IN BRIEF

Oct SIP openings at 18-mth low, closures up

The mutual fund (MF) industry's systematic investment plan (SIP) growth story suffered a setback in October, just ahead of the equity market's recovery. SIP account registrations fell to an 18-month low of 5.1 million, while closures rose to 5.9 million, the highest level since April 2025. The higher number of closures led to a decline in the total number of active SIP accounts. The MF industry's active SIP tally stood at 108 million at the end of October, compared with 108.9 million in September. The decline was also reflected in monthly SIP contributions, which fell from ₹32,490 crore to ₹32,160 crore. Experts chalked up the decline in SIP accounts to equity market volatility, while stressing that most SIP metrics remain close to their all-time highs, reports ABHISHEK KUMAR 21 ▸

Vi's loss widened to ₹5,975 crore in Q2

Vodafone Idea's (Vi's) losses widened to ₹5,975 crore in the second quarter of 2026-27 (Q2FY27), compared with ₹5,524 crore in Q2FY26. The bottom line was pulled down by a ₹462 crore exceptional loss from reassessing the fair market value of Vodafone Plc equity shares, which accrue to the company over five years under a 2018 settlement. Consistent rise in subscribers and shift by more users to higher-value 4G and 5G services led to higher average revenue per user (Arpu), a key metric for telcos' profitability. Revenue from operations grew about 6 per cent year-on-year to ₹11,884 crore. The earnings missed Bloomberg estimates that had projected narrower losses and slightly higher than reported revenues. LTCG tax filers surge, but still a tiny minority

SACHIN P MAMPATTA
Mumbai, 12 November

Amid the debate on removing long term capital gains (LTCG) taxes on equity investors, official data shows only a fraction, or just about 5 per cent, of individual tax filers declare LTCG. This is despite the number of such individuals filing returns with LTCG had risen from 0.75 million in assessment year 2019-20 (AY20) to 3.8 million in AY24, according to a Business Standard analysis of data collated from the Centre for Monitoring Indian Economy (CMIE).

Assessment year is the subsequent year following the year in which income is earned, when returns are filed and assessed.

The make-up of assessees paying LTCG assumes significance in light of public discussions on LTCG relief, which policy makers are keenly watching. While LTCG above ₹1.25 lakh a year from listed securities held for more than a year is taxed at 12.5 per cent, short term capital gain (STCG) is taxed at 20 per cent.

Outflow of foreign portfolio investments (FPIs) that depreciated the rupee in recent months have been of particular concern for the government — one of the factors that has triggered expectations about LTCG relief, particularly for FPIs.

FPIs have been net sellers by about ₹3.97 trillion in the three years including the ongoing financial year 2026-27 (FY27). Specific tax data for foreign investors is not available.

LTCG debate

Industry bodies seek LTCG relief

- Industry bodies have sought rationalisation of LTCG in recent representations to the government

Lower taxes to help foreign investors:

- Removing 12.5 per cent LTCG can help improve India's returns relative to other countries.
- Many investors like sovereign wealth funds, pension and endowment funds don't pay tax in their home country. So, tax credits for payments made in India can't be adjusted overseas.

What FM Nirmala Sitharaman said:

October 13: "It is healthy to have this debate and I will be keenly hearing them."

November 2: The current taxation structure is similar to that of 2023-24, a period that saw good capital inflow. Circumstances have changed, hence the concern now. Sustained 7 per cent plus growth needs capital, particularly, now.

Jensen Huang, the face of AI boom, ousted as Nvidia CEO

BLOOMBERG
12 November

Nvidia Chief Executive Officer (CEO) Jensen Huang, the preeminent face of the artificial intelligence (AI) infrastructure boom, was ousted from his post after reports of two affairs, including with one woman who is reportedly suspected of spying for China.

Chief Financial Officer Colette Kress was named interim CEO.

Huang, one of the three engineers who founded the chipmaker in 1993, had been under intense pressure since Sunday when he admitted to a romantic relationship with Alice Huang, a former executive at the Singaporean data center firm Megaspeed International.

Huang's resignation deepens a crisis partly of Nvidia's own making, given that there has been no clear succession plan for the 63-year-old who has been the company's only CEO. Arguably more than any other founder in the technology world, Huang built Nvidia around himself and his view of what constituted the right way to manage a company.

Kress, who joined Nvidia 13 years ago after stints at Microsoft and Cisco Systems, has spent her career in financial roles. While she has represented the company at Wall Street-related events, her public role has been confined to Nvidia's numbers and the majority of the communication with the financial community has been handled by her former boss.

Under Huang's leadership, Nvidia's shares have soared more than 700,000 per cent since it became a public company in 1999. The firm's market valuation has at times topped $5 trillion, ranking it among the largest companies in the world. The staggering growth eclipses anything accomplished by Apple's Steve Jobs, Microsoft's Bill Gates or Amazon.com's Jeff Bezos.

Huang's departure threatens to reverberate far beyond Nvidia. He has used Nvidia's financial strength to back dozens of major AI players including frontier labs OpenAI and Anthropic PBC. He's also both invested in and backstopped financing deals for cloud computing firms including CoreWeave, inspiring others to forge similar arrangements with one another to bolster the entire AI ecosystem. Big names on Wall Street including Michael Burry of The Big Short fame have warned that such circular deals are artificially inflating AI demand.

"As a student of economic history, I don't know if there's ever been such a key man holding so much of this industry up," Blue Bear Capital investor Thomas Ferguson said of Huang while speaking at the BNEF Houston Summit on Wednesday ahead of his departure.

Huang has also led high-profile efforts to promote the worldwide expansion of data centres, travelling extensively to speak at lectures and other events. Wearing his signature leather jackets, he's drawn crowds of fans swept up in "Jensanity." Turn to Page 6 ▸

Only 28% of PLI employment target met by FY26

NITI Aayog calls for sector-specific intervention, shift towards demand-side support

DHRUVAKSH SAHA
New Delhi, 12 November

India's production-linked incentive (PLI) schemes have achieved only 28 per cent of their targeted employment generation, even as investment mobilisation has reached 76 per cent of the envisaged target, highlighting the uneven translation of the government's manufacturing push into job creation, according to a first-of-its-kind assessment of the flagship schemes by NITI Aayog.

According to the Aayog, these figures reflect the aggregate implementation period of the PLI schemes so far, which accounts for more than half of their combined duration.

The 14 PLI schemes have completed 58 per cent of their aggregate implementation period, with 578 months elapsed against a total duration of 996 months. Launched between 2020 and 2021, the schemes have tenures ranging from three to 10 years.

The 14 schemes have generated 849,069 jobs by 2025-26 (FY26), against a target of 3 million. They have mobilised around ₹2.4 trillion against the investment target of ₹3.15 trillion and achieved production worth around ₹22.66 trillion, or 64 per cent of the ₹35.38 trillion target, by FY26.

"A substantial 42 per cent of the aggregate implementation period is remaining. The portfolio therefore represents a mix of schemes at different stages of maturity, with some having progressed substantially and others still moving through the investment and gestation phase," the think tank said.

The report, titled Impact Assessment of PLI Schemes, released on Thursday, called for refining the design of the schemes. "While the PLI scheme has shown encouraging early results, the focus now must shift from assessing its initial success to strengthening its long-term effectiveness. The way ahead lies not merely in continuing the scheme but in refining its design so that it can deliver deeper and more sustained industrial transformation," it said.

Annual employment performance has not been uniform. Employment generation stood at 86 per cent of the target up to 2022-23, around 85 per cent in 2023-24 and 156 per cent in 2024-25, before falling to 31 per cent of the annual target in 2025-26.

October retail inflation crossed 6%, first time in 2 years

HIMANSHI BHARDWAJ
New Delhi, 12 November

India's retail inflation, as measured by the Consumer Price Index (CPI), rose to a two-year high of 6.09 per cent in October, breaching the Reserve Bank of India's (RBI's) upper tolerance limit of 6 per cent.

A sharp rise in food prices, along with a broad-based increase across 11 of 12 major divisions, pushed inflation up from 5.54 per cent in September, according to data released by the National Statistics Office (NSO) on Thursday.

This is the first time retail inflation has breached the RBI's tolerance limit in the new series.

Retail inflation has now risen for 12 straight months since bottoming out at 0.04 per cent in October 2025. Based on back-series data, the October reading was the highest since October 2024, when inflation stood at 6.21 per cent.

Sequentially, the index rose 0.51 per cent to 110.05 in October from 109.49 in September. An unfavourable base also added to the pressure, as the index had stayed almost flat at 103.74 in October last year.

Payments journey is beginning to take off: Meta India head

Q&A For Meta India Head Arun Srinivas, while commerce and discovery through Reels and creators continue to be a big focus, the expansion of WhatsApp—across payments, business interactions, and government services—along with artificial intelligence (AI) adoption by small businesses will clearly drive the company's next phase in India. In a video interview with Shivani Shinde, he talks about WhatsApp Pay, concerns related to CSAM (child sexual abuse material), and agentic AI. Edited excerpts:

Will Meta revisit its WhatsApp Pay strategy, especially with merchant discount rate (MDR) now being introduced on UPI transactions? How significant is WhatsApp Pay in Meta's overall offering in India?

■ It is enormously strategic for us. If you look at how the future is shaping up, we all want to work with AI agents, enable one-click payments and make transactions seamless. Given that a lot of these conversations and transactions will happen on our platforms, payments are obviously super strategic for us.

Secondly, we have made significant efforts in this area. Over the last year or so, we have taken steps to improve the user experience and integrate bill payments into WhatsApp. The payments journey is really beginning to take off, particularly with the introduction of the bill payments hub and other capabilities. For example, we have connected with the Bharat Connect network, which is the Bharat Bill Payment System. Today, we have more than 22,722 billers across 30 categories, including electricity, gas, water, insurance, credit cards, and loan repayment. All I want to say is that payments are definitely important to us, and you will see a lot more action in this space. I am sure we will have more to share as we introduce new features.

On the CSAM issue, one of the government's concerns is why such content continues to appear on platforms. What prevents companies such as Meta from identifying offenders and taking action against them?

■ We have zero tolerance towards any form of child sexual abuse or exploitation on our platforms. We have proactively removed over 5 million pieces of content in India in the first half of the year, across Facebook and Instagram. More than 98 per cent of this content was detected and removed proactively. We have shared these statistics in our blogs as well.

We use technologies, tools, and AI classifiers to identify and remove such content. We continuously invest in improving their effectiveness and our proactive detection capabilities. But the reality is that bad actors are everywhere, not just on the internet. They are constantly trying to evade our detection methods and are becoming increasingly sophisticated. For example, initially, much of this activity involved organic content. When we strengthened detection, these actors moved to advertisements. Once we began enforcing our policies and using AI classifiers to proactively detect such content in advertisements, they started adopting another tactic.

They now use what I would call "benign" advertisements, which appear harmless but lead users to websites and applications outside our platforms. These are places where we may not have complete visibility or the ability to track subsequent activity. This is an ongoing battle because these actors continuously find new ways to evade detection. More recently, we became the first platform to announce a direct partnership with the Indian Cyber Crime Coordination Centre, under which we will report such cases directly to the cybercrime portal. This was also one of the steps the government wanted platforms to take.

Our endeavour is to continuously improve proactive detection, remove more such content, and ensure that the relevant authorities have the information needed to take action.

Adyar Ananda Bhavan sells majority stake to Bodhi Tree Systems for $180 mn

SHINE JACOB
Visakhapatnam, 12 November

In one of the largest deals in India's food services sector, Chennai-based restaurant chain Adyar Ananda Bhavan (A2B) has sold its majority stake to Bodhi Tree Systems for $180 million.

Bodhi Tree Systems is a strategic investment and operating platform founded in 2021 by James Murdoch, founder of Lupa Systems and younger son of media tycoon Rupert Murdoch, and former Star India and Disney executive Uday Shankar. A2B said this is a strategic partnership to drive its ambitious global expansion plans. The food chain is Bodhi Tree's third investment, after acquiring 36 per cent of Allen Career Institute for $600 million in May 2022 and becoming a strategic investor in JioStar in 2023.

"A2B has earned the trust of millions of families through its consistent and reliable quality," said Murdoch and Shankar, in a statement.

"We are grateful to the cofounders, KT Srinivasa Raja and KT Venkatesan, for this opportunity to partner with them to build a differentiated, professionally managed Indian food company, one that sets new standards for the sector. While A2B is a formidable brand in India, we are equally impressed by the scale and reach of its operations in Singapore, the United States, Australia, Malaysia, and the UK. We look forward to working with the team to take its authentic cuisine to a far broader global audience," Shankar said. He will serve as chairperson of A2B's new Board of Directors.

"The plan we have built together will make A2B a company fit for the public markets, so that our customers, employees and investors can share in its future," said Venkatesan, cofounder, A2B.

A2B is one of South India's leading food brands, with a strong foothold in Tamil Nadu and Karnataka and a growing presence across India.

UNDERGROUND COAL GASIFICATION

RIL to invest ₹43K cr in Andhra project

SAKET KUMAR, SUDHEER PAL SINGH & SHINE JACOB
New Delhi/Visakhapatnam, 12 November

Reliance Industries Ltd (RIL) on Thursday signed a memorandum of understanding (MoU) with the Andhra Pradesh government to initially invest ₹43,000 crore in an integrated underground coal gasification project in the state over the next two years, with the overall investment potential estimated at ₹2.7 trillion in three phases.

The project will be at the Chintalapudi and Recherla coal blocks in Eluru district of the state, which RIL secured through a coal ministry e-auction to develop India's largest-scale underground coal gasification project. This has the potential to generate around 5,000 direct and 35,000 indirect jobs.

According to the details of the deal, Phase-1 will include an investment of ₹3,000 crore and will cover exploration, evaluation, pilot demonstration, and feasibility assessment by RIL. This phase tests technical performance, safety, environmental safeguards, and commercial feasibility, and its results will shape the scope, location, infrastructure, and investment case for any future detailed project report (DPR).

On the other hand, Phase-2 will include commercial development and production.

ACCORDING TO THE DEAL, PHASE-1 WILL INCLUDE AN INVESTMENT OF ₹3,000 CRORE AND WILL COVER EXPLORATION, EVALUATION, PILOT DEMONSTRATION, AND FEASIBILITY ASSESSMENT BY RIL

"Based on successful completion of Phase-1 and subsequent to the submission of the Mining Plan to the MoC (Ministry of Coal), a DPR shall be submitted, detailing out the requirements for the project. Upon successful completion of Phase-1, the project would be developed into a large-scale Integrated Underground Coal Gasification Complex in multiple stages," the MoU said. The Phase-2 investment initially will be in the order of ₹40,000 crore and potentially entail an overall investment of ₹2.7 trillion over the life of the project, it added.

An RIL executive said the company will use the latest technology to gasify coal in two coal blocks allocated to the company recently, and the ₹43,000 crore project will be executed in two phases.

Under the arrangement, the Andhra Pradesh Economic Development Board (APEDB) will serve as the nodal agency, coordinating with various state government departments on land, water, and power requirements, besides liaising with central ministries.

In April this year, the MoC signed Coal Mine/Block Production and Development Agreements with RIL for the two coal blocks, marking the first ever tranche of commercial coal mines in India to carry embedded provisions for UCG.

Unlike conventional surface coal gasification, which involves extracting coal from mines and converting it into gas at industrial facilities, the proposed project will use underground coal gasification. The technology involves converting coal deposits deep below the earth's surface into gas without extracting the coal through conventional mining. The gas produced is brought to the surface through wells and can be used as an energy source or industrial feedstock.

The project comes amid the government's broader push to promote coal gasification and reduce dependence on imported fuels and chemicals. In May 2026, the Union Cabinet approved a ₹37,500 crore incentive scheme to promote surface coal and lignite gasification projects, offering financial support of up to 20 per cent of eligible plant and machinery costs.

The scheme is distinct from RIL's proposed underground gasification project. As RIL plans to venture into coal gasification, it will join the race with large companies like Adani Enterprises and state-backed NTPC.

ReNew to invest ₹1.6 trn in Andhra over 7 years

Q&A ReNew Energy Global Plc (ReNew), a leading decarbonisation solutions company, on Thursday announced fresh investments of approximately ₹80,000 crore in Andhra Pradesh, spanning digital infrastructure and clean energy manufacturing. The company's founder, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, Sumant Sinha, talks to Shine Jacob in Visakhapatnam about the investments, and future plans. Edited excerpts:

What's the Andhra Pradesh investment all about?

■ The investments include a ₹67,000 crore, 1 gigawatt (Gw) green hyperscale data centre in Anakapalli; ₹11,000 crore polysilicon and metallurgical silicon manufacturing facilities in Anakapalli and Nellore and a ₹1,500 crore permanent magnet manufacturing facility in Rambilli. This will eventually take our cumulative investment in Andhra Pradesh to ₹1.62 trillion over seven years. Timelines will also depend on the flow of orders.

Why are you diversifying aggressively in data centres?

■ That is something that makes sense for us because we are already suppliers of energy to data centres. We are already acquiring land for our manufacturing locations, and we are already dealing with state governments. Those relationships exist. But power is becoming very central to data centres. If we have the capability to supply not just power but clean power, which is increasingly going to be a requirement, it makes sense. We understand how that whole thing works, and energy is the single biggest operating cost in a data centre.

We know the land, we know the energy, and we know a lot of the customers who are setting up these data centres. They are the same hyperscalers to whom we sell energy. So, for us, it is just a natural step forward to also build the capability to develop data centres. We said, let's start working towards that. The idea is to increase the adjacencies as well.

Why entry into permanent magnets?

■ We are looking at the entire clean-tech supply chain. Permanent magnets are not exactly a clean-tech area, but they are nevertheless critical to taking forward our electrification journey because they are used in motors and wind turbines. So, they have some associated linkage with the whole clean-tech space. Once we start making permanent magnets, we could be selling them for other sectors. Wherever there are motors, we could be selling them.

Is it a move to compete with Chinese suppliers, like you are doing in solar manufacturing?

■ China controls the entire supply chain, and not just in clean tech, but in a lot of other areas as well, including critical minerals, permanent magnets and rare earth refining. So, for us as a country, from an energy security standpoint, it is very critical to essentially make sure that we have our own ability to generate energy. If that involves having the supply chain in the country, then we better do that.

"FOR US, IT IS JUST A NATURAL STEP FORWARD TO BUILD THE CAPABILITY TO DEVELOP DATA CENTRES"
Sumant Sinha
Founder, Chairman & CEO, ReNew

You had sought compensation for delays in transmission capacity additions. Has there been any response from the government? How are companies getting affected?

■ We are yet to get a response. Companies in the sector are facing significant curtailment losses. Our transmission capacity has lagged behind our generation capacity, and we did not have sufficient flexibility in the grid because we didn't have enough battery systems.

In the next two years, we will address that. But in those two years, we will have these curtailment issues.

The government has proposed mandatory energy storage capacity for renewable energy projects. How will this impact the green energy sector?

■ I think it will have a very positive impact. The grid is causing two kinds of problems. One is that connectivity is not there. If connectivity is not there and we are being asked to curtail generation, we can store that curtailed power and sell it in the evening. That is one benefit to both us and the grid as a whole.

The second is that we have this duck curve problem, which has become very problematic for us. Daytime prices are going down to very low levels, while evening prices are going up.

Having batteries evens it out a little. Instead of the sharp variation, it will slowly start evening out. Your evening deficit is going to be addressed, and your daytime curtailment issues or energy loss issues are also going to be addressed. So, it is a massive net benefit.

If we don't get more and more batteries and power storage into the system, we will have this duck curve problem that we have to address from a grid management standpoint.

The only thing is that pumped storage projects will take four or five years to construct. Batteries can be installed within a year's time. Therefore, we need to have both in the grid eventually.

Kia plans $2 billion expansion in state

Overall capacity to hit 630K units

SHINE JACOB
Visakhapatnam, 12 November

Carmaker Kia India said on Thursday it will invest around $2 billion to expand manufacturing in Andhra Pradesh, taking its overall capacity to 630,000 units — a step that will "transform" India into an export hub for the company.

The company is an example of how partnerships between governments and private industry can create success, Gwanggu Lee, managing director and chief executive officer of Kia India, said at the 31st CII Partnership Summit 2026 in Visakhapatnam. The project is expected to generate around 12,000 jobs and increase Kia India's annual production capacity from 430,000 to 630,000 vehicles.

"We are planning to increase our production capacity by investing around $2 billion, increasing the capacity to 630,000 units. This stands for our long-term commitment to India. Our ambition is to transform India into a global manufacturing and innovation hub," Lee said.

According to news reports, the South Korean company is considering expanding its Anantapur manufacturing facility, potentially adding a new production line.

Kia India targets annual sales of 410,000 vehicles by 2030. In October, the company recorded its highest-ever monthly sales, clocking 33,462 units and registering 13.22 per cent annual growth.

"We are the fastest-growing original equipment manufacturer in India, clocking 1 million units within four years and pursuing 2 million in seven years," Lee said. The company, which signed a memorandum of understanding with Andhra Pradesh in April 2017, rolled out its first India-made car, the Kia Seltos SUV, in 2019. According to reports, the company has invested $2 billion so far to build an ecosystem in the state.

"We follow the 3S mantra: Speed, stability in our policies, and service. Once we shake hands, it becomes our project. That is the success mantra of Andhra Pradesh," said Nara Lokesh, Minister for HRD, IT & Electronics, Andhra Pradesh, at the summit.

The company's factory in Andhra Pradesh has an annual production capacity of 430,000 vehicles and is an export hub, shipping more than 410,00 vehicles and kits to nearly 100 countries.

"Our journey started in 2017, and the first plant came up within 14 months. The state has created an investment-friendly environment," Lee added.

He noted that Kia India's footprint extends beyond manufacturing to local supply-chain development and community programmes in education, healthcare, and skill training. The manufacturing expansion underscores the automaker's long-term commitment to India and its partnership with the Andhra Pradesh government as the state builds out its manufacturing sector.

Growth in India will continue to be a focus: Tata Steel MD & CEO

Q&A From environmental regulatory hurdles in the Netherlands to excess inventory in the UK, Tata Steel faces challenges in its overseas operations while India remains a key growth market. In a video interview, Tata Steel Managing Director and Chief Executive Officer (MD & CEO) T V Narendran and Executive Director and Chief Financial Officer (ED & CFO) Koushik Chatterjee discuss the outlook and growth strategy with Ishita Ayan Dutt. Edited excerpts:

Profitability in the second quarter of financial year 2026-27 (Q2FY27) was largely driven by Indian operations. What is your outlook for the second half (H2) of FY27?

■ T V Narendran: India has done well in Q2, but there has also been a significant improvement in the Netherlands because the Direct Sheet Plant (DSP), which was closed for most of Q1, was operating in August and September in Q2 and will operate for the whole of Q3 and Q4. So, the improvement in the Netherlands and the India business obviously contributed to the performance.

We expect H2 to be better than H1 because we'll have more volumes in India. Hopefully, in H2, we'll have the DSP running for the whole period in the Netherlands.

As far as the UK is concerned, Q3 is not going to be very different from Q2, but Q4 is expected to be much better than the other quarters.

Koushik Chatterjee: For the Netherlands, Q1 was break-even, and we closed this quarter at about 5 per cent Ebitda (earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation, and amortisation) margin. Q3 and Q4 should be better than Q2. We will see spread expansion. We just need to be mindful about all the regulatory challenges that we face in the Netherlands.

Coming to the regulatory challenges, the joint letter of intent (JLOI) for the Green Steel Project in the Netherlands has been extended till March 2027. What are the milestones to be achieved within the timeline?

■ Chatterjee: March 1 itself is the first milestone. We don't have any milestones before that, as it's an ongoing conversation with the regulator and the Dutch government.

In the original JLOI, which we signed a year ago, there were certain conditions precedent to the tailor-made agreement — some were on our side, and some on the government side. Some of these have not yet been completed by either party. Therefore, we need to see whether we can complete them within the timeline.

We have completed a significant part of our engineering, which is what we call FEL (front-end loading) at Tata Steel. We see that, given that we were building the plant in an existing plant, the cost was significantly higher. Therefore, there are some challenges for the investment case, so we need to optimise it and find ways to make it work.

The regulatory framework in the European Union (EU) is also changing in terms of the phasing out of the EU ETS (Emissions Trading System) to 2038. Carbon and energy economics strongly influences how the investment case unfolds, creating optionality beyond market and regulatory dynamics. So, we are hoping that we will get to a common understanding with the Dutch government and all other stakeholders, and be in a better position to take a view on the way forward around end-February.

What is the status of the decarbonisation journey in the UK? When do you see a break-even?

■ Narendran: We were waiting for policy support, which has come. But that policy support allowed a window for imports, and we are dealing with the consequences of that. Many quarters of inventory came into the UK before the door was shut. A lot of this inventory will flow through the market only by Q4 and Q1 of FY28. That's why instead of the break-even we had expected earlier this financial year, we are now expecting to be closer to break-even in Q4.

We've had a lot of challenges related to policy and imports in the UK. And that's a conversation we are having with the UK government.

The demand scenario is stronger in India in H2, and steel prices have also gone up. Is there a rethink on timelines for India growth projects?

■ Narendran: We will obviously continue to grow as fast as we think is appropriate for the market. Growth for us is not just about upstream growth; it's also about downstream growth. And, I think we certainly want to grow in downstream faster than we are growing in upstream, which takes three to four years to build new capacity.

Neelachal (expansion) is progressing, we will do it as quickly as possible. Over the next few months, we will go with plans for the third phase of Kalinganagar and the Meermandali expansion from 5 million tonnes (mt) to 6.5 mt. At the same time, we are working on many projects in the downstream.

I think growth in India will continue to be a focus. Even this year, we are spending more than ₹15,000 crore of capex on India growth. That level of spend will continue. But we will not overreact to one or two good quarters. We will take a more long-term view. Like I've said, it's not about overall market share, but about market share in the chosen segments.

We have a 50 per cent market share in auto, and we will continue to grow the product mix for auto so that we can protect that market share. Similarly, retail is again a very attractive market. So, these are all focus areas where we really want to continue to grow our share faster than the overall market share.

Do differences at the promoter-holding-company level impact your operations or capital allocation plans?

■ Narendran: I don't want to comment on that. All I can say is Tata Steel and its board have been functioning quite smoothly. We have no issues on any decisions that need to be taken.

Rapido's Ownly aims to deepen presence in 5 mkts by 2026-end

Ownly, the food delivery business launched by ride-hailing company Rapido, is looking to strengthen its presence in Delhi-National Capital Region (NCR), Mumbai, Pune, Chennai and Ahmedabad by the end of 2026. The company has also expanded into Kolkata, seeking to establish a foothold in eastern India. Unlike conventional food delivery platforms, which charge restaurants commissions, Ownly operates on a zero-commission model. According to the company, it aims to make food ordering more affordable by offering menu prices without platform-driven inflation and charging consumers separately for delivery, without hidden platform fees. Alphabet raises $3.8 bn in first HK, Singapore dollar bonds

Google parent Alphabet is raising about $3.8 billion through its first Hong Kong and Singapore dollar bond offerings, according to term sheets seen by Reuters on Thursday, above its initial target following strong demand. This comes after Alphabet drew combined orders of more than $7 billion for the offerings. It is selling $2 billion worth of Hong Kong dollar bonds and S$2.28 billion ($1.8 billion) in Singapore dollar bonds. Alphabet had targeted $3 billion from the combined bond sales and was considering minimum sizes of HK$8 billion for the Hong Kong dollar portion and S$1.5 billion for the Singapore dollar portion. 'Acquisitions key to drive innovations'

Q&A Infosys Science Foundation (ISF) on Thursday gave away the annual Infosys Prize in six categories — economics, engineering and computer science, humanities and social sciences, life sciences, mathematics, and physical sciences. Kris Gopalakrishnan, Infosys cofounder and an ISF trustee, spoke to Avik Das on the sidelines of the event on the importance of private funding in India for research and how Indian companies should focus on acquisitions to spur innovation. Edited excerpts:

When do you think the awardees will be more from Indian universities and research institutes unlike now where the scientists and professors work in foreign universities?

■ Science is a global thing and people move around or take sabbaticals to go to another laboratory. That is why we have opened it up for people of Indian origin anywhere in the world. We want to recognise the best of science done by people of Indian origin or people doing work on India. That is also equally important and so, we are recognising them so they become inspiration for Indians.

How do they make research in India more productive?

■ So one of the programmes that we have started in the last two years is the Infosys Prize Sabbatical programme, where these prize recipients spend a month in India at a laboratory that is of interest to them. And by that way, we will bring best practices from other parts of the world, set up collaboration and hopefully make some contribution to research in India. Best practices would mean productivity improvement, use of tools, automating research and experimental work.

Is it because of the chasm that exists between foreign and Indian universities?

■ It is not a big chasm. After independence, India's focus was on creating world-class education. And I believe we have been successful through the Indian Institute of Technology (IIT) system. Then our focus shifted to research where in terms of number of papers, citation index, India probably will be in the top five. The third phase is translational research. And fourth is commercial products and technologies. So, the focus right now has shifted to creating the translational capabilities and products and technology. The immediate impact of which is the startup side. It all depends on the amount of money that goes into translational research, which was not a focus for anybody. Now that the focus has shifted, there will be professors who will take ideas from laboratory to market. So, I'm very optimistic that we will have products and technologies coming out of India.

> "OUR ESTABLISHED COMPANIES SPEND LESS THAN 1% IN RESEARCH. IT SHOULD GO UP TO 3%. AND I THINK IT WILL HAPPEN"
> Kris Gopalakrishnan
> Cofounder, Infosys

Where are we in the translational research path?

■ The number of deeptech startups have gone up to 4,500 from 450. I would like to see it go up to 45,000 in the next 10 years. We need to continue funding this. The problem with translational research is that the funding requirement is significantly higher, especially higher risk funding. While our established companies spend less than a per cent in research, it should go up to 3 per cent and I think it will happen.

Why is there a sense of risk aversion among the private companies to invest more in research?

■ If you're very profitable, why take more risk? There is a sense of risk aversion because I am growing and I will be punished if I make a mistake. All companies need to set up a sort of a risk pool through which they fund these startups. They should also partner with venture capitalists and do more acquisitions. There are two ways in which you can do innovation. In-house or you go and buy somebody who's taken all the risks, became successful, and then you acquire them to get the technology. All large companies such as Meta, Google, and Microsoft have done it.

OpenAI rolls out in-country API processing

ChatGPT maker OpenAI on Thursday announced that data submitted through its application programming interfaces (APIs) in India would now be processed within the country. Inference for supported API workloads would also take place in India, the company said.

"Available initially for the GPT-6 Luna model, this offering builds on OpenAI's existing data residency options in India and helps organisations adopt artificial intelligence (AI) for work that requires in-country processing," OpenAI said.

"Local inference gives them more control over where supported workloads run and helps address a practical barrier to adoption. It gives more businesses a way to put OpenAI's tools to work, and gives Indian developers and startups more scope to build for their own and enterprise needs," said Nitin Bawankule, head of enterprise at OpenAI India.

Amaravati quantum computing facility to be operational in Feb

SHINE JACOB
Visakhapatnam, 12 November

Andhra Pradesh Chief Minister N Chandrababu Naidu on Thursday said South Asia's first quantum computing manufacturing facility would be established across 250 acres in Amaravati, which will be inaugurated on February 3 next year.

Addressing the Confederation of Indian Industry (CII) Partnership Summit in Visakhapatnam, he also invited industrialists and business leaders to make Amaravati their second home and become partners in the state's development journey.

On Thursday, Clean Max Enviro Energy Solutions (CleanMax) signed a deal with the state to build a 2 Gigawatt (Gw) compute factory in Andhra Pradesh, in partnership with Neysa, an artificial intelligence (AI) Cloud platform backed by Blackstone. The compute factory is a data centre park designed as a net-zero AI factory. The ₹8,000 crore project will come up on about 600 acres in the Orvakal zone of Kurnool district.

He said Andhra Pradesh was working towards becoming a major manufacturing and technology hub in areas such as rare-earth minerals, steel production, solar wafers, solar energy and battery energy storage. The state has identified several priority sectors, including the Critical Minerals Mission, Steel Policy, Solar Mission, defence self-reliance, Space Vision, Semiconductor Mission, Logistics Policy, Quantum Technology, Green Hydrogen and Maritime Development.

The CM said a quantum computer would be established in Amaravati, while quantum equipment would also be manufactured under the "Made in Amaravati" brand. A dedicated drone city was being developed to manufacture drones for civilian and defence applications. He also said that Google's planned data centre will be inaugurated in the state by August 15, 2028.

Andhra nets ₹5.8 trillion investment on Day 1

On the first day of the 31st CII Partnership Summit 2026 in Visakhapatnam on Thursday, 73 Memoranda of Understanding (MoUs) and 15 preliminary deals worth ₹5,84,355 crore, with the potential to create 107,693 jobs, were exchanged between the state and companies spread across various sectors. The MoUs include 23 in general manufacturing, with investments worth ₹3.57 trillion and 44,838 jobs, led by Reliance Industries (₹2,73,000 crore, East Godavari); Rashmi Metallurgical Industry (₹18,500 crore, Srikakulam); and JSW Group (₹15,000 crore, Kadapa).

Among the major renewable energy projects worth ₹1.65 trillion were Greenko Energies (₹45,000 crore, multiple districts); Clean Max Enviro Energy Solutions (₹41,000 crore, multiple districts); and Megha Engineering & Infrastructures (₹36,000 crore, Krishna).

Four MoUs worth ₹21,285 crore, with the potential to create 13,600 jobs, were signed in the automobile sector. Naidu said a dedicated technology park will be established exclusively for women, with free land and incentives to encourage women entrepreneurship.

Crude oil retreat may offer India macroeconomic relief

ASIT RANJAN MISHRA
New Delhi, 12 November

With Indian basket crude oil prices falling below $90 a barrel to $89.29 on Tuesday — down from an October average of $120 — the correction could bring significant macroeconomic relief in the second half (October-March) of FY27 by easing inflation, narrowing the current account deficit (CAD) and limiting the strain on government finances.

The October average was the highest since March 2012, when India's crude basket averaged $123.61 a barrel. The surge in energy prices contributed to a sharp increase in input costs, with inflation based on the wholesale price index (WPI) rising to 11.4 per cent in September.

D K Srivastava, chief policy advisor at EY India, said the significant reduction in crude basket price will positively impact both growth and inflation. "The inflation-reducing effect will be stronger than the growth-improving effect because growth did not suffer much when oil prices reached their peak, but inflation gained momentum," he said.

The Finance Ministry's Monthly Economic Review for October said policymakers will focus on safeguarding the second half of FY27, amid elevated crude prices, higher food inflation and an uncertain outlook for the kharif crop.

Crude prices could moderate further over the next year as geopolitical risk premiums recede and West Asia supplies recover, according to international projections. The US Energy Information Administration, in its November 10 outlook, said it expects Brent crude prices to average $77 a barrel in the fourth quarter (October-December) of 2027.

The Reserve Bank of India's (RBI) April 2026 Monetary Policy Report estimated that a 10 per cent decline in crude prices relative to its baseline of $85 a barrel could lower inflation by around 50 basis points and boost real gross domestic product (GDP) growth by 15 basis points. The estimate assumes that lower international prices are transmitted to domestic product prices.

"A major fallout of the mid-term elections in the USA is that there will be more sanity in the approach towards the war. As it has been indicated that there would be no fresh strikes on Iran, it could mean oil retreating from the high levels of $100-plus and reverting to the $80-90 range for a sustained period," said Madan Sabnavis, chief economist at Bank of Baroda.

He noted that geopolitical risks could, however, keep prices volatile even if they settle at lower levels. "Hence, it will take time for the prices to stabilise at the lower level, and there will be volatility in prices for longer, though with lower standard deviation," he said, citing the attacks on Saudi Arabia by the Houthis of Yemen.

Srivastava said until the West Asia situation normalises and there is a firm agreement between the warring parties, uncertainty will continue. "Right now the developments are in favour of crude prices between $80 and $90 per barrel," he added.

For India, an immediate benefit of lower crude prices would be a moderation in the petroleum import bill and the resulting improvement in the current account balance. "Any respite in oil prices will be good for India. First, the import bill will be under control, which can keep CAD at manageable levels of 1 per cent of GDP," Sabnavis said.

Lower energy prices will also ease cost pressures on industry. The recent surge in crude prices has raised the cost of intermediate products such as naphtha, while higher aviation turbine fuel (ATF) prices have added to the operating expenses of airlines.

"The high impact seen on WPI, which is indicated in the costs faced by manufacturing units, will be under control. The fuel component has had an impact on intermediate products like naphtha, which should gradually revert to earlier levels if the price goes below $80. ATF should go down, which should help on the airline front," Sabnavis said.

However, Sabnavis believes benefits to retail inflation based on the consumer price index (CPI) could be limited. Unlike wholesale prices, which tend to respond more directly to changes in energy and industrial input costs, domestic petrol and diesel prices are influenced by government taxes and the pricing decisions of oil marketing companies (OMCs). "For CPI, I don't think there will be much of an impact as the lower prices will cushion the OMCs' losses. Just as there was no negative impact with prices coming down, there would be no major positive impact here," Sabnavis said.

Lower crude prices could also help contain the government's fertiliser subsidy expenditure by easing prices of natural gas, an important feedstock for urea production. Higher crude prices can have a collateral impact on gas prices, raising fertiliser production costs and subsidy requirements.

Counting the benefits: Experts' view

- Lower crude prices could ease the petroleum import bill and contain the CAD
- Lower energy costs would ease industrial input pressures, particularly for manufacturing and airlines
- Relief for retail inflation may be limited due to domestic fuel pricing dynamics
- Softer natural gas prices could help contain fertiliser subsidy expenditure
- Geopolitical risks could keep crude prices volatile despite the sharp correction

India to have one of the 'best' trade deals with the US: Goyal

Commerce and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal on Thursday said India will have one of the "best" trade deals with the US in every respect. He said that India has negotiated a very good set of outcomes with the US in the pact. "And in every respect, India will have one of the best deals with the US," he told reporters. India and the US in February finalised a framework for the first phase of the bilateral trade agreement. However, changes in the tariff landscape in the US have led to further negotiations. "Nations that make the same products and are at a similar level of development, like India. We will have the most preferred market access in the US post the deal in products of our interest," Goyal said. When asked about a timeline for the pact, he said the agreement is under discussion and there are many factors which determine these outcomes. About the visit of the US officials, he said that it was mainly a discussion with the customs authorities. "The deputy chief negotiator had come for discussions with the customs department on one track," he said. PTI

RBI may ban PE firms from owning more than one non-bank lenders

The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) is working on proposals that would prevent private equity firms from holding a controlling stake in more than one non-bank lender, two people with knowledge of the plans said. It is concerned that financial stress at a global private equity firm or its affiliates could have a contagion effect across several non-bank lenders in which it has significant investments, they said. Authorities, however, hope to encourage smaller financial investments that will be subject to lesser scrutiny, the people added, declining to be identified as the discussions are private. Under the law, control is defined as a large stake — 25 per cent in the case of listed firms — though ownership can be smaller and still be considered a controlling stake if the investor has the right to appoint a majority of the directors or can control a firm's management or policy decisions. Holdings of 15 per cent or less will be considered a financial investment and attract less scrutiny, according to one of the people. A draft of the rules will be finalised after public consultation, and they could be formally issued early next year, the person said. RBI did not respond to Reuters requests for comment. REUTERS

India gulf oil imports go past that from Russia for 1st time since war

India's oil imports from the Persian Gulf have overtaken those from Russia for the first time since the beginning of the Iran war, as shuttle runs by tankers help restore flows through the Strait of Hormuz. Crude shipments reaching India through the crucial West Asia chokepoint have climbed to 2.1 million barrels a day so far this month, surpassing Russian imports of 1.8 million barrels a day, according to Kpler. Daily flows via Hormuz to the world's third-largest oil buyer had plunged to just 247,000 barrels in April from an average 2.8 million in February, after attacks on ships effectively closed the waterway as the war between US and Iran intensified. Major Gulf producers are now shipping crude at close to pre-war rates. Combined exports from Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates, Iraq and Kuwait rose to 15.53 million barrels a day in October, roughly in line with levels at the start of the year. Russian exports, meanwhile, have been hit by continued Ukrainian attacks on the country's energy infrastructure. Overseas shipments slipped by 40,000 barrels a day to 3.63 million in the four weeks through November 8, tanker data compiled by Bloomberg showed. AGENCIES

Owaisi's AIMIM, Aazad's ASP form alliance for 2027 UP Assembly polls

The Asaduddin Owaisi-led AIMIM and Chandrashekhar Aazad's Azad Samaj Party (Kanshiram) on Thursday announced the formation of the 'Samajik Parivartan Morcha' to contest the 2027 Uttar Pradesh (UP) Assembly polls jointly and invited the Samajwadi Party and the Congress to join the morcha. The invite came amid the INDIA bloc's rejection of their bid to join the opposition alliance for next year's UP elections. At a press conference, Aazad, in the presence of AIMIM president and Lok Sabha MP Owaisi, said the coalition was "large-hearted" and that any other party, including the Samajwadi Party and the Congress, was welcome to contest the polls in support of the alliance if it wanted "to stop the BJP from coming to power in UP again". AIMIM and ASP have announced a major public rally in the state capital on November 26, coinciding with Constitution Day, and the Samajwadi Party is scheduled to unveil its UP poll manifesto. PTI

CAG initiates first nationwide integrated audit of discoms

NANDINI KESHARI
New Delhi, 12 November

The Comptroller and Auditor General (CAG) is conducting an integrated audit of the operational and financial performance of 39 public-sector power-distribution companies (discoms) and five power departments across the country, with the state-wise report expected to be released next year.

"There are 28 officers involved in this audit," a senior official said, adding that the exercise would cover the data of the last five years.

The audit is envisaged to cover all major sub-segments of the power sector over the next four years, starting with discoms and subsequently followed by transmission, power generation and renewable energy.

While the CAG regularly audits power-sector utilities, schemes and entities of both Union and state levels, what makes the current exercise unique is its integrated and horizontal scale, the official said.

For the first time, the auditor is adopting a multiyear, whole-of-sector road map, using a uniform methodology across all states to distil local-audit findings into national-level policy insights. The audit will examine operational parameters, including aggregate technical and commercial (AT&C) losses, billing efficiencies, effectiveness in collection, and power-supply performance, and the overall financial health and sustainability. Assessing consumer satisfaction, covering around 10,000 consumers across the country and across categories, is also being undertaken to evaluate the quality of electricity services delivered by discoms.

Additionally, it will focus on short-term power procurement, including through power exchanges. The discoms' data, assessed by the auditor, has indicated that their financial stress is rooted in weaknesses in procurement, demand forecasting, metering, regulatory accounting, and consumer service.

"Revenue grants have grown more than four times as compared to increase in capital grants. Government support is increasingly meeting the cost of losses, debt and interest rather than investment," the official said.

The CAG has found that 41 discoms in 2024-25 earned aggregate profits of ₹32,661 crore while 23 incurred combined losses of ₹29,959 crore.

The discoms' combined accumulated losses stood at more than ₹3.41 trillion, along with outstanding borrowings of above ₹7.26 trillion, with an interest burden of ₹77,653 crore, at the end of March 2025.

"Given the fact that discoms are the interface between the power sector and consumers and their stress affects the reliability and affordability of power supply and spills over into state finances through subsidies, guarantees and equity support, priority was accorded to the horizontal performance audit of their operational and financial performance," the official said.

Since electricity distribution is primarily a state-level function, the audit is being conducted at state level, and the findings will be presented to the respective state legislatures through "State Audit Reports". However, issues of common policy and systemic deficiencies will be consolidated and brought to the notice of the Ministry of Power for policy intervention.

An audit of the Centre's Revamped Distribution Sector Scheme (RDSS) has also been integrated with the discoms' audit to facilitate the use of relevant findings from the discom audit in assessing the implementation and outcomes of the RDSS. To ensure uniformity and consistency in the audit exercise, a detailed audit-design matrix has been developed after obtaining inputs from internal and external stakeholders as well as domain experts.

A common sampling methodology has also been formulated following extensive deliberations. The CAG has engaged institutions like the Indian Institute of Management Ahmedabad to help design audit strategy and address gaps in capacity building. It is conducting stakeholder consultations with field audit offices across all states, the state and Union power secretaries and power utilities, regulatory authorities and other key institutions, including the Central Electricity Authority (CEA) and Central Electricity Regulatory Commission (CERC).

The Ministry of Power, in January this year, released the 14th Annual Integrated Rating of Power Distribution Utilities, which covered 65 of the 73 public- and private-power utilities, and power departments.

Gujarat's power utilities and Odisha's private discoms emerged as top performers, while utilities in Telangana and Jharkhand featured among the weakest performers.

Financial and operational position of discoms

Indicator	Position
Profitability (2024-25)	41 discoms earned aggregate profits of ₹32,661 crore; 23 incurred losses of ₹29,959 crore
Net worth (2024-25)	24 discoms had negative net worth; accumulated losses stood at ₹3,41,609 crore
Debt (2024-25)	Outstanding borrowings of ₹7,26,378 crore, with an interest burden of ₹77,653 crore

CAG to launch in-house LLM for auditors

SHUBHAM KUMAR
New Delhi, 12 November

The Comptroller and Auditor General of India (CAG) is set to introduce an in-house large language model (LLM) on Monday, bringing years of internal inspection reports, auditing standards and guidelines onto a single platform. The launch coincides with the introduction of new audit plans driven by data analysis and the impending tabling of its first integrated audit reports.

Developed exclusively for CAG by the Indian Institute of Technology Madras, the LLM 2.0 has been trained on around 65,000 internal inspection reports produced by the financial watchdog, along with its auditing standards and guidelines, Krishnan Sangaran Subramanian, deputy comptroller and auditor general, said on Thursday.

THE MODEL IS LIKELY TO HAVE THREE DISTINCT STREAMS: ONE EACH FOR COMPLIANCE, FINANCIAL, AND WORKS AUDIT

Describing the platform as a facility that allows auditors to obtain responses by entering simple queries, the official said data from inspection reports, once ingested by the model, would complement the conventional audit management system used by CAG.

"We'll upload this year's and last year's financial statements, the auditor's report, and the board bills... Once we upload this, it (LLM) will do all the numerical calculations completely. It will do our analysis. It will show a pattern. So, these are very routine works. Now, the routine work will be done by the computer," Subramanian said.

The model may have three distinct streams: one each for compliance audit, financial audit and works audit.

Apart from the model, data analysis is also changing how the watchdog prepares its audit plans. Instead of the conventional approach, which centres on the unit to be audited, data from multiple departments and patterns emerging from it are now driving the audits planned for 2026-27, according to the official. For instance, in the states, data relating to direct benefit transfers under various social sector schemes, public works and even salary payments to public officials disbursed digitally are being analysed for red flags, which audit teams then pursue.

In the social sector, the watchdog has audited seven schemes as part of its first integrated audits, which are nearing completion and are expected to be presented soon. The official said CAG had been working on these audits for the past one to two years. The exercise also includes integrated performance audits of seven social sector schemes, as well as audits relating to ease of doing business and ease of living in 101 cities with populations of 500,000 or more. Integrated audits are also being undertaken in the areas of multimodal transport and foundational literacy.

These integrated audit reports involve multiple stakeholders, resulting in faster audits, the official said. Such audits are also planned over multiple years. The integrated audit of foundational literacy and numeracy will be followed by audit reports on school dropouts and skill upgrades in the coming years.

Farm work's gender skew widens in 14 of 20 states

HIMANSHI BHARDWAJ
New Delhi, 12 November

The gap between the share of rural women and men employed in agriculture widened in 14 of the 20 states covered by the Periodic Labour Force Survey in the year to July-September, as more men moved into non-farm occupations, widening the gender divide in farm employment across much of the country.

State-level data from quarterly bulletins released by the National Statistics Office showed that Uttarakhand recorded the sharpest widening in the gap over the year, at 10.9 percentage points (pp), followed by Andhra Pradesh at 8.7 pp and Bihar at 6.9 pp.

In rural Uttarakhand, 73.3 per cent of employed women aged 15 years and above were engaged in agriculture in July-September, up from 67.7 per cent a year earlier. Among men, the share fell to 27 per cent from 32.3 per cent.

The figures measure the proportion of employed persons working in agriculture, forestry and fishing under the current weekly status (CWS) framework.

Across rural India, the share rose marginally to 74.5 per cent among women workers from 74.2 per cent a year earlier, while it declined to 47.2 per cent among men from 49.2 per cent.

The trend is in line with findings from a recent study by the Indian Council for Research on International Economic Relations, which found that increases in women's workforce participation in India have been concentrated in agriculture, self-employment and unpaid family work rather than regular salaried employment.

In terms of the size of the gender gap in agricultural employment, Uttarakhand topped the list in the second quarter (July-September/Q2) of 2026-27 (FY27) at 46.3 pp, followed by Bihar at 43.7 pp, Jharkhand at 40.9 pp and Haryana at 39.3 pp.

In each of these four states, the share of rural women workers engaged in agriculture was more than double that of men. In several other states, women's dependence on farm work held firm or increased even as men's participation declined.

In rural Bihar, more than four in five employed women were engaged in agriculture, a higher share than a year earlier, while the proportion of men working in the sector shrank. Uttar Pradesh followed a similar pattern, with the share of women unchanged and that of men declining. In Andhra Pradesh, the share of men employed in agriculture dropped by more than 8 pp, while the corresponding share among women remained broadly unchanged.

Rajasthan had the highest proportion of rural women workers engaged in agriculture among the 20 states in Q2FY27, at 90.2 per cent. The state has topped the list in five of the six quarters since April-June 2025.

Madhavankutty G, chief economist at Canara Bank, linked the pattern to men migrating out of poorer states. "[These] states have more women in farm labour as men in states like Uttar Pradesh, West Bengal and Bihar migrate to other states, which forces women to engage in subsistence farming. These are states which rank low in per capita income," he said.

The gap narrowed in the remaining six states, for different reasons. In Kerala and Jharkhand, the share of working women in farming declined more sharply than that of men. In Kerala, the gap has almost closed. In Himachal Pradesh, Assam, Chhattisgarh and Telangana, the share of men employed in farming increased faster than that of women.

Kerala and Punjab had the lowest shares of rural women working in agriculture, at 25.9 per cent and 39.5 per cent, respectively. Both states also recorded sharp declines in these proportions over the year. In Punjab, however, the share of men employed in farming fell even more, resulting in a marginal widening of the gap.

Economists chalked up the decline in women's participation in agriculture in Kerala and Punjab to higher incomes, education and mechanisation. "Kerala and Punjab are among the states which have the highest per capita income and exhibit the features of advanced economies," Madhavankutty said.

"Women in Kerala are highly educated and do not prefer low-paid farm labour. They are drawn towards non-farm labour in hospitality and health care sectors at home and abroad that pays more," he said.

Madhavankutty added that remittances from abroad cushion women in Kerala from the need to take up manual farm work and that the state has diversified away from traditional crops to plantation crops.

Madan Sabnavis, chief economist at Bank of Baroda, said the widespread use of mechanisation in Punjab would lead to lower participation by women in agriculture. Madhavankutty added that, apart from higher mechanisation, farms in Punjab employ migrant workers rather than women, while women in the state are engaged in higher-value activities such as dairy and livestock.

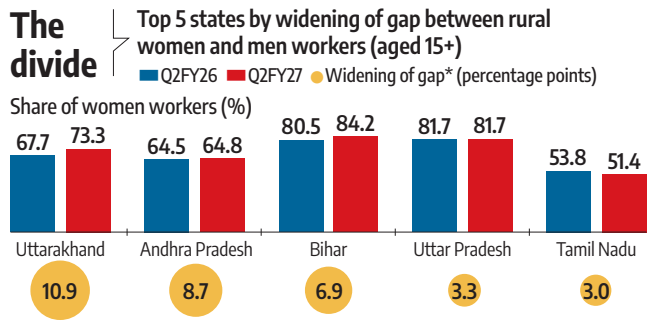
Top 5 states by widening of gap between rural women and men workers (aged 15+)



Note: The gap is the share of women workers in agriculture minus the share of men workers in agriculture. The widening is the gap in Q2FY27 minus the gap in Q2FY26. Total 100% consists of women in agriculture, secondary, and tertiary sector Source: NSO

New biz margins up for life insurers

Ulips' share, however, moderates at some insurers amid market volatility

AATHIRA VARIER
Mumbai, 12 November

A shift towards protection, traditional savings, and annuity products helped most listed life insurers improve their value of new business (VNB) margins in the first half of financial year 2026-27 (H1FY27), even as the share of unit-linked insurance plans (Ulips) moderated at some companies amid volatile equity markets and changing customer preferences.

Life Insurance Corporation of India (LIC) reported a 470 basis points (bps) year-on-year (Y-o-Y) expansion in its VNB margin to 22.3 per cent in H1FY27 from 17.6 per cent in H1FY26. Its annualised premium equivalent (APE) grew 5.72 per cent to ₹30,696 crore, while Ulip APE fell nearly 40 per cent to ₹1,880 crore from ₹3,137 crore. Growth in non-participating (non-par) savings and term business supported margins, LIC said. Non-par savings business grew 35 per cent on an APE basis, with its share in the individual product mix rising to 13 per cent from 10.7 per cent.

"Going forward, our key focus areas will be pure-term protection products, non-par savings products, and the annuity business. Ulips could recover if market sentiment improves, but our immediate priority remains savings and protection," said R Doraiswamy, managing director and chief executive officer (MD & CEO) of LIC, during a post-results media interaction.

At Axis Max Life, the VNB margin rose 210 bps to 25.4 per cent from 23.3 per cent, driven largely by product mix and improved margins within products rather than operating leverage.

"On VNB margin, I think, it is happening largely because of mix and also the inherent margins improving within products. The attribution to operating leverage is far lower. It is largely to the mix," said Amrit Singh, chief financial officer (CFO) of Axis Max Life, during the analyst call.

In Q2 FY27, Ulips accounted for 37 per cent of Axis Max Life's retail APE, while participating and non-participating savings products contributed 15 per cent each. Annuity products made up 19 per cent of the mix, while protection and health accounted for 14 per cent.

Mixed bag

LIC: Up 470 bps to 22.3%; Ulip APE fell nearly 40%

Axis Max Life: Up 210 bps to 25.4%; annuity share doubled to 16%

ICICI Life: Rises to 26% from 24.7%, supported by a higher protection mix

Canara HSBC Life: Up 170 bps to 21.3%; Ulip share declined to 41% from 50%

SBI Life: Largely unchanged at 27.9%, against 27.8% a year ago

ICICI Life Insurance's VNB margin increased to 26 per cent in H1FY27 from 24.7 per cent a year earlier. Protection's share in APE rose to 23.4 per cent from 19.3 per cent, with savings accounting for the remaining 76.6 per cent.

"As we had discussed at the Q1 call itself, a large portion of this movement is fundamentally driven by the product mix. This trend continues from quarter one all the way to quarter two as well," said Dhiren Salian, CFO of ICICI Life Insurance, during the analyst call. He said the mix was "geared more towards protection", supporting margins. The insurer's annuity business grew 50 per cent Y-o-Y, while linked business grew 6.6 per cent.

Canara HSBC Life's VNB margin expanded 170 bps to 21.3 per cent from 19.6 per cent. Ulips' share in APE declined to 41 per cent from 50 per cent, while traditional products accounted for 59 per cent.

"The margin improvement was led by a favourable product mix, shift towards traditional, yield curve benefit, and improving operating leverage driven by higher volumes," the company's management said. Protection APE grew 44 per cent during the period.

SBI Life Insurance's VNB margin was largely unchanged at 27.9 per cent against 27.8 per cent a year earlier, even as Ulips' share in its product mix declined to 62 per cent from 65 per cent. Guaranteed non-par savings business grew 27 per cent to ₹2,470 crore in H1FY27, while individual protection APE rose 16 per cent to ₹430 crore. The management attributed the change in product mix to higher contributions from annuity and non-par products, among other factors.

HDFC Life Insurance was an exception to the trend of declining Ulip contribution, with its share in individual APE rising to 45 per cent from 42 per cent. The insurer's VNB margin improved marginally to 24.7 per cent from 24.5 per cent, supported by product mix and the continued mitigation of the goods and services tax (GST) impact absorbed last year.

Banks raise deposit rates after Oct repo rate hike

Lending rates also inch up

SUBRATA PANDA
Mumbai, 12 November

Major lenders have started raising interest rates on select fixed deposit (FD) tenures, following the Reserve Bank of India's (RBI) 25-basis points (bps) repo rate hike in October. The revisions come amid expectations of further monetary tightening, with retail inflation breaching the central bank's upper tolerance limit of 6 per cent.

THE REVISIONS COME AMID EXPECTATIONS OF FURTHER MONETARY TIGHTENING

On Thursday, state-owned Bank of Baroda (BoB) raised interest rates on its special 555-day retail term deposit scheme by 10 bps, taking the maximum rate offered to 7.5 per cent, effective November 12.

The revised rates under the bob Golden Goal Deposit Scheme apply to retail term deposits below ₹3 crore across customer categories. Rates on deposits across other tenures remain unchanged.

General customers will earn 6.85 per cent on callable deposits and 6.90 per cent on non-callable deposits.

Resident senior citizens are eligible for rates of up to 7.40 per cent, while super senior citizens (aged 80 years and above) can earn up to 7.50 per cent.

Federal Bank has also increased the additional interest benefit offered to senior citizens on term deposits to 0.60 per cent from 0.50 per cent, taking the maximum rate on select tenures to 7.50 per cent.

The revised rates, effective November 12, apply to deposits with tenures of 18 months and two years to less than three years.

Senior citizens will earn 7.40 per cent on deposits with a premature withdrawal facility and 7.50 per cent on deposits of ₹1 crore and above without the facility.

The bank said the effective annualised yield on these deposits could go up to 8.18 per cent and 8.30 per cent, respectively, for a 35-month tenure. General customers, including non-resident Indians (NRIs), will earn 6.80 per cent and 6.90 per cent, respectively, on the two options.

The revised rates apply to single term deposits below ₹3 crore.

Meanwhile, lending rates have also started moving up. State Bank of India (SBI), HDFC Bank, Punjab National Bank, Bank of India, Indian Bank, Canara Bank and Bank of Baroda have raised their Marginal Cost of Funds-based Lending Rates (MCLR) by 5-20 bps across select tenures in October and November so far.

Several other banks have also revised FD rates in recent weeks, largely on select tenures and special deposit schemes. Among private sector lenders, HDFC Bank has raised rates by up to 50 bps on select tenures, while ICICI Bank has increased rates by 10 bps on select longer-term deposits.

Kotak Mahindra Bank has revised rates on select maturities, taking its maximum rate for general customers to 6.80 per cent.

Filings stood at $8.13 billion in August

AATHIRA VARIER
Mumbai, 12 November

Indian companies, including non-banking financial companies (NBFCs), filed proposals with the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) to raise $7.05 billion through external commercial borrowings (ECBs) and foreign currency convertible bonds (FCCBs) in September, lower than $8.13 billion in August, according to RBI data.

Of the total, $6.71 billion worth of proposals were under the general permission route, while $336.94 million was under the special permission route, the data showed.

Among the prominent companies that filed their intent in September was Vodafone Idea, which plans to raise $150 million from a financial institution in the International Financial Services Centre (IFSC) for 10 years for local sourcing of capital goods.

Hindustan Petroleum Corporation plans to raise $500 million from a resident financial institution's branch outside India for five years for general corporate purposes. The National Bank for Financing Infrastructure and Development plans to raise $1 billion from the international capital market for 10 years for on-lending or sub-lending activities. All three proposals are for importing capital goods.

Oil India PAT zooms 53% to ₹2,521 cr on higher price realisation

SUDHEER PAL SINGH
New Delhi, 12 November

State-owned petroleum explorer Oil India Ltd (OIL) on Thursday reported a 53 per cent jump in profit after tax (PAT) to ₹2,521 crore for the second quarter ended September 2026, against a PAT of ₹1,644 crore posted in the same quarter of the previous financial year (2025-26).

The company attributed the improved PAT to a 20 per cent increase in crude oil production and a 35 per cent jump in crude oil price realisation from $68.19 per barrel in the second quarter of 2025-26 to $92.24 per barrel in the September quarter of the current financial year.

The consolidated PAT for the half-year ended September 2026 stood at ₹6,548 crore, a growth of 77 per cent compared to ₹3,690 crore reported in the corresponding period of the previous financial year.

Total income of the company during the September 2026 quarter also jumped 26 per cent to ₹12,303 crore from ₹9,692 crore reported in the corresponding quarter of the previous financial year.

Oil India produced 1.021 million tonnes (MT) of crude oil from its mature and old oilfields in the second quarter of 2026-27, against 0.848 MT produced in the same quarter of the previous financial year.

India set to be most resilient among 10 major economies in 2026-30: Assocham

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
New Delhi, 12 November

India is projected to emerge as the most resilient economy among the world's 10 leading economies during 2026-30, with a score of 71 out of 100, followed by China at 66, according to an Assocham report.

Japan and Russia jointly ranked third with 60 points each, followed by Germany (59), Italy and Brazil (53 each), the UK (52), France (40) and the US (36), the report titled 'India's Economic Edge in the Top Ten Economies' said.

The assessment by the industry lobby is based on 10 macroeconomic indicators, including real GDP growth, export growth, current account balance, government debt, fiscal balances, real GDP per capita growth, gross national savings and gross capital formation. Using data from the International Monetary Fund's World Economic Outlook database, the industry lobby ranked the 10 economies on each indicator, with the best-performing country receiving the top rank. These rankings were converted into marks and aggregated to arrive at the overall score.

The analysis covers 2021-25 as the retrospective period and 2026-30 as the forward-looking period, with 2025 and 2026 also assessed as individual years. India secured the top position for 2026-30 on the back of its first rank in real GDP growth and real GDP per capita growth.

Jensen, the face of AI boom, ousted as Nvidia CEO

Huang also has become close with United States (US) President Donald Trump, appearing at White House meetings on technology, at state dinners and aboard Air Force One. Huang has enjoyed far greater access to the president than most corporate leaders. Trump on Monday backed Huang as "a very honourable man."

The revelations about the Nvidia CEO's affair with Alice Huang, an executive at Megaspeed, raised serious questions about his judgment. On Wednesday, the New York Times reported that Huang had also had a relationship with Kimberly Powell, Nvidia's vice president of healthcare, citing unidentified people who worked at the company.

Megaspeed, which was spun out of a Chinese gaming enterprise, is one of Nvidia's largest Southeast Asian customers and has been under US investigation for months related to the potential smuggling of Nvidia's advanced AI chips into China, Bloomberg has reported. Megaspeed and Nvidia have denied wrongdoing.

Nvidia's board has been working with an outside firm to identify potential replacements for Huang, a person familiar with the matter said Wednesday, asking not to be identified because the information isn't public. Directors had met remotely on Wednesday to discuss Huang's fate, people familiar with the situation said.

Some highly prominent tech executives named by those in the industry as people that could be looked at by Nvidia's board include Lisa Su, CEO of rival Advanced Micro Devices Inc, Rene Haas, chief at Arm Holdings Plc and Micron Technology Inc leader Sanjay Mehrotra.

"The fundamentals of the business (if not the leadership) are clearly still intact with numbers that remain massive (and probably still headed higher)," Stacy Rasgon, an analyst at Bernstein, said in a note late Wednesday. "We don't think the company should have huge issues operating while engaged in a search for new leadership."

Oct retail inflation crossed 6%, first time in 2 years

The print comes weeks after the RBI's Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) unanimously raised the repo rate by 25 basis points (bps) to 5.5 per cent.

Economists have pencilled in another rate hike at the MPC's December 2-4 meeting, cautioning that relief from softer crude prices would be slow to reach consumers, as earlier price increases are still feeding through.

"We do expect the RBI to consider either a 25 or 50 bps hike in December given that inflation in November and December would also be around the level of 6 per cent based on the trajectory of food prices," said Madan Sabnavis, chief economist at Bank of Baroda.

He added that core inflation will rise, too, given that fast moving consumer goods, or FMCG, companies have started raising prices.

A further 25 bps rate hike in December "appears almost certain", said Aditi Nayar, chief economist at Icra. She added that GDP growth is likely to ease only slightly in the September quarter. GDP data for the quarter is due on November 30, after the economy grew 7.8 per cent in the June quarter.

According to Dipti Deshpande, principal economist at Crisil, the fading impact of the goods and services tax cuts also contributed to the sharp increase in headline inflation.

Crisil expects retail inflation to average 5.3 per cent in this financial year.

Food inflation, measured by the Consumer Food Price Index (CFPI), rose to 8.94 per cent in October from 7.74 per cent in September — the highest since the 9.04 per cent recorded in November 2024 under the old 2012 series.

"The ongoing harvest prospects will throw more light on how food prices behave. The area under cultivation was lower for rice, maize, oilseeds, cotton and sugarcane. It has also been reported that pulses production, especially tur, could be lower this time, which can lead to a spike in prices," Sabnavis said.

Onion prices continued to drive the increase, with inflation rising to 116.22 per cent from 108.13 per cent in September. Inflation in garlic accelerated to 60.74 per cent from 54.62 per cent, and in lemon to 47.30 per cent from 36.41 per cent. Ginger inflation eased to 48.32 per cent from 62.85 per cent.

At the other end, potato deflation deepened to 14.24 per cent from 11.52 per cent, and cauliflower prices fell 10.57 per cent against 2.88 per cent in September. Brinjal and cabbage slipped into deflation, at 3.34 per cent and 1.92 per cent respectively.

Nayar said food and beverages inflation was likely to stay above 8 per cent in November, with upward pressure from milk, sugar and onions. "Moreover, the deficient monsoon and inadequate replenishment of reservoir levels have heightened concerns regarding the rabi crop outlook and food inflation," she added.

"The acceleration in food inflation reflects increasingly binding supply-side constraints," said Deshpande, adding that rabi sowing was lagging significantly, particularly for wheat and gram, while elevated global food prices were set to keep food inflation under pressure through the rest of the financial year.

Inflation rose in all but one of 12 divisions–personal care and social protection– of the CPI basket in October compared with September. Restaurants and accommodation services crossed double digits at 10.06 per cent, from 9.36 per cent, while transport inflation rose to 5.84 per cent from 5.01 per cent amid higher fuel costs.

Clothing and footwear (4.96 per cent), furnishings and household equipment (3.94 per cent) and health (2.05 per cent) also saw a pick-up.

On the other hand, personal care, social protection and miscellaneous goods saw inflation easing to 10.14 per cent from 13.75 per cent. Silver jewellery, in particular, cooled to 52.39 per cent from 87.82 per cent.

Rural inflation rose to 6.63 per cent from 6.08 per cent, while urban inflation increased to 5.41 per cent from 4.88 per cent.

Among states with a population of more than 5 million, Tamil Nadu recorded the highest headline inflation at 7.29 per cent, followed by Telangana (7.26 per cent), Andhra Pradesh (7.25 per cent), Madhya Pradesh (7.19 per cent) and Odisha (7.17 per cent).

Southern states also led on food prices, with Andhra Pradesh recording the highest food inflation of 13.23 per cent, followed by Tamil Nadu (12.37 per cent), Karnataka (12.16 per cent), Telangana (11.66 per cent) and Kerala (10.92 per cent).

Looking ahead, Nayar said risks remain tilted to the upside, reflecting the impact of the deficient and uneven monsoon, while crude oil prices remain a key monitorable.

Garima Kapoor, economist at Elara Capital, said the recent fall in crude oil prices is unlikely to bring immediate relief. "Notwithstanding the cooling of crude oil prices amid expectations of peace in West Asia, inflation is unlikely to cool off immediately as pass-through of previous hikes continues," she said.

GLOBAL INVESTORS MEET 2027

Karnataka banks on local talent and frontier tech

AVIK DAS
Bengaluru, 12 November

The Karnataka government on Thursday unveiled the theme for the Global Investors Meet 2027 (GIM) as 'Powering what's Next', showcasing the state as an investment opportunity to investors and businesses.

The theme will be powered by five pillars; frontier technology, engineering at scale, availability of talent, sustainable approach, and collaborative partnerships between the government and industry. The southern state is already the country's largest chip design hub and an artificial intelligence (AI) native cluster. Karnataka also has about 85,000 acres of industrial land, with 19,000 factories, which include the likes of Foxconn and Hindustan Aeronautics Ltd (HAL).

With a rich source of talent pool, considering almost 150,000 engineers graduate annually from hundreds of private engineering colleges, the state has become an attractive place for global companies, many of whom have set up their research and development (R&D) centres in Bengaluru. The National Association of Software and Service Companies (Nasscom) estimates there are over 1,000 global capability centres (GCC) in Bengaluru, almost 50 per cent of the country's total.

"This is an opportunity to shape Karnataka for the future. Bengaluru is the place where ideas become business," Chief Minister DK Shivakumar said at the event. "I do not want to compete with other states, as we have our own talent and manpower that no one can match anywhere in the world."

The state is also aiming to attract investors through its sustainability practices, with a potential of 400 gigawatts (Gw) of renewable energy, according to a government presentation made on Thursday.

The last pillar is about collaborative partnership to facilitate ease of doing business.

"Our progress speaks for itself. Over the last three years, Karnataka has approved 1,691 projects, attracted ₹2,63,921 crore in investments and generated 543,218 jobs. We are committed to building on this momentum, creating new opportunities for our youth and taking Karnataka's industrial growth story to the world," Shivakumar said on X.

The event, to be held between April 20-22, 2027, will have more than 300 exhibits and 5,000 delegates and 10 roadshows. "We want Bengaluru to be one of the world's most trusted places to innovate, manufacture and grow," said Deputy Chief Minister G Parameshwara, adding that the state has immense potential in fields of precision engineering, electric mobility, aerospace component, pharmaceutical and food processing.

At the last GIM, the state had secured investment commitments of about ₹10.3 trillion, of which 65 per cent of the manufacturing investment has already been converted. That has the potential to create about 600,000 jobs.

Karnataka has invited Poland to be part of GIM 2027 and asked for deeper cooperation in technology, AI, and aerospace. Poland has proposed an investment of about ₹80 crore by TZMO group in the KIADB Vemgal Industrial Area in Kolar, spread across five acres. The project has the potential to create 1,000 jobs and introduce manufacturing of smart adult incontinence pads for the first time in India.

STATE DESPATCH

Delivering on the promised land

ISHITA AYAN DUTT
Kolkata

On November 5, West Bengal Chief Minister Suvendu Adhikari unveiled the state's Investment Promotion Policy, 2026, marking a break from the previous Trinamool Congress government, which had retrospectively scrapped incentives for industry.

The policy aims to attract investments that generate employment, promote value addition and spread economic activity across the state's districts. The incentives and support measures will be financed through a dedicated, non-lapsable Assured Incentive Fund. In the state Budget presented in June, the government allocated ₹5,000 crore for the current financial year to fund the policy.

The assistance is capped at a share of investment in plant and machinery (eligible fixed capital investment) with the ceiling ranging from 100 per cent to 120 per cent.

The incentives for strategic and mega projects can be "tailor-made", provided they meet at least two of three criteria: The scale of investment, operation in a strategic sector, and generation of at least 50 jobs per acre.

The last provision harks back to Tata Motors' small-car project at Singur. It was eventually derailed by an agitation against "forcible" land acquisition. Adhikari, who was part of the agitation, more actively in Nandigram, the site for a chemical hub, is mindful of the sensitivities surrounding land acquisition, treading cautiously on what is one of Bengal's most contentious issues.

He is seeking a middle path between what he described as the Left's "gunpoint" approach and Mamata Banerjee's hands-off one. A separate land policy is in the offing, an official said.

The industrial policy promises a GIS-mapped inventory of industrial land, with allotments governed by published criteria, online applications and time-stamped scrutiny.

The land policy is complementary, says Abhirup Sarkar, former professor at the Indian Statistical Institute. "Without a land policy, the industrial policy is incomplete."

Industry representatives say Bengal's commitment to honouring its promises is significant.

Rudra Chatterjee, deputy chairman, CII Eastern Region, and managing director, Luxmi Group, and chairman, Obeetee, said the state was signalling its intent to support industry through land availability and incentives. Many states have industrial policies but fail to disburse incentives, said N G Khaitan, Senior Consultant, Khaitan & Co. "Here, a commitment has been made, backed by a reserve fund. The state's promise to acquire land and make it available to industry is another positive step."

Adhikari described the policy as a "very small beginning". Its real measure, however, will lie in delivery, especially on the question of land.

A new lease

HEMANT KUMAR ROUT
Bhubasneswar

With green energy emerging as the new battleground for investment among states, Odisha is striving to ease one of the sector's biggest bottlenecks: Access to land.

The draft Renewable Energy Land Lease Policy and Private Land Aggregation Framework, 2026, proposes a minimum annual rent of ₹25,000 per acre for private land, long-term leases and a dedicated mechanism to pool fragmented plots.

Odisha has set a target of achieving 10.96 gigawatt (Gw) of renewable energy capacity by 2030, which requires around 19,620 acres of land. At present, it generates around 6.2 Gw of electricity, with coal-based thermal power accounting for 86 per cent.

Through this policy, landholders can submit letters of intent to lease out parcels, which land aggregation agencies will screen and a facilitation agency will verify.

The proposed minimum annual rent of ₹25,000 per acre, or 85 per cent of lease rental, whichever is higher, would increase by 5 per cent every two years. The lease tenure is 30 years for most projects, 40 years for small hydroelectric projects and 99 years for pumped-storage projects.

The draft also proposes full exemptions from stamp duty and land-conversion charges, alongside deemed non-agricultural status for land used for wind and solar projects. Hybrid projects would be prioritised.

The state government has sought feedback from stakeholders.

Take the 'India story' to the world: PM to media

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
New Delhi, 12 November

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Thursday said the country has fascinating achievements to share with the world and urged the media to spotlight on the global stage these successes, terming them as the 'India Story'.

Addressing a "Diwali Milan" for journalists at the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) headquarters, Modi said India possesses a young population, talent, technology, and affordable data and most importantly it has fascinating achievements to share with the world.

"We have the 'India Story'. We must consider whether our news truly reflects India, are our achievements, talent, and positive transformations receiving adequate space. There is no shortage of such stories in India," he said.

Modi said the National Democratic Alliance (NDA) government has been able to remove poverty from India. "There were slogans of Garibi Hatao. But poverty has been removed by this (NDA) government. According to the World Bank, 50 crore people have been elevated from the below poverty line in the last 12 years."

No clarity on Quad taking place in Manila: MEA

ARCHIS MOHAN
New Delhi, 12 November

Prime Minister (PM) Narendra Modi's meeting with US President Donald Trump on the margins of the East Asia Summit in Manila, the Philippines, which is to be held next week, is still in the works while a meeting of the Quad Summit remains uncertain, Ministry of External Affairs (MEA) officials said on Thursday.

Modi had skipped attending last year's annual India-Association of South Asian Nations (Asean) Summit, which took place in Kuala Lumpur, and addressed it virtually, while External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar represented India at the East Asia Summit.

The PM will be on a three-day visit to Manila, beginning Monday, to attend the annual Asean Summit and the East Asia Summit. Modi last met Trump on June 17, on the sidelines of the Group of Seven, or G7, Summit in France, a meeting that took place between the two after more than a year during which India-US ties frayed over the White House's proximity to Pakistan's military leadership, and issues related to immigration, energy and tariffs.

LTCG tax filers surge, but still a tiny minority

The analysis of entities declaring LTCG covered the period from AY20 — when the tax was re-introduced for equities — to AY24, the latest available in the database. It includes capital gains from all assets and not just equities.

The high share of those filing zero capital gains — 95 per cent in the case of individuals in AY24 — is despite the total number of individual returns with LTCG rising over five times from 0.7 million in AY20 to 3.8 million in AY24, according to CMIE data.

The overall number of individual returns filed rose relatively slower from 63.2 million to 75.4 million over the same period.

So, while the number of those recording long-term capital gains rose, it remained a small proportion of the overall returns filed.

In fact, the number of individual returns filed rose by 12.2 million from AY20 to AY24 even as LTCG filers were up a little over 3.1 million.

Companies and firms

The analysis also shows that an increasing share of LTCG recorded in the tax data across all categories, goes to non-individuals such as companies or firms. The share of individuals has fallen from 46.8 per cent in AY20 to 29.6 per cent in AY24.

Data from the Central Board of Direct Taxes (CBDT) showed capital gain remains a source of income for a limited number of tax payers, not only in the case of individuals but also for companies and partnership firms filing tax returns. The average capital gains reported tend to be higher among the highest earners. CBDT data showed that in AY24, the latest year for which granular data is available, companies as a class of tax payers accounted for close to half of the ₹8.58 trillion LTCG reported.

Within companies, those with income of more than ₹500 crore, accounted for 67 per cent of all the LTCG reported by this class of tax payers.

The second largest tax payer category is individuals, who collectively accounted for about ₹2.54 trillion or 30 per cent of all the LTCG reported in the year.

Bulk of the return filers in each of the three categories — individuals, companies and firms, filed returns showing zero LTCG.

A tax break for LTCG, therefore, may primarily benefit only a small proportion of overall tax return filers including in the case of individuals, showed the tax statistics for AY24.

In the case of individuals, those earning more than ₹1 crore in capital gains accounted for the majority (60.61 per cent) of the total recorded LTCG among individuals in AY24.

These crorepati filers numbered 27,305 in total — or 0.04 per cent of the total individual returns filed, in AY24.

"The market is expecting some relief on long-term capital gains tax, though an outright removal for all investors is not necessarily expected," said Mitesh Jain, partner at law firm Dentons Link Legal.

The debate around capital gains tax exemptions is far more complex than a simple question of whether taxes should be reduced or abolished, according to Tejas Desai, partner and financial service tax leader, EY India.

"The government will have to balance multiple and potentially competing considerations — impact on resident investors and FPIs or listed equity markets and private capital markets — while maintaining a competitive overall transaction cost environment and a tax framework that remains consistent and supportive of long-term investment," he said.

"Any change in one segment can have wider implications for investor behaviour, capital flows and the relative attractiveness of different asset classes. These considerations must also be weighed against fiscal imperatives. The challenge is therefore not merely to lower the tax burden, but to design a coherent, predictable and globally competitive tax regime that encourages investment and supports capital market development," Desai added.

Only 28% of PLI employment target met by FY26

"The divergence between cumulative employment and investment and production is important for interpreting the overall performance of the schemes," the report said.

According to the think tank, this divergence must be understood in the context of the gestation period of manufacturing investments. "Investment generally takes place before facilities become fully operational; production then ramps up as capacity is commissioned and utilisation increases, while employment can evolve further as operations reach commercial scale," the report said.

The report said PLI schemes in four sectors have been "on track" so far, based on an assessment of investment, production, exports and employment. These are large-scale electronics manufacturing, pharmaceutical drugs, telecommunications and networking products, and food products.

The Aayog's assessment found that the impact of the bulk drugs PLI scheme on exports, the medical devices scheme on employment, and the Electronics/Technology Products (IT Hardware 2.0) scheme on investments had been weak or partial.

"Overall, the scheme has been successful. We never expected that everyone would perform across all indicators, but 70 per cent of players and indicators are on track," said Ishtiyaque Ahmed, programme director at the think tank.

Aayog Chief Executive Officer and former Department for Promotion of Industry and Internal Trade secretary Anurag Jain said schemes requiring changes would be reviewed in coordination with the concerned line ministries to address the issues.

The schemes are now sufficiently advanced for emerging outcomes to be assessed but not mature enough to be judged solely against their ultimate full-tenure targets, the Aayog said.

While some sectors have responded strongly, with visible increases in investment, production, employment and exports, others have made relatively modest progress. This variation is often linked to differences in technology adoption, gestation periods, global competition and capital requirements.

"A sector-specific understanding of these constraints is necessary so that policy design can move beyond a uniform approach and become more strategically targeted," the report said.

The next generation of PLI schemes will also take demand-pull measures into account, the report said.

"The scheme in its current form is largely supply-driven. It encourages firms to increase production and build capacity through financial incentives linked to output. While this supply-push approach is important, long-term sustainability also requires strong demand-side support," it said.

This could include stronger domestic procurement frameworks, export market development, strategic government purchasing and policies that stimulate consumption of domestically produced high-value goods.

Moreover, in many sectors, investment responds first, while the full effects on production, employment and exports emerge only after a significant lag, the report said. This is particularly true of sectors involving advanced technologies and long gestation periods.

Therefore, policy evaluation must remain patient and realistic, avoiding premature judgements while continuing institutional support where necessary, it said.

Payments journey is beginning to take off: Meta's Srinivas

With Meta launching Muse, how do you see agentic AI and agentic commerce playing out for the firm in India?

■ Muse is already live. It was launched in the US and Canada, and became the number one downloaded app. We recently launched it in Japan and Singapore, less than a couple of weeks ago. In Singapore, it has been available for about a week now, and is already the number one app. Obviously, there is a lot of excitement internally, and we are all waiting for it to be launched in India. I am sure we will share more details as we get closer to the launch.

As far as our apps and how they work together as an ecosystem are concerned, we are very consumer-centric in what we do. We do not want to keep these as separate experiences. Today, for example, I can discover something on Instagram, let's say mithai, click through to WhatsApp, place an order, and make a purchase. I am pretty sure that with AI, and eventually agentic AI leading to payments, we will find ways to create more integrated experiences.

Third-party AI bots are already handling orders and payments on WhatsApp, creating friction for commerce platforms. How does Meta view these tools in its ecosystem, and will they clash with Muse?

■ Whatever we do with our strategy and our agent, let's call it Muse for the moment, it has to play a stellar role in terms of product promise and product delivery—what it can actually do for you and me.

It is difficult for me to comment on other product experiences or how each one will perform. Ultimately, consumers are going to vote with their fingers, as we say.

We need to make sure that we deliver on our product promise. That is really our intent—delivering personal superintelligence to every single person on this planet, which is Meta's vision.

In markets where Muse has already been launched, what has been the feedback?

■ In markets where we have launched, we are seeing several leading retail chains and service providers coming on board. For instance, companies such as Walmart and Uber have signed up in the US. You can actually book a cab without having to go to another app.

Our endeavour will be to bring similar experiences to India when we launch here. As I said, the idea is to put personal intelligence at everyone's fingertips. It could be something as simple as ordering food or coffee, or even planning an itinerary. Going forward, through connectors, agents could also book tickets for you. For example, if you are planning a trip across multiple cities, the agent could help arrange flights, trains, buses, and hotel accommodation.

It can play a pivotal role in how we manage our everyday lives. These are some of the early use cases we are seeing in markets where the product is already available. It is not just about commerce. It is really about how an AI agent can become a good personal assistant to each individual, depending on their needs.

We are almost at the end of the year. If you were to identify the three biggest areas of focus for Meta in India for the coming year, what would they be?

■ I would say they are the same three areas I started with. The first is commerce and discovery. We are the platform of choice for festive shopping and product discovery. A lot of shopping and purchasing decisions are being influenced by our platforms, primarily through Reels and creators. Nine in ten purchases during the festival season are influenced by Meta. The festive season is just one example. The larger theme is really about discovery, consideration and commerce being driven by Reels and creators.

The second is AI and how small businesses are leveraging AI tools to improve their marketing and productivity.

What is particularly heartening is that more than 90 per cent of small businesses are leveraging AI tools to boost their marketing and become more productive.

Nvidia CEO Huang's exit jolts tech world

Investors worry AI trade might lose company's largesse

ANKUR BANERJEE
Singapore, 12 November

As chip giant Nvidia's chief Jensen Huang stepped down on Thursday, investors' biggest fears were as much about the future of the multitrillion-dollar company as its ability and willingness to continue bankrolling the AI boom.

Huang's exit is yet another pressure point on the global markets' most crowded trade and came after the board of the world's dominant chipmaker, at the cutting edge of computing, met late on Wednesday to decide the longtime CEO's fate after reports of his two extramarital affairs. The company said Chief Financial Officer Colette Kress will take over as interim CEO as Nvidia looks for a permanent successor.

Traders' first reaction was to punish Nvidia shares and those of its customers, including data-centre firms CoreWeave and Naver, while pushing shares of chipmaking rivals Broadcom and AMD higher. Shares in China's leading makers of graphics processing units (GPUs) surged, as the leadership upheaval at Nvidia boosted expectations that local chip suppliers could win greater market share. Moore Threads, MetaX and Cambricon all jumped nearly 10 per cent.

Nvidia shares pared premarket losses but were still down nearly 5 per cent at 1600 GMT.

The worry in the market is that the stakes are far higher and that if Nvidia — under a different leader — backs away from a strategy of financing data centres, then the AI boom itself loses momentum. "Nvidia has been called the 'Bank of AI'. They'll sell you the chips and loan you the money. If they have to take a step back because of what's going on, will that cut off funding to smaller companies that need it? That's an open question," said Joe Saluzzi, partner and co-head of equity trading at Themis Trading in Chatham, New Jersey.

Nvidia has been the banner stock of the AI revolution, with its chip technology ahead of rivals and enormous sales driving the share price up some 900 per cent over the four years since the launch of OpenAI's ChatGPT ushered in the AI era.

But Nvidia has also become a torchbearer and financier, anticipating demand for ever more powerful chips while sinking billions of dollars into funding its own customers via a mix of equity investments and other promises. "Nvidia's credit support is what makes much of this debt finance-able across the AI hyperscaler deal front," said Christopher Brown, senior vice president, investments, at Synovus Securities. "Lenders will ask what happens to that support if Nvidia's leadership or regulatory standing is impaired, and Nvidia's own willingness to extend more guarantees may be constrained." Nvidia's board launched an investigation into Huang following reports he had an extramarital affair with a businesswoman who was alleged to be a Chinese spy. A subsequent report about another affair came out ahead of Wednesday's board meeting.

NVIDIA HAS BECOME A TORCHBEARER AND FINANCIER OF THE AI BOOM, ANTICIPATING DEMAND FOR EVER MORE POWERFUL CHIPS

Shay Boloor, chief market strategist at Futurum Equities, said Nvidia's revenue would not suddenly plunge after Huang's exit and, therefore, the bigger concern was about the future, given Huang was the person with the vision for computing. "Replacing that strategic vision ... is an enormous challenge," he said.

Huang's exit leaves a vacuum at the top of the roughly $4 trillion chipmaker that he co-founded and built over three decades to become the top supplier of chips and the nexus of the US-China technology rivalry. REUTERS

Who is interim CEO Colette Kress?

REUTERS
12 November

Nvidia finance chief Colette Kress is set to take over as interim CEO from Jensen Huang, the company said on Thursday, putting her in charge of the chipmaker whose processors power the world's most advanced supercomputers and AI data centres.

The appointment comes after the board ousted co-founder and CEO Jensen Huang amid reports of two extramarital affairs, one with a woman alleged to be a Chinese spy.

CFO since 2013
Kress joined Nvidia in September 2013 as executive vice president and chief financial officer and has held the post since. She has appeared alongside Jensen Huang on the company's quarterly earnings calls.

Nvidia's revenue was $4.13 billion in the fiscal year she joined and $215.9 billion in fiscal 2026.

Career before Nvidia
Before Nvidia, Kress spent eight years in finance roles at Texas Instruments, then worked at Microsoft from 1997 to 2010.

At Microsoft, she became chief financial officer of the Server and Tools division in 2006, with responsibility for its financial strategy, planning and reporting.

She moved to Cisco in 2010 as senior vice president and chief financial officer of its Business Technology and Operations Finance organization, where she was responsible for financial strategy and business development. She left for Nvidia in 2013.

Education, experience
Kress holds a bachelor of science degree in finance from the University of Arizona and a master of business administration degree from Southern Methodist University.

She joined Nvidia after nearly 25 years in finance roles at major technology companies, Fortune reported in 2024. She told Fortune Nvidia was the smallest company she had worked for when she started there in 2013.

Wealth
Forbes ranks Kress number 32 on its 2026 list of America's richest self-made women. Her shares in the chip firm were valued at roughly $750 million, as of Wednesday's close, down from more than $1 billion at the stock's peak last month

Contract terms
Executive officers at Nvidia are employed at will and have no individual employment, severance or change-in-control agreements, according to the company's proxy statement. Nvidia has said in earlier filings that many of its peer companies offer such agreements. Regulatory filings show Kress' pay includes restricted stock units.

US envoys meet Putin as Russia hits Ukraine's power grid

US envoys met with President Vladimir Putin at the Kremlin in a renewed push for a Ukraine peace deal, as Kyiv warned restrictions had reappeared on the Starshield air-defense system used by frontline troops. The meeting on Thursday with US negotiators Steve Witkoff and Jared Kushner was joined by Kremlin aides Yuri Ushakov and Kirill Dmitriev, as well as Vladimir Medinsky, the leader of Russia's delegation in this week's talks in Abu Dhabi between Ukrainian and Russian officials, according to video on state media. Putin asked Witkoff and Kushner to thank US President Donald Trump for arranging the talks between Ukraine and Russia, the first trilateral negotiations since February. He also said that foreign troops in Ukraine would be unacceptable for Russia. The envoys plan to travel on from Moscow to Dublin for talks with Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy, who's taking part in a meeting of European and world leaders. Russia and Ukraine remain far apart on many issues including territory and security guarantees in the negotiations to end Europe's biggest conflict since World War II. REUTERS

UK economy grew by most in 30 months

Britain's economy grew at the fastest rate in two-and-a-half years in the third quarter of 2026, helped by a boost from artificial intelligence and extending a strong first-half, official figures showed on Thursday. Gross domestic product expanded by 0.7 per cent in the July-to-September period, in line with a Reuters poll of economists, but faster than its 0.5 per cent growth in the second quarter of the year and the strongest calendar-quarter growth since the first quarter of 2024, the Office for National Statistics said. Xi says Taiwan 'reunification' must happen

The tide of history cannot be stopped, Chinese President Xi Jinping said on Thursday, while urging peaceful "reunification" with Taiwan and making no mention of using force, though he still drew a firm rebuff from Taipei. China views democratically-governed Taiwan as its own territory, despite Taipei's strong rejection of that claim, and has repeatedly offered a "one country, two systems" model of autonomy not supported by any major Taiwanese political party. Israeli airstrike on Gaza hospital kills 6

Cairo, 12 November

An Israeli airstrike on southern Gaza's main hospital overnight killed at least six Palestinians including a surgeon and a teenage boy, medics said, the latest Israeli attack to undermine a year-old ceasefire in the war-shattered territory.

The strike hit a building containing surgery wards at Nasser Hospital in Khan Younis. Israel's military said it targeted a senior Hamas commander and accused the militants of using the hospital complex to plan attacks, which the group denied. Medics and witnesses said two missiles crashed through the roof of the five-storey building, causing extensive damage. The surgery department, which serves half of Gaza's 2 million people, was knocked out of service. Twenty others were wounded.

Trump says US does not 'need' Iran deal, tells Vance to focus on domestic corruption

REUTERS
12 November

President Donald Trump said on Thursday the US does not need a deal with Iran and directed Vice President JD Vance, who has played a role in efforts to resolve the war, to focus "his complete and total attention" on alleged crime and corruption in Democratic-run cities and states.

Trump's directive came a day after the Wall Street Journal reported that Vance was considering face-to-face peace talks with a hard-line Iranian security official and a week after the vice president blamed the costly war with Iran for Republicans' midterm elections drubbing. Trump's comments marked a shift in tone after he had suggested in recent weeks that Iran would be more willing to strike a deal in the eight-month conflict after the US elections.

"We don't need a deal with Iran. Those days have long since passed. We've got their money, Hundreds of Billions of Dollars, and we've got their Strait!" Trump wrote on social media, referring to the Strait of Hormuz, the critical shipping route near Iran where the US military has been working to secure safe passage for international shipping.

Trump said he asked Vance to focus instead on a domestic issue the president previously put in his portfolio: leading an effort targeting alleged fraud in Democratic-run cities and states throughout the US.

"Our Budget could be quickly BALANCED with the correction of this large-scale criminal activity. CORRUPTION is in the Democrat Leadership's blood!" Trump wrote on Thursday. Vance's office did not immediately respond to a request for comment. The Wall Street Journal reported Wednesday that Vance was considering meeting with a senior Iranian security official, a move that would have put Vance at the centre of peace negotiations.

The vice president blamed the costs of the Iran war in part for the party's losses.

At COP31, leaders of island countries warn of 'life-or-death' crisis

ASSOCIATED PRESS/PTI
12 November

Small island leaders on Thursday called for urgent action, describing planet heating as a life-or-death issue for their people at the climate talks in the Turkish resort town of Antalya.

Alix Sebastien Pillay, the vice president of Seychelles, a 115-island archipelago in the Indian Ocean, said his country's very survival is at stake. "It is time to move past the talking," Pillay said. "For Seychelles, climate action is not simply an environmental priority." Pillay was speaking on the second day of the leaders' summit at the UN climate talks, where government leaders addressed the state of a warming world and what they plan to do about it.

While the entire globe is threatened by souped-up storms, hotter heat waves, worsening droughts and floods, island nations are among the hardest hit by climate change as they also have to deal with rising seas swallowing up their land.

Pillay said Seychelles is experiencing millions of dollars of damage as a result of storms and floods, despite contributing little to increased global warming.

He said a UN fund created for compensating for climate-related loss and damage needs to be urgently strengthened. "Climate recovery must not come at the expense of our development or push vulnerable nations further into unsustainable debt."

Speaking at the talks, Dalton Tagelagi, prime minister of the small Pacific Island of Niue, said the El Niño conditions which have driven up global temperatures are a warning of what might happen if planet heating is not controlled.

"Sea temperatures in the central Pacific are more than three degrees above normal. It is a warning of what is coming if we do not cut emissions now," Tagelagi said.

The comment came as a report said the world has failed to slow global warming trends in the past five years because plans weren't realized and efforts that would have helped were cancelled out. "Aggregated climate action has now essentially stalled for five consecutive years with positive and negative actions cancelling each other out," the independent Climate Action Tracker said in its report.

On Thursday, British Prime Minister Andy Burnham announced the appointment of a special representative to deal with security risks from the climate crisis, one of the first such appointments anywhere in the world. "Climate is a national security issue," Burnham said at the summit.

Meanwhile, climate activist Greta Thunberg, attending her first UN climate summit since 2021, said those in power were failing to address the climate crisis. "We are heading toward a future of more genocides and ecocides where basic necessities become luxury," Thunberg said at a news conference on the sidelines of the summit. "The planet is not dying, it is being killed," she said. "And we know by who. And it is being killed by the very same people often thought to come to our rescue," she said.

Investment in coal gasification

Ensuring demand visibility is required

The tepid response to the second round of the ₹37,500 crore coal-gasification scheme exposes the gap between policy ambition and commercial viability. The scheme envisages supporting 25 projects, but the second round attracted just two applications, both from state-owned NTPC. This compares poorly with seven applications in the first round from five companies, including Adani Enterprises, Talcher Fertilisers, Gallantt Ispat and Shyam Sel & Power. The response is a setback for the government's ambition to gasify 75 million tonnes of coal by 2030 under the scheme, contributing to the broader national target of gasifying 100 million tonnes of coal. The strategic importance of the scheme is clear. With about 389 billion tonnes of coal reserves, among the world's largest, India has a substantial domestic resource base that can be used beyond power generation. The push for gasification is important, given India's ₹2.77 trillion import bill for liquefied natural gas (LNG), urea, ammonia and methanol in FY25. Coal gasification could help diversify feedstock sources for fertilisers and chemicals, reduce exposure to international price volatility, and strengthen industrial supply chains. The government expects the scheme to mobilise ₹2.5 trillion-3 trillion in investment and generate around 50,000 direct and indirect jobs.

Yet the limited response suggests that capital support alone may not be sufficient. Coal gasification requires substantial upfront investment, and the projects have long gestation periods and involve considerable technological complexity. Their economics are also sensitive to international prices. When imported natural gas and chemicals are cheaper, domestic syngas and its derivatives may struggle to compete mainly due to a lack of assured buyers. Uncertainty over long-term coal supplies, transportation infrastructure and the availability of specialised plant machinery further complicates investment decisions. There are also environmental considerations that cannot be overlooked. Gasification is not inherently a low-carbon alternative to conventional coal use. The process can generate substantial carbon emission and requires significant water, making it particularly challenging in coal-bearing regions facing water stress. Integrating with carbon capture, utilisation and storage (CCUS) will, therefore, be important in limiting its environmental footprint.

The immediate priority should be to improve the commercial viability of projects. Long-term purchase agreements for syngas and downstream products are critical. Public-sector companies in the fertiliser, energy and chemical industries could anchor demand through assured procurement arrangements. The government could also consider a partial credit-guarantee mechanism to share lending risks, lower borrowing costs, and improve access to finance. Including coal gasification in the harmonised list of infrastructure sub-sectors could further facilitate long-term financing. Equally important is developing indigenous technology. Collaboration among public-sector enterprises, research institutions and private companies should be encouraged to scale up domestic technologies.

The progress made by Bharat Heavy Electricals Ltd in developing gasification technology suited to India's high-ash coal offers a foundation to build on. These could develop confidence in other domestic companies to apply for the third round, which the Centre has opened now. The government has extended coal-linkage tenure to 30 years for the syngas and gasification sub-sector, an important step towards providing supply certainty. However, this needs to be complemented by better logistics and demand visibility.

Manufacturing ambition

Need for stronger and effective industrial safety

The death of three contract workers from asphyxiation at Tata Electronics' Hosur facility in Tamil Nadu, which manufactures components for Apple's iPhones, raises serious questions about safety in India's manufacturing sector. The workers, engaged through a subcontractor, reportedly died while cleaning an effluent-treatment tank. The incident is particularly concerning, given that three workers died while cleaning a sewage tank at a dyeing unit in Tiruppur in May 2025. The recurrence of such accidents points to persistent weaknesses in workplace safety practices. Cleaning industrial tanks and other confined spaces requires prior risk assessment, gas testing, adequate ventilation, appropriate protective equipment, and trained persons equipped to handle emergencies. The Hosur incident also raises questions about fragmented accountability in large manufacturing establishments, where maintenance and ancillary operations are frequently outsourced through multiple layers of contractors. While the workers were employed by a subcontractor, the principal manufacturing establishment cannot treat workplace safety as an issue entirely external to its operations.

India's record on industrial accidents reinforces these concerns. According to the Directorate General Factory Advice Service and Labour Institutes (DGFASLI), registered factories reported 1,090 fatal injuries in 2023. More significantly, 338 fatal injuries attributed to gassing were recorded over 2014-23, indicating that such incidents are neither new nor unfamiliar. Enforcement capacity is another concern. In 2023, India had 630 working factory inspectors against 974 sanctioned positions. The four Labour Codes, which came into force in November 2025, provide a framework for addressing some of these shortcomings. The Occupational Safety, Health and Working Conditions Code, 2020, places broad obligations on employers to maintain safe workplaces and protect workers from occupational hazards. Importantly, its provisions extend beyond directly employed personnel to cover contract labour. However, statutory provisions alone cannot prevent accidents. Their effectiveness depends on inspection, enforcement and accountability across contractor and subcontractor arrangements.

The consequences of such incidents extend beyond worker safety. India has been positioning itself as an alternative manufacturing destination as multinational companies diversify production beyond China. Apple's expanding Indian supply chain, in particular, represents an important opportunity to integrate domestic manufacturers into global value chains. However, repeated incidents involving factory fires, labour disputes, environmental violations and workplace fatalities can affect perceptions of operational reliability. Accidents can disrupt production, increase compliance and insurance costs, invite regulatory scrutiny, and expose multinational companies to reputational risks. It is incorrect to assume that fiscal incentives and lower production costs alone will secure India's position in global manufacturing networks.

Hazardous operations must be subject to mandatory risk assessments, confined-space entry permits, gas monitoring, emergency rescue arrangements, and regular independent audits. Greater mechanisation of dangerous cleaning and maintenance activities can also reduce workers' exposure to preventable risks. Strengthening factory-inspection capacity and improving the reporting of industrial accidents are equally important. Thus, worker safety is not merely a matter of corporate responsibility or labour regulation; it is integral to productivity, operational continuity, and investment confidence.

The real good news

It is the stable rupee, not the blue wave in the US

FINGER ON THE PULSE
T T RAM MOHAN

Indians — and others in the United States (US) and elsewhere — jubilant over the blue wave that swept the Democrats to power in the US Congress, got a cold reality check last week. US President Donald Trump elevated one of his aides, Stephen Miller, as White House chief of staff.

Mr Miller has been characterised as an anti-immigration hawk. He is better characterised as an economic nationalist and a passionate advocate of Mr Trump's "America First" programme. Absolutely central to that programme is the use of tariffs to advance America's interests.

Mr Miller is not the principal exponent of tariffs in the Trump administration. Nevertheless, his elevation is important in that it signals that there will be no retreat from Mr Trump's ideological agenda. That means, among other things, that the world cannot expect the slightest relief with respect to tariffs. India must brace itself for more tough negotiations on the long-pending India-US trade deal. There will be no respite with respect to H-1B visas either.

The seriously good news for India is not the blue wave but the turnaround on the home front of a sort that few had expected. The rupee has appreciated consequent to the forex measures the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) announced last month. In October, it looked as though the rupee would slide below 97 to the dollar in what looked like a free fall. Instead, the rupee has appreciated to above 94.

The RBI's measures, which curbed the demand for dollars, are not the only reason for the appreciation of the rupee. Global factors have contributed. Investors are retreating from artificial-intelligence (AI) stocks. Yields on US Treasuries have eased. The price of crude oil has dropped to below $100 per barrel.

But the RBI's measures are undoubtedly an important factor. By containing expectations about rupee depreciation, they appear to have revived foreign institutional investors' (FIIs') appetite for Indian stocks. Market pundits who claimed that India had fallen off the radar of foreign investors may well end up looking foolish.

The RBI's position is that it is not out to defend any particular level of the rupee. Its measures in October were only about preventing "excessive" speculation. "Excessive" speculation is hard to define or determine. The RBI governor said that one-third of all foreign-exchange derivative trades were being cancelled or closed out on the same day they were initiated. He also pointed to one-sided bets against the rupee. It's not clear why either should be regarded as "excessive". Both transactions could merely reflect expectations that the rupee is likely to depreciate.

Speculation is unhealthy when it threatens to destabilise the system, say, when large bets are taken with little capital to support them, or when groups of participants are colluding to push the exchange rate in a particular direction. A sudden decline in the exchange rate is also unhealthy when it points to market dysfunction, for example, when small transactions result in large movements in the exchange rate.

There was no evidence of any of these, yet the RBI thought it necessary to intervene in the forex market. It did so for another compelling reason: Too steep a fall in the exchange rate in a short period can be self-reinforcing and result in overshooting.

When the rupee depreciates by a large percentage over a certain period, investors such as FIIs become jittery. They see that depreciation is eroding their dollar returns. They head for the exit, which causes the rupee to depreciate even further. By intervening to stabilise the rupee, the RBI can contain a perceived currency risk. That improves the prospects of FIIs entering the market instead of exiting, thereby causing the rupee to appreciate.

That is exactly what seems to have happened after the RBI announced its curbs on dollar demand in October. FII flows were hugely negative in April, May and June in the current financial year. They turned positive in July and August (apparently because of primary-market investment while selling in secondary markets continued). FII flows turned negative again in September and October.

The RBI announced its curbs on the demand for dollars on October 10. By October 16, the rupee had appreciated to 94.96 to the dollar from its level of 96.82 on October 8. At that point, FIIs turned net buyers and they remained net buyers for 14 sessions thereafter up to November 6. In the first six days of November, FII inflows into equities were greater than the outflows in each of the months of September and October.

When the RBI announced its measures, critics said the curbs could not be sustained for long. When the forex curbs are removed, the rupee will be under pressure if oil prices rise above $100. They are right but it's also true that sentiment is a big factor in the markets. Intervention of the sort the RBI has undertaken helps turn around sentiment in many ways.

First, speculators betting against the rupee end up suffering losses when curbs on dollar demand cause the rupee to appreciate. Such losses impair their capacity to bet against the rupee once normalcy is restored. Second, the RBI has sent out a signal that one-way bets can be costly. Market participants will think twice before they bet against the rupee after the curbs are removed.

Third, market expectations of a steep depreciation in the rupee become less entrenched. This encourages FIIs to invest in Indian equities. FII inflows, in turn, contribute to further appreciation of the rupee. That is how the vicious spiral of rupee depreciation in the previous months now promises to turn virtuous.

When the RBI announced its forex measures in October, critics refused to buy its position that it was not defending any particular value of the rupee. They said the RBI was doing precisely that. The talk in the market and in the media was that an exchange rate of ₹97 to the dollar was a line in the sand for the RBI.

Let us say the market thinks the rupee should fall to 100 in three months. The RBI thinks that should happen in one year and intervenes to prevent a sharp fall towards 100. Its intervention results in the rupee stabilising at 98. Is that a defence of the rupee or preventing unhealthy speculation? Let the pundits and market experts quibble. For now, the success of the RBI's measures is cause for celebration.

Public-private partnerships in British India

INFRATALK
VINAYAK CHATTERJEE

On a spring afternoon in 1853, a 14-carriage train pulled out of Bombay, carrying 400 passengers to Thane, 21 miles away. It is remembered as the birth of the Indian railways. It deserves to be remembered just as much as the birth of Indian private investment in infrastructure because that train was designed, financed and run by a private company. This was nearly a century and a half before "public-private partnership (PPP)" became a recurring theme in Indian policy documents.

In 1849, the government offered private companies a guaranteed 5 per cent annual return on the capital they invested to build the railways, backed by free land and licences running up to 100 years. It was, in effect, an early and appropriate instrument for derisking a market that London investors knew nothing about. The confidence this created was remarkable. British capital flowed into the East Indian Railway (1849), the Great Indian Peninsula Railway (1849), and the Madras Railway (1853). Oversight in this era came from contracts. Each company's terms were negotiated separately, with the government approving plans and regulating fares. There was no uniform statute governing fares or operations until the Indian Railways Act of 1890.

The results were remarkable. From a single 21-mile line in 1853, the network grew to roughly 9,000 miles by 1880. By 1912, the capital invested in the Indian railways stood at roughly ₹477 crore. This amount was cited in a paper titled "The Growth Contribution of Colonial Indian Railways in Comparative Perspective", co-authored by Dan Bogart, a prominent American economic historian at the University of California, Irvine. The capital of ₹477 crore in 1912, if compounded at 7.4 per cent a year (current 10-year G-Sec rate) over 114 years, would be about ₹16.3 trillion in today's terms.

If the railways showed what private capital could do on a national scale, tramways showed what could be done at city level. Bombay's first tram system was private: A company licensed under a Bombay Presidency law in 1874 to ply horse-drawn carriages. When it could not fund electrification, a new private company, the Bombay Electric Supply and Tramways Company (BEST), bought it out in 1905 and electrified the network by 1907. The city took it over only in 1947. Calcutta, Madras and Delhi followed with their own municipally licensed tramways between 1880 and 1908, run by private companies under municipal licences. They were built on an exclusive right to operate rather than a sovereign-backed return, along with a buy-back option that the city could exercise.

Electricity followed a similar city-by-city script. Calcutta Electric Supply Corporation (CESC) lit its first lamps in 1897 under a 21-year licence covering just 5.64 square miles. Tata's hydroelectric venture, incorporated in 1910, also ran India's earliest long-distance bulk-power transmission, wheeling power from Khopoli, in the Western Ghats, to Bombay's textile mills. Ahmedabad followed. The Ahmedabad Electricity Company was floated in 1913 by Bombay-based managing agency Killick, Nixon & Co, with textile baron Ambalal Sarabhai on its board. Then Surat happened in 1920. The Asansol-Raniganj coal belt got its own private power utility in 1919, when Andrew Yule, a British managing agency, set up Dishergarh Power Supply Company to power its collieries. The managing agencies, in short, were, in a way, India's first private infrastructure entrepreneurs.

Not every sector was a success with private capital. In 1853 the government handed its flagship, the Bihar Canal Project, to a private promoter, the East India Irrigation and Canal Company. But by 1868, the government had to buy out the company for ₹10.5 lakh reportedly due to non-performance.

Aviation offers an interesting modern-day parallel. The government built the aerodromes (Calcutta, Allahabad and Bombay in 1924, and Juhu in 1928), while private companies flew the aircraft. Tata launched its Airlines in 1932 out of a palm-thatched hut in Juhu; Govan Bros Ltd floated Indian National Airways in 1933 with ₹3 million of private capital. In 1938 Indian National Airways won a 10-year Empire Air Mail Scheme deal guaranteeing "a minimum income along with an operating subsidy", a structure strikingly close to the route guarantees used to launch regional air service under India's UDAN scheme today.

The eventual transition to state ownership, largely completed for the railways by 1944 and for utilities over the following decades, is often told as the end of the story: Private capital's retreat. However, private capital had done what it was brought in to do: Proving the possibilities of private funding, building and operating assets, and training generations of Indian engineers and managers. Managing agencies like Andrew Yule, Bird & Co, Jardine, and James Finlay too played a pioneering role in building India's coal, tea, mines and jute economies alongside this infrastructure rollout.

Thus, 150 years ago, private capital proved itself capable of building the rails and power lines of a growing economy. It is a legacy modern India would do well to claim with pride, and to build on with even greater ambition.

The unbreakable bond of caste

BOOK REVIEW

AKANKSHYA ABISMRUTA

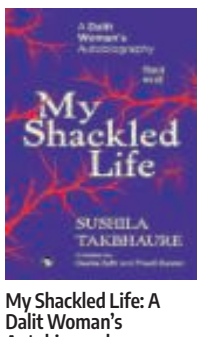
Sushila Takbhaure's autobiography reflects on the moments she has witnessed, and the ones she was told about. India became an independent nation in 1947; why, then, did her maternal grandmother, a certified midwife, clean dry latrines and carry night soil on her head? When her mother saved up to provide for her children's education, why did she keep her distance from other villagers, and invite a separate cook to prepare a wedding feast? And why despite working alongside other Dalits, were her father and brothers cast out when they worked at a railway station? Why did young Sushila's friends not invite her to their homes, and her teachers denigrate her despite her brilliant academic performance?

My Shackled Life is a translation by Deeba Zafir and Preeti Dewan of the Hindi original written in 2011 and titled Shikanje ka Dard. It makes the uncomfortable point that India's freedom from colonial rule didn't free its people from the religion that preaches a caste system, and allows women to be doubly oppressed by patriarchy and caste. The women in Dr Takbhaure's natal family were no different. Their lives were dictated by the menial scavenging, and constant toil to make ends meet in the face of poverty, oppression, untouchability, and natural disasters.

The author begins by charting her family tree, a subversive act in itself, for it records lives that shrank themselves into the background. Reading this autobiography is significantly different from other Dalit women's lives, such as Baby Kamble and Urmila Pawar, which are dominantly shaped by B R Ambedkar's presence. Growing up in Banapur in Madhya Pradesh, the author's life was shaped by her grandmother and parents who didn't consciously distinguish between boys and girls, but patriarchy sank in nonetheless. Her mother firmly believed that education would improve her children's lives, and young Sushila was determined to study. Despite being good at her studies, it was her caste that was highlighted. She writes, "There was a government rule at the time stating that instead of using a student's caste name, the term 'Harijan' should be used for untouchables. But being called 'Harijan' felt even more humiliating."

The author was alone in feeling this way since the practice, instituted by Gandhi to replace derogatory labels — Harijan literally translates to "Children of God" — was followed by most of the villagers, including untouchables. "An untouchable girl could earn goodwill only by being an object of pity. Any act of defiance would have brought sharp rebuke, physical abuse, and harsh punishment, as was customary. I was always afraid of the possibility," she pointed out. This visceral fear continued to dictate her behaviour even after she matriculated, graduated, and completed a PhD.

Just before she graduated, she was married to a much older man. Despite being a school teacher, her husband often verbally and physically abused her. She gives him his credit for getting her jobs to sustain the household of six living in one small tenement. As she met intellectuals in the 1980s and 1990s, she learnt of the Phule-Ambedkarite school of thought. Also, she was encouraged by her colleagues to retain her salary to maintain her financial independence. As she became more assertive with her husband, she also ensured that the paperwork for the flats they bought were done under her name, since she was paying for them.



My Shackled Life: A Dalit Woman's Autobiography
by Sushila Takbhaure
Published by Speaking Tiger
308 pages ₹599

Dr Takbhaure soon became a formidable figure in her own right, giving speeches on the empowerment of her community, against religion and the caste system. Yet she admitted she was sometimes unable to assert herself with her husband. No surprise, she resents the fact that her development as a writer and a significant Dalit activist was attributed to him. On the contrary, it was she who was determined to continue higher studies, publish her poetry and short story collections without any support from him.

My Shackled Life is filled with experiences of humiliation. As Dr Takbhaure discovered, her position as a respected academic could not erase her caste identity — not just by the upper caste people but also by her community that tries to move to the centre by mimicking the caste hierarchy.

Dr Takbhaure writes about her experiences with critical comments about the need for sacrifice, conviction, fierce passion, and courage. She juxtaposes the conditioned femininity of her childhood with her rising self-respect as she grows in her career. She expresses explicitly that she has dedicated her life to uplift her community, and writing has been her medium to achieve this. This translation, one of the firsts for Hindi Dalit women, leaves readers with a justified sense of discomfort at how little has changed in the social order. But the book ends on a hopeful note. As Dr Takbhaure points out, "Once women become conscious of their oppression, they can resist it and claim what is theirs."

Philanthropy, law not competing objectives: Parsi priest letter to PM

Vada Dasturji Khurshed Dastoor, high priest at Iranshah Atash Behram, Udvada, sought a resolution within the 'framework of law and in a spirit of composite reconciliation'

NIVEDITA MOOKERJI
New Delhi, 12 November

Weeks after six Parsi and Zoroastrian community organisations had written to Prime Minister (PM) Narendra Modi to defend the Tata Trusts-led ownership model of Tata Sons and the group's philanthropic legacy, a high priest has expressed concern and distress over the dispute within the conglomerate. Vada Dasturji Khurshed Dastoor, high priest at Iranshah Atash Behram, Udvada — a spiritual hub for the Parsi community in Gujarat — on Thursday wrote to the PM saying that "the preservation of philanthropic institutions and the observance of the rule of law are not competing objectives". They must complement each other and, in fact, they can be mutually reinforcing, he stated in the letter reviewed by Business Standard.

Last month, the joint letter by organisations such as Bombay Parsi Panchayet, Federation of Parsi Zoroastrian Anjumans of India, Zoroastrian Trust Funds of Europe, Global Council of Zoroastrians Trust and the World Zoroastrian Chamber of Commerce had drawn the PM's attention to the philanthropic legacy of the Tata group while stating that the proposed stock exchange listing of Tata Sons would damage the historic character of the group.

Seeking a resolution within the "framework of the law and in a spirit of composite reconciliation", he said that all parties must recognise that institutional legacies are preserved by upholding the values and principles that gave them their standing. Thanking Modi for his support to the Zoroastrian community over the years, he said the community had full faith that whatever decision the PM takes would be "to the benefit of Bharat and our Zoroastrian community".

The interests of the Parsi community, the Tata philanthropic legacy and the wider national interest are far too important to be compromised by prolonged differences between individuals or institutions, the high priest stressed, while urging all concerned parties to exercise restraint, wisdom and maturity, and choosing dialogue over disagreement. Khurshed Dastoor was also emphatic about the "silent but substantial philanthropic work" done by the Shapoorji Pallonji group for the community over the past three decades.

Shapoorji Pallonji group, the second largest shareholder of Tata Sons, favours stock market listing of the holding company, while the largest shareholder Tata Trusts is against it.

The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) in September 2026 rejected the March 2024 application of Tata Sons to deregister itself as a core investment company and, thereby, stay as a private entity. The rejection implied that Tata Sons would have to go for a stock exchange listing as per the Reserve Bank of India mandate that upper-layer non-banking financial companies can't remain privately held. However, Noel Tata wants the holding company to be restructured so that it does not have to list.

A Tata Sons board meeting on September 17 turned into a public spectacle of the divide between the holding company and the largest shareholder. The continuing turbulence in the group is over two core issues: stock exchange listing of Tata Sons and granting a third term to N Chandrasekaran as executive chairman of the company. The Tata Sons board supported the proposals, but Noel Tata, chairman of Tata Trusts and nominee director on Tata Sons board, opposed both.

Vi's Q2 loss widens to ₹5,975 cr; co raises additional ₹4K cr

GULVEEN AULAKH
New Delhi, 12 November

Vodafone Idea's (Vi's) losses widened to ₹5,975 crore in the second quarter of 2026-27 (Q2FY27), compared with ₹5,524 crore in Q2FY26. The bottom line was pulled down by a ₹462 crore exceptional loss from reassessing the fair market value of Vodafone Plc equity shares, which accrue to the company over five years under a 2018 settlement.

Consistent rise in subscribers and shift by more users to higher-value 4G and 5G services led to higher average revenue per user (Arpu). Revenue from operations grew about 6 per cent year-on-year (Y-o-Y) to ₹11,884 crore from ₹11,195 crore. The earnings missed Bloomberg estimates that had projected narrower losses and slightly higher than reported revenues.

The No. 3 carrier secured ₹4,000 crore additional funding in Q2FY27, taking its total funds raised to around ₹10,500 crore, including ₹6,400 crore raised in Q1FY27, Vi said in a statement. This is part of the ₹25,000-35,000 crore funding the firm is seeking through funded and non-funded facilities, with discussions under way with banks.

Vi Chief Executive Officer (CEO) Abhijit Kishore said, "Our focus continues to remain firmly on execution."

Earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation, and amortisation (Ebitda) for the quarter stood at ₹4,981 crore, an annual increase of 6.3 per cent. Vi's Arpu increased to ₹198, up 9.7 per cent Y-o-Y, the highest growth in the industry.

Notes:

a) The above is an extract of the detailed format of Quarterly Financial Results filed with the Stock Exchanges under Regulation 33 of the SEBI (Listing and Other Disclosure Requirements) Regulations, 2015. The full format of the Statement of Unaudited Financial Results is available on the websites of the Stock Exchanges at www.bseindia.com (BSE), www.nseindia.com (NSE) and on the company's website at www.gayatrihighways.com.or may be accessed by scanning the QR Code provided below.

b) The above Unaudited Standalone and Consolidated Financial Results were reviewed by the Audit Committee on 12th November 2026 and approved by the Board of Directors at their meeting held on 12th November 2026.

c) The Statutory Auditors has expressed a qualified conclusion on the following:

Standalone Financial Results:

a) As explained in note 5 to the standalone financial results, the company has defaulted in repayment of outstanding term loan of Rs.3,614.26 Lakhs (after adjustment of Rs.1,401.60 Lakhs paid by GPL to the lender as corporate guarantor towards accumulated interest of Rs.1,193.21 Lakhs and principal of Rs.208.39 Lakhs. Interest was recognized in the financial statements till 31 March 2023) payable to IL&FS Financial Services Limited. The Company has been calculating and recognizing interest only on the defaulted principal of Rs.3,614.26 Lakhs as per the existing loan agreement since the Company has not received balance confirmation from the said lender. In the absence of balance confirmation, we are unable to comment on the interest/penalty if any to be provided in the books or any adjustment required to and the consequent impact if any on these standalone financial results for the period 01 April 2026 to 30 September 2026 had the confirmations been received from the lender.

b) As explained in note 5 to the standalone financial results the company did not provide interest on the outstanding term loan of Rs. 3,614.26 Lakhs due to IL&FS Financial Services Limited for the period 01 April 2026 to 30 September 2026. The Company's records indicate that, had management provided interest, the expenses would have been increased and the profit after tax and total comprehensive income would have been reduced by Rs. 136.65 Lakhs for the quarter ended 30 September 2026 and by Rs. 271.81 Lakhs for the period 01 April 2026 to 30 September 2026.

c)i.The Company has invested Rs. 422.39 lakhs as equity and 0.001% optionally convertible debentures of Rs. 855.00 lakhs as well as advanced loans including interest till 30 September 2026 of Rs. 2,938.01 lakhs. Further it has to receive an amount of Rs.83.52 lakhs towards receivable for deputation. All these amounts aggregate to Rs. 4,298.92 lakhs in Cyberabad Expressways Limited (CEL), a jointly controlled entity.

As per the unaudited financial statements of the CEL as on 30 September 2026, the negative net worth stood at Rs. 13,559.39 lakhs. Consequent to the erosion in the net worth of CEL, the exposure of the Company to the extent of Rs. 4,298.92 lakhs is required to be impaired fully. Ind AS 36 requires the Company to provide for impairment in the value of investments and other financial assets by providing for the amount of impairment in the Statement of Profit & Loss.

ii.The Company has invested Rs. 1,581.36 Lakhs as equity (50% share in equity) and Rs. 20.88 Lakhs towards receivable for deputation aggregating to Rs. 1,602.24 Lakhs in Hyderabad Expressways Limited (HEL), a jointly controlled entity.

As per the unaudited financial statements of the HEL as on 30 September 2026, the positive net worth stood at Rs. 8,212.48 Lakhs including a loan of Rs. 6,197.91 Lakhs advanced to CEL. As per the above paragraph, CEL has a negative net-worth of Rs. 13,559.39 Lakhs as on 30 September 2026. Continuing for the reasons stated in the above paragraph, the loan advanced by HEL is in our opinion, doubtful of recovery resulting in reduction of net-worth of HEL to Rs. 2,014.57 Lakhs. The Company owns 50% of the equity share capital of HEL and hence the Company share of net-worth in HEL works out to Rs. 1,007.29 Lakhs vis-à-vis the exposure of Rs. 1,602.24 Lakhs. This result in impairment to an extent of Rs.594.95 Lakhs from out of the investments made in HEL and Receivables due. Ind AS 36 requires the company to provide for this impairment in the value of investments and other financial assets by providing for the amount of impairment in the Profit & Loss Account.

Since the Company has not impaired the cost of investments, debentures, loans granted to jointly controlled entities and trade receivables to an extent of Rs. 4,298.92 Lakhs to CEL and Rs.594.95 Lakhs to HEL in its books, the profit for the period and total comprehensive income are overstated by the said amount.

Consolidated Financial Results:

a) The Holding Company has defaulted in repayment of term loan of Rs. 3,614.26 Lakhs (after adjustment of Rs.1,401.60 Lakhs paid by GPL to the lender as corporate guarantor towards accumulated interest of Rs.1,193.21 Lakhs and principal of Rs.208.39 Lakhs. Interest was recognized in the financial statements till 31 March 2023) payable to IL&FS Financial Services Limited. The holding company has been calculating and recognizing interest only on the defaulted principal of Rs. 3,614.26 Lakhs as per the existing loan agreements since the Company has not received balance confirmation from the said lender. In the absence of balance confirmation, we are unable to comment on the interest/penalty if any to be provided in the books or any adjustment required to and the consequent impact if any on these consolidated financial results for the period 01 April 2026 to 30 September 2026 had the confirmations been received from the lender.

b) The Holding Company did not provide interest on the outstanding term loan of Rs. 3,614.26 Lakhs due to IL&FS Financial Services Limited for the period 01 April 2026 to 30 September 2026. The Company's records indicate that, had management provided interest, the expenses would have been increased and the profit after tax and total comprehensive income would have been reduced by Rs. 136.65 Lakhs for the quarter ended 30 September 2026 and by Rs. 271.81 Lakhs for the period 01 April 2026 to 30 September 2026.

c) i.The holding Company has advanced loans including interest till 30 September 2026 of Rs. 2,938.01 lakhs. Further it has to receive an amount of Rs.83.52 lakhs towards receivable for deputation. All these amounts aggregate to Rs. 3,021.53 lakhs in Cyberabad Expressways Limited (CEL), a jointly controlled entity.

As per the unaudited financial statements of the CEL as on 30 September 2026, the negative net worth stood at Rs. 13,559.39 lakhs. Consequent to the erosion in the net worth of CEL, the exposure of the Company to the extent of Rs. 3,021.53 lakhs is required to be impaired fully. IndAS 36 requires the Company to provide for impairment in the value of investments and other financial assets by providing for the amount of impairment in the statement of Profit & Loss.

ii.The holding Company has invested Rs. 2,662.98 lakhs (including accumulated share of profit as per equity method Rs. 1,081.62 lakhs) as equity (50% share in equity) and Rs. 20.88 lakhs towards receivable for deputation aggregating to Rs. 2,683.86 lakhs in Hyderabad Expressways Limited (HEL), a jointly controlled entity.

As per the unaudited financial statements of the HEL as on 30 September 2026, the positive net worth stood at Rs. 8,212.48 Lakhs including a loan of Rs. 6,197.91 Lakhs advanced to CEL. As per the above paragraph, CEL has a negative net-worth of Rs. 13,559.39 Lakhs as on 30 September 2026. Continuing for the reasons stated in the above paragraph, the loan advanced by HEL is in our opinion, doubtful of recovery resulting in reduction of net-worth of HEL to Rs. 2,014.57 Lakhs. The Company owns 50% of the equity share capital of HEL and hence the Company share of net-worth in HEL works out to Rs. 1,007.29 Lakhs vis-à-vis the exposure of Rs. 2,683.86 Lakhs. This result in impairment to an extent of Rs. 1,676.57 Lakhs from out of the investments made in HEL and Receivables due. Ind AS 36 requires the company to provide for this impairment in the value of investments and other financial assets by providing for the amount of impairment in the Profit & Loss Account.

Since the holding Company has not impaired the cost of investments, debentures, loans granted to jointly controlled entities and trade receivables to an extent of Rs. 3,021.53 lakhs to CEL and Rs. 1,676.57 lakhs to HEL in its books, the profit for the period and total comprehensive income are overstated by the said amount.

d) As detailed in Note No 7 to the consolidated financial results, we were informed that the parent did not receive the audited financial statements of Indore Dewas Tollways Limited (IDTL), which is a material subsidiary of the Holding Company for the period ended 30 September 2026 for the reasons stated there under. We were informed that the Hon'ble NCLT bench at Hyderabad had admitted IDTL into Corporate Insolvency Resolution Process (CIRP) under Section 7 of the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code (IBC), 2016 (as amended) and appointed Interim Resolution Professional (IRP). Further, a liquidator has been appointed for liquidation of IDTL. In this regard, we were informed that the parent has compiled the financials results of IDTL for the period ended 30 September 2026 that were included in the statement by adopting the following procedure.

For the period 01st April 2023 to 30th October 2023, based on books of accounts and for the period 31st October 2023 to 30th September 2026, as nil transactions.

In the absence of the consolidation of subsidiary for the said period, we are unable to determine the effects on the consolidated financial results of the failure to consolidate the subsidiary for the said period.

The delayed promise of green hydrogen

India scored a success with solar energy. Green hydrogen is going to be harder

SUDHEER PAL SINGH
New Delhi, 12 November

Nearly four years ago, India announced its National Green Hydrogen Mission (NGHM) targeting a capacity of at least 5 million tonnes per annum (mtpa) by 2030. It was to be aided by a subsidy provided under the Strategic Interventions for Green Hydrogen Transition (SIGHT) scheme.

Things haven't quite panned out that way: Project capacity is yet to take off at scale and, according to a recent report by CareEdge Ratings, in at least one case, offtakers have withdrawn even after the discovery of a record low price bid in an auction.

And yet, there is some progress, fuelling hopes of a cleaner hydrogen future. The long-term demand scenario has become increasingly clear now with available estimates of consumption across sectors. This is especially true of the fertiliser sector which is a large consumer of ammonia, currently produced using natural gas. Green ammonia can be chemically derived from green hydrogen, and acts as the most practical liquid carrier for transporting and storing green hydrogen over long distances.

In addition, the cost of generating power from renewable energy (RE) is at a record low because of technology advancement and favourable policies. This has led some large companies, including Reliance Industries (RIL), Adani group, and NTPC Ltd, to commit $180 billion in investments to set up green hydrogen and ammonia production facilities.

However, a key question remains: Can India replicate the success of its solar power growth in green hydrogen? To answer that, it is important to understand why India needs green hydrogen.

Need and challenges

For starters, green hydrogen provides a major and credible decarbonisation pathway, particularly for a bunch of hard-to-abate sectors — steel, refining, fertilisers, chemicals, and long-distance transport. Thus, besides addressing climate change issues, it plays an important role in making industrial value chains less carbon-intensive, which, in turn, helps companies become globally competitive as their products are increasingly judged by their carbon footprint.

The Carbon Border Adjustment Mechanism, a charge levied by the European Union and UK on shipments of carbon-intensive products such as steel and aluminium, is an example of the uphill battle Indian manufacturers face in exporting their goods to developed markets. Exports, in turn, are a key ingredient of economic growth.

"The primary barrier remains cost. Renewable hydrogen is currently estimated to be 1.5-5 times more expensive than unabated fossil-based production. However, this gap is expected to narrow as renewable energy and electrolyser costs decline," said Nikunj Dubey, chief ratings officer at CareEdge Ratings.

"For India, where renewable power costs are among the lowest globally, the debate has shifted from technological feasibility to industrial positioning. The key strategic question is no longer whether green hydrogen will play a role, but which segments will achieve cost parity first and, therefore, capture disproportionate value as the market matures," he added.

The government launched the NGHM with an outlay of Rs 19,744 crore in January 2023, targeting 5 mt of annual green hydrogen production by 2030. The SIGHT programme supports both electrolyser manufacturing and green hydrogen production (electrolysis is how green hydrogen is produced). While multiple allocation rounds have awarded manufacturing capacity and production incentives to companies, execution still lags ambition.

Can't copy

According to Jatin Kochhar, partner at law firm Clavius Legal, India can still see a solar kind of success but not by simply copying the solar model.

"Solar worked because SECI (Solar Energy Corporation of India Ltd), a creditworthy government buyer, signed long-term contracts that banks were willing to lend against, and because electricity could be sold into a grid that already existed," Kochhar said.

Green hydrogen is harder. Its buyers are refineries and fertiliser plants that must change the way they operate to utilise green energy, which means setting up entire new plants, and building storage and distribution pipelines.

"India already has the tools that made solar work: Competitive auctions, SECI as the buyer in the middle, and transmission charge waivers. What green hydrogen still needs is a legal requirement to buy it and contracts that banks can trust," said Kochhar.

Another factor holding back green hydrogen is the low pace of implementation of projects. As of July 2026, the Ministry of New and Renewable Energy told Parliament, no plant supported under the subsidy scheme had been fully commissioned. Only about ₹292 crore of the allocated ₹19,744 crore — less than 1.5 per cent — had been spent by August.

Outside the subsidy scheme, about 8,000 tonnes a year of capacity had been commissioned by February 2026 – versus a target of 5 mt by 2030 – and these were mostly pilot and in-house projects. So, while the policy framework is largely in place, the task ahead is to convert on-paper plans into working plants, even as technology matures over time and investors gain confidence.

Need for mandate

Then there is the lack of a mandate for hydrogen consumption or purchase obligation for companies. The largest buying programme so far is SECI's green ammonia round: About 724,000 tonnes a year was allocated across 13 fertiliser units, and agreements for 670,000 tonnes a year with 11 units were signed in March 2026. As the central implementing and nodal agency for NGHM, SECI designs, floats, and manages competitive bidding tenders for green hydrogen, green ammonia, and electrolyser manufacturing.

"A green hydrogen consumption obligation for refineries and fertiliser plants has been discussed for years but is yet to be notified," noted Kochhar. The lack of a mandate set by the government, where buyers are legally required to purchase renewable power, remains a key gap when compared with solar. "A phased green hydrogen mandate with clear yearly targets, and support to cover the price gap in the early years, would do the same for hydrogen (as for solar)," says Kochhar.

But even a legal obligation may not be enough. Experts argue that contracts must also work for lenders. SECI's green ammonia contracts run for 10 years, but the plants owned by companies will operate for 20 to 25 years and that gap makes refinancing riskier and borrowing more expensive. Lenders will also look closely at equipment performance guarantees, minimum purchase commitments, protection against changes in law, payment security, and compensation that covers their loans if a contract is terminated, said Kochhar.

Standard contract terms and longer contract periods would help project finance more than just another round of subsidies. In fact, solar went through a similar painful birth with delayed payments and attempts to reopen signed contracts; those lessons could help point the way forward for green hydrogen, too.

Other experts agree that the existing cost gap with respect to grey hydrogen, uncertainty of demand pick-up, and the absence of enabling infrastructure are key challenges for green hydrogen to make a meaningful headway in the RE sector.

"This is a typical Catch-22 situation between production-cost optimisation versus demand pick-up. SIGHT aims to address this challenge by incentivising electrolyser manufacturing and green hydrogen and ammonia production. In addition to developing underlying infrastructure and hubs, introducing green hydrogen purchase obligations on industries in a phased manner and a Contracts for Difference (CfD) framework to balance out the cost of green hydrogen sourcing can accelerate scale-up," said Anujesh Dwivedi, partner, Deloitte India.

A CfD framework would balance the cost of sourcing green hydrogen by paying out the difference between high production costs and lower market prices. Under the framework, the government or an authorised public body would sign a long-term agreement with a green hydrogen producer locked at a guaranteed 'strike price' covering the true cost of production plus a reasonable return on investment. When market prices are below the strike price, the government or the designated agency pays the producer the difference, guaranteeing a steady revenue stream. When market prices exceed the strike price, the producer pays the surplus back to the public counterparty, protecting buyers and the public budget from market spikes.

Sector by sector

According to Dwivedi, the green hydrogen sector in India is expected to reach an inflection point sometime in the next 2-4 years. However, it is only likely to become competitive in one sector at a time, likely starting with fertiliser.

"SECI's auctions discovered green ammonia prices of ₹49.75 to ₹64.74 per kg for about 724,000 tonnes a year. The lowest bid was within about 10 per cent of the grey ammonia price of $515 per tonne in March 2025, and it is fixed for 10 years, which protects an import-dependent sector from price swings," said Kochhar.

Refineries will follow in the early 2030s. The lowest refinery price of green hydrogen so far is ₹279 per kg, which is still well above grey hydrogen. According to Rocky Mountain Institute, a US-based think tank, production costs could fall by about 46 per cent by 2030, from about $4.40 to $2.40 per kilogram. "In my view, refineries are more likely to reach unsubsidised parity in the early 2030s than by 2030. Steel, shipping and transport will take until the mid-2030s, unless carbon pricing speeds things up," Kochhar said.

India has one of the cheapest renewable power in the world, a proven auction system, and strong commitment from large companies. Nonetheless, solar did not succeed only because panels became cheaper — it succeeded because contracts became bankable. Green hydrogen, too, will need more of the same, and its future will be decided less in factories than in purchase contracts, legal mandates, and dispute resolution clauses.

The road less taken

- National Green Hydrogen Mission aims to produce 5 mtpa by 2030 but execution yet to pick up pace
- Green hydrogen production cost is 1.5-5 times higher than hydrogen produced using fossil fuels
- India's renewable power costs — among the lowest globally — need to fall further to make green hydrogen commercially viable
- Specialised production facilities, storage systems, and pipelines are required for the production of green hydrogen
- Green ammonia will likely become affordable for making fertilisers first, followed by refineries, steel, and shipping
- Large firms have pledged $180 bn to green hydrogen projects but purchase mandates are necessary

Docs caution against sudden withdrawal of GLP-1 drugs

ANJALI SINGH
Mumbai, 12 November

What experts say

- Decision to discontinue treatment should be made after considering patient's overall health
- GLP-1 drugs offer significant metabolic, cardiovascular, kidney, and liver-related benefits
- The US FDA directed GLP-1 drug makers to update their product labels to include potential risks of NAION
- NAION, a rare condition, affects one in 10,000 people annually
- Patients with diabetes should continue their recommended eye examinations to monitor for eye complications

Patients taking popular weight loss and diabetes medications such as semaglutide and tirzepatide should not discontinue treatment indiscriminately. This advice follows a regulatory warning in the United States that links these drugs to a rare eye condition that can cause permanent loss of vision, doctors in India have said.

Acknowledging the seriousness of nonarteritic anterior ischaemic optic neuropathy (NAION), specialists said the absolute risk remains very low and must be weighed against the metabolic and cardiovascular benefits of these medications. The caution follows a November 9 warning by the US Food and Drug Administration (USFDA), which directed manufacturers of glucagon-like peptide-1 (GLP-1) receptor agonists to update their product labels to include a potential increased risk of NAION.

The warning comes amid a global boom in GLP-1 medications, which generated an estimated $79 billion in sales in 2025, according to Morgan Stanley. In India, the market has expanded rapidly following the launch of newer obesity treatments and the entry of lower-cost generic semaglutide earlier this year.

According to Pharmarack data, the GLP-1 market reached ₹2,492 crore in annual sales as of September, with sales value growing 72 per cent year-on-year during the month. Eli Lilly's Mounjaro, meanwhile, recorded sales of ₹1,544 crore in the 12 months ended October, up 229 per cent from a year earlier.

"NAION is a serious condition that requires attention, but it does not mean that we should start indiscriminately taking patients off GLP-1 medications or recommend eye examinations for everybody using these drugs. It is a very rare side effect, with roughly one additional case per 10,000 patient-years," said Rajiv Kovil, a diabetes and obesity specialist at Zandra Healthcare.

He said the association had been under discussion for around three years, following research published in JAMA Ophthalmology and subsequent observational studies indicating a nearly twofold increase in the incidence of NAION among GLP-1 users.

"The benefits of GLP-1 drugs go far beyond blood sugar control and weight reduction. They offer considerable organ protection, including cardiovascular, kidney and liver-related benefits. Indiscriminately withdrawing these drugs could lead to a worsening of other associated conditions."

NAION, sometimes described as an "eye stroke", occurs when blood supply to the front portion of the optic nerve is reduced.

It typically causes sudden, painless vision loss in one eye, often noticed upon waking. The resulting impairment can be permanent, and there is no reliably effective treatment to reverse the damage.

The USFDA's analysis of 126 randomised clinical trials found 6.4 cases of NAION per 100,000 person-years among GLP-1 users, compared with 3.8 cases among those receiving a placebo or other glucose-lowering medications.

The regulator's warning covers medicines including Ozempic and Wegovy (semaglutide) and Mounjaro (tirzepatide). However, the precise biological mechanism behind the possible association remains unclear.

Kovil said patients experiencing blurred vision or other visual disturbances should consult an ophthalmologist. If NAION is diagnosed, the decision on whether to discontinue treatment should be made after weighing the patient's overall health and the benefits and risks of continuing the medication.

He also said India's pharmacovigilance system had not recorded a single case of NAION associated with GLP-1 medications over the past one and a half years, despite their growing use in the country. Oral semaglutide, he added, had been available in India for nearly four and a half years without any reported signal of the condition.

Separately, Aparna Bhaskar, a bariatric and metabolic surgeon, said she had not encountered NAION among patients receiving GLP-1 medications in her clinical practice.

However, she cautioned that the absence of cases in an individual practice did not rule out the risk. With the use of these medications growing in India, awareness of potential complications and continued monitoring were important, she said.

Kovil said there was no indication for everyone taking GLP-1 medications to undergo additional eye examinations specifically to screen for NAION. Patients with diabetes, however, should continue their recommended eye examinations to monitor for diabetic eye complications.

He also pointed to the FOCUS (Fluoxetine Or Control Under Supervision) clinical trial studying semaglutide and diabetic retinopathy. According to him, recruitment for the study had recently stopped. The findings are expected to provide further information when published.

Doctors also stressed the importance of medical supervision before and during treatment. Patients with a history of NAION or other significant optic nerve disorders should discuss them with their physicians before starting therapy.

A frightfully good business as horror looks beyond the screen

AYUSHI SINGH
New Delhi, 12 November

Spine-chilling: Cosplay enthusiasts at the third edition of HorrorCon India 2026, held from October 31 to November 1, at Okhla's NSIC Exhibition Grounds

A bird skull for a face, one wing entirely white, the other streaked with red and black, a Greek-style toga and a katana hanging at his side. Around him stood Ghostface, a yellow animatronic Chica, a red-haired doll and an assortment of bloodied, stitched-up figures.

Beyond the nightmares were a cobweb-covered red London bus, tarot readings, gaming arenas and stalls selling gothic jewellery, graphic tees, horror comics and fantasy fiction. Children queued for face painting and Halloween games, while inside a tent, paranormal investigators, storytellers, and filmmakers held sessions throughout the day. As evening fell, the open-air stage came alive with pop, hip-hop and electronic music.

For two days, October 31 and November 1, the NSIC Grounds in Okhla hosted the third edition of HorrorCon India. Beyond the spectacle, the ambition is to make horror the centrepiece of a live entertainment property, with its own audience, creators and commercial partners.

Horror already features at larger pop-culture gatherings such as Comic Con. HorrorCon is betting that the genre can stand on its own, bringing together fans of films, games and anime, as well as paranormal investigators, independent filmmakers and storytellers. Its Horror Geek Zone hosted sessions on horror writing, independent filmmaking, paranormal investigations and more, drawing on the community built by Khooni Monday, the horror platform run by TMV (The Mad Virus), the company behind the convention.

The bet comes as India's live event business expands. The Ficci-EY 2026 report estimates that the organised segment grew 44 per cent in 2025 to ₹14,500 crore. Its survey found that 31 per cent of event management companies offered intellectual property (IP)-led events, up from 24 per cent, while 82 per cent expected demand for such properties to grow. For HorrorCon, the opportunity lies in turning a specific cultural interest into an event that audiences return to, and brands invest in.

The cosplay floor reflected the community's range. Ghostface, Chucky, characters from Five Nights at Freddy's 2 and Pyramid Head from Silent Hill appeared alongside Sukuna from Jujutsu Kaisen, zombies from The Last of Us 2 and a recreation of the possessed bed sequence from 1920. But one costume, the Avian Seraph, was not borrowed from an existing fictional world. Its bird-skull mask, asymmetrical wings, toga and katana belonged to an original character conceived by its creator. Such original characters, or OCs, take cosplay beyond recreating established franchises, allowing fans to imagine identities and worlds of their own, with the possibility of developing them into original IP.

The programme extended beyond horror, featuring hip-hop duo Seedhe Maut, girl group W.i.S.H. (World inka Stage Hai), MTV Hustle rappers Ansh4Sure and Parv, singer-songwriter Bharat Chauhan, and electronic acts Nkshtra and Noizx. The wider lineup offers brands multiple entry points into a community whose members identify with particular genres and fandoms.

For HELL Energy, that means product trials and brand recall among young consumers. The brand returned for its third year at HorrorCon and its second as title sponsor, with a Halloween bar on the grounds.

"What matters to us is whether a young consumer experiences HELL energy drink, tries the range and remembers it," said Priitee Tamhankar, the brand's marketing head. The company tracks brand awareness and product sampling, both of which she said had grown since it joined. Tamhankar sees horror as having moved "from the fringes into a genre with its own devoted following among GenZ", much as K-drama did. The association has also given the brand a platform for HELLoween.

PVR Inox Pictures is looking to turn horror fandom into cinema visits. It partnered HorrorCon to organise exclusive screenings across Delhi-National Capital Region, including Backrooms, Primetime and Hokum, before joining the convention.

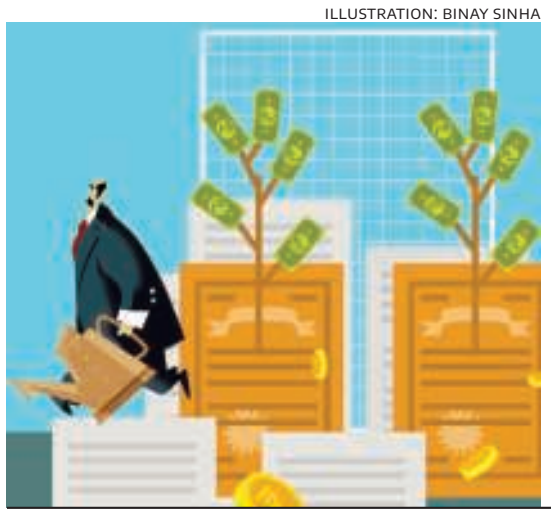
Oct SIP openings at 18-mth low, closures highest since April '25

Active account tally drops from 108.9 million to 108 million

ABHISHEK KUMAR
Mumbai, 12 November

ILLUSTRATION: BINAY SINHA



The mutual fund (MF) industry's systematic investment plan (SIP) growth story suffered a setback in October, just ahead of the equity market's recovery. SIP account registrations fell to an 18-month low of 5.1 million, while closures rose to 5.9 million, the highest level since April 2025.

The higher number of closures led to a decline in the total number of active SIP accounts. The MF industry's active SIP tally stood at 108 million at the end of October, compared with 108.9 million in September.

The decline was also reflected in monthly SIP contributions, which fell from ₹32,490 crore to ₹32,160 crore.

Experts chalked up the decline in SIP accounts to equity market volatility, while stressing that most SIP metrics remain close to their all-time highs.

"Investors continue to invest because they are looking at the country's long-term growth. They are confident about that. That's the reason why, during the past three months, we have seen contributions remain above ₹32,000 crore. While there are some degrees of closures and a reduction in contributing accounts, the resilience is something we are looking at positively," said Venkat Chalasani, chief executive of the Association of Mutual Funds in India.

Dhirendra Kumar, founder and chief executive officer of Value Research, said this may not be the right time for investors to exit their SIPs.

"The closure number includes SIPs that have simply run their full term, not only those that investors cancelled. Contributions fell just 1 per cent to ₹32,160 crore, so most investors are still investing. Those who stopped after two flat years have made a costly mistake, because a flat market is when an SIP buys the most units, and those are the units that earn the most when the market recovers. Stop a SIP if your life needs the money, not because of what the market is doing," he said.

Mayank Sharma, director and head of asset allocation and products at Client Associates, said that, apart from market volatility, other factors could also have contributed to the rise in SIP closures.

"Seasonal festival expenses and elevated fuel costs may also have strained household cash flows, leading to higher mandate failures. However, monthly SIP contributions remained resilient at above ₹32,000 crore, and average ticket sizes were broadly stable. This suggests the trend is largely driven by churn in smaller-ticket accounts rather than any widespread investor exodus. In fact, discontinuing SIPs during market corrections often deprives investors of the long-term benefits of rupee cost averaging, which happened in this instance as well, given the strong bounce-back by the markets in November," he said.

The last time the number of SIP accounts shrank was in April, when the decline was comparatively smaller at 600,000. October's SIP account additions and discontinuations were the weakest and highest, respectively, since April 2025, when the industry undertook a one-time clean-up exercise to remove dormant SIP accounts. That month, 16.2 million SIP accounts were declared inactive.

Rupee slips past 94/$, bond yields harden ahead of auction

ANJALI KUMARI
Mumbai, 12 November

The rupee erased early gains to weaken against the dollar on Thursday on higher US Treasury yields, while government bond yields rose ahead of a weekly debt auction as traders took short positions in the benchmark 10-year paper, dealers said. The rupee settled 0.37 per cent lower at 94.04 per dollar, against the previous close of 93.69.

"There was dollar buying by nationalised banks ahead of the consumer price index data release, which pushed the rupee towards 94 per dollar," said a dealer at a private bank. "It opened with a gap in the morning because of a fall in crude and inflows."

"The rupee surrendered its early gains amid bargain dollar buying and broad-based dollar strength. Aggressive dollar demand from a state-owned bank ahead of the inflation data release pushed the dollar-rupee pair above 94.00," said Dilip Parmar, senior research analyst, HDFC Securities. Rupee fell by 4.43 per cent against the dollar in calendar year 2026, while it has gained 0.82 per cent in FY27. It has gained 0.97 per cent in November.

Brent prices fell over 1 per cent to an intraday low of around $91.20 a barrel following reports of planned US-Iran diplomatic talks and renewed Russia-Ukraine peace negotiations. Prices later rose to trade around $92.31 a barrel, compared with the previous close of $92.73, as concerns over shipping risks in the Strait of Hormuz persisted. Meanwhile, the dollar index traded at 102.88, higher than its previous close of 102.50, after touching an intraday high of 103.09, supported by expectations of further Federal Reserve rate hikes. In the government bond market, the yield on the benchmark 10-year government security rose 3 basis points to 7.25 per cent, while the five-year yield hardened 6 basis points to 6.95 per cent.

Page Industries shares plunge over 12% as margins contract

Shares of Page Industries closed down 12.19 per cent on Thursday at ₹32,059.50 apiece on BSE, as its margins contracted in the quarter. The shares hit the 10 per cent lower circuit during Thursday's session before closing further down at ₹32,059.50 apiece.

Consolidated net profit rose 4 per cent to ₹202.5 crore, as sales volume grew 5.5 per cent year-on-year (Y-o-Y).

Revenue increased 11.5 per cent, compared to the same quarter last year to ₹1,439.6 crore and its sales volume stood at 59.7 million pieces. The firm's profit before interest, depreciation and tax (PBIDT) increased 4.9 per cent to ₹313.7 crore in the quarter ended September 30 and its PBIDTM (profit before interest, depreciation and tax margins) contracted 137 bps to 21.8 per cent.

The company said in its financial results notes that it has carried out retail trading of Jockey and Speedo branded products, including imported products, through e-commerce without establishing physical retail stores.

"Such retail trading of imported products of multiple brands was not in accordance with the retail trading provisions of the Foreign Exchange Management (Non-Debt Instruments) Rules, 2019, issued under the Foreign Exchange Management Act, 1999 (FEMA)."

Based on legal advice and management's assessment, the company applied to the RBI for compounding on May 20, 2026. On October 16, 2026, the RBI returned the application and advised the Company to first obtain post-facto approval from the Government of India, it added.

The management is in the process of obtaining the approval and plans to reapply for compounding thereafter and expects the non-compliance to be compounded by the RBI and the financial impact, if any is not likely to be material. Accordingly, no adjustment has been made to the financial results.

Page Industries is the exclusive licensee for Jockey in India, Sri Lanka, Bangladesh, Nepal, Oman, Qatar, Maldives, Bhutan, UAE, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Bahrain. It also has the exclusive license for Speedo in the country.

VS Ganesh, managing director, Page Industries, said that the company is pleased to deliver double digit revenue growth of 11.5 per cent in Q2 FY27, driven by healthy volume growth, premiumisation and strong consumer response to new launches.

The board of Zee Entertainment Enterprises Limited (Zee) on Thursday approved a proposal to buyback up to 65.93 million equity shares of the company at ₹91 per share, aggregating to about ₹600 crore, it said in a release.

It will implement the buyback through the tender offer route. The buyback shares represent 6.86 per cent of the total paid-up equity share capital of the company.

Promoters and members of the promoter group will not participate in the proposed buyback, the company said.

On Thursday, Zee shares closed 3.7 per cent higher at ₹73.50 apiece on BSE. The buyback price of ₹91 per share represents a premium of 23.8 per cent over the closing price

The board has fixed November 25 as the record date to determine equity shareholders who are eligible to participate in the buyback.

"The board remains firmly committed to safeguarding the interests of all shareholders and ensuring that the company's capital is deployed in a prudent and value-accretive manner. Strong demand, valuations positive for Tata Power

DEVANGSHU DATTA

Tata Power's revenue met estimates in the second quarter of 2026-27 (Q2FY27), although operating profit came in below consensus. In macro terms, power demand grew sharply in Q2, with management expecting demand to stay elevated through FY27. Assuming coal prices are stable, the coal joint venture (JV) is expected to generate steady profit through the second half (H2) of FY27.

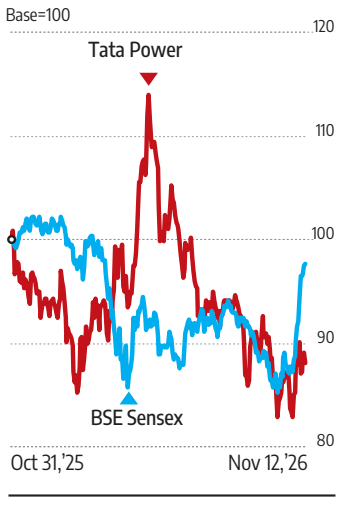
The firm spent ₹10,000 crore in capital expenditure (capex) during H1FY27, with about 60 per cent of allocation to renewable energy (RE), and it reiterated FY27 guidance of ₹25,000 crore capex. Its new ingot and wafer plant has secured regulatory approvals, and commercial operations should start by end-FY28.

A supplementary power purchase agreement (PPA) with Gujarat for Mundra ultra mega power plant (UMPP) has been submitted to CERC for approval and discussions for power procurement from two other states are at advanced stages. Operational capacity increased to 17.4 gigawatts (GW), while module and cell production stood at 1,000 megawatt (Mw) and 906 Mw, respectively. However, transmission infrastructure may need to catch up if all the renewable capacity is to be evacuated.

There's an outstanding litigation in Singapore, where Kleros Capital is attempting to attach shares in subsidiaries. These shares are pledged to a lender consortium. Management expects the Kleros enforcement process to take between three and six months and is confident of its position in a $650 million arbitration claim. No provision has been taken in the balance sheet. The case stems from a 2013 Russian coal dispute with Kleros Capital. Tata Power has appealed to the Singapore Court of Appeal, with a hearing scheduled for January 19, 2027. Meanwhile, Kleros moved to enforce a July 2025 arbitration award. On November 6, a court-appointed sheriff served attachment notices on Tata Power's shares in two wholly owned Singapore subsidiaries — Tata Power International and Bhira Investments — though these shares are pledged to lenders who have gone to court to block this attachment.

The Q2FY27 revenue was up 26 per cent year-on-year (Y-o-Y) and 3 per cent quarter-on-quarter (Q-o-Q) at ₹19,640 crore. Operating profit rose 11 per cent Y-o-Y, but was down 9 per cent Q-o-Q at ₹3,670 crore. Margin contracted 240 basis points Q-o-Q to 18.7 per cent. The adjusted net profit was at ₹1,280 crore, with a net exceptional gain of ₹120 crore. It was up 40 per cent Y-o-Y and 9 per cent Q-o-Q. The net exceptional profit was due to ₹300 crore gain on Tata Projects' de-association, offset by some impairment provisions.

COMPANY: Tata Power



Consolidated cash stood at ₹11,165 crore as of September 2026, including ₹1,400 crore in RE companies.

Operational capacity rose to 17.4 Gw in Q2FY27 from 16.8 Gw in Q1FY27, mainly through solar and waste heat recovery systems. Mixed capacity at various stages of construction was 9.8 Gw. The RE capacity installation in H1FY27 was 765 Mw — the FY27 guidance is for 2-2.5 Gw of RE, with commissioning to pick up in H2FY27. There has been 3 per cent Y-o-Y increase in module production capacity and 2 per cent decline in cell production.

The capex stood at ₹4,476 crore in Q2FY27 and ₹10,000 crore in H1. Guidance for addition of 2.5 Gw RE capacity in FY27 seems a stiff target.

The Odisha discoms continued to improve operational efficiency and aggregate technical and commercial (AT&C) losses declined to 21 per cent. Management believes weak hydro due to erratic monsoon could boost thermal demand for baseload. Power demand grew 10-11 per cent Y-o-Y in Q2FY27, due to agricultural and cooling demands. October demand growth was 12 per cent Y-o-Y. The Renewable GenCo reported H1FY27 earnings before interest, tax, depreciation and amortisation (Ebitda) of ₹2,231 crore on its 7.1 Gw capacity, with FY27 Ebitda expected to more than double Y-o-Y. Renewable curtailment was at 11 per cent in Q2FY27, up from 8.8 per cent in Q1FY27, due to lack of transmission. Improvement is expected following commissioning of evacuation lines in the next two-three months. The company has a 2,800 Mw pumped storage project portfolio. The distribution regulatory assets rose 28 per cent Y-o-Y to ₹8,310 crore.

Conventional generation Ebitda was up 37 per cent Y-o-Y at ₹351 crore. The coal JV is expected to register steady ₹400 crore profit per quarter. Rooftop solar adoption is expanding and management believes subsidy support will continue, though the format may change.

Valuation for Tata Power is a complicated sum-of-the-parts exercise. There is a regulated business which must be valued at a multiple of regulated equity. The coal segment must be valued separately. RE should be valued at a multiple of Ebitda. Plus, there's PSP and other segments. Cash and investments would also amount to around ₹70 per share. Most analysts seem positive on the stock, given significant corrections since May.

Automotive (auto) component major Samvardhana Motherson International (Samil) posted a mixed set of results for the second quarter (July-September/Q2) of 2026-27 (FY27). While revenue growth exceeded expectations, operating performance was inline with estimates. Within the auto space, growth in emerging markets was offset by weak demand in the European Union, the US and China. Some of the weakness in the passenger vehicle (PV) segment was partly offset by robust demand for commercial vehicles across global markets.

Amid concerns over volume growth in the auto sector, the company is looking to expand its non-auto businesses while seeking to gain market share through acquisitions and increase content per vehicle. At the current price of ₹165, the Samil stock, which has gained 56 per cent over the past year, trades at about 21x its estimated 2027-28 (FY28) earnings. About 85 per cent of analysts tracking the stock have a "buy" rating, with a Bloomberg consensus target price of ₹185.

The company reported consolidated revenue growth of 27 per cent year-on-year (Y-o-Y) and 9 per cent sequentially. Growth was driven by strong performance in wiring harnesses, the integration of acquisitions and emerging businesses.

The wiring harness segment recorded 68 per cent Y-o-Y growth, a third of which came from the integration of the acquired Nexans Autoelectric operations. The acquisition was completed in July this year. Emerging business segments, including aerospace, health and medical, and logistics solutions, among others, recorded a 61 per cent Y-o-Y jump in the quarter.

The company remains optimistic about growth despite a 2.3 per cent Y-o-Y decline in global light vehicle production, supported by a record order book of $106 billion, up from $96 billion in 2025-26. The Autoelectric and Yutaka Giken acquisitions are expected to add $2 billion in revenue in their first full year, with margins set to improve as integration progresses.

JM Financial Research expects Samil to continue outperforming global auto sales, driven by rising premiumisation, the transition to electric vehicles, a strong order backlog across its auto and non-auto businesses, and the successful integration of recent acquisitions. According to analysts led by Aniket Mhatre, the key growth drivers include strong demand in the Indian auto market, US contract wins over the next couple of years, sustained strength in the US commercial vehicle market and the scaling up of non-auto businesses, particularly consumer electronics and aerospace. The brokerage has a "buy" rating on the stock, with a target price of ₹205.

The company's operating profit margin stood at 8.8 per cent, up 10 basis points (bps) from a year ago but flat sequentially, falling short of some brokerage estimates. Margins in the modules and polymer and integrated assemblies segments improved Y-o-Y by 90 bps and 10 bps, respectively, to 8.3 per cent and 12.3 per cent. However, margins in the wiring harness and emerging segments declined by 50 bps and 110 bps, respectively, to 10 per cent and 8.4 per cent. The vision systems segment maintained its margin at 9.2 per cent.

Nomura Research expects organic growth in Samil's global subsidiaries to remain subdued amid weakness in the auto sector. However, a ramp-up in the non-auto segment's contribution (consumer electronics and aerospace) from 10 per cent in FY27 to 16 per cent by FY29, along with market share gains in the auto business following the integration of recent acquisitions, should support growth momentum.

Analysts led by Kapil Singh believe the firm's cost-control initiatives have been commendable, particularly in an inflationary environment.

Grandfather's property: Birthright or inheritance?

SANJAY KUMAR SINGH

In J Rajesh (Minor) vs M Kumaran (Dead), the dispute concerned 1,811 square feet of land belonging to N Ramakrishnan, Rajesh's grandfather. Rajesh's father sold it through deeds dated April 3 and 17, 1997. The minor sued through his mother for partition and possession of half the property. The Supreme Court on November 6, 2026, dismissed the appeal, ruling that a property inherited under Section 8 of the Hindu Succession Act, 1956, offers no birthright.

How property passed matters
The ruling distinguishes coparcenary rights from succession under Section 8. "Property coming from a grandfather does not automatically become ancestral property in the next generation's hands," says Sonam Chandwani, managing partner, KS Legal & Associates.

"The court settled that a man inheriting under Section 8 receives the property as its full and absolute owner rather than as the head of a joint family," says Hitendra Hiremath, partner, King Stubb & Kasiva, Advocates and Attorneys.

Two kinds of ownership
Coparcenary property is joint family property in which each coparcener acquires an interest by birth. "If the property was already coparcenary property in the hands of the grandfather, father and son, the son is a coparcener by birth," says Amit Kumar Nag, partner, Aquilaw.

Property a father inherits under Section 8 is ordinarily his individual property. His children acquire no interest in it by birth. "If a grandfather dies intestate after June 17, 1956, leaving the father as an heir, then the father takes his share under Section 8 in his individual capacity," says Nag.

What a grandchild can claim
A Mitakshara coparcener can seek partition and separate possession during his father's lifetime. "A grandson with a coparcenary interest can seek appropriate relief before a court if an unjustified transaction prejudices his rights," says Chandwani. Children cannot demand preservation or partition of their father's individual property.

Limits on a father's rights
A karta can sell or mortgage coparcenary property to fulfil legal necessities and indispensable duties, or for the benefit of the estate. Such a transfer binds non-consenting coparceners. But the father cannot gift substantial property gratuitously to outsiders. Coparceners can in that case seek injunctions.

A father can transfer an individual Section 8 property without children's consent. "A challenge requires an independent legal ground, such as defective title, fraud or proof that the property remains coparcenary," says Rahul Hingmire, co-founder and managing partner, Vis Legis Law Practice.

Division without a Will
Under Section 6(3), as substituted in 2005, a deceased coparcener's interest passes by testamentary or intestate (without a Will) succession rather than survivorship. First, the father's share is fixed by a notional partition. If he has four brothers, he gets a one-fifth share. His share then passes to Class I heirs under sections 8, 9 and 10. Individual property passes directly without any partitioning.

"The widow (or widows together), each surviving son and daughter, and the deceased's mother each take one share. The branch of each pre-deceased child takes one share," says Nag. The 2005 amendment gives daughters and granddaughters equal coparcenary birthrights. They also inherit individual property equally as Class I heirs if there is no Will.

What a Will can change
Section 30 allows a father leeway over an individually owned property. "He may leave it by Will to one child, a grandchild or someone unrelated while excluding a son," says Hingmire. "The Will must be genuine and be properly executed, as courts look closely at Wills made in suspicious circumstances," says Hiremath.

How to avoid disputes
A father should establish whether a property is held individually or is a coparcenary property. "Keep the title documents, inheritance records and any partition deed or court decree," says Alay Razvi, managing partner, Accord Juris.

Razvi advises that in the case of an individually owned property, the father should prepare a properly executed Will identifying the property, beneficiaries, shares and an executor.

Buyer's checklist

- Have a property lawyer examine ownership history and acquisition documents
- Lawyer should check death certificates, family tree, Wills, partition deeds, court decrees
- Should establish if seller inherited individually under Section 8 or others also hold rights
- Co-sharers' interests need valid sale or release documents; informal consent won't suffice

Seeking assured returns? These savings options offer up to 8.2%

Investors seeking predictable returns without exposure to the stock market have several options offering interest rates of 7.5 per cent or more. These include government-backed small savings schemes, Reserve Bank of India (RBI) bonds and bank fixed deposits (FDs).

The Senior Citizens Savings Scheme (SCSS) and Sukanya Samriddhi Account (SSA) offer 8.2 per cent interest a year. RBI Floating Rate Savings Bonds offer 8.05 per cent, while the National Savings Certificate (NSC) provides 7.7 per cent.

SCSS is meant for people aged 60 and above. It has a five-year maturity period, extendable by three years, and provides quarterly interest payments. The maximum investment is ₹30 lakh.

SSA is designed for parents saving for a girl child below 10 years of age. It matures 21 years from the date of opening and is suitable for long-term financial goals.

The Post Office Time Deposit and Kisan Vikas Patra (KVP) offer 7.5 per cent interest. While the former has a five-year tenure, KVP doubles the investment in 115 months at the current rate.

Bank FDs also offer competitive returns, with some small finance banks offering rates of up to 8.25 per cent. However, investors should compare lock-in periods, liquidity and taxation before investing. Interest income is generally taxable according to the investor's income tax slab.
