCHEME for microfinance companies has failed to gain traction. Banks have sanctioned around ₹8,500 crore under the scheme, well short of the ₹20,000 crore of total guarantee portfolio, according to sources. “Smaller MFIs struggled to raise funds, securing only about ₹300 crore, while small and medium-sized lenders together received ₹1,800 crore. Larger institutions, however, did not take sanctions, as the scheme offered them little advantage,” said an industry official. tially valid until June 30, the scheme was extended until August 31. With lending and borrowing caps in place, plus a 0.5% guarantee fee adding to costs, bigger MFIs found it more economical to borrow directly from the market rather than use this route, the official added. The scheme caps sanctioned loans at ₹100 crore for small MFIs, ₹200 crore for medium-sized MFIs and ₹1,000 crore for large MFIs, while the interest rate was capped at marginal cost of funds-based lending rate (MCLR) plus 2%. “Large MFIs found the credit-guarantee scheme unattractive because the guarantee fee was passed on to them and the borrowing rate cap was squeezing their margins, so it doesn’t make sense,” said the chief executive officer of an MFI. He added that they borrowed just ₹200 crore under the scheme, as market borrowings were available at significantly lower costs. “I believe that the portion meant for larger players would have seen stronger uptake if it had fewer frills.” The microfinance sector has been under prolonged pressure due to borrower overleveraging and state-level regulations restricting coercive recovery practices, which led to a sharp deterioration in asset quality. However, the sector is now showing signs of recovery, supported by regulatory guardrails. “Any lender with even more than 10% exposure to the MFI segment has suffered over the past two years. That strain likely explains why they remain cautious and are adopting a wait-and-watch approach,” said a senior executive at a small finance bank.

Explainer

● Is there an export momentum?

THE ENCOURAGING PART in the August numbers is not merely the 26.1% increase in merchandise exports to $43.81 billion, but the breadth of the growth. Electronics surged 89.8%, petroleum products 63.3%, engineering goods 24.9%, marine products 27.8%, chemicals 16.4%, and meat, dairy, and poultry 37.1%. More importantly, even after excluding petroleum products and gems and jewellery (two categories that can greatly influence the headline number) exports rose from $28.26 billion to $34.68 billion. It suggests a reasonably broad-based underlying momentum. The cumulative data reinforce the trend. Merchandise exports during April-August FY27 reached $215.91 billion, up 17.85%, while overall exports of goods and services are estimated at $399.27 billion, up 15.55%. So, while one shouldn’t read too much into a single month, the first five months suggest a growing export momentum. Engineering, electronics, and petroleum products are providing much of the momentum, but electronics is perhaps the most interesting structural story. Engineering goods reached $12.32 billion in August, while electronics exports almost doubled to $5.55 billion. During April-August, engineering exports touched $58.70 billion, up 19.55%, while electronics reached $26.66 billion, growing nearly 40%. Petroleum product exports also grew 39.43% during the first five months. The rapid growth in electronics points to a gradual shift in our export basket towards higher-value manufactured products. At the same time, growth in chemicals, plastics, marine products, handicrafts, and processed food suggests wider export expansion.

TRADE TRENDS

What India’s export data and import basket suggest

India’s merchandise exports surged 26% in August, with the first five months of FY27 reflecting an underlying momentum. But its import bill too is rising. So, policy should not merely focus on the size of the trade deficit, but on whether imports are strengthening India’s productive capacity, explains Ajay Sahai

● Is India succeeding in finding new markets?

THE US REMAINS India’s largest export market, and saw 21.83% growth in August. But the fastest growth is coming from non-traditional markets. Exports to Singapore rose 160.96%, Spain 196.47%, Tanzania 214.52%, Malaysia 84.43%, Japan 80.66%, China 52.35%, and South Africa

45.62%. During April-August, exports to Tanzania rose 129%, Singapore 96.56%, Sri Lanka 93.13%, Malaysia 75.4%, South Africa 58.23%, Spain 54.85%, and Japan 42.55%. With tariffs and geopolitical uncertainties affecting trade, India needs multiple engines of export growth.

$399.27 bn

OVERALL GOODS AND SERVICES EXPORTS IN APR-AUG FY27; US REMAINS INDIA’S LARGEST MARKET, BUT NOT THE FASTEST-GROWING

MERCHANDISE IMPORTS INCREASED 14.07% IN AUG ($70.67 BN) & 18.21% DURING APR-AUG TO $363 BN

● Geographic shift in export & weak spots

IT WOULD BE premature to suggest that India’s dependence on traditional markets has materially declined (the US accounts for $8.32 billion of exports in August and $42.79 billion in April-August). What is changing is the geography of incremental growth. Markets like Tanzania, South Africa, Malaysia, Sri Lanka, Spain, and Japan are expanding much faster, albeit from smaller bases. The next phase of diversification should thus be about scale. The real success will come when markets where India exports $500 million or $1 billion worth of goods turn into multi-billion-dollar destinations. The export picture is not uniform. In April-August, tea exports fell 15.62%, tobacco 17.49%, fruits and vegetables 10.29%, ceramic products and glassware 21.56%, and ready-made garments of textiles 9.10% in dollar terms. These underlie why export strategy can’t be based only on countries or headline growth, but a sharper product-market matrix.

● Rising import bill and its outcome

MERCHANDISE IMPORTS INCREASED 14.07% in August to $70.67 billion and 18.21% during April-August to about $363 billion. A sizeable portion of the increase is concentrated in energy, raw materials, intermediates, machinery, and technology-related products. Such imports can also accompany stronger manufacturing activity, capacity creation, and investment. Therefore, every dollar of additional imports should not automatically be viewed as additional consumption or economic weakness. There are indications that rising imports are positively impacting domestic manufacturing and investment. During April-August, imports of machinery (electrical and non-electrical) went up 15.77% to $28.46 billion, professional and optical instruments rose 17.18%, transport equipment 7.12%, machine tools 5.07%, and electronics 43.57% to $66.48 billion. Industrial inputs have also risen sharply. A meaningful part of the increase in imports appears to be linked to the requirements of the domestic economy rather than simply a surge in final consumption.

● How to interpret import basket

THE COMPOSITION OF imports deserves as much attention as the overall number. Gold imports fell sharply by 57.75% in August. Iron and steel imports fell 11.69%, pulp and waste paper 13.83%, newsprint 10.85%, textile yarn, fabrics, and made-ups 8.12%, medicinal and pharma products 7.90%, and wood products 3.17%. The trend in iron and steel is especially noteworthy because imports were also down 4.78% cumulatively in dollar terms. Pearls and precious and semi-precious stones declined 11.39% during April-August as well. Contrast this with the sharp rise in machinery, electronics, non-ferrous metals, and industrial minerals, and a more nuanced picture emerges. India’s import bill is rising, but its composition is also changing. The policy focus should thus be not merely on the size of the trade deficit, but on whether imports are strengthening India’s productive capacity, supporting exports and investment, or primarily feeding final consumption.

Go for income plus arbitrage funds for higher post-tax returns

THEY OFFER STABLE ACCRUAL; HOLDING OVER TWO YEARS IS BENEFICIAL

SAIKAT NEOGI

WITH EQUITIES VOLATILE and bond yields elevated, income plus arbitrage funds offer an ideal option to park surplus money. The debt portion captures accrual and potential mark-to-market gains if yields soften, while arbitrage provides low-volatility returns. Income plus arbitrage funds invest around 35–65% in arbitrage funds, with the balance in debt funds. The structure qualifies for 12.5% long-term capital-gains tax after 24 months, compared with tax at slab-rate for debt funds—making it especially relevant for investors in higher tax brackets.

The debt component allows investors to lock into relatively attractive accrual opportunities available at current yields. Any moderation in yields can potentially provide some mark-to-market benefit as well.

The arbitrage component seeks to capture the spread between cash and futures markets without taking significant directional equity exposure. The arbitrage side benefits when volatility in the equity market picks up—those cash-futures spreads usually widen in choppy markets.

This makes the category relevant as an alternative to traditional short-term debt allocations like liquid, money market funds, for investors who can stay invested for over two years. “I see this as a good parking spot

FOR PARKING SURPLUS MONEY

if you have a 24-month runway. If you need the money in a few months, liquid or overnight funds are still the safer bet,” says Sonam Srivastava, founder, Wright Research PMS.

Income plus arbitrage funds have delivered average returns of 5.7% over one year, 6.2% over two years and 8.5% over three years, compared with 6.4%, 6.7% and 6.9%, respectively, for liquid funds.

If held for over two years, gains from income plus arbitrage structures are taxed at 12.5% as long-term capital gains, whereas returns from liquid funds are taxed at the investor’s applicable slab rate.

For investors in higher tax brackets, this can materially improve the post-tax return differential over longer holding periods. “For investors with a horizon of over two years, the combination of return potential and tax efficiency can make them an attractive alternative to traditional short-duration debt allocations,” says Nirav R Karkera, head of research, W by Groww, wealth management arm of Groww.

Investors should examine the fund’s debt-portfolio quality, duration risk, allocation range, exit load and the expense ratios of both the fund-of-fund and underlying schemes. “These are not substitutes for emergency money or overnight liquidity, and short-term negative returns remain possible,” says Aditya Agarwal, chief investment officer, Avisa Wealth Creators.

Fund-manager decisions can play a key role because the two underlying return engines behave differently across market conditions. Investors should not assume that tactical allocation will always add value. Incorrect duration calls, compressed arbitrage spreads can reduce returns.

Crossing research’s valley of death

INSIDE WADHWANI’S $5-MILLION BET TO TURN IIT KANPUR’S LAB IDEAS INTO REALITY

VIKRAM CHAUDHARY

INDIAN HIGHER education institutions excel at generating high-impact basic research and academic publications. But with only 1–2% of India’s academic research reaching the commercial market, converting lab breakthroughs into products remains a hurdle — a gap called research’s “valley of death” (Technology Readiness Levels 4 to 7, where lab innovations struggle to scale into commercial products).

To bridge this gap, the Wadhwani Innovation Network (WIN)—an initiative of the Wadhwani Foundation—has launched a Centre of Excellence in medtech and biotech at IIT Kanpur, supported by $5 million in funding over five years.

Shirshendu Mukherjee, who leads the initiative at WIN, told FE that the challenge facing Indian academic innovation is no longer capital. “Funding is not a problem in anymore if it is good science, a good team, and meets an unmet need,” he said. “What researchers need to cross the ‘valley of death’ is end-to-end guidance — navigating regulatory pathways, IP management, business strategy development, and expert mentorship.”

Prof Manindra Agrawal, director of IIT Kanpur, noted this partnership complements the institute’s academic capabilities across therapeutics, neurodegenerative diseases, antimicrobial resistance, and AI-enabled healthcare. “IIT Kanpur has a strong multidisciplinary research ecosystem across areas such as regenerative medicine, molecular medicine and gene therapy, neuroscience, bioengineering, and AI and intelligent systems,” he said. “The Wadhwani-IIT Kanpur Innovation Centre complements this by creating a stronger pathway to translate promising research into technologies, products, and ventures with real-world impact.”

Agrawal emphasised that the primary value lies beyond pure capital. “Researchers will have access to the expertise, mentorship, and industry networks needed to navigate the journey beyond scientific discovery—from technology development and validation to intellectual property, regulatory pathways, industry partnerships, and commercialisation,” he added. “For IIT Kanpur, this strengthens its research-to-market capabilities and creates greater opportunities for interdisciplinary collaboration, technology transfer, and research-led venture creation.”

While WIN funds the hub’s operational and project-derisking pipeline, IIT Kanpur supplies a translational research infrastructure. Operating on a “hunt and fund, follow and support” model rather than traditional “spray and pray” grants, the hub will be housed within a 2,000–3,000 sq ft space at IIT Kanpur’s Technology Park. Additionally, IIT Kanpur is set to host the standalone Wadhwani School for AI and Intelligent Systems as a dedicated superhub.

While early initiatives targeted elite tier-1 institutes like IIT Bombay, IIT Madras, IISc Bangalore, and IIT Delhi, WIN’s broader mandate aims to democratise innovation across the national higher education landscape. Addressing whether such models can extend beyond premier government institutions to private engineering and medical colleges, Mukherjee highlighted the upcoming National Innovation Platform. Through this open platform, WIN plans to offer its structured grant and innovation management framework free of cost to government entities, state bodies, and philanthropies, aiming to support over 100 CoEs over five years.

When looking at immediate outcomes, low-hanging fruits such as medical diagnostics and specialised medical devices offer rapid two-year translation cycles. But the broader target focuses on long-term national impact. Ultimately, as Agrawal noted, specialised centres help institutions extend the impact of their research beyond the laboratory by turning strong science into market-ready technologies that address real-world needs.

Our education boom needs public data

DON’T FOCUS ON PATCHY SURVEYS AND LOCKED PDFs

DEBANANDA MISRA & NIRVED KUMAR

INDIA’S HIGHER education system encompasses over 1,168 universities, 45,000 colleges, and 43.3 million students. But our ability to understand and govern this landscape remains severely limited. We are attempting to navigate a massive sector using patchy surveys, outdated PDFs, and self-reported numbers.

Bureaucratic compliance

Our higher education data collection is built for bureaucratic compliance, not institutional insight. The All India Survey on Higher Education (AISHE) is our primary benchmark, but it relies heavily on self-reporting and suffers from multi-year lag times. Critical metrics—research productivity, teaching quality, student wellbeing, audited financials, and placement outcomes—remain locked in unsearchable PDFs at individual university websites.

The UK’s Research Excellence Framework uses peer reviews to allocate research funding, while the US College Scorecard publicly tracks programme-level earnings and debt to hold institutes accountable. We need a similar shift.

We can utilise UDISE+

School education utilises UDISE+, which covers 1.5 million schools with state-level dashboards. Higher education possesses the basic building blocks through AISHE, APAAR student IDs, the Academic Bank of Credits, and DigiLocker. The goal should be to integrate these tools into a trusted, decentralised public platform where state councils and universities populate standardised, verifiable data.

start with better-resourced Institutes of National Importance — IITs, NITs, IIMs, and IISERs. Once the architecture is proven across these flagship institutions, it can scale systematically to central universities, state public institutions, and eventually private colleges.

Furthermore, disclosure mandates must require institutions to publish standardised placement reports, audited financial statements, and faculty vacancy data in searchable formats. Beyond participation metrics and enrolment ratios, public data must address core outcomes: Do degrees lead to meaningful employment? Which institutions serve students effectively, and which fail to do so?

Building transparent public data

As we expand higher education, policy decisions cannot rely on intuition and anecdotal evidence. Building a transparent, standardised public data infrastructure is essential to ensure that growth delivers genuine educational quality, equity, and public accountability.

Keeping the drama alive

NON-HINDI EDITIONS, OFFBEAT CELEBRITIES & GAMEPLAY SHIFTS HAVE PREVENTED BIGG BOSS FORMAT FATIGUE

Christina Moniz

JIOSTAR SAYS ITS two-decade old reality show Bigg Boss is now an “entertainment ecosystem”. The opening week of season 20, which kicked off on on September 6, had 42.3 million unique viewers, as per data from Chrome DM. Female viewers accounted for 57% of the audience. The last season reached 500 million viewers.

The franchise continues to refresh itself through new contestants, themes and localised editions, while retaining its core proposition, says a JioStar spokesperson. “With meme culture, real-time social commentary and voting, Bigg Boss puts power in the fans’ hands, turning passive viewership into active co-authorship,” she adds. Experts say there are at least three factors that have helped it smash viewership records.

First, instead of relying on its original Hindi format, the franchise expanded into regional editions like Tamil, Telugu, Kannada, Malayalam and Bangla, with broadcaster JioStar bundling them into a nationwide advertising ecosystem, akin to the Indian Premier League (IPL), a national vehicle tailored for high local relevance.

The shift from appointment viewing on television to digital streaming helped amplify the show’s stickiness while creating constant social media fodder. According to industry data, around 60% of the show’s digital audience engages with the live feed, extending the viewing time beyond a highly edited one-hour episode.

Over the years, the show has also tweaked its casting blueprint. While the early seasons relied on traditional television and Bollywood celebrities, newer seasons have included social media influencers,

STILL IN THE GAME

■ Ninety-five sponsors on board across six language editions

■ In 2025, the Bigg Boss franchise reached 500 mn viewers nationwide

30% of ad spending in the South are by local advertisers

■ Launched in West Bengal with Saurav Ganguly as host this year

■ The show has a live feed on JioHotstar 24x7, boosting viewer engagement content creators and other internet personalities.

All this is not to undermine the contribution of its star host Salman Khan, who has led the Hindi version for 16 seasons. “The unpredictability of contestants, evolving relationships, and daily drama keep viewers emotionally invested,” says Pramod Pawar, national head for Quantitative Research at Hansa Research Group. Will that formula work to lure viewers and advertisers going forward?

Brand magnet

The show’s ability to reinvent itself and draw eyeballs across markets also means higher advertiser interest. Bigg Boss has 95 sponsors across its editions this season. According to JioStar, over 50% of advertiser participation in the Southern markets comes from new advertisers. 70% of advertisers on the Hindi edition are first-timers. What’s also drawing advertisers is the ability to integrate into the show naturally, rather than resorting to mere logo placements.

Tiny Sengupta, chief marketing officer, Bajaj Electricals, says the show’s format is a natural fit for the brand. “The house itself is a representation of an Indian household, with everyday spaces such as the kitchen and bathroom where our products are used. Our association includes category-led tasks, product integrations, our jingle, audience contests, and advertising across TV and digital,” she adds.

Haier Appliances, which is partnering with the Hindi, Telugu and Tamil editions, says the show allows the brand to align with the average Indian consumer’s life. NS Satish, CEO, Haier Appliances India, says the format not only helps the brand demonstrate product features, but also showcases what its technology can do for the consumer.

Dubai real estate developer Danube Group built a customised apartment for Season 19, its leadership appeared on screen and it rolled out contests and giveaways to build familiarity among Indian and NRI buyers. Says Rizwan Sajjan, founder & chairman, Danube Group, “The idea was to allow viewers and contestants to experience the brand rather than simply see it. We didn’t turn the show into a direct property sales presentation but simplified real estate for viewers.”

Going forward, experts say, Bigg Boss will have to balance its core drama-driven identity with continuous innovation to remain commercially attractive and generate sustained audience attention.

Marriage of convenience

WHO GAINS MORE WHEN A LARGE FMCG FIRM HANDS OVER ITS DIGITAL OPERATIONS TO A D2C PLAYER?

KARTIKAY KASHYAP

WE HAVE SEEN rival companies team up for research, standards or supply chains to grow the overall market. Now we are seeing massive FMCG companies aggressively acquiring, partnering with, or outsourcing operations to D2C players to manage their digital sales, e-commerce networks, and modern route-to-market strategies.

Last month, Colgate-Palmolive gave the reigns of its D2C channels and other e-commerce and social commerce operations for personal care brand Palmolive to the Bombay Shaving Company (BSC). BSC will now handle the consumer-facing operations of Palmolive’s e-commerce and D2C business to revive its sales.

Colgate-Palmolive admitted it had not done a great job with the Palmolive brand in India. “I must confess that this has been an area of disappointment,” said Prabha Narasimhan, outgoing MD & CEO, Colgate-Palmolive India, at the company’s analyst meet of 2026. “We believe that they (BSC) have a better understanding of how this entire D2C flywheel works. It’s not a flywheel that we understand as a company.”

Such collaboration is not new for BSC. In 2021, Reckitt, the parent company of brands like Harpic and Dettol among others, had entrusted it to handle the D2C operation of its sexual wellness brand Durex.

As per industry sources, the arrangement is something like this: The two legacy players would leverage the digital commerce playbook of 100Days.co, a digital commerce service business under Visage Lines Personal Care, the parent company behind Bombay Shaving Company and Bombae. 100days says it has brand partners across industries and is helping them to accelerate their D2C and e-commerce businesses.

The big question is, who will own the data on the consumer’s online purchase behaviour

It is easy to see why a Colgate-Palmolive or a Reckitt would want to lean on smaller D2C players. Faster decision-making is the ultimate unfair advantage of the D2C business model. Traditional retail models are often slowed down by multi-layer supply chains, third-party distributors, and delayed retail data. In contrast, D2C brands operate with a tight, direct feedback loop that enables rapid action. “Agility—to move fast and make quick decisions—is important to scale brands online, which many large firms might not have,” says Ankur Bisen, senior partner, The Knowledge Company.

According to Satish Meena, founder, Datum Intelligence, D2C brands are well equipped with the talent and technology stack to scale businesses online. The strength of large FMCG companies, on the other hand, lies in building brands and capturing store shelves through their distribution muscle. The D2C flywheel is different. The relationship with the consumer is more direct and much faster, says Shaily Mehrotra, co-founder & CEO, Fixderma & FCL. They are constantly learning from consumer behaviour, performance data, reviews, content and repeat purchases, and then using those learnings to improve the product, communication and customer experience.

“Building D2C capability internally means creating new technology stacks, talent, incentive structures, performance-marketing expertise and a culture comfortable with rapid experimentation. That can take years for a large organisation,” says Yasin Hamidani, director, Media Care Brand Solutions.

But a big question is who would own the consumer data—the information and insights the D2C accelerator brand might gain about the legacy brand, its core consumers or its biggest draw and drawback?

It all depends on the arrangement the legacy brand and the D2C player agree to. If the deal is limited to running of digital ads by the D2C player, the consumer data remains with the parent brand. But if the deal includes managing the website and the app, all the branded content, performance marketing, CRM and supply chain, then the D2C brand will likely find itself sitting on a goldmine.

The Job

We work with companies to replace plastic with bamboo-based alternatives that actually perform. My job is to make sure that replacement is credible, scalable, and commercially sound. That means staying close to where the procurement conversation is heading, understanding what brands genuinely need from a sustainable material supplier, and building a supply chain out of Northeast India that can meet those needs consistently.

The Weekdays

Most of my week is spent on the floor, quite literally.

Whether it is working through a manufacturing constraint with our factory team, sitting with farmers to understand what the next harvest looks like, or finalising the terms of a new B2B partnership, I tend to stay close to the operational detail. I trained as an engineer and spent years in medical devices, where the margin for error is very small.

That background means I find it difficult to manage anything from a distance. I need to understand how something is actually working before I can decide how to make it work better. The days are long, and the problems are rarely the same two days in a row, which is probably why I have not got bored yet.

The Weekend

I travel when I can. History is the lens I tend to use when I visit a new place. Old forts, trade routes, how a particular region built its economy across centuries, these things interest me more than the usual tourist circuit. Noticing patterns have helped me think more clearly about what we are trying to do here.

The Toys

I collect things from my travels. Small objects, mostly, something picked up from a local market that costs very little but carries a memory. I find photographs fade faster than objects do.

The Logos

A logo, at its best, is a shorthand for a company’s philosophy. Ours is built around the belief that sustainable materials should not ask anything extra of the person using them.

CAR REVIEW: MG HECTOR TOMAHAWK EV

Well-priced for what it offers

DECENT RANGE, FEATURE-LOADED CABIN, VERY GOOD VALUE FOR MONEY

VIKRAM CHAUDHARY

MEASURING 4,745 MM long, 1,850 mm wide, and 1,770 mm tall with a 2,810 mm wheelbase, the MG Hector Tomahawk EV has good road presence—towering over SUVs like the Creta, and shoulder-to-shoulder with the likes of the Hycross. But despite its dimensions, driving it through Kochi’s narrow lanes made me realise how easy it is to drive in traffic, thanks a suite of driver-assist technologies.

Ride dynamics

Powered by a 69.2 kWh battery (201 bhp and 310 Nm), the Tomahawk EV’s straight-line performance is good—on the highway, even at speed above 100 km/h, the EV didn’t feel strained. Unlike its ICE sibling Hector, which has noticeable body roll, the heavy battery under the floor of the Tomahawk EV lowers the centre of gravity, keeping the car planted around bends.

But while on smooth tarmac the ride is refined, on Kochi’s broken roads the car felt shaky. In addition, the accelerator pedal is hyper-responsive; if you don’t press the pedal carefully, the car takes off abruptly—it requires extra caution when navigating crowded streets full of pedestrians.

Cabin space

The 5-seater variant I tested is very spacious, and has a 610-litre boot. But there is limited under-thigh support for rear-seat passengers. A 7-seater configuration is also available, but the third row will likely have tight seating.

The cabin build quality is solid. The ‘Desert Squadron’ interior—sand-

The sand-coloured almond brown and carbon black dashboard looks good, but I feel a darker grey or black shade would appear more mature in an SUV this size. In addition, the lack of one-pedal driving is a missed opportunity, as is the absence of a frunk (front trunk) and a full-size spare wheel

Real-world range

Against a claimed range of 517 km, my test unit indicated 485 km at 95% charge without AC. In real-world conditions, a range exceeding 400 km with the AC on is possibly achievable. It also has 15.6-inch HD display, Level 2 ADAS, and a 10-speaker audio.

Pricing and verdict

MG has hit the nail with pricing. Ex-showroom prices start at ₹19.5 lakh for the base Excite 5S/7S up to ₹23.5 lakh for the top Essence 7S trim.

But if you don’t drive much, you can opt for Battery-as-a-Service (BaaS), under which pricing starts at just Rs 13.99 lakh plus Rs 4.9 per km of battery rental (battery charging cost extra). The car also gets a lifetime battery warranty for the first owner.

Overall, with a good real-world range and aggressive pricing, the MG Tomahawk EV makes EV ownership feel effortless and worth the money.

The Sierra gets Legend Series to boost sales

VIKRAM CHAUDHARY

TATA MOTORS HAS launched the Sierra Legend Series, starting at ₹11.99 lakh (ex-showroom). The move comes as Tata seeks to revive buyer interest for its SUV. While the Sierra has recorded a moderate performance with 55,660 units sold from December 2025 through August 2026, it continues to lag behind key rivals like the new Kia Seltos, which accumulated 91,431 units over the same timeframe.

The Legend Series introduces a five-variant line-up—Smart+ L, Pure L, Pure L (O), Pure+ L, and Adventure+ L—making premium features accessible across lower trims. Entry-level variants now get leatherette seats, door trims, steering controls, and auto-ORVMs.

As you move up the range, the Pure L variant adds a 26.03 cm HD touchscreen infotainment system with an eight-speaker audio setup, while the Pure L (O) introduces the Panoramax voice-assisted sunroof. Higher-tier variants like the Pure+ L offer ventilated front seats, a six-way powered driver’s seat with a thigh-support extender, Boss Mode, and dual-zone climate control. Powering the series are three engine options—the 1.5L Revotron petrol, 1.5L Kryojet diesel, and 1.5L Hyperion TGD petrol—paired with manual and automatic transmission choices.

In addition, Tata is launching the Dark Series in the Sierra which would also be available from lower variants onwards.

● INTERVIEW: RICHARD McLAUGHLIN, PRESIDENT, APJC, DELL TECHNOLOGIES

‘AI spending is now about business gain’

Businesses are entering a new phase, moving beyond AI pilots to find real value in the technology. As data, infrastructure and security become central to this shift, India is emerging as a key market for adoption—and a potential hub for building solutions for the world. Richard McLaughlin, president, Asia Pacific, Japan & Greater China, Dell Technologies, speaks to Sudhir Chowdhary about the changing business environment, India's technology opportunity, the rise of agentic AI and what it will take to turn investments into meaningful outcomes. Excerpts:

What are the key market shifts, and where are the opportunities?
The biggest change is the acceleration in enterprise AI adoption. A year ago, organisations were asking what AI could do. Today, they are focused on taking pilots into production, using data as a competitive advantage, and deciding where workloads should run. Interest in AI sovereignty is also growing among governments and enterprises. For Dell, this creates a strong opportunity to support AI across the edge, desktop and data centre, depending on customer needs.

How can India turn AI ambition into meaningful business value?

India's unique advantages include its 1.4 billion population, growing smartphone adoption and digital platforms such as UPI operating at enormous scale, creating a rich environment for AI. Its technical talent is another major strength, but scaling skills for tomorrow's technologies remains a challenge. Initiatives such as Udaan, which we run with partners, aim to create pathways into

AI application development, cloud and electronics manufacturing. India's opportunity is not just its technology or data, but the people who can turn them into business and societal outcomes.

What are the biggest hurdles to wider enterprise adoption?

Data remains the biggest hurdle. Many organisations still struggle with fragmented information across systems and making it AI-ready. Then comes the question of choosing the right models and where workloads should run, as costs can vary significantly. Security is another critical concern, particularly as enterprises deploy agents that can act on their behalf. Getting these fundamentals right will be key to moving beyond pilots and scaling AI across the business.

What does the shift mean for CIOs and technology spending?

The starting point should be business outcomes, not technology. Every AI investment must answer a simple question: will it increase revenue, improve margins, reduce costs or mitigate risk? At Dell, we have evaluated hundreds of opportunities, focusing on areas where impact can be measured, including engineering, supply chain, customer service and sales. Organisations should also modernise existing compute, storage and networking infrastructure rather than build AI systems in isolation. This can free up capital and capacity while supporting today's business and tomorrow's workloads.

Which trends will shape businesses across India and APJ?

I would put three things at the top of the list: AI and data sovereignty, bringing AI closer to the desktop and edge, and modernising infrastructure to create capacity for AI. India is at an interesting inflection point, with organisations already adopting AI across functions. The opportunity now is to scale that adoption and turn it into measurable business outcomes. What excites me most about India is the ability to build solutions here that can ultimately have global relevance. There is a very strong sense of innovation and possibility in the market, and I think we will see much more of “made in India, used globally” in the years ahead.

INDIA'S TECH TALENT IS A STRENGTH, BUT KEEPING PACE WITH EMERGING TECHNOLOGIES REMAINS A CHALLENGE

CLOSING THE GAP

AI can find vulnerabilities anywhere. It's a Y2K moment for security: fixing them before exploitation is the challenge

A new way to do business

ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE IS entering a new phase. The first wave helped enterprises generate content, improve productivity, and extract insights from data. What we are now beginning to see is the emergence of agentic AI, systems that can reason, plan, act within defined boundaries and coordinate work across applications, platforms, and teams.

This is more than an upgrade to existing tools. It marks a shift from software as a passive assistant to an active participant in execution. AI will no longer be judged only by how well it responds to a prompt. It will be judged by the outcomes it drives: faster decisions, stronger governance and more adaptive operations.

Most enterprises don't suffer from a shortage of technology. If anything, they have too much of it. They are dealing with multiple vendors, cloud platforms, security layers, SaaS applications and deployment partners and the structure is often stitched together imperfectly. The real challenge has never been access. It is orchestration, and that needs a foundation: integrated platforms, clean data and partners capable of operationalising change at scale.

There are three major shifts taking shape because of this. The first is in distribution itself. Reach, logistics, and credit still matter, but partners will increasingly expect platforms that support discovery, quoting, provisioning, billing, and renewals in real time. AI pushes this further, recommending opportunities and flagging consumption gaps before anyone has to ask.

The second is the shift toward recurring consumption. Software, cloud, cybersecurity and AI services are increasingly sold as subscriptions or outcome-linked models, not one-time purchases. That changes what success looks like. Moving beyond closing the sale, the real outcomes now comprise adoption, renewal and expansion over the life of the relationship, with AI monitoring usage and surfacing risk before it becomes churn.

The third is services-as-software.

So far, a lot of technology services have depended on human effort: migration, configuration, monitoring, compliance. Much of that can now be codified into repeatable platforms; expertise gets embedded into the tools themselves. The businesses that win won't be the ones simply reselling technology; they'll be the ones who can package their expertise and automate its delivery.

No single company can own the full AI value chain alone. That's why ecosystem orchestration becomes important. And as AI systems take more autonomous action, trust stops being optional. Businesses will need real guardrails around accountability, data access, and cyber resilience.

Agentic AI won't reward organisations that simply adopt more tools. It will reward the ones that orchestrate what they already have, better. The winners will be the companies and ecosystems that bring together intelligent platforms and scalable services to deliver outcomes customers can actually feel. Agentic AI isn't just changing what software can do. It's changing how technology markets function, how partners create value, and how businesses grow.

Smart where it matters

GOOGLE'S PIXEL 11 PUTS AI TO PRACTICAL USE

SUDHIR CHOWDHARY

A GOOD SMARTPHONE should make life easier. Google's Pixel 11 aims to do that with a bright display, improved cameras, a faster processor and AI features designed for everyday tasks. From translating conversations to finding information on the screen, the phone goes beyond calls, messages and entertainment.

The 6.3-inch Actua OLED display is comfortable for daily use. It is large enough for watching videos, reading articles and browsing social media, while remaining manageable in one hand. The 120Hz refresh rate makes scrolling through websites, menus and apps feel smooth. With peak brightness of 3,000 nits, the screen should also remain easy to view outdoors.

The design follows Google's familiar clean and practical approach. The Pixel 11 feels like a premium device that is suited to regular use, without making users spend time adjusting the phone to get the basics right. It is not trying to stand out through an elaborate design, but instead focuses on a straightforward experience.

Powering the phone is Google's Tensor G6 chip, paired with 12GB RAM and 256GB of storage. For most users, this is enough for messaging, video calls, streaming, photography and switching between apps. The faster chip should also help with demanding applications and AI features.

The biggest talking point, however, is AI. Google has brought several Gemini-powered tools to the phone. Gemini Live allows more natural conversations with the assistant, while Camera Coach offers guidance on framing and composition. Magic Capture and Circle to Search are designed to make photography and finding information easier.

Live Translate and Call Assist add practical value by helping with language barriers and phone calls. Gemini-powered image descriptions through TalkBack can also assist users who need help understanding images on screen.

The camera setup includes a 48MP main camera, a 13MP ultrawide camera and a 10.8MP telephoto camera with 5x optical zoom and up to 30x Super Res Zoom. A 10.5MP front camera handles selfies and video calls. Google's camera processing has traditionally been a strong point, and this combination should suit everyday photography. The telephoto camera helps with distant subjects, while the ultrawide lens is useful for group pictures and larger scenes.

The 4,985mAh battery promises over 30 hours of use. That should offer reassurance during a busy day, although actual battery life will depend on usage. Google also promises seven years of OS, security and Pixel Drop updates, giving the phone a longer useful life.

At ₹89,999, the Pixel 11 is not inexpensive. Its appeal lies in the overall experience: a smooth display, versatile cameras, faster performance and useful software features. For those seeking a premium Android phone that is easy to use and built to last, the Pixel 11 is worth considering.

Alexa has a life beyond the connected home

ANUJ BHATIA

FOR YEARS, AMAZON'S Alexa has been seen as a device to control smart lights, speakers, and even home appliances. You can ask Alexa a question, install skills and make your apartment smarter, almost like having a digital butler you could command.

But the newer version of Alexa is more conversational and chatty, making interactions feel more like those you have with humans. Alexa+ is designed to make everyday interactions more useful. “The experience is very different,” said Michele Butti, VP, Alexa International. Unlike traditional voice assistants, it can engage in longer conversations, understand follow-up questions and tailor responses to users' needs.

Alexa+ is offered in English, Hindi, and Hinglish as an opt-in feature on screen-equipped Echo Show devices. It can answer questions, manage schedules, control smart home devices and remember user preferences. “We wanted to be authentically Indian,” Butti said, highlighting the effort to understand local culture, humour and language. Amazon has fine-tuned its speech recognition technology for Indian homes, where background noise, code-mixed language and multiple speakers can complicate voice interactions.

Alexa+ also moves beyond answering questions. With partnerships including Swiggy, Zomato and EasyDiner, the assistant can help order food and book restaurants. “It has to do much more. It has to take actions in the real world,” Butti said. The assistant can understand intent, offering responses for simple commands and more detailed answers when asked to explore a subject.

After Early Access, Alexa+ will be free for Prime members, while non-Prime users will pay ₹2,000 per month for a standalone subscription. The launch marks Amazon's push to make voice assistants more useful beyond basic smart home controls.

WORLD VIEW

The UK has built the AI watchdog the US needs

PARMY OLSON

KING CHARLES MET with executives from the world's top AI companies recently, just as they were calling for government help in regulating their risky, frontier systems. The king should point to a source of help in his own backyard. The UK's AI Security Institute (AISI) is the world's best-funded agency for testing cutting-edge AI models, thanks to the £240 million it got from UK in 2025, and an annual budget of about £66 million. The equivalent US agency in Washington, known as the Centre for AI Standards and Innovation, gets just $10 million a year.

AISI, three years old, has 100+ technical staff who've come from AI safety organisations and academia, as well as firms including OpenAI, Anthropic and Google DeepMind. Many took pay cuts to join the taxpayer-funded programme. Agency workers are bound by strict non-disclosure agreements, but behind closed doors they talk of their concerns about safety of AI systems.

The leaders of AI firms say they want that too, but their warnings are falling on deaf ears in Washington. US President Donald Trump recently said fears about AI's risks were a hoax and dismissed calls for a slowdown which could let China gain ground. But the “hoax” isn't going away. The latest evidence comes from OpenAI, which says its AI models have misbehaved in several concerning ways, namely fabricating data and trying to bypass network restrictions. The company wants to report these incidents to the US federal government and said it would propose a mechanism to do so.

Companies rarely seek tougher government rules and get refused. OpenAI's reporting recommendations may be more palatable to the White House, while Britain's AISI has experience testing frontier AI models, including Anthropic's restricted Mythos. The government-backed agency lacks a commercial conflict of interest, and its base in London gives it meaningful distance from the financial and ideological bubble of Silicon Valley.

Having a government agency as an assessor would create a clearer route from testing to enforcement. AISI itself doesn't have policing power today, and its relationships with AI labs are voluntary. It makes sense to give the agency more teeth. Some of the most important regulators of high-risk technology are government backed, from the International Atomic Energy Agency based in Vienna to the Federal Aviation Administration in Washington.

The same principle should apply to AI. Altman and Amodei may have their own ideas about who should oversee their work, but in the spirit of proper oversight, the choice shouldn't be entirely theirs. The UK has already built the watchdog they say they want. The next step is inviting it in and giving it some real authority.

SpaceX looks beyond its own data

ELON MUSK'S SPACEX has held talks about buying customer and operational information from troubled startups, targeting a more affordable data source to improve its AI models. The approach would mirror Google's offer to purchase business data from Spirit Airlines for AI training purposes after the discount carrier wound down operations.

Musk's space, satellite communications and AI conglomerate is locked in a battle to build more advanced AI offerings that rival the likes of Anthropic and OpenAI as it works to sign up more customers. The strategy of using external datasets marks a departure of sorts for SpaceX AI, as well as a fleet of in-house AI tutors to train its AI software.

SpaceX AI is still using its internal tutors to help engineers make AI systems better at specialised skills such as finance, science and even humour. While the AI team considers using more outside data sources, it also continues to rely on information from within Musk's empire, including employees.

US PRESIDENT DONALD Trump said Sunday that the massive arch he wants to build between the Lincoln Memorial and Arlington National Cemetery would become a "top-grade military complex" able to host drones and snipers while storing ammunition.

It is one more example of how Trump is insisting that his initiatives to beautify the White House and the city are also serving a defensive purpose. Trump has been calling the new White House ballroom a "military complex" and arguing it is necessary for national security purposes.

UKRAINE LAUNCHED WHAT Moscow's mayor called the biggest drone attack yet on the Russian capital on Sunday, as Russians voted on the final day of a parliamentary election that President Vladimir Putin has cast as a test of support for the war in Ukraine.

Voting systems have also faced waves of cyber attacks, according to election authorities, who said the electoral process had been mostly smooth despite what they described as external efforts to derail the State Duma vote - he first since Russia launched its full-scale war in Ukraine in February 2022.

The drone strikes killed three people in the Moscow region and two more in the Russian-held part of Ukraine's Kherson region, including an election official, according to the region's gov-

Drones hit Moscow oil refinery; 3 dead

THE LARGEST UKRAINIAN drone attack reported so far on the Moscow region killed three people and damaged part of an oil refinery in the capital, authorities said on Sunday, as Russia votes in the final day of parliamentary elections.

Ukraine and Russia have continued attacks on each other's energy infrastructure despite an announcement by US President Donald Trump on Monday that they had agreed to stop.

Moscow Mayor Sergei Sobyenin said on his Telegram channel that Russia had downed more than 1,600 drones since Saturday, including 450 headed for Moscow.

"The unprecedented attack was clearly planned with the aim of disrupting the elections," he said. "The adversary failed to achieve this."

Several drones reached the premises of the oil refinery and one hit an apartment building, he said.

Two people were killed in the early-morning attacks and a third died of his injuries later in hospital, the region's governor, Andrei Vorobyov, said on Telegram.

"The biggest attack by enemy drones has been repelled," Moscow Mayor Sergei Sobyenin said on Telegram. "This unprecedented attack was clearly planned with the aim of disrupting the elections. The enemy did not succeed."

The vote is expected to see the ruling United Russia party easily retain its dominance in a political system critics say does not tolerate dissent. The Kremlin is likely to present the outcome as evidence of public backing for Putin's policies and for the war, now in its fifth year with no sign of ending soon.

Central Election Commission Chairwoman (CEC) Ella Pamfilova said the latest attacks had not deterred voters.

Tata Trusts step up battle as legal...

ACCORDING TO THE Trusts, a chairman's casting vote is available only where there is an equality of votes at the overall board level and cannot be used to establish the required majority among Tata Trusts-nominated directors.

The Trusts consequently maintained that the resolution reappointing Chandrasekaran "was not validly passed and has no legal effect" and was "void ab initio". Sunday's intervention marked a further escalation of the dispute between Tata Trusts and Tata Sons over both Chandrasekaran's continuation and the possible listing of the holding company. It was the sixth statement issued by Tata Trusts since Thursday.

The sharpening differences have also prompted both camps to assemble formidable legal teams, signalling preparations for the possibility that the dispute could eventually move to court. According to a Bloomberg report, Cyril Amarchand Mangaldas has been advising Noel Tata and Tata Trusts for more than a year, with managing partner Cyril Shroff personally handling the matter along with senior partners including Indranil Deshmukh. The team also includes Bharat Vasani, who was Tata Sons' group general counsel for more than 17 years before retiring in 2017.

Tata Trusts and Noel Tata have also recently retained senior advocates Aspi Chinoy, Janak Dwarkadas, Abhishek Manu Singhvi and Mukul Rohatgi, the report said. Singhvi has publicly confirmed his role.

On the other side, Tata Sons and Chandrasekaran are being advised by Anagram Partners, led by Shuva Mandal, another former Tata Sons group general counsel. Mandal had earlier advised Tata Sons during the 2016 removal of Cyrus Mistry as chairman and subsequently helped steer the group through the litigation that culminated in the Supreme Court's 2021 judgment in Tata Sons' favour. Senior advocates Harish Salve and Ravi Kadam have also been retained on the Tata Sons side.

The legal teams themselves underline an unusual aspect of the confrontation: lawyers with deep familiarity with Tata Sons and its earlier governance battles are now ranged across the two sides. Singhvi, who described himself as the lead lawyer for one side, said in a post on X on Sunday that he was entering the dispute with "sadness and regret" that the issues could not be resolved amicably. He said the "fundamental rights of shareholder-owners cannot be nullified" in the manner alleged by Tata Trusts and argued that disrupting the century-old relationship between Tata Trusts and Tata Sons was "unthinkable".

Singhvi also invoked the earlier Tata-Mistry litigation, arguing that the Supreme Court judgment had upheld the special provisions in Tata Sons' Articles relating to the Trusts. In his formulation, attempts to constrain shareholder rights, intra-

With the opposing camps now publicly advancing different interpretations of Tata Sons' Articles, the dispute appears set to move into the legal arena

Trust decision-making and the established voting arrangements raised questions that, in the absence of an agreed settlement, would have to find legal resolution.

Salve, meanwhile, has publicly acknowledged advising Tata Sons and Chandrasekaran and has defended their position. In recent interviews, he argued that a company cannot operate in a state of deadlock and that Tata Sons directors owe their duties to the company and its stakeholders rather than acting merely as representatives of the controlling shareholder.

Salve has also backed a public listing, arguing that greater transparency and institutional oversight would benefit an organisation of Tata's scale. On the regulatory issue, he said the Reserve Bank of India's position required Tata Sons to comply with the rules applicable to core investment companies and described the company's legal position as "legally perfect".

The Trusts' Sunday statement sought to turn Tata Sons' own arguments in the Cyrus Mistry litigation against it.

During the proceedings arising from Mistry's removal, the affirmative voting rights of Trust-nominated directors under Articles 104B and 121 were directly challenged. The National Company Law Appellate Tribunal had found the provisions oppressive, while Tata Sons defended them before the Supreme Court as legitimate protections agreed between shareholders and as reflecting the entitlement of Tata Trusts as majority shareholder.

The Supreme Court subsequently set aside the appellate tribunal's findings in 2021. Tata Trusts now argues that Tata Sons cannot take a position inconsistent with the protections it had then defended.

"The Company cannot now disown the protection it went to the Supreme Court to preserve," the Trusts said. "They are either in the Articles or they are not."

The Trusts also rejected the suggestion that the lack of support from one of its nominees amounted to a governance deadlock capable of paralyzing Tata Sons. In its view, the board had put a question to vote and the company's Articles had supplied the answer. "The exercise of a protective right conferred by a company's own constitution is not a deadlock; it is that constitution working as it was written to work," the statement said. The dispute also extends to the proposed listing of Tata Sons. The Tata Sons board has favoured moving towards a public listing after the RBI rejected the company's application to surrender its registration as an upper-layer non-banking financial company, while Tata Trusts has opposed treating a listing as inevitable and has called for alternatives to be examined.

The Trusts on Sunday pushed back against the argument that listing Tata Sons would necessarily result in better corporate governance. It said Tata Sons had already voluntarily adopted several standards associated with listed companies, including independent directors, an audit committee, a nomination and remuneration committee, rules governing related-party transactions and retirement of directors by rotation. It also pointed to provisions governing insider trading and said these governance standards had been adopted well before the present dispute and were reflected in the company's annual and corporate governance reports.

With the opposing camps now publicly advancing sharply different interpretations of Tata Sons' Articles — and some of India's most prominent corporate lawyers and senior advocates advising them — the dispute over the September 17 decisions appears increasingly set to move from the boardroom into the legal arena.

It can also help businesses avoid using expensive models for every interaction and establish rules for handling sensitive information.

ANI
Tehran, September 20

IRAN'S SPEAKER Mohammad Bagher Ghalibaf said there would be no opening of the Strait of Hormuz until Iran's seven conditions were met, adding that Tehran must pursue both military action and negotiations at the appropriate time.

While addressing the Iranian Parliament, Ghalibaf said, "We believe that the duality of war or negotiation is not real, but that we must both fight and negotiate. We must fight sensibly and decisively and negotiate with authority and rationality at the right time."

Ghalibaf said Iran must use its military power to push back its adversary and consolidate battlefield gains through diplomacy.

Smartphone battle shifts gears...

"THE MIDDLE OF the market is unique because consumers are both value-conscious and aspirational," Nilesh Gupta, director at consumer electronics retailer Vijay Sales, said. Competition is intense in this segment, with brands trying to offer the best combination of features and value, he added.

The shift marks a change from the playbook that helped Chinese smartphone makers gain ground in India over the past decade. Bigger batteries, more RAM, faster processors and better cameras once offered visible improvements at similar prices. With those features now widely available, the differentiation they provide has weakened. "The biggest differentiator will be more on your software experience," according to Tarun Pathak, research director at Counterpoint. Rising component costs have also reduced manufacturers' room to keep adding hardware features without pushing up prices, he said. After-sales service, security updates and word of mouth are becoming increasingly important in repeat purchases.

Higher prices are also changing how consumers buy smartphones. Memory costs have risen, while consumers looking to upgrade are increasingly moving into the ₹20,000-30,000 range. Pathak described this as the new recruiter segment, replacing the ₹10,000-20,000 band that earlier played that role.

Financing is helping this transition. Exchange programmes, low-cost EMIs and bank offers can encourage consumers to choose a more expensive device rather than simply opting for the cheapest model, Bajaj said. Longer EMI tenures are also becoming an important tool for brands, Pathak added.

Offline retailers continue to matter as consumers increasingly want to physically compare devices that may look similar on paper. Brands, meanwhile, are using in-store promoters to influence how shoppers evaluate features and the overall ownership experience.

However, Faisal Kawoosa, founder of TechArc, sees brand and ecosystem value potentially becoming more important as phones become more expensive and consumers retain them for four or five years. Resale value and the ability to remain within an established ecosystem could influence longer-term purchase decisions, he said.

Titan open to smaller watch brand buys in growth push

HER COMMENTS COME amid a growing trend of smaller, India-focused micro watch brands building products around Indian design sensibilities and culture and gaining traction among millennials and high-income consumers.

Krishnaswamy said the emergence of such players was positive for the category rather than a threat to Titan's market leadership.

"I have always believed that the most lonely thing that can happen to you is to be the only person in the category. I think competition is a big, big boon to the market leader. It makes the market leader more agile; it makes the market leader more innovative and inventive," she said. The Tata group firm also expects a "robust" festive season this year, driven by healthy consumer demand and an early wedding season coinciding with a delayed Diwali. —PTI

Warehousing returns...

CANADIAN INVESTOR BROOKFIELD, meanwhile, is buying into assets of ESR India at a yield of around 7.4%, as it expands its presence in the warehousing segment. The transactions reflect the increasing competition among global investors for established assets with existing tenants and cash flows.

"If there were four to five investors earlier, today there are eight to ten people eying the same asset," said a senior executive at a Singapore-based investment firm. The pressure is not limited to operational assets. Yield-to-cost for warehouses under development has fallen to around 9-9.5% from 11.5-12% earlier, and is lower in some cases, as land prices have risen sharply while rentals have increased at a slower pace.

Land typically accounts for 60-70% of the total cost of a warehousing project. While land prices have risen around 20-30% annually in recent years, warehouse rents have increased only 4-5%, industry experts said. "This widening gap has depressed yield-to-cost ratios, signalling a clear need for upward rental corrections to restore market equilibrium," said Chandranath Dey, India operations head, business development, industrial consulting, and integrated logistics, JLL.

The compression in yields is also changing the way developers approach new projects. Instead of acquiring land outright, some are increasingly looking at long-term land leases of 30-40 years to reduce upfront capital expenditure and share operational risks with landowners, Dey said. "More the time taken to develop, lower the IRR," said Chanakya Chakravarti, senior investment advisor and former head of indirect strategies for APAC and country MD for India at Ivanhoe Cambridge, a unit of CDPQ.

INDIEROUTER AI, WHICH opened its waitlist in July and entered open beta on August 20, has attracted about 150 developers. The firm runs its own inference capacity in Hyderabad and is targeting developers and businesses seeking access to AI models on Indian infrastructure.

"We did not think India's gap was a shortage of models. We chose the layer where the shortage was real: serving and routing open models on Indian GPUs, with billing and compliance built into the platform," Bharat B, founder and architect, Indierouter AI, said.

NthEye has also integrated a tiered routing architecture into its core systems and is using it across high-stakes deployments involving five government clients. It is targeting 25 institu-

The loss of any of our top customers, or the loss of revenue from these top customers could have a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition, results of operations and cash flows.

In order to cater to the requirements of our key customers and maintain our relationship with them, we typically set up our Operating Facilities or warehouses in proximity of their manufacturing units, which exposes our facilities to potential fluctuations in the scale of business of our customers and related industry trends.

The details of losses incurred and negative cash flow from operating activities in the past are as under:

6. Disruption of rights as licensee/lessee in relation to some of our Operating Facilities, offices and warehouses taken on lease by our Company

Some of our Operating Facilities, offices and warehouses have been taken on lease by our Company from third parties. For details of our leasehold properties, please see "Our Business- Properties" on page 224 of the Prospectus. Disruption of our rights as licensee/lessee or termination of the agreements with our licensors/ lessors or the title to leasehold land may be subject to legal or regulatory uncertainties which would adversely impact our operations and, consequently, our business. We generated 19.98% to 33.95% of our revenue from operations from these Manufacturing Facilities.
7. We have in past entered into related party transactions and we may continue to do so in the future.

We have entered into transactions with related parties in the past and from, time to time, we may enter into related party transactions in the future. These transactions include, among other things, remuneration, director sitting fees, dividend, purchase of some properties and buyback of shares. Such future related party transactions may potentially involve conflicts of interest.
8. Our Promoter and Promoter Group comprise multiple trusts, which may lead to uncertainty in determining ultimate control and beneficial ownership.

Our Corporate Promoter, VRIDAA Holding Trust, holds 97.00% of the shareholding in our Company, and is managed by its trustees who are our Individual Promoters. While, the control of VRIDAA Holding Trust and the ultimate control of our Company lies with the Individual Promoters, however the beneficiary structure may lead to concerns in determining the beneficial ownership. Further, there are multiple trusts within our Promoter Group, in which our Promoters or their relatives hold interest.
9. Past non-compliances, untraceable records and associations of our Promoters, Directors and members of our Promoter Group with struck-off entities may expose us to regulatory risks.

We have been unable to locate certain bank statements relating to allotments made by our Company for cash between 2001 and 2011, despite repeated requests to our bankers. We have verified receipt of the relevant allotment monies based on certificates issued by our erstwhile statutory auditors, certificates dated June 24, 2025 and June 23, 2025 issued by our Statutory Auditor and Practicing Company Secretary, respectively, and affidavits obtained from the relevant allottees. Certain other corporate and secretarial records, and regulatory filings are untraceable, contain discrepancies, not filed or were filed with delays. Additionally, our Company and Individual Promoters had applied to the Regional Director and the Registrar of Companies, Ministry of Corporate Affairs, as applicable, for compounding of certain non-compliances relating to our erstwhile subsidiary, Aquiline Inc (FZE), delayed appointment of a company secretary and certain other matters, and have paid the applicable compounding fees/fines. Further, during the existence of our erstwhile subsidiary, Aquiline Inc (FZE), we were required to submit Forms APR, FLA and FC with the RBI. While RBI has not raised any observations on the Forms APR, however the Forms FC submitted pursuant to directions of DBS Bank India Limited are currently under review and will thereafter be submitted to the RBI for closure of the relevant UIN. We cannot assure you that no regulatory queries, additional compliance requirements, fines or other adverse consequences will arise in connection with such filings or non-compliances or delays. Our Promoters, Directors and certain members of our Promoter Group have also been associated with companies struck off by the Registrar of Companies. Such matters may expose us to regulatory scrutiny, penalties or other adverse action. For further details, please see "Other Regulatory and Statutory Disclosures – Other confirmations" on page 406 of the Prospectus.
10. Fluctuations in performance indicators and lower performance than listed peers.

Some of our profitability and performance indicators have fluctuated in the three months period ended June 30, 2026 and the preceding three Fiscals as presented below:

| Fiscals/ Period             | Metric | Three month period ended June 30, 2026* | Fiscal 2026 | Fiscal 2025 | Fiscal 2024 |

| ROE                         | %      | 8.34                                    | 15.18       | 15.44       | 10.68       |

| Net Working Capital days    | Days   | 53                                      | 71          | 69          | 70          |

*The figures for the three months period are not annualised and may not be comparable with the figures appearing for the last three Fiscals.

Further, when compared to listed peers, we lag behind on some key performance indicators such as EBITDA margin, PAT margin, Debt to Equity Ratio, RoE, RoCE and overall revenue scale, among others, as their business model, revenue composition, focus area, geographic presence and nature of business within different segments may not be same as ours. For further details, please refer to the section "Basis for Offer Price - Comparison of financial KPIs of our Company and our listed peers" on page133 of the Prospectus.
11. Our key customer relationships are not supported by long-term supply agreements.

While we have longstanding relationship with several of our customers, we have entered into long term supply agreements with only a few of them. Customers who have partnered with us for over a decade contributed 43.75%, 42.34%,42.15% and 31.30% to our revenue from operations during the three month period ended June 30, 2026, and in Fiscal 2026, 2025, and 2024, respectively. We primarily rely on periodic purchase orders from customers, and there can be no assurance that they will continue to place orders in our desired quantities or at all.
12. Our expansion into new product categories may expose us to additional risks.

We intend to diversify our product portfolio by utilising a part of the Net Proceeds towards purchase of injection stretch blow moulding machinery. While we have a longstanding experience of manufacturing packaging containers through injection moulding, however we do not have experience of manufacturing products through injection stretch blow moulding. Accordingly, our expansion into new product categories and an increase in the number of products offered by us may expose us to new challenges and additional risks.
13. Domestic revenue concentration (geography wise)

During the three-month period ended June 30, 2026 and the preceding three Fiscals, out of our revenue from operations from 24 states/union territories across India, about 26% to 39% came from north India, particularly from Himachal Pradesh during the said periods. # The WhatsApp insight

A CHANCE DISCOVERY POINTED TO AN AUDIENCE THAT THE INTERNET HAD LARGELY OVERLOOKED

ANEES HUSSAIN

IN NOVEMBER 2014, Ankush Sachdeva, then a final-year student at IIT Kanpur, came across a post on a Sachin Tendulkar fan club on Facebook. It had nearly half a million likes and asked users to leave their phone numbers in the comments to be added to a Tendulkar WhatsApp group. Around 50,000 people had responded.

Sachdeva copied the numbers and created the group. Strangers began posting photographs, jokes and shayaris, while treating him, simply because he was the admin, as an authority. “These guys are so starved of content that they are putting their phone numbers out in public forums,” he says.

The observation was simple: India’s emerging Internet users wanted content, but much of what was available was not in their language or built around their interests. That insight became ShareChat, the social and content platform operated by Mohalla Tech, which today also runs short-video platform Moj and microdrama service QuickTV.

The company did not arrive at ShareChat directly. Sachdeva had already experimented with finding unmet demand. In Class 10, he discovered that school and affiliation codes could be used to access the CBSE results system and began distributing results and admit cards before their official release. “That was my first product-market-fit (PMF),” he says.

He met Farid Ahsan and Bhanu Pratap Singh at a Yahoo! hackathon in Kanpur in 2012. The three went on to build more than a dozen products, including a property listings platform, a crime-data analyser for the Delhi Police and a debating platform. ShareChat emerged from those experiments.

Launched in October 2015, it started as a directory of discoverable groups designed to work on 2G. The product then changed as India’s Internet changed. Jio’s entry in 2016 brought millions of users online and sharply reduced the cost of mobile data. ShareChat introduced a feed and moved towards user-generated content.

The next major shift came in 2020, when the company launched Moj within days of TikTok being banned in India. Advertising became a revenue stream that year, followed by live streaming and virtual gifting. But short video also created a technology challenge: recommendations had to identify which video an individual user was likely to watch. The company assembled a London team of engineers from Meta, Pinterest and Twitter to build that capability.

Investors backed the expansion. Twitter led its Series D in 2019, followed by Google, Times Group, Temasek and Alkeon. Tracxn valued Mohalla Tech at $4.35 billion in June 2022. It also acquired MX TakaTak from Times Internet for around $700 million and merged it with Moj. Overall, the company has raised $1.23 billion.

Then the funding market changed. Jeet11 was shut in December 2022, followed by further layoffs. More than 850 employees left across four rounds of cuts, while Ahsan and Singh stepped down from their operating roles. Headcount is now 491, according to Tracxn. A $49-million convertible round in April 2024 valued the company at just below $2 billion.

The response was a shift from growth to economics. Manohar Charan, who joined in 2019 to manage investors and later became CFO, led the reset. FY25 revenue was ₹723 crore, against ₹718 crore the previous year, while adjusted Ebitda loss narrowed to ₹219 crore.

That discipline is now being applied to the company’s next bet: microdramas. Charan says India has about 100 million monthly microdrama viewers, with 70 million watching through the company’s platform. Daily episode views have crossed a billion. More than a million users send virtual gifts to creators each month, while 3.5 million pay for subscriptions.

Production costs are also falling. Human-shot microdrama costs about ₹20,000 a minute, Charan says. AI-generated content, which cost ₹25,000-30,000 a minute a year ago, is now around ₹10,000 and could fall below ₹5,000 within a year. Mohalla Tech plans to invest ₹100 crore in AI production workflows.

FY26 revenue is expected to cross ₹1,000 crore, with adjusted Ebitda loss narrowing to about ₹120 crore. “First quarter of FY27 we turned Ebitda profitable. Free cash flow arrived end of FY26,” Charan says. The company expects Ebitda margin to move from minus 30% to minus 12% and then to a positive 2-3% this fiscal.

The next test is the public market. Mohalla Tech is targeting an IPO in four to five quarters, with the DRHP expected in about three quarters. Competition is also increasing, with Jio’s Tadka, Yash Raj Films and newer players such as Kuku, StoryTV, Dashverse and RiggTV entering the space.

Elavenil’s silvers, Suchika’s MMA run ignite India’s Asian Games campaign

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
Nagoya, September 20

DRIVEN BY ELAVENIL Valarivan’s individual brilliance, India opened their Asian Games medal account with a couple of silvers in shooting, while locking an unexpected podium finish in Mixed Martial Arts and making an authoritative push towards a second successive women’s cricket gold here on Sunday.

Some other notable performances of the day included massive opening wins by both the men’s and women’s hockey teams and bright starts in the badminton and table tennis team competitions.

However, the 27-year-old Valarivan, who ended up medal-less in her past two Asian Games appearances, was the undisputed star of the day. The 2025 World Championship bronze-medallist landed an individual women’s 10m air rifle silver with 252.4 points, just 0.6 behind Japan’s Hinata Taichi, who clinched gold with an Asian Games record 253.0. This was after Valarivan combined with Sonam Uttam Maskar and Games debutant Vidarsa Vinod to fetch a second-place finish in the team competition.

“Congrats to Elavenil Valari-van for winning a Silver Medal in the 10m Air Rifle Women Individual event at the Asian Games. This was her second medal of the day, making this even more special. My best wishes to her for the endeavours ahead,” Prime Minister Narendra Modi posted on X, taking note of her fine run on the day.

“Hard work and teamwork lead to an outstanding result! Proud of Sonam Uttam Maskar, Elavenil Valarivan and Vidarsa K Vinod for winning the Silver Medal at the Asian Games 2026 in 10m Air Rifle Women’s event,” he added. Valarivan’s exploits came within hours of 36-year-old Suchika Tariyal’s stunning entry into the women’s traditional 60kg semifinals of Mixed Martial Arts, a discipline that is making its debut in Japan.

Porsche faces further 4,000 job cuts

REUTERS
Berlin, September 19

VOLKSWAGEN’S SWEEPING TURNAROUND plan foresees more than 4,000 further job cuts at Porsche, German business daily Handelsblatt reported on Saturday, following a profit warning linked to problems at the sports car subsidiary.

Files documenting a recent agreement by Volkswagen’s supervisory board to usher in the German auto group’s largest restructuring yet propose a reduction of “about 4,100 employees” at the brand, addressing an overhead shortfall of some €700 million ($803.8 million), according to Handelsblatt.

The newspaper said the cuts would be in addition to existing agreements.

In July, Porsche management and labour representatives agreed to an additional 5,000 layoffs on top of 4,000 determined earlier, bringing the scope of currently agreed job cuts at the Stuttgart-based 911 maker to around one in five by 2035. Volkswagen declined to comment. A Porsche spokesperson declined to comment on the reported plans of Volkswagen’s supervisory board.

The parent company can only recommend, but not mandate, such measures at Porsche. Volkswagen on Friday revised down its full-year margin target, now hoping for 1% at best rather than a previous range of 4.0-5.5%.

The revision was “due in large part to ?a writedown at Porsche, where CEO Michael Leiters is under pressure to deliver a comeback strategy following a collapse in China sales and a costly reversal of the carmaker’s EV strategy.

- 2. Dependence on Financial Partners: We operate a digital financial services platform that enables access to a broad suite of financial products to users through partnerships with Financial Partners. Our Company acts as a lending service provider ("LSP") for our personal loan product, facilitating loan origination and end-to-end servicing. In the three month periods ended June 30, 2026 and 2025, and Fiscals 2026, 2025 and 2024, our top ten Financial Partners contributed to 39.02%, 38.69%, 37.36%, 46.82% and 56.78% of our revenue from operations, respectively. Our relationships with Financial Partners are crucial to our success and if they do not continue their relationship with us, it could have an adverse impact on our business, financial condition, cash flows, results of operations and prospects.
- 3. Key Managerial Personnel and Employees retention risk: As of June 30, 2026, our Key Managerial Personnel and Senior Management Personnel have been with the Company for an average of 7 years. If our Key Managerial Personnel and Senior Management Personnel join a competitor or form a competing business, we may lose know-how and key professionals and staff members. Our Board and Shareholders have, by way of resolutions dated March 3, 2026, approved payment of a one-time performance-based incentive of ₹1,600.00 million in March 2026 to our Managing Director and Chief Executive Officer, for his continued leadership, performance and contributions to the overall growth of our Company. The performance-based incentive is a one-time payment and non-recurring in nature and there are no plans to make any such one-time performance-based incentive in the future. If we are unable to effectively manage costs, retention, motivation, or preserve our organisational culture and core values during our growth journey, it may have an adverse impact on our business, financial condition, cash flows, results of operations and prospects.
- 4. Risk relating to sustainability of growth: We have witnessed rapid growth in the past three years and may not be able to sustain our historical growth levels. We have a limited operating history across some of our products and services. If we are unable to sustain our growth in a cost-effective manner, it may materially and adversely affect our business, financial condition and results of operations.

1. Return on Net Worth (%) is computed as Profit for the period/year before exceptional items (net of tax) divided by Net Worth of the Company at the end of the period/year.

2. Net worth means the aggregate value of the paid-up share capital and all reserves created out of the profits and securities premium account and debit or credit balance of profit and loss account, after deducting the aggregate value of the accumulated losses, deferred expenditure and miscellaneous expenditure not written off, but does not include reserves created out of revaluation of assets, write-back of depreciation and amalgamation in accordance with Regulation 2(1)(hh) of the SEBI ICDR Regulations. Accordingly, we have calculated Net Worth as aggregate of the Equity share capital, instruments entirely equity in nature, statutory reserve, debenture redemption reserve, share based payment reserve, share forfeiture account, capital redemption reserve, securities premium and retained earnings.

3. Weighted average = Aggregate of year-wise weighted Return on Net Worth divided by the aggregate of weights i.e., Return on Net Worth x Weight for each year/total of weights.

- (1) Assuming full subscription in the Offer (Fresh Issue and Offer for Sale). The post-offer shareholding details as at allotment will be based on the actual subscription and the final price shall be updated in the Prospectus, subject to finalization of the basis of allotment. Also, this table assumes there is no transfer of shares by these shareholders between the date of this advertisement and allotment (if such transfer occur prior to the date of prospectus, it will be updated in the shareholding pattern in the Prospectus).
- (2) The post-offer shareholding at the lower and upper ends of the Price Band has been computed assuming the Fresh Issue is made at the Floor Price of ₹85 per Equity Share and the Cap Price of ₹90 per Equity Share, respectively, and after giving effect to the Offer for Sale by the Selling Shareholders. Accordingly, the number of Equity Shares proposed to be issued pursuant to the Fresh Issue is 62,40,000 Equity Shares at the Floor Price and 58,94,400 Equity Shares at the Cap Price. The post-offer paid-up Equity Share capital has been computed by adding the Equity Shares proposed to be issued pursuant to the Fresh Issue to the pre- Offer paid-up Equity Share capital. The post- Offer shareholding of each existing Shareholder has been computed after deducting the number of Equity Shares, if any, offered by such Shareholder pursuant to the Offer for Sale. The percentage post- Offer shareholding has been calculated as the number of Equity Shares held by the respective Shareholder after giving effect to the Offer for Sale, divided by the total post- Offer paid-up Equity Share capital at the relevant end of the Price Band, multiplied by 100.
