OCT COLLECTIONS AT ₹2.31L CR; IMPORT REVENUE UP 42%

GST mop-up growth highest in 4 yrs at 23%

SHUBHAM RANA
New Delhi, November 1

GROSS GOODS AND Services Tax (GST) collections grew at the quickest pace in more than four years in October to a six-month high of ₹2.31 lakh crore, amid festive demand and a sharp jump in import revenue, data released on Sunday showed.

Collections rose 22.9% year-on-year, the quickest increase since September 2022. October collections were the second highest in the current financial year. It was also the fourth consecutive month when GST collections were at ₹2 lakh crore or higher. In the current financial year, gross GST mop-up has risen 13.2% to ₹14.78 lakh crore.

The robust rise in GST collections was driven primarily by a 42.2% year-on-year growth in import revenue to ₹72,246 crore. Domestic GST collections grew 15.8% in October to ₹1.59 lakh crore.

"This distinction is important when assessing the headline growth, as import collections can be influenced by changes in import volumes, commodity prices and the value of goods imported," said Manoj Mishra, partner and tax controversy management leader, Grant Thornton Bharat.

FE LEADERSHIP AWARDS TODAY

FM to toast India Inc's best

FE BUREAU
Mumbai, November 1

INDIA INC HAS SELDOM looked in finer form. Its entrepreneurs are disrupting markets, widening their global footprint and innovating relentlessly, powering the economy to new highs. Today, FE celebrates these animal spirits at the inaugural FE Leadership Awards, honouring the best in the business.

Finance and Corporate Affairs Minister Nirmala Sitharaman will grace the evening as Chief Guest, and a gathering of the country's top corporate leaders will cheer the winners all the way to the podium.

The Union Budget, due in February, will be her tenth in a row, a record no other finance minister has matched. With it just round the corner, India Inc will be listening closely as the FM outlines the next steps for growth and shares her priorities for the year ahead.

If the Indian economy has shown remarkable resilience in the face of strong global headwinds, much of the credit goes to Sitharaman. Despite an energy shock, steep US tariffs and rising inflation, India continues to grow at a brisk pace, helped by a series of well-timed policy moves. The GST rate revisions and income tax cuts announced in 2025 have kept consumption demand buoyant, while tax relief for foreign portfolio investors buying into government securities has signalled that India is serious about a competitive tax regime.

Her steady stewardship has been just as important. Even as she has cut taxes and stepped up public investment in roads, railways and ports, Sitharaman has kept the government on a credible path of fiscal consolidation, earning the confidence of investors and rating agencies alike. It was her landmark corporate tax cut of 2019 that made India one of the more competitive destinations for manufacturing investment.

The FE Leadership Awards, selected by a seven-member jury led by Kumar Mangalam Birla, chairman, Aditya Birla Group, recognise those who are not merely navigating change but driving it. As industries are disrupted and markets redefined, leadership has never been more demanding.

The jury included Arundhati Bhattacharya, president and CEO, Salesforce South Asia; Cyril Shroff, managing partner, Cyril Amarchand Mangaldas; Sanjay Nayar, founder, Sorin Investments; Amit Chandra, chairman, Bain Capital; Rajiv Memani, chairman and CEO, EY India; and Manish Kejriwal, founder and managing partner, Kedaara Capital.

The winners, led by Mahindra & Mahindra's Anish Shah as CEO of the Year and Sun Pharmaceutical Industries as Company of the Year, are trailblazing leaders and organisations that have reimagined their businesses for a changing world. They span India's established champions and its new frontiers, from Sarvam AI, winner of the Emerging Entrepreneur award, to Skyroot Aerospace, the Standout Innovator.

JSW Group's Parth Jindal won the Young Turks award for building well beyond an inherited legacy, from paints to electric vehicles and Titan's Ashok Sonthalia was chosen CFO of the Year.

Resilience defined the Standout Unicorn award for Falguni Nayar's Nykaa, Hindustan Unilever won the Sustainability award and ABB India the MNC of the Year. Bella Casa Fashion & Retail was adjudged the MSME of the Year.

Q2 story: Strong sales, weak margins

KISHOR KADAM
Mumbai, November 1

INDIA INC HAS had a good earnings season so far, with strong top-line growth only slightly dulled by margin pressure. Companies pushed through healthy volumes in the quarter, but not all could offset rising input costs with price increases, and operating margins have suffered as a result.

RESULTS REVIEW

Management commentary, however, points to robust demand. JSW Steel, which posted a 58% year-on-year jump in operating profit for the second quarter of FY27, plans to double capacity by FY32. UltraTech, coming off a good quarter, flagged an improving pricing environment. At Larsen & Toubro, order inflows are running ahead of guidance, and the order book has grown an encouraging 28% y-o-y to ₹8.6 lakh crore. Bankers, meanwhile, expect credit growth to hold strong at 14–15%.

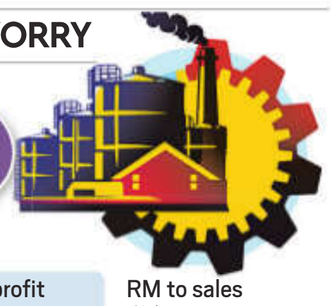

Analysts at Jefferies say that, so far, the FY27 earnings upgrade ratio is sustaining at 50% plus but point out this is a shade lower than in the June quarter.

PM to meet Niti top brass amid global headwinds

PRASANTA SAHU
New Delhi, November 1

AMID GLOBAL UNCERTAINTIES stemming from conflicts, Prime Minister Narendra Modi will meet the top brass of the government's apex think tank, Niti Aayog, on Thursday to get a first-hand view of the issues they are working on and share his ideas during a freewheeling interaction, sources said.

The government completely revamped Niti Aayog's top leadership between April and July, appointing Ashok Kumar Lahiri as vice chairman, along with seven new members and a new CEO.

During the interaction, each member is expected to make a two-slide presentation on the issues and policies they are working on, while the prime minister's inputs and directions will likely be incorporated into their respective action plans, sources said. The interaction comes at a time when the country is facing risks from the three 'Fs' — fuel, fertiliser and foreign exchange — amid supply shocks triggered by global conflicts and capital flight.

Food inflation fears grow on sluggish sowing, low output

- Agri commodity prices elevated on deficient monsoon

SANDIP DAS
New Delhi, November 1

AS KHARIF CROP harvesting gathers pace, retail prices of key agricultural commodities including rice, sugar, mustard oil and onion are ruling at significantly higher levels compared to the previous year, according to the price monitoring cell of the department of consumer affairs.

Experts attribute the market behaviour to prospects of a decline in kharif output because of deficient monsoon impacted by El Nino, and elevated global prices of most items. The high prices threaten to stoke food inflation further in the coming months. Food inflation as per the consumer food price index moved sharply upwards to touch 7.74% in September, primarily because onion, ginger, garlic, sugar, chicken, and edible oils became far costlier.

On the harvesting of crops which is currently underway, Pushan Sharma, director, Crisil Intelligence, said the outlook this season is mixed, with weather-related variability emerging as the key factor to watch. "For field crops, acreage is expected to be lower by around 2-3% year-on-year, while yields could decline by about 5-6%," Sharma told FE. The area under kharif crops — paddy, pulse, oilseeds and cotton — fell marginally to 110.7 million hectare (Mha) on year, according to the agriculture ministry, while crops were impacted by erratic and deficient monsoon rains.

Pre-Diwali mood lifts FMCG growth 15%

- Urban and rural markets see uptick in October: Bizom

VIVEAT SUSAN PINTO
Mumbai, November 1

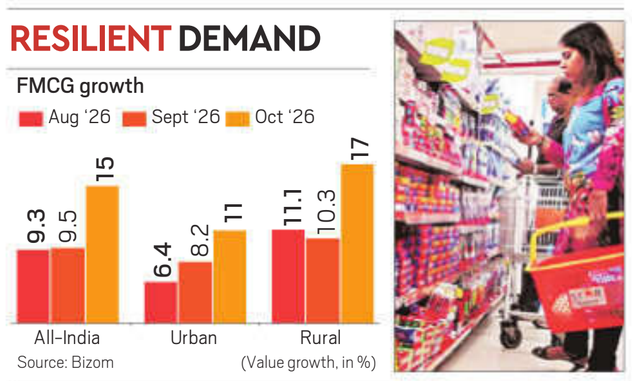

THE FAST-MOVING CONSUMER goods (FMCG) market recorded a sharp acceleration in value growth to 15% in October, its highest level in a year-and-a-half, driven by a concentration of festivals, festive stocking and resilient consumer demand across urban and rural markets, according to data from retail intelligence platform Bizom, shared exclusively with FE.

Rural markets posted value growth of 17% and urban markets 11% — both at multi-month highs. Bizom tracks value growth across FMCG categories in 10 million retail outlets. It does not report volume growth.

INVESTORS SEEK REGULATORY CHANGES TO STAY INVESTED BEYOND TRADITIONAL 10-YEAR FUND LIFE

VCs count on evergreen funds for longer startup runway

S SHANTHI
Bengaluru, November 1

THE TRADITIONAL 10-YEAR life cycle of venture capital (VC) and private equity (PE) funds is increasingly coming into conflict with the time startups need to build sustainable businesses, prompting investors to explore alternative structures such as evergreen funds that allow them to remain invested longer.

Unlike conventional funds, evergreen funds do not have a fixed termination date. They can reinvest proceeds from successful exits and continue holding promising investments without the pressure to return capital to investors within a timeframe. The model, popular in the US, is gaining traction among Indian investors as the startup ecosystem shifts its focus from growth at all costs to profitability and long-term value creation.

The mismatch is particularly evident in sectors with long gestation periods. Startups in biotechnology, agriculture and manufacturing, for instance, can take several years to establish their technology, infrastructure and commercial viability. Even otherwise, businesses can take 10-15 years to reach maturity and an initial public offering (IPO), while the average life of a fund is less than 10 years.

"This does not account for funding winters, macro shocks, and other extraneous factors," Siddarth Pai, managing partner, CFO and ESG officer, 3one4 Capital, said. Evergreen funds can stay invested beyond the traditional fund life cycle and even after a firm lists, allowing investors to benefit from long-term compounding, he added.

However, Indian regulations do not currently permit domestic Category I and II alternative investment funds (AIFs) to operate as evergreen structures. These funds are required to be closed-ended, with a fixed tenure and corpus. Consequently, some Indian investment firms that describe themselves as evergreen funds follow structures that allow them to continue deploying capital and reinvesting exit proceeds, rather than operating as formally recognised evergreen vehicles.

Among the firms associated with this approach are WestBridge Capital's Crossover Fund, Premji Invest, IAN Angel Fund and Zerodha-backed Rainmatter, according to Tracxn.

THE LONG VIEW

- Evergreen funds can reinvest returns from successful investments
- The model requires greater discipline in valuations, capital allocation and governance

Oil PSUs report 39% of FY26 profit in Q2 alone

● Combined profit jumps 68% to ₹30,106 crore

SAURAV ANAND
New Delhi, November 1

THREE STATE-OWNED OIL marketing companies (OMCs) earned nearly 39% of their entire FY26 profit in the September quarter alone, with combined standalone net profit jumping 68.3% year-on-year to ₹30,106 crore, as stronger refining earnings drove a sharp recovery despite continued pressure on retail fuel sales.

The July-September earnings were equivalent to nearly 39% of the ₹77,281-crore combined profit reported by Indian Oil Corporation (IOC), Bharat Petroleum Corporation (BPCL) and Hindustan Petroleum Corporation (HPCL) for the whole of FY26. The turnaround was particularly significant as these firms had together reported a loss of ₹18,150 crore in the year-ago period.

However, OMC executives have cautioned that the October-December quarter could be tougher, raising concerns over the sustainability of the recovery.

IOC led the earnings rebound, accounting for nearly 72% of the combined quarterly profit. The country's largest refiner reported its highest-ever quarterly standalone net profit of ₹21,630 crore, nearly three times the ₹7,610 crore recorded a year earlier. It had posted a loss of ₹2,661 crore in the June quarter.

The company attributed its strong performance to favourable crude oil price movements and improved profitability in its petrochemical and gas businesses.

"The current quarter's profitability was largely driven by temporary decline in crude oil prices from mid-June to mid-August and robust margin from petrochemical and gas," IOC said in its earnings statement.

However, IOC warned that profitability in the coming quarters could be affected by inventory losses if crude oil prices decline following normalisation of the situation in West Asia.

The improvement came despite pressure on petrol and diesel sales and an accumulated negative LPG pricing buffer of ₹32,505.69 crore as of September 30. IOC recognised ₹7,243 crore in government compensation for domestic LPG under-recoveries during the first half of FY27.

Unlike IOC, BPCL and HPCL reported lower profits compared with a year earlier, although both returned to profitability after suffering substantial losses in the preceding quarter.

BPCL's standalone net profit declined 22.5% to ₹4,993 crore from ₹6,443 crore a year earlier. However, it reversed a loss of ₹3,962 crore reported in April-June.

HPCL reported a standalone net profit of ₹3,483 crore, down 9.1% from ₹3,830 crore a year earlier, recovering from a loss of around ₹11,526 crore in the preceding quarter.

The recovery was supported by stronger refining margins. HPCL's gross refining margin (GRM), a measure of returns from processing crude oil into petroleum products, surged to $32.15 per barrel from $8.80 a barrel in the corresponding quarter last year. IOC, however, did not disclose its refining margin for the quarter.

The three companies' combined revenue from operations increased nearly 29% to ₹5.60 lakh crore from ₹4.35 lakh crore a year earlier.

IOC's quarterly revenue rose to ₹2.63 lakh crore from ₹2.03 lakh crore, while BPCL's increased to ₹1.58 lakh crore from ₹1.22 lakh crore. HPCL reported revenue of ₹1.39 lakh crore, compared with ₹1.10 lakh crore a year earlier.

Despite the strong September-quarter performance, the combined standalone net profit of the three companies stood at ₹11,956 crore for the first half of FY27, reflecting the impact of heavy losses during April-June.

Pharma MSMEs get more time for PLI investments

MANU KAUSHIK
New Delhi, November 1

IN A RELIEF to pharma MSMEs, the government has given them an extra year to meet their investment commitments under the production linked incentive (PLI) scheme. Companies can now complete their promised investments by the current fiscal.

The deadlines for meeting each of the earlier investment milestones have also been extended by one financial year.

Experts said the extension could help smaller drugmakers overcome difficulties in arranging funds for capacity expansion and upgrading their facilities to meet quality standards. Rising capital expenditure and compliance costs appear to have made it harder for MSMEs to complete their investment commitments within the original timeframe.

However, the extension does not reduce the total investment commitment or change the minimum annual sales growth required to qualify for incentives.

Under the original guidelines issued in June 2021, participating MSMEs were required to achieve 20% of their committed investment by FY22, 40% by FY23, 60% by FY24, 80% by FY25 and the full investment by FY26. The investment was to be made in stages over five years, allowing companies time to build or expand their manufacturing facilities.

BOOSTER DOSE

- Deadlines for meeting each of earlier investment milestones have also been extended by one financial year
- Smaller drugmakers can overcome difficulties in arranging funds for capacity expansion
- As of June 2026, the scheme had attracted ₹46,744 crore in actual investment

The Department of Pharmaceuticals also outlined the process for claiming incentives under the revised schedule. "The beneficiaries shall submit fresh applications for claiming incentives for the previous performance years, which shall be examined as per the extant provisions of the scheme guidelines," it said.

The pharma PLI scheme was approved with a financial outlay of ₹15,000 crore to encourage domestic manufacturing of high-value medicines and reduce dependence on imports. It covers products such as complex generics, biopharmaceuticals, cancer drugs, orphan drugs and active pharmaceutical ingredients.

The scheme aims to attract ₹17,275 crore in investment and generate incremental sales of ₹2.94 lakh crore and incremental exports of ₹1.96 lakh crore during its six-year performance period, from FY23 to FY28.

It has already surpassed its investment target. As of June 2026, the scheme had attracted ₹46,744 crore in actual investment, while beneficiary companies recorded cumulative sales of ₹4.03 lakh crore, including exports worth ₹2.57 lakh crore. The scheme had also generated 1.21 lakh jobs. A total of 55 companies, including 20 MSMEs, have been selected as beneficiaries.

Long queues, congestion at Delhi borders on Day 1 of entry curbs

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
New Delhi, November 1

LONG QUEUES OF vehicles, repeated checks, and frustrated commuters marked the first day of the new vehicle entry restrictions in the national capital on Sunday.

Vehicles not meeting the BS-VI emission standards were stopped at several inter-state borders, triggering massive traffic congestion on roads connecting Delhi with Haryana and Uttar Pradesh. The restrictions came into effect on Sunday as part of the winter pollution-control measures.

Under the new arrangement, petrol and diesel vehicles registered outside Delhi that do not comply with BS-VI emission standards are barred from entering the national capital. Electric and CNG vehicles, along with BS-VI-compliant vehicles, are exempted.

The enforcement is being jointly carried out by Delhi's environment and transport departments, and the traffic police. It covers several important entry points, including Rajokri on NH-48, DND Flyway, Ghazipur, Singhu, Tikri and Badarpur.

According to official sources from the environment department, their officials issued around 1,105 challans for Pollution Under Control Certificate (PUCC) violations in Delhi, even as the city recorded poor air quality. Fines of ₹7.3 lakh were collected.

Vedanta plans to trim crude oil production cost in Rajasthan

SAURAV ANAND
New Delhi, November 1

VEDANTA OIL & Gas is targeting to bring down the cost of producing crude from its Rajasthan operations to $10-13 a barrel from $16.5 at present, as the company steps up spending on mature fields and seeks to extract more oil from existing wells.

"Our target is to reduce the cost from the current $16.5 a barrel to $10-13 a barrel, which will increase our profitability," said Jim Johnny Gast, interim chief executive officer and whole time director of Vedanta Oil & Gas.

The company plans to invest about $200 million in FY27 across Rajasthan North, comprising the Mangala, Bhagyam and Aishwariya fields. Vedanta is targeting production of more than 150,000 barrels per day (bpd), compared with around 80,000 bpd currently, through polymer flooding, well interventions and other enhanced-recovery measures.

Gast said producing fields were witnessing a natural decline of 1-3%, making higher recovery from existing reservoirs critical to raising output. Vedanta has recovered around 41% from its producing wells and is targeting a recovery rate of 60%.

"Over the last 20 years, the country's total crude production has remained stagnant at around 0.87-0.99 mmboe, while consumption has gone from 2.65 to 5.6 mmboe. We are trying to explore small sedimentary basins which provide vast opportunity, and increase production from existing wells, which will reduce this huge gap," Gast said.

The production push comes as Vedanta Oil & Gas' overall output has declined. Average gross operated production fell 17% year-on-year to 77.7 thousand barrels of oil equivalent per day (kboepd) in Q1 FY27, from 93.2 kboepd a year earlier. Production declined further to 72.2 kboepd in Q2 FY27. However, it reported a 34% year-on-year rise in EBITDA to ₹1,393 crore, while revenue increased 7% to ₹2,486 crore. Net profit stood at ₹746 crore.

CIL supplies hit record in October

SAURAV ANAND
New Delhi, November 1

COAL INDIA (CIL) recorded its highest-ever monthly coal supplies of 70.3 million tonne (MT) in October, up 19% year-on-year, as dispatches to thermal power plants touched a record 57.1 MT amid rising electricity demand and efforts to strengthen coal stocks at power stations.

The miner reported a strong performance despite disruptions from unseasonal rainfall, Puja festivities and a cyclone. CIL also reported record railway rake loading for the power sector.

Monthly supplies crossed the 70-MT mark for the first time, surpassing the previous all-time high of 69.4 MT recorded in March 2026. The latest dispatches were substantially higher than the 59.2 MT supplied in October last year.

The achievement assumes significance as March is typically the peak performance month for coal production and dispatches, while October follows the monsoon period, when mining and transportation operations face weather-related challenges.

"What is more remarkable about these achievements is that the previous supply and railway rake records corresponding to the month of March, which happens to be the peak performance month of any fiscal, are being surpassed in October," a senior CIL official said.

Coal supplies to the power sector also crossed the 57-MT mark for the first time, reaching 57.1 MT in October

Automatic settlement of eligible inoperative EPF accounts

FE BUREAU
New Delhi, November 1

THE EPFO HAS launched automatic settlement of eligible inoperative EPF accounts, with nearly 100,000 accounts involving ₹5 crore expected to benefit. The decision was announced as part of EPFO's 74th Foundation Day.

Subscribers having Aadhaar-verified inoperative EPF accounts with balances of up to ₹1,000 will not be required to file individual claims. The EPFO will initiate settlement automatically after prescribed identity and bank-account verification, facilitating transfer of eligible dues to rightful beneficiaries.

EPFO services will also be available through WhatsApp. EPF subscribers will be able to access their PF balance, latest five transactions, and passbook information through EPFO's verified WhatsApp service.

Speaking on the occasion, Union Labour & Employment Minister Mansukh Mandaviya over its 74-year journey, EPFO has emerged as a trusted institution for the workforce of the country. The trust reposed in the organisation is reflected in the ₹32 lakh-crore corpus accumulated through contributions from more than 80 million members.

Bulk Scotch classification: Industry seeks clarity on duty benefits

MUKESH JAGOTA
New Delhi, November 1

THE ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGE industry is seeking a clear policy position on the classification of bulk Scotch whisky imports and their eligibility for preferential duty benefits under the India-UK trade pact when it meets commerce ministry officials on Monday.

The industry wants the government to clarify that qualifying bulk Scotch imported for blending and bottling in India is covered by tariff commitments negotiated under the comprehensive economic and trade agreement (CETA), subject to applicable product and origin requirements.

It is seeking the ministry's intervention amid enquiries by officials of a revenue intelligence agency into bulk whisky imports by some liquor companies. Officials have visited the offices of certain companies to seek clarifications and import-related documents.

At the centre of the issue is whether bulk Scotch should be classified under Chapter 22, Heading 2208, which specifically covers spirits and whisky, or Heading 2106, relating to food preparations not elsewhere specified or included. The industry maintains that bulk Scotch remains whisky irrespective of whether it is imported in retail bottles or larger containers for subsequent blending and bottling.

The issue has industry-wide implications as around 80% of Scotch whisky imports from Scotland by volume comprise bulk shipments, according to industry representatives. Indian companies use these imports for blending and bottling operations, including production of Indian-made whiskies using proprietary recipes.

Under CETA, which came into force on July 15, India reduced the basic customs duty on eligible Scotch whisky from 150% to 75% in the first year, with a progressive reduction to 40% over 10 years. The agreement provides separate tariff lines for whisky imported in containers exceeding two litres and retail containers of up to two litres. Bulk Scotch is covered under HS 2208 30 92, while retail bottles fall under HS 2208 30 12.

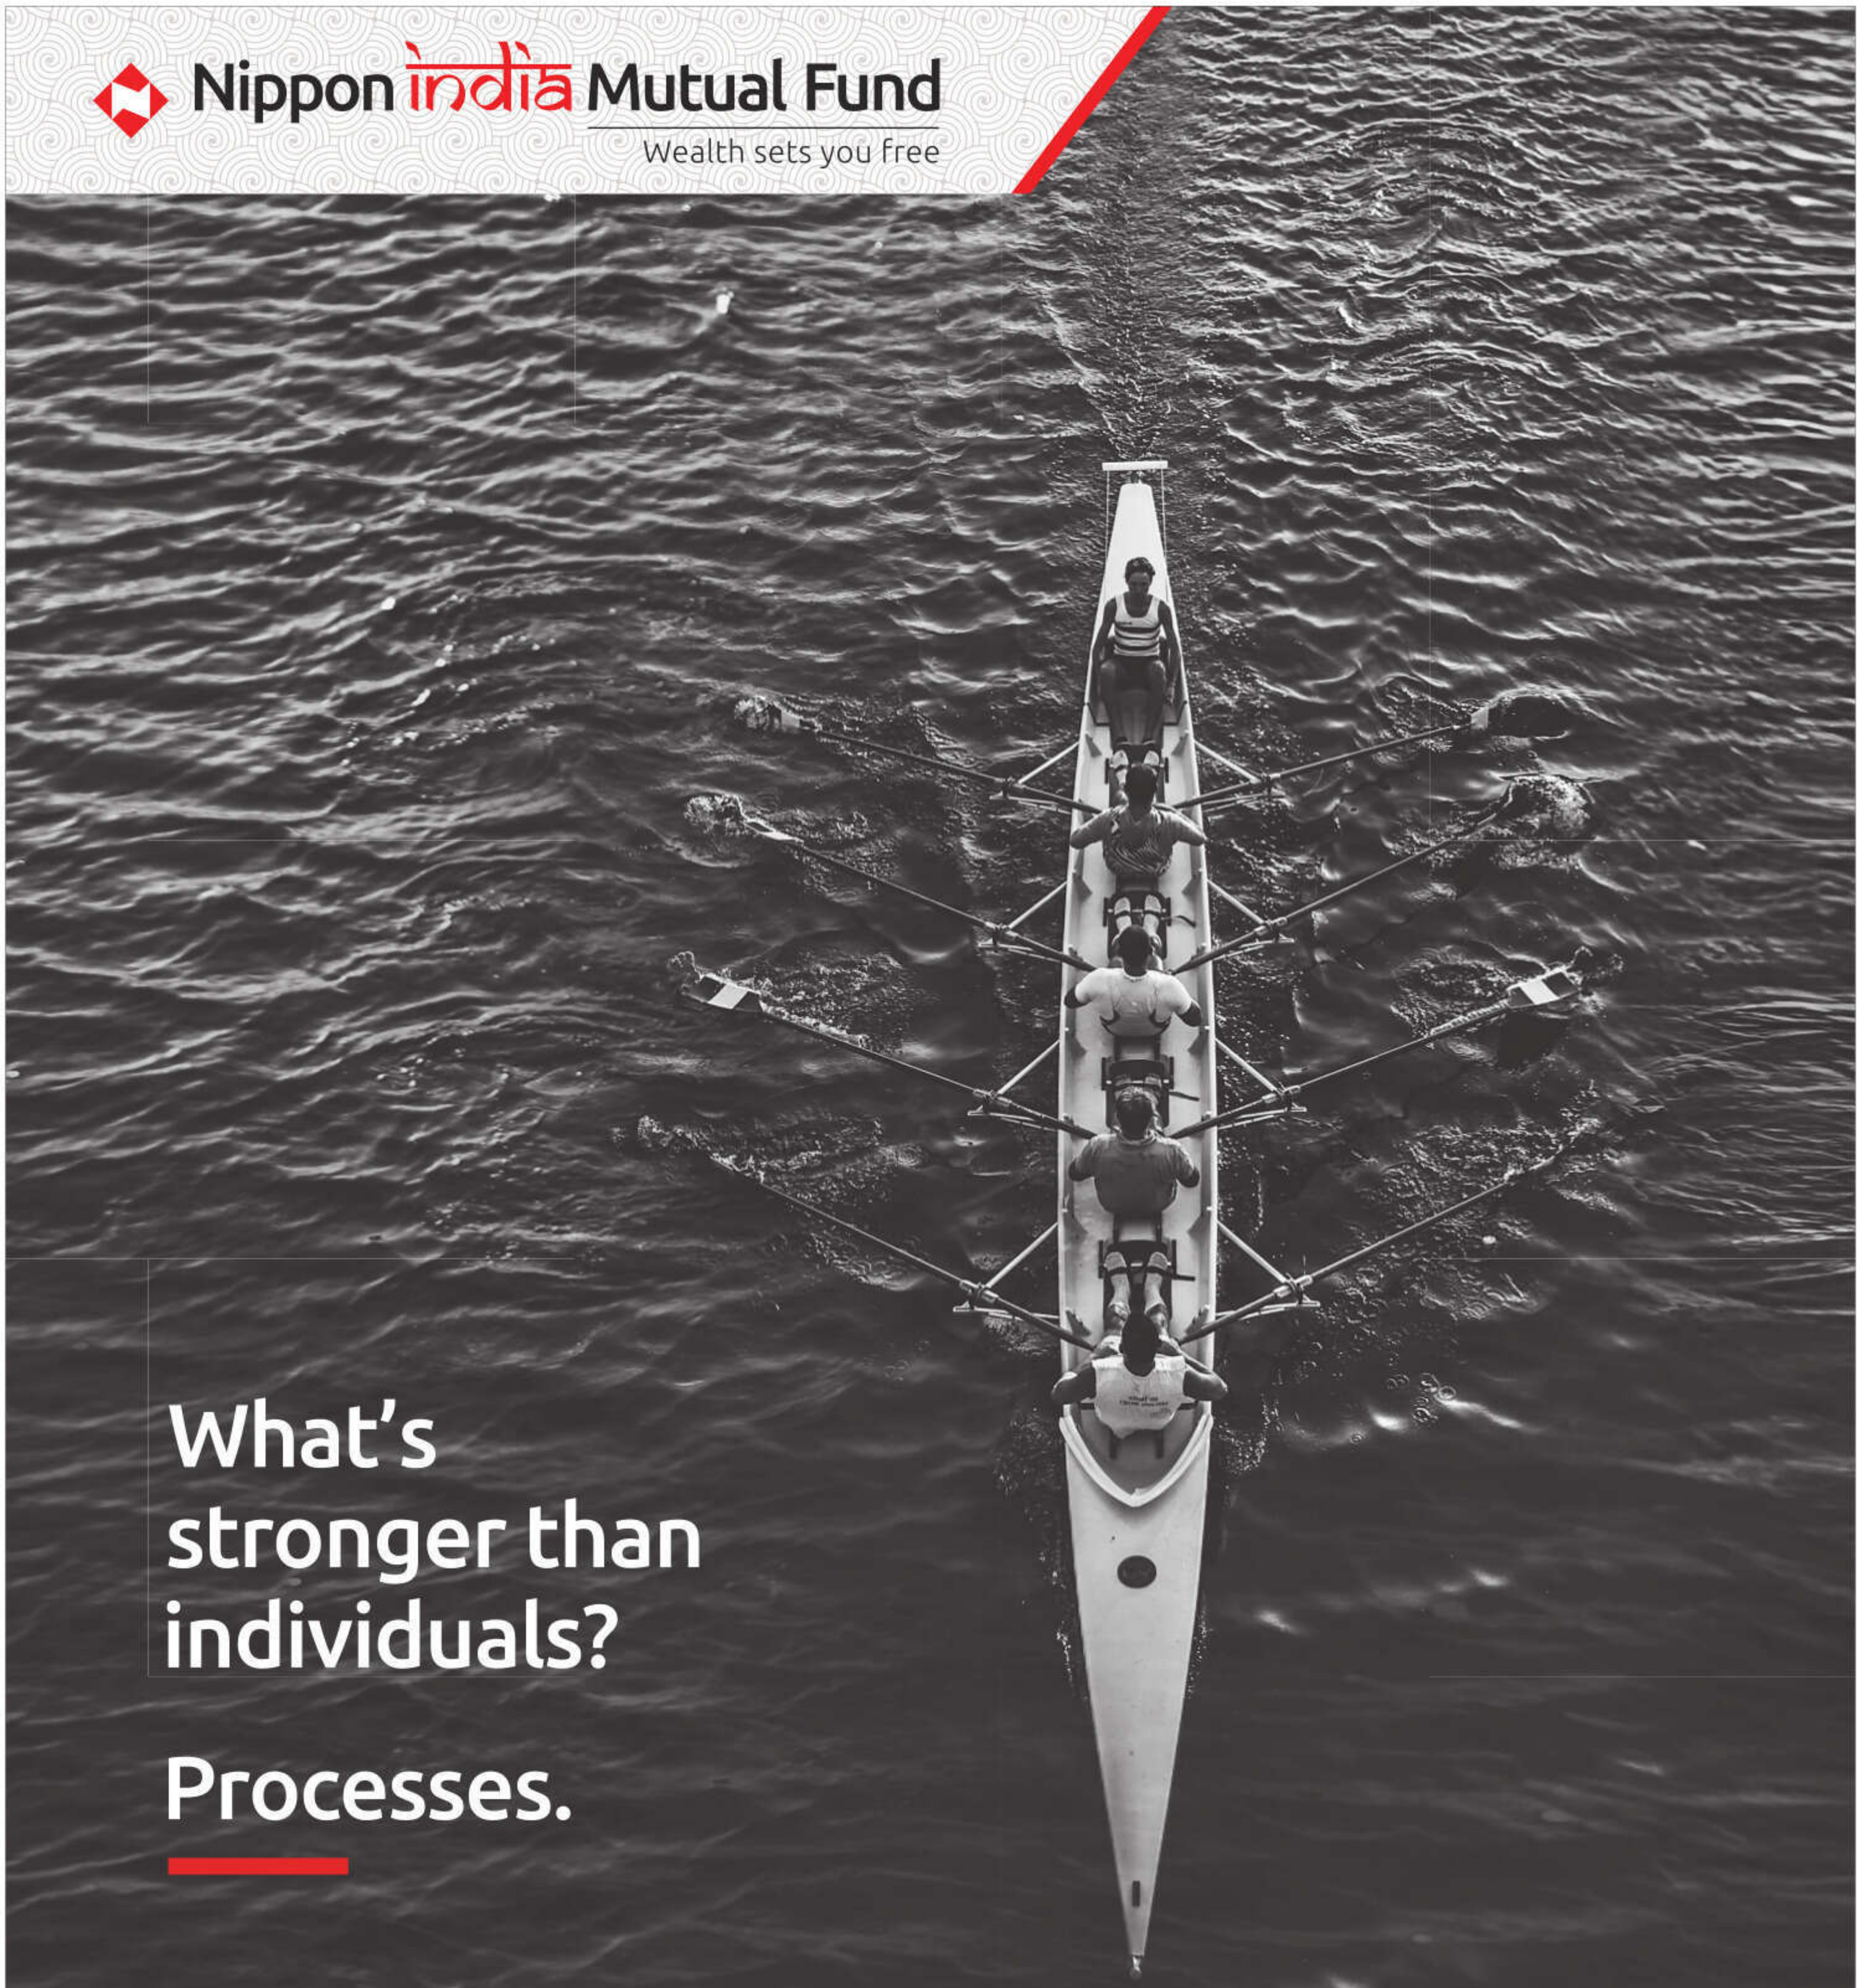

The industry argues that Heading 2106 is a residual category for food preparations not classified elsewhere, whereas Heading 2208 specifically covers spirits and includes a dedicated subheading for whisky. It says the size of the container does not change the essential character of the product. Industry fears that classification under HS 2106 would take qualifying bulk whisky outside the specific whisky tariff concessions.

Sivakumar Ramjee, executive director (indirect tax) at Nangia Global, said preferential duty treatment depends on the precise classification of the imported product. Alcoholic beverage concentrates classified under HSN 22071011 attract an initial preferential duty of 110%, compared with 75% for finished Scotch whisky under HSN 22083012 and 22083092. The duty on concentrates will progressively decline to 75%, while that on finished whisky will fall to 40% over nine instalments.

Ajay Srivastava of the Global Trade Research Initiative said CETA explicitly provides for bulk Scotch imports and does not restrict tariff benefits to retail bottles. Both categories qualify for the preferential rates, subject to rules of origin. He said the agreement's change-in-tariff-heading rule requires qualifying products to undergo the prescribed tariff shift. Simple dilution and bottling of imported high-strength alcohol or neutral grain spirit would not, by themselves, confer the UK origin. Scotch whisky must also meet the requirements of distillation and maturation in Scotland.

NEW AVIATION RULES TO TAKE EFFECT FROM JAN 1

Govt leaves airfares to market forces

NITIN KUMAR
New Delhi, November 1

THE GOVERNMENT HAS stopped short of imposing routine controls on airline ticket prices under the newly notified aviation rules, leaving fare-setting largely to market forces while retaining the power to intervene in extraordinary situations in the public interest.

The Bharatiya Vayuyan Niyam, 2026, notified by the Ministry of Civil Aviation on October 31, empower the Centre to issue directions to airlines if it believes an extraordinary situation has arisen. Such directions must be proportionate to the circumstances and can remain in force only for a specified period. The rules will come into effect from January 1, 2027.

The provision gives the government a regulatory lever to respond to exceptional fare movements, including sharp increases during periods of high demand or disruptions. However, the rules do not specify what would constitute an extraordinary situation, prescribe a threshold for intervention or establish a ceiling on ticket prices. They also do not provide a formula for determining what airlines can charge.

Under Rule 192, airlines will continue to establish tariffs based on factors including their cost of operation. Scheduled domestic operators will have to submit their established tariffs to the Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) in the form and at the intervals specified by the regulator. The DGCA will monitor these tariffs.

The rules also require all air transport undertakings to publish their tariffs on their websites or other digital platforms in a manner specified by the DGCA. Airlines will have to display the total amount payable by passengers, along with a detailed break-up of the fare, taxes, fees, cancellation charges, refund conditions and any other charges, separately on booking websites and tickets.

The disclosure requirement is aimed at improving transparency in ticket pricing and making it easier for passengers to understand the components of the amount they pay. The rules define fees as amounts payable to service providers for passenger facilities or services, while taxes are amounts payable to the government.

Notably, the final rules are less prescriptive on fare-setting than the draft framework circulated in July 2025. The earlier draft proposed a detailed methodology for airlines to determine fares, taking into account factors such as booking class, service characteristics, historical sector-wise yields, load factors, capacity, aviation turbine fuel prices and seasonality. It also proposed that airlines submit their pricing methodology and changes to it, along with justifications, to a Tariff Monitoring Unit of the DGCA.

From riders to rings

HOW TWO EX-ZOMATO EXECUTIVES BUILT A HEALTH TECH BUSINESS

ANEES HUSSAIN

IN 2019, MOHIT Kumar was not looking to start another company. After years building Zomato's food delivery business, he left with colleague Vatsal Singhal without a clear plan. A trip to a martial arts camp in Thailand changed that.

At Tiger Muay Thai in Phuket, Kumar noticed how fighters tracked glucose, sleep, heart rate and blood markers to improve performance. The information came from different devices and tests, with sports scientists piecing it together manually. Having spent years matching delivery riders with orders, Kumar recognised a familiar problem: disconnected data that could become useful when combined.

"Data is a phenomenal way to tell you what's missing," he says. The observation led to Ultrahuman, the health technology company Kumar and Singhal incorporated in Bengaluru in November 2019.

Its flagship smart ring tracks sleep, heart rate and other physiological signals, while its wider business combines wearable data with diagnostics to help users understand their health.

THE COMPANY OPENED ITS FIRST PERFORMANCE LAB IN BENGALURU IN MAY, AND PLANS TO EXPAND TO OTHER INDIAN CITIES AND OVERSEAS

The founders had previously worked together at Runnr, a Bengaluru delivery startup acquired by Zomato in September 2017 in an all-stock deal valued at about $20 million. Kumar later headed food delivery and ran Zomato's international delivery operations. When the two left in 2019, they had experience building technology around fragmented information, but no blueprint for a health business.

Ultrahuman initially developed an app offering workouts, meditation and sleep sessions using existing wearables. Kumar wanted to build its own device. Pandemic-related manufacturing constraints delayed that plan, so the company began with glucose monitoring.

Launched in India in 2021, its M1 product paired Abbott's FreeStyle Libre glucose sensor with Ultrahuman's software, helping users understand how meals, sleep and activity affected blood sugar. Nexus Venture Partners and Blume Ventures, both previous Runnr investors, provided an initial $8 million. A $17.5 million funding round followed in August 2021.

The next decision was where to place the wearable. The wrist was crowded, with Apple dominating smartwatches and Whoop building a subscription business around a screenless band. The ring offered an alternative. Finland-based Oura had established the category, but Kumar saw potential in a device comfortable enough to wear through the night, when continuous measurements can establish a baseline for changes in the body.

Ultrahuman launched its first ring in 2022, followed by the Ring AIR in June 2023. Weighing as little as 2.4 grams in its smallest size, it became the company's bestseller. Unlike Whoop and Oura, Ultrahuman sold the Ring AIR at a one-time price, including core features, while charging subscriptions for additional insights through PowerPlugs. It also built a factory in Bengaluru, initially producing about 20 rings a day.

The strategy delivered rapid growth. Operating revenue rose nearly fivefold to ₹564.7 crore in FY25 from ₹104.6 crore in FY24. The company reported a net profit of about ₹72 crore, against a loss of ₹37.7 crore a year earlier, although a tax benefit contributed to the improvement. The US accounted for about 61% of revenue.

That dependence became a vulnerability in August 2025, when a US International Trade Commission ruling in a patent dispute brought by Oura led to an import ban on the original Ring AIR. Ultrahuman redesigned the product to regain access. Its Ring PRO, unveiled in February 2026 with battery life of up to 15 days, received US import clearance in March.

The company raised $48 million in March and announced another $70 million financing round in September. Investors included Qualcomm Ventures, Labcorp, Alpha Wave, Blume Ventures and Nexus Venture Partners.

Legal uncertainty has returned. On October 22, Oura filed a fresh lawsuit in a Texas federal court, alleging that Ring PRO infringes two additional patents and seeking damages and an injunction against US sales. Ultrahuman has said it will contest the allegations and maintains that no court order currently restricts sales.

Kumar is expanding beyond wearables. Ultrahuman opened its first Performance Lab in Bengaluru in May, offering assessments covering blood markers, genetics, gut microbiome, bone density and physical fitness. It plans to expand to other Indian cities and overseas. In October, it signed an agreement with Abu Dhabi Public Health Centre to develop a biological-age model combining clinical biomarkers and wearable data.

Kumar calls FY26 a high investment year. Revenue is expected to grow 15-20%, below an earlier forecast of about ₹1,100 crore, and the company expects a loss. He expects it to move closer to profitability in FY27.

The larger bet is that a ring can become an entry point to a wider health platform spanning diagnostics, data and personalised services. Ultrahuman has built a global business from an observation at a training camp. Its challenge now is to make these businesses deliver sustainable growth without costs rising faster than revenue.

Servify eyes ₹2K-cr revenue in FY27

S SHANTHI
Bengaluru, November 1

SERVICE SURGE

- Revenue has grown at a 50% CAGR over 5 years, driven by operating leverage and scale
- Plans to expand across appliances, wearables, smart home and luxury goods

AFTER-SALES SERVICE startup Servify is targeting gross revenue of more than ₹2,000 crore in FY27, a 25% year-on-year (y-o-y) increase, after achieving Ebitda profitability for the first time in FY26. The company reported gross revenue of ₹1,660 crore in FY26, supported by operating leverage as its business scaled across brands, markets and product categories.

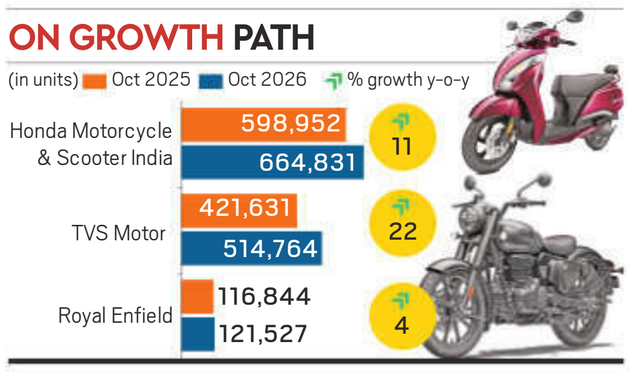

"Over the last five years, our gross revenue has grown at a compound annual rate of 50%, and in that period our operating expenses have not increased much proportionately, which is where the operating leverage in the model shows up," Sreevathsa Prabhakar, founder and CEO of Servify, told FE. The Mumbai-based company, founded in 2015, provides brand-authorised after-sales services for smartphones, electronics, gadgets and home appliances.

The company expects growth to come primarily from expanding its existing relationships with global brands and entering new product categories, rather than acquiring new customers. When a brand partners with Servify in one country or category, the company seeks to extend the relationship to other markets and services across the product lifecycle. It works with more than 75 brands, including Apple, Samsung, Bose and HP, and said it was ahead of its budget for FY27. Servify is also expanding into appliances, smart home products, wearables, lifestyle and luxury goods to increase its addressable market.

Two-wheeler sales gather pace in festive month

AKBAR MERCHANT
Mumbai, November 1

ON GROWTH PATH

TWO-WHEELER MANUFACTURERS reported year-on-year (y-o-y) growth in domestic dispatches in October 2026, led by TVS Motor Company, which posted a 22% increase. Honda Motorcycle & Scooter India (HMSI) recorded 11% growth, while Royal Enfield reported a more modest 4% rise.

TVS Motor's domestic two-wheeler dispatches rose to 514,764 units in October, against 421,631 units in the corresponding month last year. On a month-on-month basis, dispatches increased 6.8% from 482,073 units in September.

The company's electric two-wheeler business continued to gain traction, with dispatches more than doubling to 71,382 units in October from 32,387 units a year earlier. Shipments were also up 8.5% from 65,799 units in September, underlining the growing momentum in the electric mobility segment.

HMSI reported domestic sales of 664,831 units in October, compared with 598,952 units in the year-ago period, marking an 11% increase. Domestic sales accounted for the bulk of the company's volumes, supported by demand during the festive season. Royal Enfield recorded a 4% y-o-y increase in domestic dispatches to 121,527 units in October, compared with 116,844 units in October 2025.

Electric 2-wheeler sales hit record in October

NARAYANAN V
Chennai, November 1

INDIA'S ELECTRIC TWO-wheeler market scaled a fresh monthly sales record in October, with registrations rising 48% year-on-year (y-o-y), even as manufacturers struggled with rising raw material costs and capacity constraints. Demand continued to outstrip supply at several leading manufacturers.

Electric two-wheeler (E2W) registrations rose to 223,887 units in October, against 151,491 units a year earlier. Sales were up 7% from 208,707 units in September, according to the latest Vahan data. TVS Motor, Bajaj Auto and Ather Energy retained their positions as the country's three largest electric two-wheeler manufacturers, together accounting for 63% of the market.

TVS Motor, the country's largest E2W seller, nearly doubled its sales year-on-year to 60,433 units. Bajaj Auto held on to the second position, with sales rising 51% y-o-y to 49,068 units. Its market share remained steady at 22%.

VAIBHAV GUPTA, CO-FOUNDER AND CEO, UDAAN

'We will exit FY27 as a profitable company'

Udaan returned to growth in FY26, with revenue rising 12% to ₹5,100 crore and net loss narrowing to ₹850 crore. After years of losses, the B2B commerce platform has shifted from a marketplace to an inventory-led food and grocery business, focusing on city-based clusters. Co-founder and CEO Vaibhav Gupta, discusses with Anees Hussain, the company's turnaround, competition from quick commerce and its path to profitability. Excerpts:

Quick commerce players are looking at tier-2 cities and beyond. Does this threaten Udaan's business?

No. General trade in the top 10 cities has grown 7-8% annually over the past two to three years, even as quick commerce expanded. The latter is taking share largely from modern trade, or standalone supermarkets. There are two Indias, affluent and mass, and one is not simply turning into the other. The mass consumer buys loose atta and Rs 10 toothpaste from the kirana, not branded products through quick commerce.

What gives Udaan an edge in this market?

Our supply chain is built for mass India. Quick commerce platforms serve the affluent, DMart caters to value-seekers, while we serve the mass market. Each requires a different assortment, supply chain and cost structure. We are the only company with a cost model that allows us to serve small shopkeepers profitably, factoring in sales, delivery and credit costs.

Udaan was once seen as a B2B marketplace that struggled to make money. What went wrong, and what changed?

We expanded believing scale would eventually bring profitability. That was a mistake. We were a marketplace where anyone could sell anything, but realised we needed to build a deeper, first-party business. Since kiranas represent India's largest retail market, we chose food and grocery. Around 2021-22, we shifted to city-based clusters focused on density and throughput. The strategy has worked, first in Bengaluru and now across our operating cities.

Where do you stand on profitability?

All our cities are profitable this quarter, across 11 clusters and around 18-20 cities. Bengaluru and Mysuru achieved this a quarter or two earlier. We will exit FY27 as a profitable company, with FY28 being our first full year of profitability.

With profitability in sight, what growth are you targeting?

We are targeting 25% annual growth. All 11 clusters have grown consistently for 16 quarters. In Bengaluru, we have around 8% of the kirana market and are growing 25-30% annually, against market growth of 7-8%. We believe we can eventually reach 20-25% market share in individual cities. Profitability will not change our growth plans.

WE EXPANDED BELIEVING SCALE WOULD EVENTUALLY BRING PROFITABILITY. THAT WAS A MISTAKE

Hotel, restaurant and cafe (HoReCa) now contributes significantly to revenue. How big can this business become?

It accounts for around 20% of revenue, rising to 27-28% in Bengaluru and about 20% in Hyderabad. We are rolling it out across all clusters this quarter and expect it to contribute a third of our business over the next couple of years. Our strength is serving smaller restaurants. Nearly 90% of Bengaluru's 45,000 restaurants are small establishments, and our existing supply chain enables us to serve them efficiently.

How much headroom is there for private labels?

In staples, we expect private labels to account for 70-80% of sales. Much of what kiranas sell is unbranded, and retailers prioritise consistent quality, availability and pricing. As a large aggregator of staples demand, we work with millers to develop specifications for commodities such as rice and atta. Private labels generate twice the margins of market brands. We do not intend to acquire millers but work with the right partners to scale.

What does the Lynk Logistics acquisition bring to Udaan?

Udaan operates in wholesale, buying inventory and selling it to retailers. Lynk, acquired from Swiggy's FMCG distribution business for Rs 500 crore in a share swap, gives us the distribution model, through which brands appoint distributors to reach kiranas. It also brings brand relationships and a retailer network, with considerable overlap in our operating cities and potential cost advantages.

Where do you see opportunities for expansion?

Our model can work in cities with more than 100,000 people, where we need 300-400 shops within a 5-10 km radius. We are also experimenting with towns with fewer than 50,000 people, including those with populations below 20,000, where we see rural demand. We are still working on the right operating model for these markets.

La Quanta: Turning complex industrial challenges into engineering solutions

From industrial automation to large-scale process plant engineering, Pune-based La Quanta Technology is building its reputation on technical expertise, practical problem-solving and customer-focused execution. The company's origins reflect its founder, C.V. Subhashchandra's extensive experience in process control, instrumentation, project engineering and commissioning

In industrial engineering, the success of a project often depends on the ability to simplify complex technical challenges while ensuring reliability, efficiency and cost-effectiveness. For Pune-based La Quanta Technology, this philosophy has been central to its journey since its establishment in 2017.

Founded by instrumentation professional C. V. Subhashchandra, the company has evolved from a venture focused on industrial automation into an engineering, procurement and construction (EPC) organisation serving critical industrial sectors.

The company's origins reflect its founder's extensive experience in process control, instrumentation, project engineering and commissioning. With more than two decades of industry exposure before establishing the venture, Subhashchandra brought a practical understanding of the challenges involved in operating and maintaining continuous-process plants.

A technocrat and troubleshooter by inclination, he recognised the need for engineering solutions that combine technical rigour with simplicity, reliability and commercial viability.

From automation to integrated engineering

La Quanta Technology's capabilities extend across industrial automation, detailed engineering, systems integration, instrumentation, electrical systems and mechanical equipment. Its work encompasses the engineering and execution of complex process plants, supported by procurement, erection, pre-commissioning, commissioning and ongoing operations and maintenance.

The company has developed particular expertise in air separation units (ASUs), hydrogen plants and high-purity nitrogen (HPN) systems. Its experience includes the commissioning of air separation plants with capacities of up to 2,400 tonnes per day, alongside plant start-ups and round-the-clock operations and maintenance services.

By combining engineering expertise with lifecycle support, La Quanta Technology seeks to address not only the installation of industrial systems but also their sustained performance. Its services include process automation, control system design, troubleshooting, plant modifications and operational support, helping clients address technical issues while maintaining process continuity and efficiency.

The company's experience is underpinned by Subhashchandra's earlier responsibilities involving technical support for numerous air separation plants across India.

His professional background also includes instrumentation standardisation, flow-meter

La Quanta Technology Pvt Ltd
Make Solution Simple

design, hazard and operability studies, and exposure to technology-transfer initiatives.

International technical visits to South Korea and the United States further contributed to his understanding of oxygen separation and steam methane reformer-based hydrogen technologies.

A customer-first approach

A defining feature of La Quanta Technology's approach is its emphasis on vendor-neutral procurement. By evaluating technology and equipment according to project requirements rather than allegiance to a particular brand, the company aims to identify suitable solutions for individual applications. This approach is complemented by product standardisation, specification-compliance expertise, vendor development and cost-conscious project execution.

The company also supports original equipment manufacturers through electrical control design and manufacturing, including private-label solutions and volume panel production. Its capabilities in programmable logic controllers (PLCs), supervisory control and data acquisition (SCADA), networking and remote monitoring enable it to serve a range of industrial applications.

For Subhashchandra, however, technology alone does not define a successful business. Talent, honesty and accountability remain equally important, particularly in procurement and project delivery.

The company also places importance on customer feedback, service improvement and long-term relationships. In an industry where trust is earned through performance, word-of-mouth recommendations remain a valuable source of credibility.

Building for the next phase

From its beginnings in 2017, La Quanta Technology has grown into an organisation employing more than 200 technical people, with a team spanning engineering, project execution, operations and support. The company's association with industrial organisations, including JSW and Rungta Mines, reflects its engagement with demanding industrial environments.

Looking ahead, La Quanta Technology is exploring opportunities across oil and gas, steel, ports and other industrial segments. As industries increasingly seek integrated, efficient and dependable engineering support, the company intends to build on its experience in automation, process engineering and plant operations.

Its mission remains straightforward: simplify complex problems, deliver cost-effective solutions and provide dependable customer service. For La Quanta Technology, sustainable growth rests on combining technical knowledge with execution discipline—and on ensuring that every engineering solution delivers practical value to the customer.

Our journey is guided by a vision to develop world-class engineering solutions in India and create technologies that deliver tangible value to our customers. Every challenge drives innovation, every project enhances our capabilities, and every achievement inspires us to set higher goals.

COMBINED ENTITY EYES $700M FY28 REVENUE

Affle 3i set to acquire Perion for $420 million

FE BUREAU
New Delhi, November 1

AFFLE 3I, FORMERLY Affle India, on Sunday announced the acquisition of Israeli advertising technology company Perion Network for an equity value of approximately $420 million (₹3,780 crore) in an all-cash transaction, as the Indian company looks to expand its presence in developed markets and strengthen its capabilities beyond mobile advertising.

Affle's Israel-based step-down subsidiary, Affle 3iL, has signed a definitive agreement to acquire all outstanding shares of Perion at $11.70 per share.

Headquartered in Tel Aviv, Perion has a strong presence in North America and offers advertising solutions across retail media, connected TV (CTV), digital out-of-home (DOOH) and other digital channels.

The acquisition will complement Affle's strength in mobile marketing and performance-led consumer conversions, expanding its reach across the consumer advertising journey. The combined platform will serve advertisers across more than 100 countries, according to the company.

Affle's business model is based on cost per converted user (CPCU), under which advertisers pay for measurable consumer actions rather than merely impressions or clicks. The company plans to leverage this model and its AI-powered technology to improve the performance of Perion's advertising business, including enabling advertisers to track conversions from connected television and outdoor digital advertising to retail purchases. It also expects technology and data synergies, along with a review of Perion's business contracts, to improve profitability.

Perion had no financial debt and held cash of approximately $228 million as of September 30, 2026. Affle plans to finance the acquisition through a combination of committed bank financing and available cash resources. It expects to remain net debt-free immediately after the transaction and achieve a revenue run rate of more than $700 million in FY28.

The company expects the acquisition to become earnings per share accretive by the end of the first year following completion.

The transaction has been approved by the boards of both companies and is subject to regulatory clearances and approval by Perion shareholders.

The agreement also provides for a go-shop period during which Perion can consider alternative acquisition proposals. The deal is expected to close in early 2027. Following completion, Perion will operate as a wholly owned subsidiary of Affle, retain its existing brand and be delisted from Nasdaq and the Tel Aviv Stock Exchange.

MARKET EXPANSION

- Affle 3i will acquire Israeli ad-tech firm Perion Network in an all-cash deal
- The acquisition will strengthen Affle's presence in developed markets, particularly North America

- Perion brings capabilities in retail media, connected TV (CTV), digital out-of-home and other digital channels
- The combined platform will serve advertisers across more than 100 countries
- The deal, approved by both boards, awaits regulatory and shareholder clearances

Bosch eyes double-digit AC mkt share

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
New Delhi, November 1

EUROPEAN HEATING AND cooling solutions provider Bosch Home Comfort Group, which plans to launch Bosch-branded air conditioners next year, is eyeing a double-digit market share over the next two years, said its Managing Director Sanjay Sudhakaran.

The company is targeting to secure a place among the top five brands in the medium term, he added.

Bosch Home Comfort Group, part of German engineering major Bosch GmbH, is accelerating its India expansion strategy through a dual-brand approach. It acquired the global residential and light-commercial air-conditioning business of Johnson Controls and Hitachi in August 2025,

According to the strategy, it is positioning Hitachi in the mainstream and mass-premium segments and Bosch in the performance-premium and super-premium categories to tap different cohorts of the consumer groups, Sudhakaran told PTI in an interview.

Besides, Bosch Home Comfort is strengthening its long-term commitment to India with plans to invest 80 million euros (around ₹900 crore) over the next few years to expand manufacturing capacity, increase localisation and strengthen its engineering and testing capabilities.

Dream big, embrace AI: HCL co-founder to ICFAI graduates

FE BUREAU
New Delhi, November 1

"WHEN YOUR ASPIRATION is fiercely defined, the resources will follow," said Ajai Chowdhry, Co-Founder of HCL, while addressing the 16th Convocation of the ICFAI Foundation for Higher Education (IFHE), Hyderabad, where over 4,000 students received degrees.

Delivering the convocation address as Chief Guest, Chowdhry urged graduates to dream beyond their comfort zones and embrace artificial intelligence as a tool for growth rather than a threat. Recalling HCL's journey from its founding by six engineers with limited resources in 1975, he emphasised that ambition, innovation and continuous learning were essential for success.

University Chancellor C Rangarajan described graduates as "incoming leaders of change" and called for strengthening India's economic resilience amid growing global trade uncertainties. He stressed the importance of domestic manufacturing, technological advancement, infrastructure development and innovation to enhance India's competitiveness. Presenting the annual report, Vice Chancellor PA Vinay Kumar highlighted the university's achievements in academics, research and industry engagement during 2025–26.

Honorary doctorates were conferred on Chowdhry and AIG Hospitals Chairman D Nageshwar Reddy, who encouraged graduates to innovate and contribute to nation-building.

The convocation also recognised outstanding academic achievements. Tandra Sai Akesh received the NJ Yasaswy Award for all-round MBA excellence, while Yagnamurthy Kalyan Kumar secured the Gold Medal for Academic Excellence.

The ceremony celebrated academic accomplishment while inspiring graduates to pursue innovation, leadership and national progress.

Digi Yatra trials begin on select international IndiGo flights

AKBAR MERCHANT
Mumbai, November 1

INDIGO AND DIGI YATRA have initiated trials to enable contactless international departures at seven Indian airports.

The beta trials, which commenced in late October, will run through December 2026 and cover Delhi, Bengaluru, Hyderabad, Cochin, Mumbai, Chennai and Amritsar.

The initiative aims to make international departures more seamless by allowing eligible passengers to use biometric authentication at select airport touchpoints.

Indian nationals holding valid electronic passports (e-passports) travelling on select international IndiGo flights can participate in the trials. The system enables passengers to use digital identity verification at terminal entry, security hold areas and boarding gates.

To participate, travellers must generate an international digital identity through the Digi Yatra app on their smartphones. This involves scanning the machine-readable zone (MRZ) of their e-passport and using near-field communication (NFC) to read its embedded chip.

Following biometric verification, a secure verifiable credential is stored locally in the passenger's smartphone wallet.

FOREIGN INVESTORS SELL ₹5,615 CR OF BONDS, EXTENDING STREAK TO THIRD MONTH

FPIs lose appetite for G-Secs

CHRISTINA TITUS
Mumbai, November 1

FOREIGN PORTFOLIO INVESTORS (FPIs) remained net sellers of Indian government securities for the third consecutive month in October, as elevated US treasury yields, geopolitical uncertainty and concerns over the rupee continued to dampen investor appetite.

FPIs sold a net ₹5,615 crore of government securities under the fully accessible route (FAR) during October, compared with net sales of ₹10,602 crore in September, according to data from the Clearing Corporation of India.

FPI holdings in government securities fell to ₹3.56 lakh crore as of October 31, their lowest level in five months.

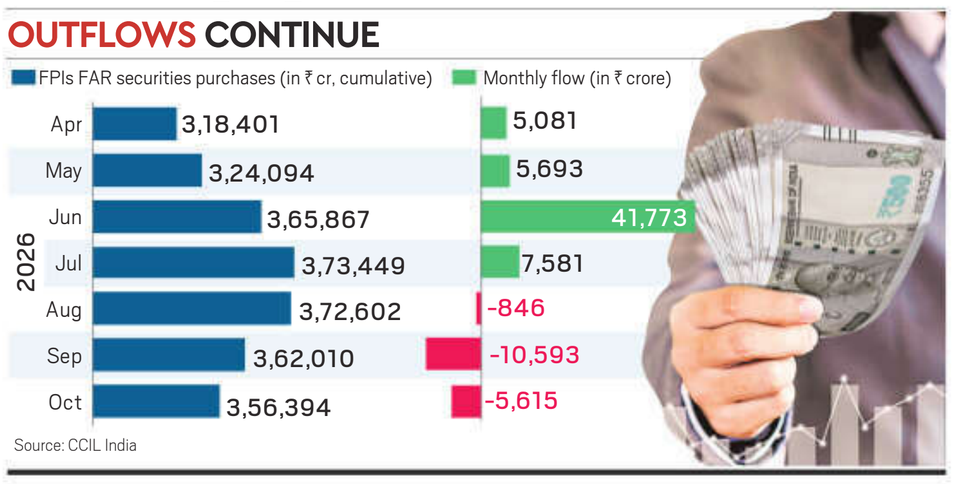

Higher US Treasury yields have made dollar-denominated assets more attractive, prompting foreign investors to trim their exposure to emerging-market debt, including Indian bonds.

"The continued FPI selling through the FAR route reflects concerns around elevated crude prices, rupee depreciation, rising US Treasury yields and uncertainty over India's interest-rate trajectory. Although the India-US 10-year yield differential has widened beyond 250 bps, this alone may not be sufficient to attract foreign investors," said Kunal Sodhani, treasury head at Shinhan Bank.

The US 10-year Treasury yield hovered around 5.25% for much of October, close to a two-decade high, before easing to 4.93% on Friday. India's benchmark 10-year government bond yield, meanwhile, closed at 7.41%, widening the yield differential between the two to 248 basis points from 195 bps at the beginning of the month.

The Reserve Bank of India's recent rate hike and expectations of further tightening have also pushed domestic bond yields higher, exposing existing investors to mark-to-market losses.

"The recent RBI rate hike and expectations of further tightening have pushed domestic bond yields higher, but investors are also facing mark-to-market losses on existing holdings. Additionally, currency depreciation and hedging costs can significantly erode the attractive yield differential," Sodhani added.

Market participants expect foreign selling to moderate if the rupee stabilises, crude oil prices ease, global bond yields soften and greater clarity emerges on the RBI's interest-rate trajectory.

"Despite narrowing, the yield differential between US and Indian bonds remains insufficient to attract significant foreign inflows into debt markets. I remain cautious about debt inflows, as the rupee's recent stability may be short-lived given persistent underlying risks. Elevated crude oil prices also continue to weigh on the market," said Madhavankutty G, chief economist at Canara Bank.

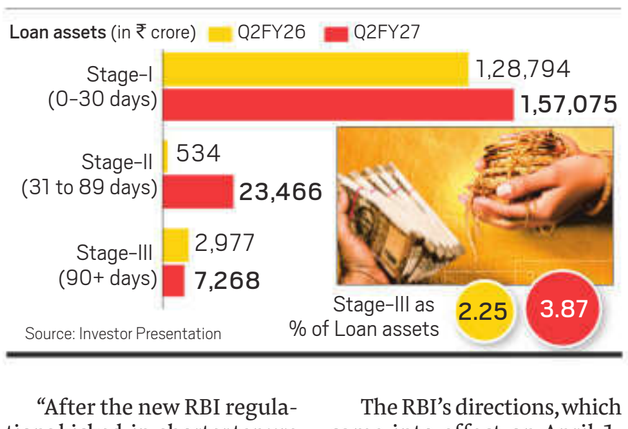

Despite three consecutive months of selling, FPIs remain net buyers of government securities in FY27, with cumulative inflows of ₹43,075 crore. These were driven largely by strong purchases in June and July following the government's tax concessions for overseas investors and the RBI's expansion of the FAR universe to include long-dated government bonds.

Short-tenure loans, monthly EMIs drive up gold loan NPAs, says Muthoot Finance MD

NARAYANAN V
Chennai, November 1

THE INTRODUCTION OF short-tenure gold loans and monthly EMI schemes following the RBI's new gold loan guidelines has led to a spike in non-performing assets (NPAs) in Muthoot Finance's gold loan portfolio, the company said.

The country's largest gold loan NBFC reported more than a two-fold increase in Stage 3 assets, comprising loans overdue by more than 90 days, to ₹7,267 crore in the September 2026 quarter from ₹2,977 crore in the year-ago period. Stage 3 assets rose to 3.87% of loan assets from 2.25% in September 2025. Stage 2 assets, comprising loans overdue by 31-89 days, surged to ₹23,467 crore from ₹534 crore in the same quarter last year.

"After the new RBI regulations kicked-in, shorter tenure loans and interest servicing schemes started. Since these loans require monthly interest payments, failure to pay can fall into Stage 2 & 3 buckets," Alexander George Muthoot, MD, Muthoot Finance, said.

The RBI's directions, which came into effect on April 1, replaced the earlier uniform 75% loan-to-value (LTV) cap with a tiered structure of 85% for loans below ₹2.5 lakh, 80% for loans up to ₹5 lakh and 75% for loans above ₹5 lakh. The revised norms also require lenders to classify gold loans based on their end use as income-generating (productive) or consumption (non-productive) loans, while permitting monthly EMI-based repayment schemes in addition to bullet repayment.

"Customers are new to a regular interest servicing scheme as it never existed in the gold loan industry earlier," Muthoot said. He added that the company was leveraging its network of 5,000 branches and 32,000 employees to sensitise customers about regular payments. "This is one of the transformation phases. We need to educate the customers as well as manage the higher level of Stage 2 & 3."

Other NBFCs, including Shriram Finance and Bajaj Finance, had earlier also flagged higher slippages in their gold loan portfolios following the shift towards shorter-tenure and EMI-based products.

Muthoot Finance, however, believes the increase in overdue loans during the transition to the new repayment structure may not translate entirely into defaults. The management said nearly ₹3,000 crore of its Stage 3 assets represented second or third loan accounts of borrowers whose other accounts remained in Stage 1 or 2. Since the company follows borrower-wise classification, all such accounts are clubbed under Stage 3.

The lender also pointed to the relatively low LTV ratios of 53% for Stage 3 assets and 72% for Stage 2 assets, which it said provided an adequate cushion against gold price corrections and potential defaults.

'Further rate hikes may hit housing loan demand'

LIC Housing Finance is diversifying its portfolio towards non-housing loans to broaden its revenue streams, its Managing Director and Chief Executive, Sandeep Kumar, said. In an interview with Christina Titus and Abhijit Lele, he said the lender expects to maintain margins at 2.5–2.6%, supported by the rate hike. Excerpts:

Net interest income growth was relatively muted this quarter (Q2FY27). Could you explain the factors behind this?
Rising costs and declining yields are the key pressures behind the flat growth. However, we expect an improvement going forward through a better product mix and a greater focus on higher-margin businesses such as Lease Rental Discounting (LRD), Loan Against Property (LAP) and project lending.

What is your margin outlook amid a rate-hike cycle?
Last quarter, our margin was 2.58%, compared with 2.62% in the corresponding quarter last year.
We have guided for a margin of 2.50–2.60% for FY27, and we expect to remain within that range. Following the rate hike, we have also decided to increase lending rates by 25 basis points across both new loans and the existing portfolio, with immediate effect. This will also support our margins.

How are higher interest rates likely to impact demand going forward?
Since rates are rising across the industry, we do not expect the current hike to materially affect our competitive position. Further increases could eventually impact the mortgage and related businesses, but we are not seeing any signs of a slowdown in the sector at present.

What is your disbursement target for FY27?
For disbursements, we have guided for 12–14% growth. Within this, project lending, which currently accounts for a small base, is expected to grow by over 100%, with a target of ₹2,000 crore for this financial year. It is already growing at about 150%. We have changed our strategy and are now focusing on smaller projects with ticket sizes of ₹50–100 crore.
Our current focus is on project lending, and we are also exploring inorganic growth through portfolio acquisitions, such as pool purchases. Retail lending is expected to grow by around 11.7%.

With your diversification into non-housing loans, what share of the portfolio do you expect them to contribute?
Over the past two quarters, we have begun diversifying our product mix into areas such as Loan Against Property (LAP) and Lease Rental Discounting (LRD).
Our strategy is to increase LAP to 20% of the retail portfolio, which should improve margins and reduce our dependence on customer lending, where competition from banks is intensifying.

How is the affordable housing segment performing currently?
We are considering entering the affordable housing segment, but this would require setting up a dedicated vertical within the company. It is still at the planning stage, but we expect to make some progress on this front next year.

You have challenged the NCLT's approval of Subhash Chandra's repayment plan. Is there any update on the matter?
The matter is sub judice. We have already filed complaints against personal guarantor Subhash Chandra in two cases. However, since the matter is now before the CBI, I cannot comment further. We will share any further developments.

A significant portion of this quarter's net profit appears to have come from provision reversals. What is your outlook for recoveries in the second half of the year?
We expect recoveries in Q3 and Q4 to help bring our gross NPA ratio down to 1.9% by the end of Q4, from the current level of nearly 2%.

Building future-ready highways: Why quality assurance matters

As the national highway network is developed & upgraded, focus on quality becomes as important as the pace of construction. This requires quality to be embedded across the infrastructure lifecycle—from design and material selection to construction, independent verification & maintenance, writes Bhavik Vora

5,313 km
OF NATIONAL HIGHWAYS BUILT IN FY2025-26

HIGHWAY DESIGN & QUALITY ASSESSMENT NEED TO CONSIDER ANTICIPATED TRAFFIC LOADS & FUTURE TRAFFIC GROWTH AS HIGHER USAGE CAN IMPACT STRUCTURAL PERFORMANCE OVER TIME

● What is the role of NHAI's Quality Assurance Manual?

THE TRUE VALUE of a highway lies not only in its timely completion, but also in its safety, durability and ability to deliver reliable service throughout its intended life. The National Highway Authority of India's (NHAI) Quality Assurance Manual (QAM), together with applicable Ministry of Road Transport and Highways (MoRTH) specifications, Indian Roads Congress (IRC) standards and project-specific contractual requirements, provides the foundation for this. The QAM establishes a structured framework for quality assurance in highway projects, defining the procedures, responsibilities, documentation and acceptance criteria that guide the delivery of construction works. The framework is implemented through defined responsibilities for contractors, developers, independent engineers, supervising consultants and authority. The effectiveness of this framework ultimately depends on its integration into everyday project decisions. Quality should be considered at the planning stage, monitored throughout construction and verified before work is accepted, rather than treated as a final-stage compliance exercise.

● How does the quality-assurance framework work?

THE FRAMEWORK PROVIDES the structure through which construction quality is planned, monitored, tested and documented. Project-specific quality plans translate applicable requirements into quality plans and defined responsibilities, approval and testing of construction materials, inspection and testing at different stages of construction, recording and documentation of test results, identification and rectification of work that does not meet the prescribed quality standards, and supervision or independent verification. Individual test results provide an important control but need to form part of a wider process covering material approvals, supervision, documentation and corrective action. Depending on the construction type and activity, applicable MoRTH and IRC specifications prescribe tests covering soil, aggregates, bitumen, concrete and other materials, together with workmanship and completed pavement layers.

● Why is multi-tier quality control key?

HIGHWAY CONSTRUCTION INVOLVES large sites, multiple material sources, contractors, subcontractors and laboratories, with work progressing simultaneously across locations. Multiple levels of review can provide complementary checks through contractor quality controls, contractual supervision and NHAI monitoring. Quality control establishes whether specific materials, tests or work meet applicable requirements; quality assurance considers whether the wider processes, people and oversight can consistently deliver compliant work and address deviations. Independent verification can add further assurance where specialist assessment is required.

● Can tech improve quality assurance?

DIGITAL INSPECTION AND test records, GIS and geotagging can improve traceability and help identify repeated deviations or areas requiring greater scrutiny. NHAI's October 2026 initiative for special quality inspections of 17 under-construction highway projects with tender discounts exceeding 15% is an example of targeted monitoring. The selected projects are being examined against approved drawings, technical specifications, contractual conditions and project-specific quality plans, with follow-up inspections to assess compliance and corrective action. Such risk-based scrutiny can complement routine supervision. However, digital monitoring is only as useful as the information captured at project sites; sound engineering, credible testing and effective supervision remain essential.

● Why does quality matter for traffic growth & asset longevity?

BETTER QUALITY HIGHWAY can support efficient tolling operations via smoother / higher traffic movement by reducing avoidable stopping and delay, faster vehicle turnaround times, etc. Increase in toll revenue also helps in reducing tolls over the period; especially closer to the end of concession periods where road developers have already collected their estimated revenue earlier than planned and reduce the need of extensions in concession periods due to lack of traffic. The assets must therefore be designed and maintained for actual operating conditions. Drainage, weather exposure and water ingress are equally important, while lower initial construction cost may not represent better value if it leads to more frequent repairs or earlier rehabilitation.

● What needs to happen next?

THE PRIORITY IS to improve consistency of application and connect construction quality more closely with subsequent asset performance. Five areas merit attention: more risk-based oversight, stronger digital traceability, continued capability development, linking construction quality to subsequent asset performance, and reduction in tolling / concession periods.

Firm, not arbitrary

Evasion must be penalised, but a 12-year look-back demand must rest on evidence and statutory limits

THE ₹11,526-CRORE CUSTOMS duty demand against Škoda Auto Volkswagen India raises questions that go well beyond the classification of imported automobile components. At the heart of the dispute is the tax department's allegation that the company split imports of components that should have been treated as completely knocked-down (CKD) kits, to pay lower customs duty. If established, such a practice would amount to circumventing the prescribed duty structure and must invite action. The government cannot overlook deliberate misclassification or revenue leakage. However, a demand covering imports dating back to March 2012 also tests the limits of belated tax assessments and the certainty businesses can expect from the country's tax administration. Enforcement and predictability must go hand in hand.

Volkswagen's defence rests partly on a clarification issued by the Department of Revenue in March 2011 on the treatment of imported components. It said standalone imports of pre-assembled engines, gearboxes, and other components, outside CKD-kit operations, would attract 10% basic customs duty. It did not exempt CKD kits from the higher duty, for which the government had specified separate conditions. Nevertheless, the clarification is relevant because Volkswagen maintains that its import arrangements followed the government's own interpretation of the rules. The crucial question is whether its actual practices were consistent with what the clarification permitted. If the company fully disclosed its arrangements and met the stated conditions, the department must explain why it now considers that interpretation inapplicable. Equally, Volkswagen cannot take shelter behind the clarification if its transactions fell outside its scope.

The other important issue is limitation. Under Section 28 of the Customs Act, the normal period for recovering duty is two years, extendable to five years only in cases involving collusion, wilful misstatement, or suppression of facts. The department must first establish these statutory grounds convincingly. Volkswagen says the demand reaches back nearly 12 years, more than twice even the extended period, making this a substantive legal question. The Bombay High Court, which had earlier reserved its judgment, released the matter in August 2026, and the case is now being heard afresh. The earlier bench had sought an explanation from the department on limitation but made no final determination. The fresh proceedings must now settle whether the demand can legally cover such a long period. Allowing tax authorities to revisit transactions indefinitely would defeat the purpose of limitation periods and leave businesses exposed to liabilities long after commercial decisions have been taken.

The dispute also comes as Volkswagen explores a proposed partnership with the JSW Group, making the potential liability relevant to the arrangement's valuation and structure. More broadly, it bears on the government's efforts to attract global manufacturers and encourage long-term investment in domestic production. Investors must be held accountable for complying with the law, but they must also be able to rely on clearly communicated tax rules and their consistent application. The government is justified in pursuing revenue where it believes duties have been evaded, but it must show that its demands are evidence-based and legally sustainable. The sheer size of a demand is no substitute for proof of wrongdoing. The outcome of this case will therefore matter well beyond one company and one industry. Tax administration must be firm on compliance, but equally disciplined in exercising its powers. Predictability in taxation is not a concession to business; it is essential for a credible investment environment.

CLIMATE POLITICS

TRADE RESTRICTIONS BEST NOT DISCUSSED AT COP31, MUST BE INSTEAD ADDRESSED AT DEDICATED FORUMS

A necessary trade-off

AMITENDU PALIT

Senior Research Fellow and Research Lead (trade and economics), Institute of South Asian Studies, National University of Singapore

THE CONFERENCE OF the Parties (COP) 31 convenes in Türkiye during November 9-20. The most important global gathering on environment and climate change is under pressure to deliver meaningful solutions. Beyond the urgencies to streamline use of fossil fuels and accelerate access to climate, COP will have to negotiate the heat building up over unilateral climate-driven trade restrictions.

Over the last three-four years, the climate-trade nexus has become significant in global environment conversations. The debate over these measures has become fierce after the European Union (EU) rolled out its Carbon Border Adjustment Mechanism (CBAM). The CBAM comprises the world's first carbon tariffs and is expected to be followed by more such measures from the G7 and Organisation of Economic Co-operation and Development countries.

Trade and climate have never been mutually compatible. Aggressive pursuit of trade has often been accompanied with loss of natural resources, especially forest cover and marine resources. Global supply chains have increased shipping and aviation traffic adding to atmospheric emissions. Trade and economic globalisation's ostensible contribution to generating jobs and livelihoods, as well as national economic prosperities, have often run into conflict with environmental and sustainability objectives.

Environment-related restrictions on global trade are common and have manifested through non-tariff barriers, principally sanitary and phytosanitary and technical barriers to trade policies of importing countries. Many of these have been contested by exporting economies, especially developing countries whose exports to advanced economy markets get affected by these standards. The contestation and perspective gap between developed and developing economies have further widened following the introduction of border carbon adjustment (BCA) measures like CBAM.

BCAs are fuelling a debate on whether they are instruments of sovereign industrial policies for anchoring domestic industrial competitiveness, or benign tools for preventing carbon leakage. While imposing economies would justify these as public policies for reducing global emissions and abetting sustainability, the revenue implications of these policies can be sizeable. Carbon taxes collected at the border and domestic subsidies given to local industries for creating "clean" production capacities involve large use of state revenues, ostensibly for protecting local comparative advantages in emission-friendly production.

Can the EU-India example be taken to a wider group of like-minded countries that trust each other for wider implementation?

Given the dichotomy, it was never going to be smooth sailing for Article 3.5 of the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change that rejected unilateral climate protection measures coming up as trade restrictions. The last two COPs—29 and 30—at Baku and Belem witnessed extensive discussions and debates on these. While the space and scope for the debates have significantly widened, climate-related trade restrictions don't figure among priority themes of COP31.

Trade is one of the most divisive issues in the current world order. Trade-related comparative advantages in production of critical resources, technology, clean products, and digital services are key assets for national economic securities and global geoeconomic influence. It is inconceivable, therefore, that trade and climate preservation will move hand in hand. Using trade for preserving climate is a key geoeconomic tool that most countries will refuse to let go.

Admitting climate-related trade restrictions as a stand-alone agenda item at the current and future COPs is impossible, given the sharp differences between countries on the subject. Indeed, including trade upfront in the COP agenda can completely derail the rest of the climate conversation. It will widen the chasm among countries and deepen the global trust deficit. Movements on climate finance and adaptation might be the casualties. However challenging and frustrating it might be, trade-related restrictions must be addressed at forums specifically dedicated for trade.

It is not that the BCAs and similar climate policies that are trade-restrictive cannot be discussed more objectively. They are best discussed among smaller groups of countries for working out potential solutions. The countries must be those that trust each other.

The intensely geopolitical character of global trade makes it difficult to be discussed in an atmosphere of trust and faith. Even then, there are countries that are actively discussing global trade through bilateral, regional, and plurilateral frameworks. These include global economies with starkly divergent views on climate-related trade curbs, such as the EU and India.

The EU and India are discussing climate through various consultative mechanisms and dialogue processes. While India is not exempted from the CBAM through its free trade agreement (FTA) with the EU, the introduction of CBAM has accelerated efforts of Indian businesses towards CBAM compliance, while hastening the growth of domestic carbon credit markets. Can the EU-India example be taken to a wider group of like-minded countries that trust each other for wider implementation?

It is inconceivable that various BCA measures will not crop up in the foreseeable future. They will keep coming up and be justified on sustainable, health, and environmental grounds. This is a trend that is beyond the capacity of the COP to control. What the COP can do though is enable consultative tracks for more conversations. These conversations can offer inputs for more countries discussing the matter between themselves in smaller groups and within FTAs or regional trade agreements. The core objective of the latter should be to ensure that BCAs don't perpetuate existing hierarchies in global trade by enhancing competitive disadvantages for several economies exporting to the Global North. Capacity-building efforts, including developing emission data repositories, reporting standards, and domestic carbon pricing instruments in exporting economies, can help in dispelling the notion that BCAs are meant more for safeguarding domestic competitiveness of the Global North.

In a world where multilateral forums and their extant rule-making structures are being repeatedly found ineffective, it is important to be innovative. Countries—whether middle powers or otherwise—agreeing on most issues and trusting each other can set the ball rolling in this regard. The COP should be left free to manage other business.

Views are personal

Sino-American stability?

STEPHEN S ROACH

Faculty member at Yale University and former Chairman of Morgan Stanley Asia

Delegates at the Bund Summit in Shanghai largely agreed that the US-China relationship could be entering a new, less contentious chapter

MY SEARCH FOR truth inside China has been stymied. Banned from the China Development Forum (CDF), after participating for 25 years as the longest-attending foreign delegate, I feel like an outsider in what was once the country's most prestigious international gathering. Deteriorating relations with former friends in Hong Kong, some of whom avoid eye contact with me now, have not helped matters. In both cases, I was cut off after offering constructive criticism—highlighting structural malaise in the mainland economy and a loss of autonomous identity in Hong Kong—the essence of what we call debate in the West.

Fortunately, there are other avenues for engagement. One is the Bund Summit in Shanghai, which I attended last week. It reminds me of the CDF in the early days, when, under the leadership of the late premier Zhu Rongji, the exchange of views was focused, vigorous, and open. As one well-connected Chinese friend conceded, "The CDF is now a government conference. The Bund Summit is the real thing—the best conference in China today."

This year's agenda, organised around the theme of "Technology, Geopolitics, and the Global Economy", demonstrated the summit's breadth and depth: there were panels on monetary policy, fiscal and debt challenges, global imbalances, new energy sources, AI, currencies, and trade. Discussions were structured to reflect strong opinions both inside and outside of China.

Not surprisingly, I was most interested in two sessions—a dinner at which I spoke and a follow-up panel the next day—on Sino-American ties. Both sessions considered whether the relationship between the United States and China is entering a new, less contentious chapter following the first two of this year's four summits between US President Donald Trump and Chinese President Xi Jinping. The possibility of a new era hinges on the notion of "constructive strategic stability" that Xi and Trump are now stressing.

They were particularly interested in whether that era could begin as soon as November 4 of this year—the day after the midterms

To be sure, constructive strategic stability is a classic example of the word salad that diplomats often offer as sustenance in bilateral discussions. But, based as it is on the principles of "respect, fairness, and reciprocity" that were underscored in the readouts of the recent Trump-Xi summit in Washington, this new chapter appears to come as welcome relief, especially when compared to the "reciprocal" tariffs that Trump launched on last year's "Liberation Day". After raising the tariff rate on China to 145%—an absurdly high level—the administration backed down only after Xi played his rare-earths card, underscoring Trump's TACO reputation ("Trump always chickens out").

But a new label for the bilateral relationship does not constitute a new power-sharing initiative. Some have argued that this year's Trump-Xi summits are paving the way for a G2 system, in which the US and China set global economic strategy and address geopolitical pressures like the wars in Ukraine and West Asia. While rumours of a trilateral summit between Trump, Xi, and Russian President Vladimir Putin at next month's Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation forum in Shenzhen lend some credence to this view, the consensus at the Bund Summit was that a G2 is not on the cards.

Lastly, it was widely agreed at the Shanghai gathering that the biggest takeaway of the recent meetings between Trump and Xi is their willingness to buy time. Both leaders are preoccupied with domestic concerns. The last thing they need is another dispute over trade, let alone a technological or military conflict.

This aligns with my own assessment of the current state of the US-China relationship: stable for now, but with an uncertain future. The Chinese participants in this year's Bund Summit were just as realistically cautious: like me, they do not trust Trump's newfound constructive perspective on China. Abrupt policy shifts are the norm for the US administration. Most recently, Trump fiddled with Canadian tariffs in an effort to boost Republican congressional candidates in Maine, Michigan, and New Hampshire. He also issued an executive order to countermand newly enacted legislation (which he signed into law) under which he can impose secondary sanctions on China for purchasing oil from Iran and Russia.

I went further, arguing that whatever Trump says today has no bearing on America's long-term strategic commitments to any nation. His mendacity and treachery know no bounds—just ask Canada, Ukraine, and European NATO members. He would not think twice about reversing course on foreign policy, even on something as critical as maintaining stable relations with China. In line with this perspective, the Chinese participants in the Bund Summit were more interested in what the post-Trump era means for Sino-American ties. They were particularly interested in whether that era could begin as soon as November 4 of this year—the day after the midterms—rather than after the presidential election in 2028.

The honest exchange of views in Shanghai was a heartening demonstration of what truth-telling in China can still be about. The deep insights shared by knowledgeable experts from both sides of the Sino-American divide gave me hope for what the world's most consequential relationship can look like in a post-Trump future. Between now and then, I'm afraid the best we can hope for is a tenuous stability.

THE HUMAN FACTOR

The inbox at 7am

EARLY ON WEDNESDAY morning last week, a couple of hundred people in Amazon's devices unit picked up their phones and learnt that they no longer had jobs. Amazon likes to do this before breakfast, so that by the time you would have logged in, there is nothing to log in to.

At the same hour, a far larger number of people across the industry also picked up their phones. They had not been laid off. They were checking whether they had been.

This column is about them: not the sacked but the spared, and in particular the 40-year-old manager at a big tech or IT firm in Bengaluru, Hyderabad, or Gurugram, who has been spared every year since 2022 and is finding it exhausting.

Consider her week. On Monday, Microsoft offered a "voluntary exit" to staff at level 70 and below in four countries, India among them: about 60,000 people, roughly a quarter of its workforce. Level 70, I learn, goes up to general managers. In other words, the middle. Its chief people officer, Amy Coleman, wrote: "The Voluntary Exit Offer is new for us. We'll learn from it." Those receiving it are learning too, chiefly how to read an email four times looking for what it isn't saying.

On Wednesday it was Amazon's turn again. It had already cut about 1,000 retail jobs this month, 16,000 in January, and 14,000 the October before. Each round is described as modest, and it is, unless you happen to be in it.

The 40-year-old manager is in a peculiar spot: too senior to be cheap, too junior to be safe. She was promoted for being good at managing people at precisely the moment companies decided they wanted fewer people and fewer managers. Every slide about "flattening layers" is, if you squint, a slide about her. She has an EMI on a flat, school fees that rise faster than her increment, parents who need more looking after each year, and a LinkedIn profile she updated last month "just to keep it current", the professional equivalent of sleeping with your shoes on.

SHYAMAL MAJUMDAR

shyamal.majumdar@expressindia.com

She is also, by her industry's standards, old. A software engineer with nine years' experience posted this week that Microsoft's announcement had kept him up all night. If it happened to him, he wrote, he had no plan, because software was all he knew. He is probably barely 30. If he feels stranded, imagine being 40 and told to upskill in AI by employers whose AI bills are part of the reason for the cuts.

Fear does odd things to behaviour. Managers who used to argue in meetings now nod. People sign up for the AI pilot not from curiosity but as insurance. Everyone is conspicuously online, the green dot glowing like a lamp at a vigil. The one-to-one with the boss, once a chore, is read like tea leaves. Was he warmer than usual? Too warm?

The cruellest part is not the layoff, which at least ends the suspense. It is the waiting, the low hum of being permanently next. A voluntary exit sharpens it, because it hands the decision to you. By early December you must choose whether to jump before you are pushed, with no idea whether the push is coming. If you go, you may have left too soon. If you stay, the next offer may not be voluntary.

My advice, worth roughly what she is paying for it: stop refreshing. Work out your number, the months you could last without a salary. Have one conversation a week with someone outside the company. Learn the AI tools because they are useful, not because they are a talisman. And remember that the email, if it comes, says more about a spreadsheet than about her. The spreadsheet, after all, will be fine.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Holding a mirror

"Gulliver's enduring enquiry" (FE, October 30) deserves appreciation for revisiting Jonathan Swift's three-century-old satire to question the very purpose of economic progress. The novel highlights flaws of society like corruption, arrogance, disparities, and lack of compassion. Adam Smith's The Wealth of Nations still fails to answer the dilemma of poverty amidst plenty. Today, impressive growth figures, technological advances, and grand projects must be judged against employment, purchasing power, affordable healthcare, and equitable opportunities. Economic policy must connect productivity with human welfare, ensuring that prosperity reaches ordinary households. Until wealth translates into well-being, Swift's socio-political satire will continue to hold a mirror to our economic priorities also.
—Brij B Goyal, Ludhiana

FDI momentum

Apropos of "Rising FDI inflows" (FE, October 31), the recent rise in FDI inflows is a welcome development, reflecting growing investor confidence in India's economic prospects. Policy continuity, improved ease of doing business, infrastructure expansion, a large domestic market, digital transformation, and PLI schemes have contributed to making India an attractive investment destination. This momentum must be sustained through further regulatory simplification, faster project clearances, and stable taxation. The increased inflows should be channelled towards manufacturing, employment generation, technology transfer, and export competitiveness to translate investor confidence into tangible economic gains.

Default MF option to nudge investors towards direct plans

LOWER EXPENSE RATIO A MAJOR BENEFIT, BUT DISCIPLINED INVESTING A MUST

SAIKAT NEOGI

THE MARKET REGULATOR'S decision to make direct plans the default option on mutual fund websites from November 1 will ensure that do-it-yourself investors are directed towards the lower-cost option. Those who require professional guidance can still consciously opt for regular plans.

It will nudge investors to make an informed choice based on the services they need. Direct plans, introduced in 2013, are great for more aware investors. If you know which fund is right for you, and do not react to every headline, then these are suitable for you. Regular plans are better for those who need hand-holding.

Source: AMFI Crisil Intelligence, Vayu Capital

Cost difference

The difference in costs between direct and regular plans can range from around 0.7–0.8% in large-caps to 1–1.3% in mid-cap funds. In flexi-cap funds, the gap is typically around 0.8–1%, while in liquid funds it is much lower at around 0.15–0.3%.

For instance, if you invest ₹10,000 a month in a mid-cap fund through systematic investment plan (SIP), the corpus after 10 years (assuming returns of 14%) in case of direct investing will be ₹24.66 lakh. In case of a regular plan it will be ₹23.21 lakh, a difference of ₹1.45 lakh. "Stretch it to 20 years and these numbers multiply because the investor loses out on both the additional expenses and the compounding on that amount," says Shashank Udupa, founder, Vayu Capital.

Rising direct investing

The share of retail investors in direct plans rose to 36.7% in March 2026 from 21.4% in March 2021, data from Amfi-Crisil Factbook 2026 show. Young investors (18-34 years) prefer the direct route due to growing digital and financial literacy. However, investors over the age of 58 prefer regular plans — 22.4% in March 2026 against 18.5% in March 2021 — indicating the role of distributor-led advice.

Investors in regular schemes hold on to their portfolio for a longer time. As of March 2026, the share of regular investments with a holding period of five years-plus was 23.5% as compared with 14% in the case of direct investments, underscoring the role distributors play in keeping investors calm during tough times.

They provide support through portfolio reviews, rebalancing and help investors avoid herd behaviour. "The value of a distributor lies not just in selecting funds but in helping investors remain disciplined and aligned with their long-term financial objectives," says Feroze Azeez, joint CEO, Anand Rathi Wealth.

Experts say investors can pay a fee to a Sebi-registered investment adviser for advice. The cost of advice remains separate from the cost of the product. "A flat or percentage fee for advice and holding direct plans often works out cheaper than paying trail commission," says Sonam Srivastava, CEO, Wright Research. That way, an adviser is not nudged to recommend a fund because it pays more.

Why your NPS asset allocation strategy must evolve with age

AMIT HL

THE NATIONAL PENSION System (NPS) offers two broad investment frameworks for non-government subscribers: Common Schemes and the Multiple Scheme Framework (MSF). Under Common Schemes, subscribers can choose Active Choice, where they manage their own asset allocation, or Auto Choice, where a lifecycle fund adjusts allocation according to age and risk profile. Under Active Choice or the LC75 lifecycle option, equity exposure can go up to 75%. MSF offers additional options, including aggressive schemes with equity exposure of up to 100%. These may appeal to investors seeking higher growth potential but carry greater market risk.

An investor who selects 75% equity under a Common Scheme or up to 100% under an aggressive MSF scheme and leaves it unchanged until retirement may face substantial corpus erosion if markets fall sharply before exit. Conversely, a very conservative allocation early in a 20-year investment journey may limit long-term growth.

The crucial review

Investors should begin planning their exit strategy at least five years before retirement. Depending on their circumstances, someone with 75% equity may gradually reduce exposure towards 35%, and potentially 25% closer to retirement. This is more relevant to investors in aggressive MSF schemes with 90–100% equity exposure. They should consider transitioning to a suitable Common Scheme option, where the equity-debt allocation can be managed more deliberately, subject to applicable NPS rules.

Consider an investor contributing ₹10,000 per month, increasing the contribution by 7% annually, for 15 years. Assuming a 12% annual return, monthly compounding and investments at the beginning of each month, the corpus could grow to ₹69.3 lakh. If contributions stop and the corpus earns an assumed 9% annually for another five years, with equity exposure gradually reduced, it could reach ₹1.07 crore by year 20.

Now imagine equity remains at 75%, or higher under an MSF scheme. A market downturn two years before exit causes the overall portfolio to fall by 15%. The corpus would then need to gain 17.6% just to recover. Gradually reducing equity exposure may help manage this risk, but it cannot eliminate it.

Reducing equity involves a trade-off: markets may rise afterwards, making the decision appear premature. But retirement planning is not about chasing the highest possible return in the final years. It is about protecting the accumulated wealth.

Plan the exit

NPS offers flexibility, but it works best with discipline. Subscribers who prefer not to manage allocation themselves can consider an appropriate lifecycle fund. Those choosing active choice or aggressive MSF schemes must take greater responsibility for reviewing risk and planning their transition towards retirement. The objective is not to maximise returns at every stage. It is to build a retirement corpus, manage risk as retirement approaches, and protect the money that will support life after work.

MUTUAL FUND

UTI MF new-age consumption index fund

UTI MUTUAL FUND has launched India New Age Consumption Index Fund, an open ended scheme replicating Nifty India New Age Consumption Total Return Index. It provides investors with exposure to a portfolio of companies representing the new-age consumption theme from the Nifty 500 universe through a rules-based investment approach. The index has 75 stocks weighted by free-float market capitalisation and offers diversified exposure to businesses representing emerging consumption trends. Subscription to the NFO will close on Nov 5, 2026.

Bajaj launches Ulip for GIFT City clients

BAJAJ LIFE INSURANCE has launched Bajaj Life Global Wealth Builder, its first GIFT City offering, designed to help customers, particularly non-resident Indians and globally mobile individuals, access international investment opportunities alongside life insurance protection. The product is distributed through Policybazaar, enabling customers to build a US dollar-denominated wealth corpus via investments in global equities, emerging markets, gold, liquid funds and AI-related equities.

Education

FOREIGN UNIVERSITY CAMPUSES IN INDIA

Big buzz, modest takers

EARLY COHORTS REFLECT CAUTIOUS START AS PIONEERS LOOK TO SCALE

VIKRAM CHAUDHARY

WHEN INDIA opened its doors to foreign universities under the National Education Policy (NEP) framework, the promise was delivering world-class global education to Indian students on domestic soil. But as inaugural cohorts complete their admissions across early-adopting institutions, first-round enrolment figures reveal a reality check — student uptake has been distinctly modest, marked by sharp variations across institutions.

According to analysis by global higher education advisory firm DrEducation Research — based on available data across seven international branch campuses (IBCs) — the median first-cohort size stands at just 120 students. Across a total of 32 programmes offered across these operational campuses, institutions enrolled a median of only 20 students per programme.

Early pioneers

The DrEducation Research data highlights a wide spectrum of demand, ranging from single-digit intakes to strong initial draws.

The early pioneers (GIFT City and the IFSCA route): Deakin University, the first to launch in GIFT City in Gujarat in July 2024 with an initial 43 students, is demonstrating steady, managed growth. Institutional data shows its July 2026 intake rose to 48 students, with a target of 100 students for July 2027 alongside a new Master of Applied Artificial Intelligence programme.

MIXED RESULTS

- Inaugural cohorts across seven foreign branch campuses had a median intake of only 120 students.
- First-year enrolment per programme averaged a narrow median of just 20 students across campuses.
- Initial cohorts displayed extreme variations, from a low of 9 up to 300 students.
- Deakin University's GIFT City campus scaled its latest intake to 48 students, targeting 100 for July 2027.

Backed by 58 empanelled industry partners — including National Australia Bank (NAB) and BHP — and a provisional placement outcome of 65%, Deakin illustrates a phased scaling model. In contrast, the DrEducation Research shows that University of Wollongong recorded an initial start with 9 students in a single programme, while Queen's Belfast bucked the trend in January 2026 by enrolling 132 students across three programmes.

The metro cities (UGC route): Among campuses opening in major metros, University of Southampton Delhi — based in Gurgaon — drew an estimated 120 students across six programmes, and UNSW (Bengaluru) enrolled 60 students. Stronger volume came from University of York (Mumbai) with 160 students and University of Liverpool (Bengaluru), which led the overall tally with an estimated 300 students. (Other approved campuses did not respond to requests for official enrolment confirmation by the press time.)

Why the hesitation?

"A typical campus starts with a median of 20 students per programme in its inaugural cohort," says Rahul Choudaha, managing director of DrEducation Research. "That is a modest start, mostly undershooting the campuses' own aspirations and targets."

He added that several factors explain the cautious student sentiment: unproven local track records, the absence of overseas post-study work visas, and a general information deficit regarding transparency in placement outcomes.

The road ahead

Among upcoming entrants, the University of Western Australia (UWA) stands out with a unique self-funded AUD $80 million direct commitment across dual campuses in Chennai and Mumbai, eschewing third-party private partners.

For foreign universities, setting up shop in India is proving to be a marathon. Translating global brand equity into local classroom seats will require more than policy fanfare — it demands transparent outcomes, robust placement channels, and proven academic delivery.

BRIDGING THE TECH GAP

How PwC is shaping women in technology

A UNIQUE MENTORSHIP FOR WOMEN ENGINEERS

VIKRAM CHAUDHARY

FOR SANJEEV KRISHAN, the chairperson of PwC India, the spark for the firm's newest initiative to support women in technology started close to home. Coming from a family rooted in accounting and finance — or munshis, as he put it — it was a welcome change when his daughter chose to pursue a career in technology. As she entered the corporate world and observed so few women colleagues around her, Krishan examined the metrics in his own organisation.

While technology consulting remains one of PwC India's largest and fastest-growing business segments, female representation in this domain has been limited. Recognising that female dropout rates tend to spike at mid-career levels, PwC India decided to intervene earlier in the pipeline — targeting the transition from college to professional life.

Beyond mere financial aid

This initiative, called Aspiring Women Leaders Scholarship, goes beyond traditional financial assistance to women, and instead offers a comprehensive support ecosystem. Krishan said it aims to bridge the gap between academic learning and industry expectations by focusing on guidance, skill development, and continuous professional exposure.

The initial rollout will target a select cohort of 50 female engineering students in their second year of study. PwC India has partnered with premier engineering institutes, including the Indian Institutes of Technology (IITs), to identify deserving candidates based on a robust baseline selection protocol. While starting with a targeted group to ensure engagement and quality, the firm envisions expanding the initiative to first-year students in future cohorts.

Sanjeev Krishan, chairperson of PwC India

Building ecosystem leadership

A core pillar of this scholarship is its extensive mentorship framework. "Selected candidates will be paired with PwC partners as well as senior leaders, with an emphasis on connecting them with successful women executives across global capability centres (GCCs)," Krishan said. "This exposure is designed to help students navigate corporate pathways, gain industry clarity, and cultivate long-term careers."

He added that the while this initiative isn't structured as a recruitment pipeline for PwC India, employment at the firm remains a possibility for participants, "though not a mandatory requirement or condition," he said. "Instead, the objective is to prepare women for diverse trajectories — joining large multinational corporations, midsized enterprises, or embarking on entrepreneurial journeys. By equipping young women with early guidance, high-level exposure, and strong professional networks, PwC India aims to foster a new generation of leaders capable of driving innovation across India's technology ecosystem."

Taking an Indian epic to the global stage

HERE'S HOW RAMAYANA: RISE OF A LEGEND IS LOOKING TO BUILD A GLOBAL FRANCHISE

CHRISTINA MONIZ

WHEN EVERYONE KNOWS the broad storyline of your upcoming caper, how do you get the audiences into the theatres? That was perhaps director Nitesh Tiwari's biggest dilemma with the ambitious Ramayana: Rise of a Legend which hits theatres later this week.

His big gambit with the trailer release had backfired. Audiences trolled the makers for all sorts of things — from casting slips to VFX and CGI concerns to lip sync and dubbing rumours.

Undeterred, producer Namit Malhotra and director Tiwari are pulling out all the stops to position it as a multi-format global fantasy franchise modelled after Star Wars and The Lord of the Rings. The creators have said the film is "just the beginning" of a broader intellectual property ecosystem.

Industry reports put the movie's marketing budget at ₹375 crore. Pratik Gupta, co-founder, Zoo Media & FoxyMoron, says Ramayana would be India's first real attempt at launching a global franchise. "No Indian film has ever been sold at this altitude. It makes the movie impossible to ignore," Gupta says.

There is already a lot of buzz around the ₹4,000-crore two-part adaptation. Distributed internationally by Sony Pictures, it is expected to hit 59,000 screens, in 100-plus countries, of which 50,000 are overseas screens. The film's marketers have adopted a slightly unconventional approach, focusing on digital and on-ground activation to generate curiosity and intrigue without giving much away.

The promotions include cast interviews on platforms like Comic-Con, IGN and even YouTuber Jimmy Donaldson aka Mr Beast. Shahir Muneer, founder & CEO, Divo, says Ramayana's ambition is clear — to reach audiences beyond moviegoers in the country and beyond the Indian diaspora. "Our biggest films have largely built their business around these two audiences. When production budgets move to a substantially higher level, the commercial opportunity depends on attracting a crossover audience as well," says Muneer.

LIGHTING UP THE SCREEN

- Ramayana to release in over 100 countries, dubbed in 40 languages
- Its marketing budget is estimated to be around ₹375 crore
- The movie has taken a "less-is-more" approach after trailer backlash
- Marketing channels are digital, on-ground & on a global scale

With the release coinciding with the Diwali weekend, when viewers look out for "family" movies, industry pundits expect it to cross ₹150 crore globally on the opening day.

As of November 1, Ramayana: Part 1 had grossed Rs 35.28 crore in overall advance bookings across India (source; Sacnilk) with four days remaining until its theatrical release on November 5. Gautam Dutta, CEO, revenue and operations, PVR INOX, attributes the momentum to a combination of factors — a story that is familiar to generations, a starry cast and the scale of the promised cinematic experience. "The film has the potential to create a significant moment for theatrical exhibition," says Dutta.

The movie's strongest promise lies in taking a familiar story and presenting it to a global audience as a cinematic experience, adds Muneer. "The scale, cast and creative team have built visibility around that promise."

Great expectations

When the audience already knows the plot, marketing strategies must pivot from what the story is all about to how the story is told and experienced, say experts. The auteur becomes the brand — audiences shell out for a ticket not just to see a story, but to see a Christopher Nolan or a Baz Luhrmann's version of it.

But will the trailer trolling throw a spanner in the works?

Gupta says, in hindsight, the decision to make the massive ₹4,000 crore budget the headline point in the run-up stage was the villain of the piece. "Ambition sells, but the moment the number leads, every frame has to defend it. Let the craft imply the scale. Marvel and Lord of the Rings earned their spectacle over years of universe-building," he adds.

Mehul Gupta, co-founder & CEO, SoCheers, notes that audiences tend to be deeply connected to a film, especially one steeped in Indian culture like Ramayana. He commends the movie's marketing team for responding well to initial feedback and refining the subsequent promotional material. "The challenge is to take something deeply rooted in India and make it resonate with the world, without losing what makes it distinctive," he adds.

Riding the festive wave

THE FESTIVE WINDOW GIVES BRANDS AN OPPORTUNITY TO DRIVE SALES BUT REPEAT PURCHASES WILL BE HARDER TO COME BY

KARTIKAY KASHYAP

■ Samsung just launched its festive "Big, Bigger, Biggest" Diwali celebration featuring promotional deals across its range, including large-format Vision AI TVs and flagship Galaxy devices

■ Competitor Apple is looking to celebrate Diwali 2026 in India with a limited-edition product release – the new special-edition version of the AirPods 5 features a custom rangoli-inspired engraving on the wireless charging case — and deals across its official online store and authorised resellers

■ Zomato launched a digital-first campaign starring actor Saif Ali Khan to promote curated festive hampers, including mithai boxes, dessert assortments, and chocolates sourced from local restaurants and bakeries that are available on the Zomato app.

That was just a sampler. Myntra has added New York-based Kylie Cosmetics to its house of brands portfolio and Ananya Birla's Contraband has launched its new fragrance brand 5 PM Somewhere. In the automobile segment, Hyundai has rolled out its compact SUV Bayon while Renault has unveiled the Renault Duster E-Tech Strong Hybrid.

Consumer intent to buy is high during the period, says Anand Ramanathan, partner & consumer industry leader, Deloitte South Asia. "The festive period gives brands an occasion-led context in which to introduce newness, particularly in categories where buying is linked to upgrading, dressing for occasions, gifting or personal indulgence," he says.

The rapid acceptance of quick commerce has helped to an extent. "Convenience and immediacy allow consumers to delay purchases or plan them closer to the occasion, creating a form of 'compressed planning' that becomes particularly relevant around Diwali when consumers are time constrained. In this sense, q-commerce might be shaping shopping behaviour differently from traditional e-commerce," says Nikhil Sethi, national sector leader, consumer markets, KPMG India. Experts say, q-commerce has moved past last-minute top-ups into a primary channel for festive groceries, dry fruits, sweets, puja items, and gifts.

While online festive spending is projected to grow significantly — with Datum Intelligence estimating sales of around ₹1.50–1.55 lakh crore — that growth will be driven more by higher order frequencies and many smaller transactions rather than large individual shopping bills. Already we have seen that even for traditional purchases during Dhanteras and Diwali — such as gold and homecare products — consumers are gravitating toward smaller items, coins, and lightweight jewellery pieces to navigate the rising price points while keeping the rituals alive.

Overall, this time around, the operating environment is a little different. A survey by LocalCircles states that this festive season the total consumer spending will likely decline 6% from last year. The estimate puts festive expenditure at ₹1.97 lakh crore in 2026 compared with ₹2.10 lakh crore in 2025.

For marketers standing out in the clutter is an additional challenge. Chetna Israni, director & co-founder, Morning Star BrandCom, says, "Every Diwali, brands compete with similar festive imagery, familiar promises and a barrage of offers. Visibility is not the same as recall. The brands that have a distinctive proposition and a recognisable identity are more likely to be remembered when the consumer is ready to buy," she shares.

In other words, driving repeat purchase will remain crucial. Deloitte's Ramanathan says a survey conducted by the firm in March showed that only 43% of the consumers believed they could afford to spend on things that bring them joy. "The price-value equation has become harder to ignore. Premium aspiration co-exists with affordability, and functionality, durability and design increasingly matter in purchase decisions. Brands will need sharper assortment, offer clearer reasons to upgrade and tighter alignment between price and perceived value, while managing inventory against more selective demand," he says.

AFTER HOURS

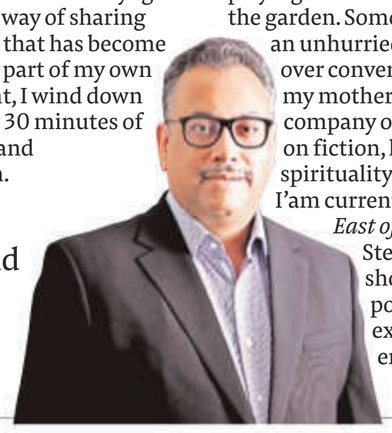

NAVANEEL KAR, MD, PHILIP MORRIS INTERNATIONAL, INDIA

The Job

My role involves navigating a complex and evolving business environment, aligning teams around our priorities, engaging with external stakeholders and ensuring that strategy translates into action. The interesting contrast is that, while the role demands decisiveness and the ability to drive change, I've never believed leadership has to be loud or forceful.

The Weekdays

My weekdays begin on the yoga mat. Work brings its own demands, and I try to approach them with the same sense of balance; listening carefully, making time for meaningful discussions and giving people the space to share their perspectives. Wednesday evenings have a special place in my routine, when I teach an online yoga class. It is a way of sharing something that has become an integral part of my own life. At night, I wind down with about 30 minutes of Pranayam and Meditation.

The Weekend

Weekends are when I make time for the things I enjoy beyond work. An extended Yoga session, an art session or cooking something interesting in the kitchen. I also spend time with my children over a meal or just playing around with them in the garden. Sometimes I have an unhurried cup of tea over conversations with my mother. I enjoy the company of good books on fiction, history, and spirituality.

I'am currently reading East of Eden by John Steinbeck. I write short, free style poetry to express my emotions and experiences in life.

The Toys

Cameras, above everything. Photography is my Zen moment. I started with a Canon EOS 88 bought on MG Road, moved to Nikon, and today shoot with a Sony A7C and a Leica. An ink pen and sketchbook are always with me.

The Logos

I value "authenticity" and "humility" in brands above all else. Brands come and go, yet there are some which stay relevant and consistent over time. I value those brands for example: Apple, Nike, Sony, Toyota.

CAR REVIEW: VOLVO EX90

Electrifying luxury meets high price

THIS SCANDINAVIAN FLAGSHIP SETS NEW STANDARDS, BUT CARRIES A HEAVY PRICE TAG

VIKRAM CHAUDHARY

WHEN I FIRST experienced the Volvo EX90 ahead of its India launch, I was impressed by its performance, power, efficiency, and comfort. Now that it has been launched priced at ₹1.26 crore (ex-showroom), I know which segment it'll compete in, and whether it is truly a showcase of luxury, technology, and uncompromising safety.

Ride dynamics

Slipping behind the wheel, the immediate impression is one of effortlessness. Beneath its minimalist exterior lies a potent dual-motor setup churning out a massive 449 bhp and 670 Nm of torque.

Floor the pedal, and the 0-100 km/h takes just 5.5 seconds, delivering a jet-like acceleration that belies this SUV's size. On smooth tarmac, I found the ride quality very good, as it absorbed potholes without much fuss.

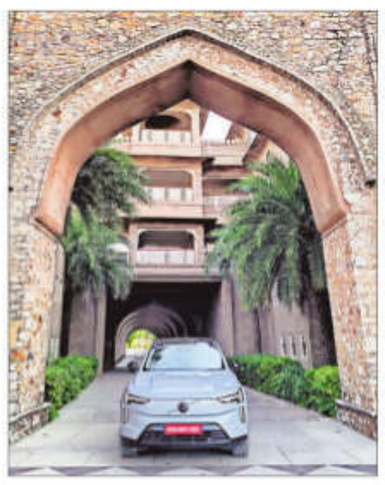

Real-world range is very good, as my test car displayed a range of 560 km on a full charge, and that means long-distance touring would be possible. True to Volvo's legacy, its 5-star safety rating gave me a sense of security throughout the test drive.

Cabin luxury

The cabin is just so Scandinavian.

I enjoyed amenities such as its heated and ventilated front seats with massage functions, the airy and large electrochromic glass roof, and the 1,610-watt, 25-speaker Bowers & Wilkins audio system — possibly one of the finest acoustic experiences available on four wheels in India.

While its white interior looks stunning, it's impractical for the Indian environment; stepping inside, my shoe sole inadvertently rubbed the bottom of the door panel, leaving a mark that was difficult to remove

But in my opinion, the daily usability can take a hit due to an over-reliance on the 14.5-inch central touchscreen. I found relying on the touchscreen even for basic tasks — like opening the glovebox, adjusting the steering wheel or ORVMs, selecting drive modes, and even the climate control — a bit cumbersome.

In addition, while its white interior looks stunning, it seems to be impractical for the Indian environment; while stepping inside, my shoe sole inadvertently rubbed the bottom of the door panel, leaving a mark that was difficult to remove.

Chauffeur compromises

At this price bracket, I expected a stellar rear-seat experience, but it felt short for a vehicle where owners will almost always be chauffeur-driven. The second row lacks rear sunshades for privacy and features like seat ventilation, while under-thigh support seems mediocre on long stretches.

The verdict

At ₹1.26 crore, the EX90 enters a fiercely contested space. Rivals like the Kia EV9 offer huge space at ₹1.3 crore (not the brand value), the Mercedes-Benz EQS SUV commands stronger brand equity and network reach at ₹1.35 crore, and the Tesla Model Y L Premium delivers almost similar six-seat utility at nearly half the price.

The Volvo EX90 is a tech marvel that excels in safety, performance, and audio immersion. Yet, for a flagship luxury cruiser, minor ergonomic oversights and rear-seat limitations mean that prospective buyers must weigh its engineering and safety prowess against stiff competition.

Why India is set to dominate at the Eicma 2026

VIKRAM CHAUDHARY

WHEN FIERA MILANO RHO opens its doors for Eicma 2026 (November 3-8), the world's largest two-wheeler show will carry an Indian imprint. What was once a stage for global OEMs to reveal their new bikes has transformed into an arena where Indian OEMs dictate the agenda.

Royal Enfield

Heading the show will be Royal Enfield's flagship: the all-new Himalayan 750. Powered by a parallel-twin engine, the bike will make its global premiere in Milan on November 3 — the India pricing will happen at the Motoverse later this month in Goa.

TVS Norton

Sharing billing under the TVS Motor umbrella is the rebirth of Norton Motorcycles. Following multi-million-pound investments, Norton is preparing a high-profile return to Milan. Built on TVS's platform, the bike blends classic British styling with accessible modern performance.

Hero MotoCorp

Hero MotoCorp is expanding its footprint beyond commuters. Industry sources indicate that the Indian giant is slated to unveil a high-capacity adventure platform — expected to be the liquid-cooled Xpulse 421.

From twin-cylinder ADVs to single-cylinder roadsters, the Eicma 2026 will confirm that Indian two-wheeler leaders are no longer just expanding globally, but are setting the agenda.

AS BIG TECH POURS BILLIONS INTO AI, IT IS RETHINKING WORKFORCE SIZE, HIRING & SKILLS

WORKFORCE RESET

- Big Tech is prioritising productivity as AI reshapes jobs and hiring
- Microsoft's voluntary exit offer reflects a broader workforce rethink
- Amazon, Oracle and Meta are cutting jobs amid wider organisational restructuring
- Future hiring will favour specialised skills, critical thinking and AI expertise

AMY COLEMAN, CHIEF PEOPLE OFFICER, MICROSOFT

The voluntary exit offer gives employees greater flexibility and more ways to shape their next chapter

JASPREET BINDRA, FOUNDER, AI&BEYOND

Big Tech may be entering an era of more selective workforces, though not necessarily smaller ones in the long run

MANISH PRASAD, PRESIDENT & MD, SAP INDIAN CONTINENT

Preparing Indian talent for the next wave of innovation requires sustained investment in skills

BIG TECH IS confronting an uncomfortable question amid its artificial intelligence (AI) boom: can companies become more productive with fewer people? As billions of dollars flow into data centres, chips and AI applications, technology companies are reassessing workforce sizes, hiring plans and the skills they need. Microsoft's voluntary exit programme has brought this shift into focus, as AI redraws the boundaries between technology, productivity and jobs.

The programme, described by executive vice-president and chief people officer Amy Coleman as a new approach to managing organisational change, offers eligible employees financial support and career-planning resources to leave the company. Around 60,000 employees globally are eligible, including those in India, the US, the UK and Canada. Microsoft has approximately 23,000 employees in India, though it has not disclosed how many qualify. Employees must decide by December 1.

Coleman said the initiative gives employees considering opportunities outside Microsoft "a new choice to make that transition now with support". The company has not explicitly linked the programme to AI replacing jobs. Its timing, however, raises a larger question: is AI making Big Tech smaller, or changing what a technology company looks like?

The scale of workforce restructuring suggests the shift is already underway. Amazon eliminated 16,000 corporate jobs early this year, following 14,000 cuts in October 2025. Oracle has cut around 21,000 positions this year, while Meta announced plans to eliminate 8,000 jobs and leave thousands of vacancies unfilled. Cisco, too, has undertaken workforce reductions.

Not every cut is driven by AI. Cost pressures, organisational complexity and changing business priorities are also at play. Yet as companies redirect billions towards AI, they face growing pressure to improve productivity, simplify management structures and generate returns on their investments.

Jaspreet Bindra, founder and CEO of AI&Beyond and Tech Whisperer, sees a shift from headcount growth to "capability density"—getting more work done with smaller, more specialised teams. Routine coding, testing, reporting and coordination can increasingly be automated, allowing fewer employees to deliver comparable output.

The difference in productivity between established technology giants and newer AI companies offers a glimpse of where the industry could be headed. "Anthropic makes $6 million+ per employee, Microsoft is a few hundred thousand dollars per employee. Big Tech companies are shrinking to work in a way similar to the new AI labs," Bindra says.

The comparison points to a different model of growth, in which revenue and output matter more than the number of people on the payroll. Microsoft, meanwhile, is investing approximately $170 billion in capital expenditure during calendar year 2026, with the vast majority directed towards AI infrastructure, data centres and advanced chips. "Headcount will no longer proxy for ambition; output per employee will define overall scale in the future," Bindra says.

Not every cut is driven by AI. Cost pressures, organisational complexity and changing business priorities are also at play

For India, the implications could be particularly far-reaching. The IT services industry has traditionally relied on a pyramid-shaped workforce, with large numbers of fresh graduates handling coding, testing, maintenance and support under experienced professionals. AI threatens to narrow this base. If a smaller team using AI tools can complete work that once required several junior employees, demand for freshers could weaken even as companies seek more specialised talent.

Sachin Grover, vice-president and head of GenAI initiatives at NIIT, says professionals will need to build, integrate, validate and govern AI-enabled solutions rather than simply execute predefined tasks. Problem-solving, critical thinking and the ability to use AI tools effectively will become essential alongside technical knowledge.

India has significant advantages, accounting for 28% of the world's STEM workforce and 23% of global software engineering talent. But the size of its talent pool alone cannot guarantee employment if entry-level work changes faster than education and training can adapt.

Manish Prasad, president and managing director of SAP Indian Subcontinent, says preparing Indian talent for the next wave of innovation requires sustained investment in how people learn and apply their skills. SAP aims to equip two million people in India with AI-ready skills by 2030, contributing to its global target of 12 million.

Meanwhile, AI is creating opportunities in model development, chip design, data infrastructure, cybersecurity, governance and enterprise implementation. The question is whether these roles will grow fast enough to offset pressure on routine work, and whether displaced employees can acquire the skills needed to move into them.

For Big Tech, the reset is about getting more out of fewer people as computing power takes on a growing share of the work. For India's IT industry, the challenge is more immediate: its traditional employment engine must adapt before the entry-level jobs it has long generated become harder to find.

The AI boom may create enormous wealth and new categories of work. But unless those gains translate into broader employment opportunities, the industry risks building the future with fewer people while leaving a generation of aspiring technology workers wondering where they fit in.

The power behind the camera

SUBIND KUMAR

UNTIL RECENTLY, VIDEO surveillance consisted of a camera or cameras pointed at a door, a corridor or a cash counter, quietly recording data that someone would only ever look at after something had already gone wrong. Today, this has evolved into command-and-control centres that knit together thousands of cameras across cities into unified traffic, safety and emergency-response systems. The ambition has shifted from simply capturing footage to acting on information in real time.

This shift is changing video surveillance infrastructure too. The camera and the analytics software tend to get the attention, but it is also important that storage does. Storage ensures timely alerts, intact footage, and long-term system reliability.

The move to AI-based video analytics depends on continuous, high-resolution capture. An AI model can only spot an anomaly in a frame if it's captured; gaps in recording are effectively blind spots in the system's judgement. This pushes cameras toward higher resolutions and being on all the time, multiplying the volume of data a storage card or drive must absorb day after day.

That constant data writing requirement has a specific consequence: surveillance storage needs to be high-endurance and reliable. A camera storage card isn't written to once and read occasionally; it is overwritten in a continuous loop for years. Storage rated for casual consumer use simply isn't built to survive that endurance profile. This is why the storage industry designates a separate class of storage rated for continuous read-write cycles under sustained heat and vibration.

There is also a significant argument for keeping storage local, right at the camera or the on-site recorder, along with the cloud. Connectivity across highways, industrial corridors and semi-urban campuses is not always guaranteed. If a network link drops when an incident occurs, a system relying solely on cloud connectivity for alerts and evidence has no record of what happened. Local storage keeps recording, keeps the alert logic running at the edge, and keeps the evidentiary trail intact until connectivity is restored. Cloud and local storage are complementary layers, with local storage doing the job the cloud cannot do when the network fails.

Scale up any surveillance deployment, be it a metro system, a manufacturing plant or a city's traffic grid, and storage health becomes critical. This is why forward-looking deployments are starting to build in storage health monitoring as a basic requirement. Financial institutions continue to emphasise tamper-proof, continuous recording at bank branches and ATMs, reminding us how high the stakes on storage reliability are in regulated environments.

The bottom line is that as surveillance becomes more intelligent and real-time, the storage underneath it needs to be engineered for endurance, not treated as an afterthought in a tender document.

A closer look at your health

SAMSUNG'S WATCH ULTRA2 HELPS BUILD BETTER HABITS

SUDHIR CHOWDHARY

A SMARTWATCH SHOULD help you understand your health without making things complicated. The Samsung Galaxy Watch Ultra2 (47mm, LTE) tracks sleep, monitors vital signs and offers insights to help you build better habits. Its rugged design and outdoor features add to its appeal.

ESTIMATED PRICE: ₹64,999

The watch has a cushion-shaped titanium case and sapphire crystal glass protecting the display. The build feels premium without looking too bulky. The orange Quick Button provides quick access to selected functions. Its 1.52-inch Super AMOLED display, with peak brightness of upto 5,000 nits, remains easy to read in bright sunlight.

Health tracking is its biggest draw. The Galaxy AI Energy Score uses information such as sleep and physical activity to indicate how ready you may be for the day. This can help you decide whether to push yourself during a workout or take it easy.

Sleep tracking and coaching help you understand your sleeping patterns and identify areas for improvement. Blood pressure monitoring and ECG offer additional ways to track heart health. The ECG feature requires the Samsung Health Monitor app and a compatible Samsung Galaxy smartphone running Android 9.0 or later. The Vitals feature and Heart Health Score bring different measurements together to help you follow health trends over time.

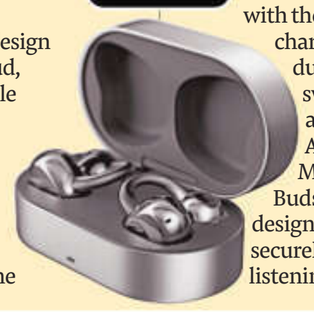

Built for outdoor use, the watch offers 10 ATM water resistance, an IP69K rating and MIL-STD-810H certification. It also supports diving to depths of upto 40 metres, GPX route navigation and an 86dB emergency siren. The 800mAh battery is rated to last upto 60 hours, depending on usage. Fast charging can deliver around 40% charge in 30 minutes.

Overall, the Galaxy Watch Ultra2 combines health tracking, durability and outdoor features for those seeking more than basic fitness monitoring.

Earbuds that keep you connected

SELLING 10,000 UNITS within the first hour of launch, Noise's Master Buds Open signal growing interest in open-ear audio. Developed with Sound by Bose technology, the earbuds combine lightweight design with smart features.

ESTIMATED PRICE: ₹9,999

The ergonomic C-bridge design weighs around 5.5g per earbud, offering a comfortable fit while keeping users aware of their surroundings. The 10.8mm dynamic drivers, six sound presets and Spatial Audio support aim to deliver an immersive listening experience. A four-microphone system, supported by environmental noise cancellation, enhances call clarity. The earbuds also offer a hands-free Noise AI assistant, meeting transcription and summarisation tools.

Battery life extends to 28 hours with the charging case. Fast charging, Bluetooth 5.4 and dual-device connectivity make switching between a laptop and smartphone convenient. Available in Carbon and Mercury finishes, the Master Buds Open offer a clip-on fit designed to keep the earbuds securely in place during extended listening sessions.

The next frontier for robots is your home

SARITHA RAI

AT THE WORLD Humanoid Robot Games in Beijing this August, spectators flocked to the adrenaline-fueled sports competitions—robots sprinting at superhuman speeds and soaring to new records in the high jump. In one sedate section of the convention hall, robots competed to make beds neatly, serve drinks without spilling and tidy rooms like Marie Kondo. One Chinese-designed humanoid hung laundry and folded clothes, then paused mid-chore to collect a package at the door before resuming laundry duty.

China, which has jumped out to a lead in humanoid robots for factories and warehouses, is now stepping up efforts to lead in the home too. One of the pioneers in the field is Dreame Technology, best known for robot vacuums that compete with the likes of Dyson Group and iRobot's Roomba. Jianghao Huo, the 29-year-old leading the company's home strategy, sees an opportunity to use breakthroughs in AI and robotics to free people from any task they consider drudgery.

CHINA IS TAKING ITS HUMANOID ROBOT LEAD FROM FACTORIES TO HOMES

"I want to build a robot that does everything in the household—cooking, cleaning, laundry, shopping," said Huo, chief technology officer of Dreame's embodied intelligence business and head of algorithms for its robot vacuum division.

Jianghao Huo, CTO & head of algorithms for Dreame's robot vacuum division

This vision of humanoids in the home has had a dozen false starts since Rosey the Robot tidied up after the Jetsons in the 1960s. But the technologies necessary are beginning to catch up with the complexities of the task. The global personal and household robots market is forecast to reach $22.1 billion in 2026, up from $18.1 billion in 2025, and $90.9 billion by 2033, according to Grand View Research.

Elon Musk, whose Tesla is building a line of humanoids called Optimus, said he expects the machines to become so affordable that each household will get one or two. OpenAI will build humanoids too.

China has an early lead in the market. The country accounted for 97% of the humanoid shipments in the first half of 2026, according to data from Smart Analytics Global. Shanghai-based Agibot and Hangzhou-based Unitree Robotics led the field with volumes far ahead of top Western companies such as Tesla, Figure AI and Agility Robotics.

At Dreame's headquarters in Suzhou, Huo's teams are working to incorporate new AI models and customised training data to prepare the next generation of home machines. "My ultimate dream is a bit like The Matrix," Huo said. "Machines supporting or taking care of humans so people no longer have to do anything."

SpaceX finds a revenue rocket in AI

ANTHROPIC IS SPACEX'S largest single customer, accounting for more than a third of the revenue for Elon Musk's AI, satellite and rocket venture during third quarter of this year. SpaceX said that about 34.5% of its revenue during the last quarter came from a single client paying its AI division, now called Super Intelligence, which supplies computing power. That client, only identified as "Customer B" in its filing, is Anthropic.

The revenue comes from deals Anthropic inked with SpaceX earlier this year to use the firm's computing power out of its data centres in Memphis. Musk has been slowly turning SpaceX's AI business into that of a so-called neocloud, leasing out the capacity of its data centres to Anthropic and Google. That bet has proven lucrative this quarter, with the AI vertical turning a profit for the first time.

The reliance on AI computing contracts shows how much SpaceX has changed in less than a year, ever since the rocket firm bought Musk's AI venture xAI. For much of SpaceX's history, its contracts with NASA and the department of defence were its most lucrative.

OPEC+ sticks with plan for steady oil output quota

REUTERS
London, November 1

OPEC+ OIL-PRODUCING countries kept December production targets steady on Sunday, confirming expectations that more policy adjustments will not occur until next year, as the group continues to struggle with export disruptions from the Iran war.

Seven core OPEC+ members — Saudi Arabia, Russia, ?Iraq, Kuwait, Algeria, Kazakhstan and Oman — made the decision in an online meeting on Sunday, OPEC said in a statement. While Gulf members have been boosting exports that have been disrupted for months by the conflict, most are still pumping well below their targets.

OPEC+ comprises the Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries and allies including Russia. Only the seven members — plus the United Arab Emirates until it quit OPEC in May — have been involved in monthly output decisions in recent years. All members of the 21-country group are ?due to meet on November 29, when analysts expect it will decide 2027 quotas.

"Today's decision was the easy one," said Jorge Leon, an analyst at Rystad.

"The much more important test comes at the November 29 ministerial meeting, when OPEC+ will decide its 2027 production framework."

Oil prices jumped more than 2% on Friday, with Brent crude settling at almost $118 a barrel, the highest since April, as traders braced for a potential escalation in the Iran war after the US midterm elections.

The International Energy Agency and other forecasters have warned of excess supply in 2027 should Gulf flows return to normal.

"OPEC+ faces an extremely difficult call for 2027," Leon added.

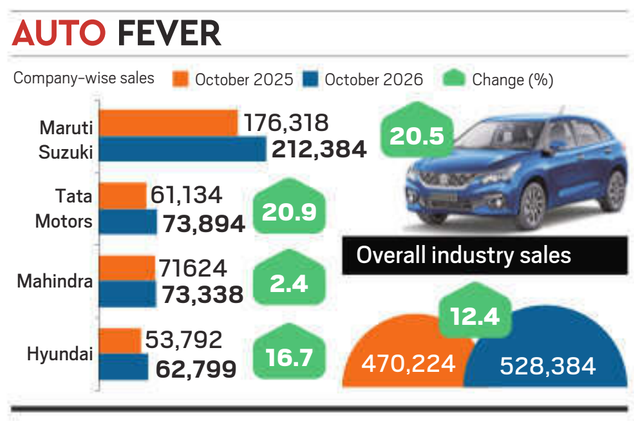

"The group has to plan around huge uncertainty over the US-Iran war, the pace of recovery through the Strait of Hormuz, and the size of the surplus that could emerge once disrupted barrels return."

The seven members have been boosting output targets for much of 2026 and in September completed the phased rollback of a 1.65 million-barrel-per-day supply cut first agreed in 2023.

At earlier meetings, they kept the targets steady for October and November.

Car sales rev up 12.4% in Oct on...

THE DIVERGENCE IN growth highlights how manufacturers are benefiting differently from the demand recovery. Maruti Suzuki and Tata Motors recorded stronger growth across their portfolios, while Mahindra's relatively modest increase reflects a high base in the SUV segment, which accounts for the bulk of its passenger vehicle sales.

Maruti Suzuki reported its highest-ever monthly domestic passenger vehicle sales in October, but the broader demand picture also points to supply constraints. Dealer inventory stood at just 12 days, while pending bookings were around 245,000 vehicles, indicating that the company is still struggling to fully meet demand.

The automaker expects to gain at least two percentage points in market share, building on its approximately 40% share in FY26, as demand for small cars and SUVs supports volumes.

"We expect to gain the market share by at least 2%, but we have to wait and watch till all the numbers come," said Partho Banerjee, senior executive officer, marketing and sales, Maruti Suzuki India.

The company expects to sustain double-digit growth in FY27, although fewer working days in November due to festivals could constrain production and vehicle dispatches.

Mahindra attributed its record monthly SUV sales to strong festive demand and a refreshed product portfolio.

"The festive season, together with a refreshed portfolio, kept demand strong across SUVs, pick-ups and three-wheelers. Our first CNG vehicle, the XUV 3XO ZNG has also seen strong traction with customers," said Velusamy R, president, automotive business, Mahindra & Mahindra.

Hyundai Motor India said festive demand and export momentum contributed to its performance.

"Strong festive demand, coupled with healthy momentum in both domestic and export markets, helped us set this new sales record.

"Going forward, the newly launched Hyundai BAYON — our intelligent utility vehicle — will provide further impetus to our growth," said Tarun Garg, managing director and CEO, Hyundai Motor India.

However, sustaining the October momentum could prove challenging in the coming months.

The year-on-year growth figures will face a higher base of comparison following strong festive-season sales in the corresponding period last year. Demand could also moderate after the festival-led buying cycle, making it harder for automakers to maintain the current pace of growth.

Rising commodity prices are adding to the pressure, with manufacturers indicating the possibility of further vehicle price increases.

Maruti Suzuki, which has already implemented three price hikes this year, said it could consider calibrated increases if input costs remain elevated. Higher vehicle prices could weigh on affordability and make it harder for automakers to sustain sales momentum.

Q2 story: Strong

OF THE 105 results that have been analysed from its coverage universe, 56% of companies reported results above expectations.

Makers of consumer goods and retailers have been impacted by the shift in the festive season to October-November this year. The outlook, however, is optimistic with management commentary suggesting the peak festive period will be rewarding in terms of sales. At the same time, there is some concern raw material pressures will not ebb soon. Godrej Consumer Products, for instance, confirmed input cost inflation continues to be higher in Q3; the company could soon take price hikes in some categories. TVS Motor too expects commodity pressures to persist, albeit at a lower intensity than in the April-September period.

At Asian Paints, the management expects volumes to grow at 8-9% in the second half of FY27, better than in Q2. The company also plans to take further price hikes of around 3%, which would help shore up margins; Ebitda (earnings before interest tax, depreciation and amortisation) margins contracted 200 basis points in the September quarter; the approach now is to balance growth and margins.

At Hindustan Unilever, which reported its best revenue growth in 14 quarters, gross margins contracted sharply by 400 basis points as the company's price hikes have been gradual in an inflationary environment.

However, the FMCG player's Ebitda margins dipped by a much smaller 130 bps y-o-y as HUL reined in expenses on A&P and extracted cost efficiencies.

While net sales for a sample of 773 companies (excluding BFSI, Vedanta and Oil marketing companies) were up a smart 25.08% y-o-y, operating margins were virtually flat at 16.67% as total expenses rose 24.81%. Net profits for the sample were up a strong 28.66%. Reliance Industries posted a good set of numbers as consolidated net profit was up 40.6% y-o-y in the quarter, led by a strong performance from its oil-to-chemicals (O2C) business.

Retailers have reported decent results. Avenue Supermarts' revenue growth accelerated to 18% y-o-y in Q2, compared with 15% in Q1 as like-for-like growth recovered to 9.5% y-o-y from 5.5% in Q1FY27. Again, Trent's revenue from operations rose 22% y-o-y, pushing up the operating profit by 37%.

Analysts at the Jefferies have noted that banks, two-wheelers, power utilities and consumer goods companies have delivered good results with IT services and consumer staples turning in mixed numbers.

A 44% y-o-y jump in revenues, boosted by a 27% rise in volumes, helped TVS Motor gain operating leverage and overcome commodity cost headwinds. The 2-wheeler manufacturer's margins were also supported favourable currency benefits and tight cost-control measures.

On the other hand, the performance of four-wheelers has been weak.

At Maruti Suzuki, revenues grew 26% y-o-y but they were helped by a low base and were driven entirely by volumes. Realisations at the country's biggest carmaker were flat y-o-y. Ebitda margins contracted by 310 points leaving the operating profit lower by 6%. Hyundai Motors' realisations were up by about 3.3% y-o-y while volumes were up 15% supporting sales growth of 18.5% y-o-y. Gross margins declined by 270bp y-o-y weighed down by elevated commodity prices.

Sluggish sowing & low output...

AVERAGE RETAIL ONION prices rose to ₹53.42/kg on Saturday, up 100% from a year earlier. Retail prices have risen in the last couple of months because of a fall in output, while prices in Delhi-NCR have crossed ₹65/kg.

To curb the price rise, the government has started to offload onions at the subsidized rate of ₹35/kg from its buffer, while sources said that prices are likely to rise for a few more weeks until the arrival of the kharif harvest. "Food inflation is surging and is already at 7.7% (in September). With the El Nino impact becoming visible, it is time to take action. Either release more stocks in the open market or allow more imports of sugar, pulses and oilseeds at low duty," Ashok Gulati, agricultural economist, told FE.

Retail prices of mustard oils increased to ₹208.18/kg on Saturday, an increase of 11% over the previous year.

Sugar prices saw a sharp spike in August because of a decline in production during the 2025-26 season (October–September) and the government announced raw sugar imports of 1 million tonne (MT).

Prices of rice increased to ₹48.38/kg on Saturday, a 12% increase over the previous year, amid prospects of lower non-Basmati variants output especially in the southern regions. Retail inflation in rice in September was 8.25% compared to 5.89% in August 2026.

An official said the government currently holds over 37 MT of rice stock against a buffer requirement of 10.25 MT for October 1; this stock would be offloaded under the open market sale scheme to curb the price rise.

Retail prices of chana (gram) dal, which accounts for 50% of the country's pulse production, as of Sunday witnessed an 8% year-on-year increase despite robust buffers and imports of yellow peas. Wheat prices have increased only by over 2% year-on-year to ₹32.49/kg. FCI currently holds 45.4 MT of wheat stock against a buffer of 20.5 MT for October 1.

Sharma of Crisil said within field crops, paddy, maize, tur, cotton and groundnut warrant closer monitoring, given the expected pressure on yields. "Paddy has faced weather-related stress in key growing regions, while maize, pulses, oilseeds and cotton could see lower output conditions accompanied by relatively firm prices," Sharma said.

PM to meet Niti top brass amid global headwinds

THE DISCUSSIONS ARE also expected to cover ways to scale up manufacturing and accelerate deregulation, as well as policies focused on the poor and farmers. These challenges are likely to persist into 2027.

The seven members of Niti Aayog are former cabinet secretary Rajiv Gauba, economist K V Raju, former AIIMS director M Srinivas, scientist Gobardhan Das, former science and technology secretary Abhay Karandikar, former Capacity Building Commission member R Balasubramaniam, and academician Joram Aniya.

Niti Aayog has emerged as a vital pillar in India's policy-making architecture, fostering cooperative federalism, furthering reforms and boosting 'ease of living'. It serves as a dynamic platform for innovation and long-term strategic thinking across sectors at a time the Centre is pursuing systemic reforms to achieve its vision of Viksit Bharat 2047 and attract global investment. The rupee hit a record low of 96.96 against the US dollar in May 2026 amid surging oil prices and heavy capital outflows triggered by the West Asia conflict. It strengthened 1% in October to 94.95 per dollar, marking its strongest monthly gain since February, aided by RBI intervention. Among other issues, the strengthening of India's human capital through reforms in education, skilling and future-ready employment, while advancing the broader vision of Atmanirbhar Bharat, is also likely to be discussed.

The interaction could also cover how investments in knowledge, health, skills and institutional capacity can support long-term economic growth.

Opposition steps up attack on govt over 'vote chori'

ASAD REHMAN
New Delhi, November 1

Congress leader Rahul Gandhi and other Opposition leaders at an INDIA bloc rally at Ramlila Maidan in New Delhi on Sunday AP

STEPPING UP HIS attack on Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Union Home Minister Amit Shah and Chief Election Commissioner Gyanesh Kumar, Leader of Opposition Rahul Gandhi said on Sunday that the CEC would be jailed for "treason" in the future over his role in "vote chori", and that Modi and Shah would face legal action.

Addressing the Opposition INDIA bloc's rally at Delhi's Ramlila Maidan, Gandhi said, "Amit Shah said Narendra Modi is not going anywhere. I am telling you Narendra Modi cannot go anywhere. Even if he wants to go, we will not let him. Narendra Modi ji and Amit Shah ji, understand this: after Gyanesh Kumar, we will stand against you and don't forget that for the vote chori you have done, there will be legal action against you and Narendra Modi."

The rally, which saw Opposition parties mobilise workers from other states, was organised to demand the CEC's resignation and protest against the Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls.

Gandhi said removing Kumar as the CEC would be "the first step to getting the country on the right track". He alleged that "without Gyanesh Kumar, Narendra Modi wouldn't have become PM and Amit Shah wouldn't be Home Minister".

"In 2024, there was a 3% difference between NDA and us. It was an illegal election, a stolen election. I am not saying this, the Election Commission is. They removed 133 million voters from the list. That is one in every seven Indians, 15 per cent of India's electorate. What I say comes true. I said something about Covid and it came true. I am saying Gyanesh Kumar will be removed as CEC. He will go to jail," he said.

"This is not a regular chori. It is a theft of the voice of every person. In legal parlance, it is called the rarest of rare cases. It is called treason," he said.

Referring to the turnout at Ramlila Maidan, Gandhi said, "This is not the voice of a political party or leaders but the voice of youth, farmers, labourers, and it is declaring that 'we will not let democracy and Constitution be destroyed in India'."

Before the LoP spoke, leaders of other Opposition parties took to the stage to target the BJP and the government. After Congress president Mallikarjun Kharge alleged that the PM "selects voters" instead of voters electing him, SP chief Akhilesh Yadav echoed him, alleging that "BJP wants only its members to be voters and citizens of India".

Yadav said the Ramlila Maidan had turned into the "Haldighati of democracy" and said those who had come to power at the Centre through Uttar Pradesh would also exit from there. "UP wallahs, who are good at welcoming, are better at giving send-offs," said the SP president.

Trinamool Congress chief Mamata Banerjee alleged that West Bengal was a "victim of the circumstances created by SIR" and urged the Cockroach Janta Party and the youth to join forces with the Opposition.

RJD leader Tejashwi Yadav said the Ramlila Maidan was known for hosting Ramlila performances marking Ram's win over Ravan which is retold in the Ramayana.

"But today, we are doing Mahabharat here. When Shakuni rolled the dice, he rigged it. If Shakuni is playing his game today, then we have to make this Kurukshetra," he said.

The Left was represented on the stage by CPI(M) general secretary MA Baby and CPI(M-L) Liberation general secretary Dipankar Bhattacharya.

National Conference president Farooq Abdullah questioned the claim that many voters deleted during the SIR were infiltrators, asking whether Hindu voters allegedly removed from the rolls in Uttar Pradesh were also "Pakistanis".

Rahul chose 1984 riot day for rally, rubbed salt in wounds of victims: Shah

HINA ROHTAKI
Chandigarh, November 1

AS THE BJP sought to counter the INDIA bloc rally at the Ramlila Maidan in Delhi Sunday, Union Home Minister Amit Shah accused Leader of Opposition and Congress MP Rahul Gandhi of "deliberately choosing" the anniversary of the 1984 anti-Sikh riots to hold its protest.

Speaking in Chandigarh after launching a slew of projects, Shah said, "In 1984, Rajiv Gandhi made a statement that when a big tree falls, the ground shakes. Today, his son Rahul Gandhi has organised a major rally in Delhi on the very same day to rub salt into the wounds of the riot victims."

BJP president Nitin Nabin too slammed the Congress over the INDIA bloc rally.

Addressing a 'Loktantra Bachao, Arajakta Hatao Padyatra' in Haryana's Rohtak, Nabin said, "The Congress should have sought atonement and offered an apology for the acts committed against the Sikh brethren. Instead, it has come out to stage a protest."

He said because the Congress did not receive the mandate, it is "disappointed" and "frustrated" and is "blaming the constitutional institutions for this".

He dared the Congress leaders to "first put an end to the "rajtantra" (monarchy) "centred around Rahul Gandhi" and establish democracy within their party.

GST mop-up growth...

"THE GROWTH IN domestic revenue, therefore, remains an important indicator to watch when evaluating the underlying momentum in the economy," Mishra said.

Saurabh Agarwal, tax partner, EY India, said that the sustained growth in import-linked collections underscores the need to further push domestic manufacturing capabilities.

Domestic collections comprised Central GST (CGST) of ₹42,935 crore, State GST (SGST) of ₹51,340 crore, and Integrated GST (IGST) of ₹64,769 crore.

On a month-on-month basis, gross GST collections were up 13.6% from September, reflecting increased demand because of the ongoing festive season.

GST revenue post-refunds rose 25.6% on year in October to ₹2.03 lakh crore while refunds rose 6.5% year-on-year to ₹27,934 crore.

"Looking ahead, the festive season should keep demand buoyant, and collections for the coming month are likely to remain strong," Agarwal said.

In terms of state-wise performance, healthy growth in collections was seen in Rajasthan, Jammu and Kashmir, Bihar, Uttar Pradesh, Punjab, Assam, Meghalaya, Jharkhand and Madhya Pradesh.

Tamil Nadu's GST collection grew just 3% in October. This warrants a closer examination of its manufacturing and consumption-led revenue trends, said Sivakumar Ramjee, executive director- indirect tax, Nangia Global. "The policy challenge is therefore twofold: strengthen organic domestic revenue growth while ensuring legitimate refunds are processed swiftly," Ramjee said.

Ikesh Nagpal, lead, indirect taxation, AKM Global, said that GST is increasingly serving not just as a revenue instrument but also as a reflection of economic formalisation and business activity.

"The 57th GST Council's recommendations on faster refunds, simplified registration, improved ITC mechanisms and streamlined compliance can further strengthen this ecosystem by reducing working capital pressures and improving ease of doing business," Nagpal said.

VCs count on...

"WHEN YOU INVEST at an early stage, you are backing a founder who is still figuring out the market, building a team, finding customers and, sometimes, creating an entirely new category. Not every business will reach scale at the same pace," Padmaja Ruparel, co-founder, IAN Group, said. The structure allows the fund to stay invested longer where warranted, without having to evaluate every company against the same exit timeline.

Evergreen funds can also reinvest returns from successful investments instead of distributing all proceeds and raising a fresh fund. However, the model requires greater discipline in valuations, governance and capital allocation, particularly in balancing long-term investments with investor liquidity expectations.

"The biggest challenge is balancing long-term investment decisions with investor liquidity expectations," Shubham Jhuria, CFO and partner, Aeravti Ventures, said. Such structures are also more suited to institutional investors with longer investment horizons than high-net-worth individuals and family offices, Pai said.

Despite these challenges, investors are making representations to the regulator to allow evergreen structures in India. They say that foreign funds investing in the country already operate with longer investment horizons, giving them greater flexibility in timing exits. Allowing domestic funds similar flexibility, they believe, would help create a more level playing field.

Pre-Diwali mood...

THE FMCG GROWTH comes on the back of an extended festive calendar this year, with Navratri, Dussehra, Durga Puja and early Diwali stocking all falling in October. This provided a stronger boost to sales compared with last year, when the timing of festivals resulted in some demand and product placement being spread across September and October.

"Last year, while Diwali and Dussehra were in October, Dussehra was very early in the month, so product placement was split between September and October. This year, the entire Navratri period, Dussehra, Durga Puja and early Diwali stocking happened in October. That has aided growth," said Parth Sethi, growth officer, CEO's office, Bizom.

The acceleration also reflects improved retail execution, with product placement across outlets rising 8% y-o-y in October, compared with 4% in September. The improvement was more pronounced in rural markets, where placement increased 9% in October, against 6% in urban markets for the same period.

While FMCG growth in recent months has been supported by price increases and rural demand, October's performance points towards a broader recovery in consumption. Sethi said there were signs of pent-up demand being released, especially in urban markets due to the festive season.

"Demand continues to stay resilient. We've seen both urban and rural demand remain positive. This is showing up in terms of how well our brands are holding up in our ability to price and yet maintain volumes," Priya Nair, CEO & MD, Hindustan Unilever (HUL), said.

In a conversation with FE, Tata Consumer MD & CEO Sunil D'Souza said that demand was holding up despite the company taking price hikes in tea and salt. "We remain confident of delivering continued double-digit top-line growth and margin expansion in the second half of FY27," D'Souza said.

Most FMCG categories in rural markets, according to Bizom, recorded strong double-digit growth. In urban markets, commodities, dairy products, home care and packaged foods registered double-digit growth, supported by festive purchases and higher household spending, it said.

Price increases, however, continued to contribute to the overall value growth. Category-specific price hikes accounted for around 8-9% of the value expansion, Sethi said.

With companies entering the final stretch of the festive season, the extent to which this demand sustains beyond October will be an important indicator of the durability of the consumption recovery.

FUTURE-READY AIR FORCE

New IAF chief Dixit unveils 'VAYU' vision

AMRITA NAYAK DUTTA
New Delhi, November 1

A DAY AFTER he took charge as the 29th Chief of Air Staff, Air Chief Marshal Ashutosh Dixit outlined his top priorities to strengthen and modernise the force.

They are: Restoring the IAF's sanctioned combat strength, boosting self-reliance, adopting the latest technologies and procedures, and strengthening synergy between the three services.

He summed up these priorities in a word synonymous with the IAF – 'VAYU'. The 'V' stands for vigilance and readiness. Every squadron, radar, air defence unit and air warrior must be ready to respond at a moment's notice, Air Chief Marshal Dixit said. "Restoring our combat strength towards the sanctioned level will also be my foremost task," he added.

The IAF's fighter strength is well below its sanctioned 42 squadrons. Several MiG-21 squadrons have been phased out in recent years, other fighter squadrons are scheduled to be phased out by the end of 2029–30, and the induction of the LCA Tejas has been delayed.

Air Chief Marshal Ashutosh Dixit

The 'A' in VAYU stands for Aatmanirbharta, or self-reliance, Air Chief Marshal Dixit said. Priorities centre on the Tejas Mk1 and Mk1A, the next-generation Advanced Medium Combat Aircraft, alongside Indian-made weapons and sensors.

The IAF will fight with Indian solutions, fielded in adequate numbers to meet sustained operational demands. "Our responsibility is to fight and win, but most importantly it is to deter conflict through credible Air Power," he said.

"Y is for Yukti, our ingenuity," Air Chief Marshal Dixit said. He added that the IAF would continue to advance innovation in doctrine, procedures and technology; networked, AI-enabled command and control; layered counter-drone defence; responsive maintenance; force protection; resilience; and the use of near-space as an operational domain.

"U stands for unity of effort," he said. "In step with the vision of JAI — Jointness, Aatmanirbharta and Innovation — we will plan and fight as one alongside our Army, our Navy and our national agencies." He emphasised that air power is most effective when integrated from the outset. Describing the Indian Air Force as "vigilant, ready and resolute", he said: "Our commitment is clear: to remain ready, to keep transforming and to deliver whenever the nation calls."

Sindhu bags Hylo Open with commanding win over Line

DOUBLE OLYMPIC MEDALLIST PV Sindhu clinched her second title of the season, bagging the Hylo Open Super 500 tournament with a straight game win over world No. 25 Line Højmark Kjærsfeldt of Denmark here on Sunday. A former world champion, Sindhu, who won the Japan Open in July and finished runner-up at the French Open last week, showed great control and quality in her stroke-play, while registering a dominating 21-12 21-14 win over eighth seed Line in the 39-minute summit clash of the $500,000 event.

"It was important for me to give my 100% irrespective of who the opponent was. We've played a lot of times and for me it was important that I focus on every point. It's just not about the whole game, but every point mattered to me," Sindhu said. "I took the lead from the beginning and I didn't give her a chance," she added. The world No. 8 Indian thus grabbed 9200 ranking points to stay on track for the season-ending World Tour Finals. "This gives me a lot of boost, a lot of confidence. I'm happy that things are going according to the plan," Sindhu added. —PTI

ADVERTORIAL

BRAHAMASTRA, a Lord's Mark Venture, Takes Indigenous Defence Innovation to the Global Stage

Lord's Mark Industries Limited is advancing India's indigenous defence technology through Brahamastra Defence Techno Products Limited. Three years ago, Lord's Mark's passion for technology and commitment to Make in India set this journey in motion, focused on developing world-class products that showcase Indian engineering globally. The initiative reflects an ambition to build specialised capabilities at home and establish an international position for Indian-developed defence technologies.

Brahamastra's flagship portfolio features three products: BRAK RT, a long-range laser rangefinder with a day-channel camera; BRAK Alpha, a multipurpose laser rangefinder; and TRC-1, a smart trail camera. They are positioned as having no equivalents worldwide. The wider portfolio includes holographic and reflex sights, telescopic and thermal imaging sights, handheld thermal imagers, day/night surveillance systems, anti-drone systems and other optoelectronic equipment, supporting Atmanirbhar Bharat.

BRAK RT combines laser-based distance measurement with a day-observation camera. Its stated specifications include a maximum range of 20,000 metres, accuracy of up to one metre (1σ), and detection of up to five targets. Integrated GPS and orientation sensors provide positional and directional information, while its IP68-rated construction is designed for demanding environments.

BRAK Alpha combines distance measurement with target detection and orientation data. It offers a stated range of 10–5,000 metres, accuracy of up to 0.5 metres (1σ), and detection of up to five targets. GPS, azimuth measurement and inclination sensing support field use.

TRC-1 Smart Trail Camera provides motion-triggered imaging and day-and-night capture for field surveillance. Its specifications include 5 MP or higher still images, 1080p video, a minimum 120-degree field of view and invisible infrared illumination up to 10 metres. Developed in Navi Mumbai, it features role-based permissions and audit records. Video is intended to remain on the camera rather than being centrally stored.

The portfolio is being developed amid demand for advanced electro-optical, infrared and surveillance technologies. Markets and Markets projects India's military electro-optics and infrared (EO/IR) market to grow from US$1.19 billion in 2026 to US$1.78 billion by 2030, at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 10.4%. Globally, Mordor Intelligence projects the military electro-optical and infrared systems market to rise from US$9.09 billion in 2025 to US$10.77 billion by 2031, at a CAGR of 2.87%. These trends could create opportunities for partnerships, deployment and exports, subject to technical, regulatory and procurement requirements.

Lord's EST. 1979 48th Anniversary Success, Growth and Teamwork

Dr.Sachidanand Upadhyay, Founder, MD & CEO of Lord's Mark Industries Limited, said: "Our love and enthusiasm for technology and belief in Make in India inspired this journey three years ago. We saw an opportunity to use India's engineering talent and research capabilities to develop world-class indigenous defence technologies for global markets. Our ambition is to go beyond domestic needs and create products reflecting India's technological strength internationally. Brahamastra's portfolio can open new markets and strengthen India's role in specialised defence technology."

Risk to Investors

For details, refer to section titled "Risk Factors" on page 20 of the Prospectus.

1. Dependence of our Total Income on the Variable Additional Return:
   Our Variable Additional Return constitutes 32.41%, 27.54%, 30.14%, 24.25% and 16.19% of our Total Income for the three months period ended June 30, 2026, June 30, 2025 and Financial Years 2026, 2025 and 2024, respectively. Further, the realized Variable Additional Return may be different from our Variable Additional Return recognized on a year-on-year basis and the timing and receipt of Variable Additional Return are unpredictable and contribute to volatility in our cash flows.
2. Dependence of our Total Income on the Management and Advisory Fees:
   A significant portion of Total Income comes from our Management and Advisory Fees. There is a risk that it may fluctuate depending on the performance of our funds, changes in fee structure, competition and market conditions which may consequently affect our Total Income.
3. Historical growth rates may not be indicative of the future growth:
   Our business growth depends on, among other things, our ability to retain client trust, our ability to deal with changing market conditions, such as developing new investment products, maintaining and extending our distribution capabilities, and complying with new regulations. Any failure in managing our growth could affect our AUM and/or FPAUM, or damage our brand or reputation, which could result in a reversal of any growth that is achieved.
4. Risk related to valuation methodologies
   Most of the investments of our funds are illiquid and thus may have no readily ascertainable market prices. We value these investments based on our estimate, or an independent third party's estimate, of their fair value as of the date of determination, which often involves significant subjectivity.
5. Lack of directly comparable Indian listed peers
   The absence of directly comparable Indian listed peers may present challenges in terms of how investors perceive and value our Company. The lack of comparable companies in the domestic market can create uncertainty and variability in the assessment of our financial performance, growth prospects, and overall business value.
6. Risk related to the capital commitment
   Our funds are dependent on our clients honoring their capital calls for disbursements to enable our funds to make investments and cover fund expenses. However, these capital calls may not be honored due to several factors, which in turn can adversely affect the operations and performance of our funds. Any failure to timely secure capital commitment in future, if arisen, may compel us to divest assets under suboptimal conditions, adversely impacting investment returns and fund performance.
7. Risk related to the regulatory and statutory restrictions
   Our Group Companies and Promoters are subject to purview of various authorities such as SEBI, RBI and tax authorities which may result in financial penalties, additional compliances and regulatory restrictions.
8. Risk related to the negative cash flows
   We have experienced negative cash flows in the past and prolonged negative cash flow could adversely affect our financial condition and business operations including delays in implementing strategic initiatives or expansion plans. The following table sets forth certain financial information for the periods indicated:

(in ₹ million)

Particulars	Three months period ended June 30,*		For the Financial Year ended*
	2026	2025	2026	2025	2024
Net cash (used in) / generated from operating activities	1,303.84	1,456.81	2,352.44	(1,201.69)	(132.70)
Net cash (used in) / generated from investment activities	(119.64)	(180.50)	1,117.01	878.11	(1,526.40)
Net cash generated from / (used in) financing activities	(550.39)	(291.57)	(3,440.59)	75.95	1,780.44

The financial details are in agreement with the Restated Consolidated Financial Information for the three months period ended June 30, 2026, June 30, 2025, Financial Years 2026, 2025 and 2024.*

9. Unpredictable Variable Additional Return
   The timing and receipt of Variable Additional Return (net of Variable Additional Return related cost) from the funds we manage and advise are inherently unpredictable and contribute to the volatility of our cash flows. Given below is our Net Variable Additional Return for the periods indicated:

(in ₹ million)

Particulars	Three months period ended June 30,		For the Financial Year ended			Total accrued[2]
	2026	2025	2026	2025	2024
Variable Additional Return [1] (A)	1,089.53	582.98	2,904.72	1,907.29	945.66	6,847.20
Variable Additional Return related cost (B)	825.03	131.52	1,610.87	1,311.31	841.62	4,588.83
Net Variable Additional Return (C=A-B)	264.50	451.46	1,293.85	595.98	104.04	2,258.37

Note:
(1) Variable Additional Return is the additional variable return to the Company and its Subsidiaries once the fund has achieved the hurdle rate of return for its investors based on NAV and/or Realisation, shown as other operating revenues in Restated Consolidated Financial Information. The recognition of Variable Additional Return is guided by the waterfall distribution mechanism specified in the respective fund documentation and as per Company and its Subsidiaries' policies.
(2) Total accrued is for the period from April,1 2023 till June 30, 2026.

10. Risk related to distributors or placement agents
    More than 33.75% of the funds raised from domestic investors in three months period ended June 30, 2026 were raised through distributors. Mismanagement in handling our relationships with distributors or placement agents could have a negative impact on our business, financial condition, and results of operations.
11. Offer-related Risk:
    We will not receive any proceeds from the Offer for Sale, aggregating to ₹12,000 million and the proceeds from the Offer for Sale will be transferred to the Promoter Selling Shareholder.
12. The Price/Earnings ratio based on diluted EPS for Fiscal 2026 for the Company at the Offer Price is as high as 41.25 as compared to the average industry peer group PE ratio of 39.89.
13. Weighted Average Return on Net Worth for Financial Year ended 2026, 2025 and 2024 is 26.57%.
14. Weighted average cost of acquisition of all shares transacted in the last one year, eighteen months and three years preceding the date of the Prospectus:
    The details of weighted average cost of acquisition of all Equity Shares transacted in the last one year, eighteen months, and three years by the Promoters (including the Promoter Selling Shareholder) and members of the Promoter Group preceding the date of the Prospectus is as follows:

Period	Number of Equity Shares transacted of face value ₹5 each	Weighted Average Cost of Acquisition per Equity Share of face value of ₹5 each (in ₹)	Offer Price is 'X' times the Weighted Average Cost of Acquisition	Range of acquisition price: Lowest Price – Highest Price (in ₹)
Last one year	Nil	NA	NA	Nil
Last eighteen months	6,363,744	925.00	1.80	925.00
Last three years*	52,258,260*	184.02*	9.05	51.84* - 925.00

As certified by NGS & Co. LLP., Chartered Accountants (FRN: 119850W/W100013), by way of their certificate dated October 28, 2026.
 Pursuant to the resolution of the Board dated August 9, 2024, and the resolution of Shareholders dated August 16, 2024, each equity share of face value ₹10 each was subdivided into 2 (two) Equity Shares of face value of ₹5 each. The number of equity shares held and average cost of acquisition per equity share shown in the table above has been adjusted to give effect to such sub-division.*

15. The 4 BRLMs associated with the Offer have handled 114 public Issues in the past three financial years, out of which 30 Issues closed below the offer price on listing date:

RISKS TO INVESTORS

1. Risk to Investors: Top 5 Risk factors:

a) Our business operations rely significantly on the continuous and timely supply of products from top 5 and top 10 suppliers. Also, we do not have continuing and exclusive supply agreement with them. Our purchases of stock-in-trade from top 10 suppliers are 99.77%, 99.33%, 99.82% and 99.97% for the period ended June 30, 2026 and for the fiscal years 2026, 2025 and 2024 respectively on the basis of Restated Standalone Financial Statements, accordingly, this exposes us to a concentration of purchases from top 10 suppliers and also, any interruptions or discontinuation of same will adversely impact our overall performance and profitability.

b) We depend on top 10 customers for a significant portion of our revenue from operations which contributed 63.36%, 67.75%, 67.34% and 47.50% of our revenue from operations on the basis of Restated Standalone Financial Statements, for the period ended June 30, 2026 and for the fiscal years 2026, 2025 and 2024 respectively. Also, our Company in the usual course of Business does not have any long-term contracts with its customers and we rely on purchase orders for delivery of our products and our customers may cancel or modify their orders, change quantities, delay or change their sourcing strategy. Loss of one or more of our top Customers or a reduction in their demand for our products or reduction in revenue derived from them may adversely affect our Business, Results of Operations and Financial Condition

c) We generate 100% of our revenue from operations from domestic market of which major portion of sales from our operations is generated from certain geographical regions especially, Delhi, Uttar Pradesh and Haryana which totally contributed 74.25%, 83.76%, 77.42% and 55.21% for the period ended June 30, 2026 and for the fiscals 2026, 2025 and 2024 respectively on the basis of Restated Standalone Financial Statements. Any adverse developments affecting our operations in these regions could have an adverse impact on our revenue and results of operations

d) In the past and in the current scenario, our Company sources 100% of the products from domestic market and majority of the domestic purchases are from Delhi and Uttar Pradesh which totally contributed 95.54%, 99.15%, 95.87%, and 99.82% of our total purchases for the period ended June 30, 2026 and for the Fiscals 2026, 2025 and 2024 respectively on the basis of Restated Standalone Financial Statements. Any adverse developments or any fluctuations in the future affecting our procurement from these particular states or such geographical concentration in the domestic purchases, could have an adverse impact on our revenue and results of operations

e) A major proportion of our revenues are derived from products namely LED TVs and Electric Scooters which totally contributed 92.66%, 94.75%, 94.26% and 75.45% of our revenue from operations on the basis of Restated Standalone Financial Statements for the period ended June 30, 2026 and for the Financial Years ended March 31, 2026, 2025 and 2024 respectively and any reduction in the demand for the above-mentioned products could have an adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

2. Our Equity Shares have never been publicly traded and may experience price and volume fluctuations following the completion of the Offer. Further, our Equity Shares may not result in an active or liquid market, and the price of our Equity Shares may be volatile, and you may be unable to resell your Equity Shares at or above the Offer Price or at all.

This offer was made through the Book Building Process, in terms of Rule 19(2)(b) of the Securities Contracts (Regulation) Rules, 1957, as amended (the "SCRR") read with Regulation 229 of the SEBI ICDR Regulations and in compliance with Regulation 253 (1) and 253 (2) of the SEBI ICDR Regulations read with SEBI ICDR (Amendment) Regulations, 2025, wherein not more than 50.00% of the Net Offer was available for allocation on a proportionate basis to Qualified Institutional Buyers ("QIBs") (the "QIB Portion"), provided that our Company and the selling shareholder in consultation with the BRLM allocated up to 60.00% of the QIB Portion to Anchor Investors on a discretionary basis ("Anchor Investor Portion"). With effect from December 01, 2025, pursuant to the Securities and Exchange Board of India (Issue of Capital and Disclosure Requirements) (Third Amendment) Regulations, 2025, of which, up to 40% of the Anchor Investor Portion was reserved in the following manner, (i) 33.33% was available for allocation to domestic Mutual Funds and (ii) 6.67% was available for allocation to life insurance companies and pension funds, subject to valid Bids being received from domestic Mutual Funds, life insurance companies, and pension funds at or above the Anchor Investor Allocation Price. In the event of under-subscription under (ii) above, the allocation was made to domestic Mutual Funds. In the event of under-subscription or non-allocation in the Anchor Investor Portion, the balance Equity Shares shall be added to the remaining QIB Portion (other than the Anchor Investor Portion) ("Net QIB Portion") Further, 5.00% of the Net QIB Portion was available for allocation on a proportionate basis to Mutual Funds only, and the remainder of the Net QIB Portion was available for allocation on a proportionate basis to all QIB Bidders, other than Anchor Investors, including Mutual Funds, subject to valid Bids being received at or above the Offer Price. However, if the aggregate demand from Mutual Funds is less than 5.00% of the Net QIB Portion, the balance Equity Shares was available for allocation in the Mutual Fund Portion was added to the remaining Net QIB Portion for proportionate allocation to QIBs. Further, the SEBI ICDR Regulations, as amended, stated that not less than 35% of the Net Offer was to be available for allocation to Individual Investors who applied for minimum application size. Not less than 15% of the Net Offer was to be made available for allocation to Non-Institutional Investors of which one-third of the Non-Institutional Portion was available for allocation to Bidders with an application size of more than two lots and up to such lots as equivalent to not more than ₹ 10.00 Lakhs and two-thirds of the Non-Institutional Portion was available for allocation to Bidders with an application size of more than ₹ 10.00 Lakhs and under-subscription in either of these two sub-categories of Non-Institutional Portion to be allocated to Bidders in the other sub-category of Non-Institutional Portion. Subject to the availability of shares in non-institutional investors' category, the allotment to each Non-Institutional Investors was not less than the minimum application size in Non-Institutional Category and the remaining available Equity Shares, if any, to be allocated on a proportionate basis in accordance with the conditions specified in this regard in Schedule XIII of the SEBI (ICDR) (Amendment) Regulations, 2025. All Bidders, other than Anchor Investors, were required to participate in the Offer by mandatorily utilizing the Application Supported by Blocked Amount ("ASBA") process by providing details of their respective ASBA Account (as defined hereinafter) in which the corresponding Bid Amounts will be blocked by the Self-Certified Syndicate Banks ("SCSBs") or under the UPI Mechanism, as the case may be, to the extent of respective Bid Amounts. Anchor Investors were not permitted to participate in the Offer through the ASBA process. For details, please refer to the chapter titled "Offer Procedure" on page 432 of the Prospectus.
