

Insurance is a serious matter. So we've put our CEO's neck on the line.

Do you know one thing AI bots don't have? Necks. So there's not much you can grab if the policy you bought doesn't work out well.

At Inka Insurance, we're offering our CEO (phone number 9119336920).

Talk to him before buying insurance. Use his experience to pick the policy that works best for you.

And just in case you happen to be less than 99.5% happy, his number is still 9119336920.

At Inka, we stand by what we recommend.

World Bank lifts India growth rate to 7.1%

● Says AI adoption low but can add to productivity gains

SHUBHAM RANA
New Delhi, October 6

THE WORLD BANK on Tuesday raised its forecast for India's GDP growth in the current financial year by 50 basis points to 7.1%, citing strong domestic demand despite energy and weather-related risks. The multilateral body sees the Indian economy growing 7.2% in FY28 and 7% in FY29, with the country's medium-term potential growth now seen around 7% against 6.5% earlier. In the long-term, India also stands to benefit from plausible productivity gains from artificial intelligence (AI) adoption, which currently remains low compared to developed economies, it said in its India Economic Update. The World

Bank's growth upgrade is the latest in a line of more optimistic economic activity assessments of India. Last month, several global organisations such as the Asian Development Bank and the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development raised India's growth projections. The Reserve Bank of India is also expected to raise its GDP growth projection for FY27 on Wednesday. India's GDP grew 7.8% in FY26 on the back of resilient domestic demand and despite heightened external headwinds, supported by structural reforms including labour code consolidation, and Goods and Services Tax (GST) rate cuts.

AI upskilling moves up the stack: From freshers to leaders

● Learner interest shifts from prompt engineering to application building

POULOMI CHATTERJEE & URVI MALVANIA
Bengaluru/Mumbai, October 6

DEMAND FOR AI upskilling courses is increasingly being driven by experienced professionals rather than freshers, as the technology is moving from an emerging skill to a tool expected to be applied across existing jobs and business functions.

Edtech platforms are seeing strong growth in enrolments for agentic AI, applied AI and business-focused programmes, pointing to a shift from learning AI fundamentals to building and deploying AI in the workplace.

Enrolments in AI courses have grown by more than 40% year-on-year at Simplilearn, with courses focused on agentic AI recording over 100% growth among working professionals, according to Krishna Kumar, founder and CEO. Nearly 50% of its learners are using AI upskilling to strengthen their existing roles, while another 30-35% are preparing for new AI-focused opportunities. About 89% of its AI learners are self-funded, indicating a willingness among professionals to invest in skills that could improve their career prospects and productivity. Coursera has also seen AI course enrolments in India rise around 37% in the first half of 2026 from a year earlier. The platform is now seeing around five GenAI enrolments every minute in the country, compared with three a minute last year, while its GenAI catalogue has more than doubled since the end of the first half of 2025 to over 2,650 courses.

DOMESTIC AIRLINES WILL get more time to shift their international operations from Mumbai's Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj International Airport (CSMIA) to Navi Mumbai International Airport (NMIA), with the government deciding against discontinuing their existing Mumbai slots from October 25, sources said.

Airlines pointed out that such a transition would require greater planning and clarity on the commercial terms before they could commit to the transition. The carriers will hold further discussions with Adani Airport Holdings (AAHL), which operates both airports, on the terms of the proposed move.

Govt to set up new logistics authority

● ITLA may break silos, overhaul infra planning

PRASANTA SAHU
New Delhi, October 6

THE UNION CABINET on Tuesday approved setting up the Integrated Transport & Logistics Authority (ITLA) as a Special Purpose Vehicle, creating a central institutional framework for integrated planning, appraisal, monitoring and impact assessment across India's transport and logistics sectors.

Senior government official described the move as a "potentially transformative" reform in the infrastructure sector. "Till now, in the transport, logistics and infrastructure sectors, projects have been made in ministry silos. They operate based on the data they own as well as appraise, monitor and evaluate," the official said.

This fragmented approach has created significant duplication between ministries and between the Centre and states. "What we have noticed is that it creates what you call extensive duplication in government," the official said, adding that the system also contributed to delays because ministries could hold one another responsible.

ITLA is intended to change that architecture by bringing major projects into a common framework. It will technically appraise, monitor and conduct post-implementation impact assessments of government projects worth ₹500 crore or more. Financial appraisal will continue via existing mechanisms, including the Expenditure Finance Committee.

The authority will prepare a National Transport Master Plan

UMBRELLA ORGANISATION

■ ITLA will function as an apex body for integrated transport and logistics planning, research, policy support and data analytics

■ The authority will bring projects worth ₹500 crore or more to undergo common appraisal, monitoring and impact assessment

■ Financial appraisal will continue through existing mechanisms

■ ITLA to ready National Transport Master Plan with 10-year or longer horizon

■ National Transport Data Repository to integrate FASTag, VAHAN, GSTN e-way bills and other data sets

Cabinet hails Modi's 25 years in govt

THE UNION CABINET on Tuesday passed a resolution marking Prime Minister Narendra Modi's 25 years as head of government, from Gujarat chief minister to prime minister, saying that his "extraordinary journey" was guided by the principle of "Nation First and Citizen First". PTI with a 10-year or longer horizon, covering roads, railways, ports and shipping, civil aviation, inland waterways, coastal shipping, urban mobility and logistics.

The official said the key change would be getting different ministries into "one loop rather than operating independently." "So, the appraisal will be under one room instead of being done in silos, so it will take everybody's concerns together."

ITLA will also establish a National Transport Data Repository, bringing together datasets from FASTag, VAHAN, GSTN e-way bills, GPS-based systems and urban traffic management systems to support freight-flow, origin-destination and infrastructure analysis.

The reform could have a wider fiscal impact. With public capex reaching around ₹12 lakh crore (in FY27), the official said that even incremental efficiency gains could create additional room for new investment.

The official said the framework draws on global best practices. Highlighting the institutional challenge involved, the official said, "Getting so many ministries together and arriving at a consensus is an unbelievable task.

₹10,000-cr equity support fund for SMEs gets nod

FE BUREAU
New Delhi, October 6

THE UNION CABINET on Tuesday approved a ₹10,000-crore government commitment to an Alternative Investment Fund (AIF) that will make direct equity investments in growth-stage small and medium enterprises (SMEs). The SME Growth Fund will provide long-term risk capital to viable SMEs seeking to expand capacity, adopt advanced technologies, enter overseas markets and scale up operations.

The AIF, being set up under the SME Growth Fund framework, is intended to bridge the gap in growth-stage equity financing for SMEs, as existing equity funds largely focus on early-stage and predominantly micro enterprises, the government said in a statement. The fund will also consider SMEs operating in industrial clusters in Tier-II and Tier-III cities. It was first announced in the Union Budget for FY27 by Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman to create future champions and incentivise enterprises based on select criteria.

The equity capital will support companies at critical stages of expansion, including increasing manufacturing capacity, adopting advanced technologies, expanding into international markets, integrating into global value chains and undertaking strategic investments and acquisitions.

The fund will target enterprises with demonstrated business viability and scalability, providing what the government describes as "patient growth equity capital".

"The fund boosts prospects of SMEs accessing the equity market. Currently, only around 1,000 MSME enterprises are listed entities," Rakesh Chhabra, president, Federation of Indian Micro and Small & Medium Enterprises (FISME) told FE. Currently, 95 million units are registered as MSMEs, employing 350 million people.

"MSMEs often face the challenges of raising growth capital on reasonable terms. The approval of a new corpus of ₹10,000 crore makes a meaningful difference for the sector by providing long-term equity to manufacturing businesses," Shrikant Goyal, MD, Getfive Funds, said.

Effective GST rate on domestic supply falls to 13.1% in Oct-July

FE BUREAU
New Delhi, October 6

POSTTHE GOODS and services tax (GST) rate cuts and the slab rejig in September 2025, the tax base expanded strongly between October 2025 and July 2026, with taxable supply rising 25.8% year-on-year and business-to-consumer supply increasing 26.7%, sources said.

Gross tax liability grew 13.6% during the period, while the effective tax rate on domestic taxable supply declined from 14.55% to 13.13%, sources said.

"Consumption has held up and the base has widened while the revenue has stabilised," a senior official said, adding that the revenue shock that was feared did not occur.

Revenue growth remained positive through the 12 months. In the last four months, there has been an acceleration in revenue growth, sources said.

The 56th GST Council meeting, held on September 3-4, 2025, replaced the multi-rate, complex structure of the indirect tax system with a relatively simpler two-rate structure of 5% and 18%, along with an additional special rate of 40% for demerit and sin goods.

The 57th GST Council meeting, set to take place on Thursday, will likely approve a host of proposals to make refunds faster and largely automated, widen input-tax credit, protect genuine buyers, bar notices for demands below ₹10,000 and decriminalise routine offences.

Besides process reforms, the meeting will focus on a limited set of issues aimed at rationalisation and removing ambiguity.

Tax rate changes are not on the agenda for this Council meeting.

The Council will seek to restrict the power to arrest under GST. Sources said tax officers should primarily be tax collectors and not law-enforcement authorities, and therefore, should not exercise arrest powers merely while pursuing tax-related matters.

More nations seeking to join IMEC: France

THE WAR IN West Asia and disruptions on key trade routes have accelerated work on enabling components of the India-Middle East-Europe Economic Corridor (IMEC), while drawing interest from countries beyond the original eight signatories.

Oman, Lebanon, Egypt, Greece and Cyprus have shown interest in joining the corridor as its focus shifts towards building resilient trade routes with alternatives in case of blockages, accidents, technical disruptions or local crises, French President's Special Envoy for IMEC Gerard Mestrallet said.

Ports from countries outside the original agreement have also approached to join the IMEC Ports Club, a port-level coordination mechanism aimed at making the corridor more operational, he said.

"There will be several ports also in the Middle East," Mestrallet said, pointing to ports on the Gulf and those with direct access to the Indian Ocean, including Duqm and Khasab in Oman.

Egypt's Alexandria and Port Said, and Lebanon's Beirut and Tripoli, could also form part of the wider network, while Syrian ports could potentially join in future. India's upcoming Vadhavan port in Maharashtra will be the main Indian node, he said.

Q-comm, logistics lead festive season hiring

MANU KAUSHIK
New Delhi, October 6

FESTIVE DEMAND HAS boosted hiring in consumption-led sectors even as the broader white-collar jobs market remains subdued. Job postings in festive-linked sectors rose 7% year-on-year to 127,080 in August-September, while overall white-collar hiring fell 11% in September, according to an analysis by foundit.

Quick commerce led the increase, with job postings rising 18% during August-September from a year earlier. E-commerce hiring grew 12% and logistics and transportation 10%. Travel and hospitality saw 6% growth, while media and entertainment and retail rose 5% and 4%, respectively.

White-collar gig and freelance hiring rose 15%, indicating greater use of flexible workers to meet seasonal demand.

The increase, however, was uneven. Hiring in consumer durables and electronics rose 3% and manufacturing 1%, while BFSI and payments declined 2% and FMCG fell 4%. The data shows that operations and fulfilment, along with sales and business development, accounted for more than 40% of festive job postings. This highlights the concentration of demand in roles directly linked to order volumes and customer-facing activity, foundit said.

The trend comes against a broader slowdown in the white-collar jobs market. Hiring rose 9% in January, 6% in February and 1% in March before slowing to 4% in April. It turned negative in May, with hiring falling 4%, followed by declines of 9% in June, 12% in July and 10% in August. In September, hiring increased 2% from August but remained 12% below its March level, suggesting an improvement from a weak base rather than a broad-based recovery.

Metros accounted for 56% of festive job postings, but hiring rose only 3%. Tier-II cities, which accounted for 27% of such jobs, recorded 11% growth, while Tier-III and emerging cities saw 15% rise.

Candidates with up to six years of experience accounted for 70% of festive hiring, with demand declining steadily at higher experience levels.

"The festive season is increasingly reflecting a broader shift in India's employment landscape as hiring expands beyond traditional consumption centres into tier-II and emerging cities. Strong demand for early-career talent also shows that businesses are prioritising agile, digitally ready workforces that can scale with demand. As consumption becomes more distributed, we expect employment opportunities to increasingly follow the same trajectory," said Tarun Sinha, CEO of foundit.

Services output index set to include education, healthcare

SHUBHAM RANA
New Delhi, October 6

TO CAPTURE INDIA'S services sector more comprehensively, the Ministry of Statistics and Programme Implementation (MoSPI) has proposed adding education, healthcare, and public administration & defence to the coverage of the Index of Services Production (ISP).

The ministry has also proposed using UPI transactions and administrative expenditure data to capture the output of the new sectors.

Together, the three sectors represent nearly 21% of India's services gross value added (GVA). By successfully incorporating them, the total coverage of the monthly ISP will rise to around 80% of the entire ser-

WIDER SCOPE

■ Apart from education and healthcare, MoSPI has proposed adding public administration and defence to ISP coverage

■ The ministry has also proposes using UPI data to measure production vices-sector GVA.

To measure the services-sector output, MoSPI in July introduced the ISP on a trial basis, with 2024-25 as the base year. The current framework covers 19 broad service sub-sectors accounting for nearly 60% of the services-sector GVA, using high-frequency administrative and other data sources.

Education accounts for 7% of services GVA, human health and residential care 3%, and public administration & defence 11%.

"It is to be noted that major service activities such as Education, Health and Public Administration & Defence do not lend themselves readily to conventional turnover-based measurement. The proposed framework addresses this problem by combining administrative expenditure data, UPI transaction data and appropriate price deflators," the ministry said.

AI raises the bar for data centre talent

OJASVI GUPTA
New Delhi, October 6

THE EXPANDING DATA centre industry has a potentially large pool of engineers to draw from but a shortage of specialised skills is emerging as a constraint, particularly as artificial intelligence (AI) is pushing up power density and making data-centre infrastructure more complex. Around 270,000 professionals could be trained for data centre jobs, nearly ten times the 30,000 people currently working in the industry, according to recruitment firm Taggd. Another 220,000 professionals have relevant experience across adjacent core and supporting functions, taking the total addressable talent pool to around 520,000. The challenge, however, is converting this broader pool into data-centre-ready talent.

HIGH-GROWTH AREA

■ Around 270,000 professionals could be trained for data centre jobs, nearly ten times the 30,000 currently working in the industry

■ Another 220,000 have relevant experience across adjacent core & support functions

■ Data centres are increasingly drawing talent from adjacent sectors

■ The cost of acquiring & retaining specialised talent is a concern

“A data centre breaks down into eight interconnected capability areas,” Kiran Kumar, president-platform, Taggd, said. Storage and compute, network and connectivity, and design and construction form the core, while power systems, cooling, security, and operations and monitoring support the infrastructure. Power and cooling account for around 55% of the talent pool, while storage, compute and networking make up about 25%, with the physical layer and security accounting for the rest.

Nearly half of those employed have 6-15 years of experience, providing a sizeable mid-career base, although niche capabilities such as chip design remain limited.

Govt in talks with airlines, OMCs over ATF price rise

NITIN KUMAR
New Delhi, October 6

THE GOVERNMENT IS in discussions with airlines and oil marketing companies (OMCs) to address the impact of the West Asia crisis on aviation turbine fuel (ATF) prices, which have risen sharply in recent weeks and are putting pressure on airline operating costs, Civil Aviation Minister K Ramamohan Naidu said on Tuesday.

“One of the most important things is the West Asia crisis and how it’s putting a big burden on the ATF prices. But, we are still in discussion both with the airlines and also the OMCs. Let us see how the discussion unfolds,” Naidu said on the sidelines of the IQFM Symposium 2026 in New Delhi.

The minister’s comments come as airlines face mounting fuel costs ahead of the festive travel season. IndiGo, the country’s largest airline, has raised its fuel surcharge on domestic flights by up to ₹350 and on international flights by up to ₹1,000 for new bookings from October 6.

The airline said the continuous rise in fuel prices, with

KEY MONITORABLE INPUT

■ ATF is one of the largest cost components for Indian airlines, making sustained increases in jet fuel prices a significant pressure on airline profitability

■ Higher fuel costs also raise the possibility of further increases in airfares as carriers seek to pass it on

■ Indian airlines currently have more than 1,600 aircraft on order, estimated to be worth $100 bn

■ India currently has around 165 airports, while domestic airlines operate a fleet of about 850 aircraft

the latest month-on-month increase exceeding 14%, has pushed ATF costs to among the highest levels in the last decade. The increase comes amid heightened geopolitical tensions in West Asia.

ATF is one of the largest cost components for Indian airlines, making sustained increases in jet fuel prices a significant pressure on airline profitability. Higher fuel costs also raise the possibility of further increases in airfares as carriers seek to pass on part of the additional burden to passengers.

Beyond addressing near-term cost pressures, the government is also seeking to expand India’s domestic aviation manufacturing capabilities as the country’s airline fleet and airport infrastructure expand.

Naidu said India could have its first indigenous civilian aircraft within two years through a joint venture, although he did not disclose details of the proposed partnership.

Relief for PepsiCo, Monster, Reliance over drink labels

ARPAN CHATURVEDI & MUNSIF VENGATTIL
Bengaluru, October 6

PEPSICO, BEVERAGE and MONSTER Industries can keep the ‘energy drink’ label on products in India after a Delhi High Court put on hold a ban by the Food Safety and Standards Authority of India (FSSAI), a breather for the companies after a dispute they say disrupted operations.

The regulator in June ordered makers of high-caffeine beverages sold as ‘energy drinks’ to stop using the description, rejecting the industry’s efforts to stall the move in a market expected to be worth $1.6 billion by 2028.

On Tuesday, the court put the directive on hold for PepsiCo and Monster in a hearing that followed their pleas last week, according to a lawyer present at the hearing. The order follows similar reprieves the court granted to Reliance earlier on Tuesday and to Austria’s Red Bull last week.

LEGAL BATTLE

■ FSSAI in June ordered high-caffeine beverages sold as ‘energy drinks’ to stop using the description

■ The label ban has threatened the ambitions of PepsiCo, Monster Beverage and Reliance in India’s fast-growing energy drinks market

The legal showdown is being closely watched as FSSAI has embarked on a broader India-wide food safety push this year. Its crackdown has ranged from raids and shutdowns to new ingredient warning-label requirements, driven by growing concern over the health risks posed by junk food and beyond.

The court will continue to hear the cases in the coming weeks. — REUTERS

Regulator asks states to step up surveillance in festive season

FSSAI HAS ASKED states to increase surveillance for preventing the sale of adulterated and counterfeit food items during the upcoming festival season, as part of the objective to safeguard public health.

In an advisory to all state food commissioners dated September 29, FSSAI stressed the need to focus on sensitive locations.

With the onset of the upcoming Navratri and Diwali festivals, the demand for sweets, savouries, beverages, edible oil and milk & milk products and other food items rises, the regulator said.

In view of this, the FSSAI stressed the need for heightened surveillance and enforcement actions to prevent the circulation of adulterated, counterfeited and unsafe food products namely milk & milk products, sweets, snacks & savouries including namkeen, papad/fryums, edible oil, beverages and ghee. — PTI

AKBAR MERCHANT
Mumbai, October 6

DOMESTIC PASSENGER VEHICLE (PV) retail sales rose 32.1% year-on-year (y-o-y) to a record 427,213 units in September, according to the Federation of Automobile Dealers Associations (FADA), and was up 6.17% from August. Urban and rural passenger vehicle markets grew at almost the same pace, by 32.11% and 32.09%, respectively.

Alternative-fuel vehicles accounted for 41% of PV retail. Electric vehicle (EV) penetration rose to 8.45% from 7.63% in August and 5.74% a year earlier. Maruti Suzuki India led the segment with 1,69,132 units and a 39.59% market share. PV inventory increased by five days to 43-45 days, well above FADA's recommended level of 21 days. Two-wheeler retail sales rose 33.08% y-o-y to 1,790,188 units, up 4.41% from August, making September the segment's best-ever month. Rural and urban sales grew by 33.11% and 33.06%, respectively.

EVs accounted for 11.58% of two-wheeler retail, compared with 10.68% in August and 8.17% a year earlier. Honda Motorcycle and Scooter India led the segment with 468,789 units and a 26.19% market share. For April-September 2026, two-wheeler retail stood at 11.04 million units, compared with 9.17 million units during the corresponding period of FY26.

Three-wheeler retail increased 22.25% y-o-y to 132,570 units and 8.41% sequentially. Rural sales grew 40.09%, significantly ahead of the 4.71% growth in urban markets. EVs accounted for 64.9% of three-wheeler retail, compared with 65.3% in August and 56.65% a year earlier. Passenger three-wheelers grew 37.64%, while goods three-wheelers increased 63.48%. Retail sales during April-September rose 14.98% to 748,009 units.

Commercial vehicle retail sales crossed the 100,000-mark for the first time in a September, reaching 103,557 units, up 37.62% y-o-y and 14.09% from August. Heavy commercial vehicle retail grew 46.22% to 32,310 units.

FADA attributed the growth to replacement demand, infrastructure and mining activity, bulk fleet purchases, higher rural incomes and purchases ahead of price increases scheduled for October. Retail sales during April-September surged 21.48% to 585,217 units.

Tractor retail sales soared 13.75% y-o-y to 76,906 units but declined 12.58% from August, making it the only major category to register a sequential fall.

FADA attributed the weakness to a later festive calendar and a patchy monsoon.

SEPTEMBER QUARTER BUSINESS UPDATE

Dabur's PAT set for double-digit rise

ASHUTOSH MISHRA
New Delhi, October 6

CONSUMER GOODS MAKER Dabur India expects its consolidated revenue to grow in double digits in the September quarter, while profit after tax (PAT) is also expected to register double-digit growth, even as elevated input costs weigh on operating margins.

The company, in its quarterly update on Tuesday, said demand conditions remained steady during the quarter despite inflationary pressures across commodities, deficient rainfall and renewed geopolitical tensions in West Asia.

"Inflationary pressures continue to remain elevated, particularly in HPC and OTC & Ethicals," the company said, adding that operating margins were impacted during the quarter. The impact was partly offset by calibrated price increases and ongoing cost-saving measures.

Dabur expects its India FMCG business to accelerate to double-digit growth in Q2FY27, which it described as its strongest performance in recent quarters. Its home & personal care business is also expected to grow in double digits, with hair oils and shampoos likely to post high-teens growth, according to the company.

The company expects its healthcare business to grow in the mid-single digits, while food and beverages is expected to register mid-teens growth.

FMCG GROWTH

■ Consolidated revenue is also expected to grow in double digits in the September quarter

■ Elevated input costs in home and personal care and healthcare are expected to weigh on operating margins

"Within healthcare, Digestives is expected to maintain high-teens growth, while health supplements saw some pressure due to the transition to refreshed packaging and labels," it said.

Dabur said emerging channels such as e-commerce and quick commerce continued to grow strongly, while modern trade maintained double-digit growth. General trade also grew across urban and rural markets, with rural markets continuing to outpace urban markets.

International business is expected to report high-teens growth in rupee terms despite severe headwinds in the Middle East, with Egypt, Turkey, the US, Bangladesh and the UK recording strong double-digit growth.

According to the company's quarterly update for Q2FY27, domestic businesses grew 22% y-o-y, while the international business registered 97% growth. The company said the international growth includes Damas Jewellery, in which Titan holds a 67% stake and which was consolidated from January 2026.

The jewellery business, across all brands, grew around 21% y-o-y during the quarter. Titan said consumer demand Titan's watches business grew around 30% year-on-year in Q2, with the company attributing the performance to continued premiumisation.

TATA GROUP RETAIL company Trent reported a 23% year-on-year increase in standalone revenue from operations to ₹5,788 crore in the September quarter, compared with ₹4,724 crore a year earlier. Revenue from sale of merchandise, excluding other operating income, also grew 23%.

Private equity inflows into realty up 23% in Apr-Sept

CAPITAL RESURGENCE

■ Private equity investments in Indian real estate touched $2.7 bn in H1 FY27

■ Investors closed 30 deals, up from 22 a year earlier, while average deal size climbed 18% to $91 mn

■ Indian investors deployed $1.3 bn across 24 deals, nearly six times last year's $220 mn

■ Overseas investors invested $1.4 bn across six deals, with an average ticket of $238 mn shows that India is now seen as a core, long-term allocation rather than an opportunistic bet," said Shobhit Agarwal, CEO, Anarock Capital.

A key feature of the period was the sharp rise in domestic capital. Domestic investors deployed around $1.3 billion across 24 deals, nearly six times the $220 million invested in H1 FY26.

Their share of total PE inflows rose to 48% from just 16% in FY25. Foreign investors invested around $1.4 billion across six deals, a 19% increase from a year earlier. While domestic investors accounted for the bulk of transactions, foreign investors continued to write significantly larger cheques, with an average deal size of about $238 million compared with $54 million for domestic investors. Office assets remained the biggest draw, accounting for 35% of total inflows, broadly in line with the 36% share in FY26.

Investors continued to favour completed and leased Grade A office assets, attracted by their relatively stable rental income.

The biggest shift, however, came from new-age assets.

Adani, Druk to set up hydropower project in Bhutan

FE BUREAU
Mumbai, October 6

ADANI POWER and Bhutan's state-owned generation utility, Druk Green Power Corporation (DGPC), on Tuesday signed an agreement to develop the 770MW Chamkharchhu-I hydroelectric project in Bhutan. The peaking run-of-the-river project is located in central Bhutan's Zhemgang district on the Chamkharchhu river. It will be implemented under the build, own, operate and transfer (BOOT) model through a 49:51 equity partnership between Adani Power and DGPC. The project will have a concession period of 30 years from the date of commencement.

The project is the second major hydropower collaboration between the two partners, following the agreement for the 570 MW Wangchhu Hydroelectric Project signed in September 2025. It is also part of a broader 5,000 MW hydropower development memorandum of understanding signed between the Adani Group and DGPC in May 2025.

The Chamkharchhu-I project is expected to strengthen Bhutan's clean-energy generation capacity and deepen regional energy cooperation. Construction is scheduled to begin in the first half of 2027, with commissioning targeted within six years of groundbreaking, Adani Power said. In "Hydropower will play a pivotal role in accelerating South Asia's energy transition, and this project will contribute significantly to enhancing energy security, reducing carbon intensity, and advancing shared sustainability goals," said Anil Sardana, managing director, Adani Power.

The project is expected to help meet Bhutan's peak winter electricity requirements while enabling the export of surplus green power to India.

"The 770 MW Chamkharchhu-I Hydropower Project will contribute to strengthening Bhutan's energy security, particularly during the winter months, while creating opportunities to optimise and export surplus clean energy to India. The collaboration reflects our shared commitment to developing renewable energy resources," said Dasho Chhewang Rinzin, managing director, DGPC.

● IRFAN RAZACK, CHAIRMAN & MANAGING DIRECTOR, PRESTIGE ESTATES PROJECTS

'We expect our rental income to top ₹4,000 crore by FY30'

PRESTIGE ESTATES PROJECTS recently announced a deal with the Canada Pension Plan Investment Board (CPP Investments), under which the latter will invest ₹3,000 crore in its hospitality arm for a 27% stake. The company is also launching multiple residential projects across cities. Irfan Razack, chairman and managing director of Prestige Estates Projects, speaks to Raghavendra Kamath about the company's growth plans and the real estate market. Excerpts:

How do you plan to grow your hospitality business after the deal with CPP Investments?

In our hospitality vertical, we currently have around 1,445 operating keys in Bengaluru and a pipeline of over 4,000 keys across the NCR, Mumbai, Hyderabad, Chennai, Goa and other key markets. We are building this portfolio in partnership with some of the most reputed hospitality brands, including Marriott, Hilton and Oberoi, among others. With the partnership with CPP Investments, we now have sufficient capital within the company to take our hospitality platform to the next level of growth. Our immediate focus will be on executing the existing pipeline and bringing these marquee assets to fruition. At the same time, we will continue to evaluate attractive asset-acquisition opportunities that can complement and strengthen our hospitality portfolio.

Do you plan to bring in any other investor into your commercial properties? If yes, in which assets?

Our immediate focus and priority is on scaling our commercial portfolio. We currently have around 35 million square feet under development across Bengaluru, Mumbai, Delhi, Kochi, Chennai and Kolar. Our exit rental income is around ₹860 crore today, and with the completion of this portfolio by FY30, we expect that to grow to more than ₹4,000 crore. Our vision is to build this portfolio to a meaningful scale and, once we reach that critical mass, evaluate the right monetisation route, including a potential REIT.

How has residential demand been in your key markets? How does the early festive trend look?

So far, the demand environment has remained strong across our key markets, and the projects we have launched in recent times have seen very good traction.

We started FY27 with a large project in Tellapur, Hyderabad, called Prestige Golden Grove, where we clocked sales of over ₹3,000 crore in the launch quarter itself. More recently, our launches in Bengaluru, including Prestige Parklane and Garden Breeze at The Prestige City, Sarjapur, have also witnessed strong momentum and high sales velocity at launch. As we enter the festive period, we remain optimistic about the demand environment and expect well-positioned projects to continue to see healthy traction.

Experts have said there has been an oversupply of luxury projects in Mumbai, Bengaluru and other markets. What is your view?

I would look at the market a little differently. There has certainly been an increase in the supply of luxury housing in markets such as Mumbai and Bengaluru, but what ultimately matters is the depth of demand and the ability of the market to absorb well-located, well-designed projects at the right price points.

Our experience has been that there is strong demand for differentiated luxury products in the right locations. For instance, our luxury projects such as Prestige Nautilus and Prestige Ocean Towers in Mumbai have seen a very strong market response.

The traction we have seen across our recent launches also gives us confidence that the demand environment remains healthy. That said, we remain disciplined in our approach to new launches, with a clear focus on location, product quality and pricing rather than simply adding supply to the market.

Many developers are calibrating launches because of approval delays and market softness. What has been your strategy?

Our approach is fairly straightforward. Our model is based on capital efficiency. Once the necessary approvals are in place and the project is ready, we go ahead and launch.

We do not believe the current demand environment warrants holding back launches. In fact, the response to our recent launches has been quite encouraging, which gives us further confidence in this approach.

We will continue to launch projects as they become ready, while remaining focused on delivering the right product at the right location and price point.

IT stocks rebound, but AI clouds large-cap outlook

KUSHAN SHAH & POULOMI CHATTERJEE
Mumbai, October 6

AFTER A ROUGH start to the fiscal, IT stocks have staged a recovery. The Nifty IT index has risen nearly 9% from its July 1 low of 25,770 to 28,136, even as the Nifty 50 has fallen about 5% over the same period. But analysts are not convinced that the worst is over.

Sumit Pokharna, SVP—fundamental research at Kotak Securities, said the recent out-performance largely reflects buying after the sharp correction earlier in the fiscal had priced in much of the bad news. Earnings growth, however, could remain muted in the second quarter and over the next two quarters of FY27, he said.

Kuber Chauhan, research analyst—IT at Axis Direct, said the recovery appears to have been driven by sharp valuation compression, easing fears over AI disruption and early signs of stabilisation in enterprise technology spending.

There are also some green shoots on the operating front. Ashwin V, partner for executive engagement at Everest Group, pointed to better-than-expected earnings, margin improvement following restructuring and the launch of advanced AI projects by leading companies. However, he cautioned that it was still too early to conclude that the sector had stabilised.

Clients increasingly expect AI-led productivity gains and lower costs, putting pressure on pricing and traditional revenue models. Ashwin, however, believes this could partly be offset by the sheer volume of work required as enterprises adopt and scale up AI.

Even rising global bond yields and concerns that the AI trade may be overheating are unlikely to be enough to trigger a meaningful rotation into IT stocks.

Pokharna expects the “AI deflation” story to persist in the near term. While the survival of large IT services companies is

Indices advance as crude cools

KISHOR KADAM
Mumbai, October 6

THE BENCHMARK EQUITY indices extended gains for the second consecutive session on Tuesday, rising about 1%, as Brent crude prices fell below $100 after the G7 stockpile release eased concerns over global supply. The Sensex jumped 685.34 points, or 0.95%, to close at 73,067.81, while the Nifty advanced 220.35 points, or 0.98%, to close at 22,776.10.

Investors' wealth increased by ₹4.54 lakh crore on Tuesday and by ₹6.65 lakh crore over the past two sessions.

“Markets extended their recovery on the weekly expiry day, with the benchmarks gaining nearly a percent as easing crude prices and encouraging Q2 business updates supported sentiment,” said Ajit Mishra, SVP—research, Religare Broking.

Global cues turned somewhat supportive as Brent crude slipped below $100 per barrel, aided by steady supplies and increased exports from West Asia.

Back home, market participants will closely track the outcome of the RBI MPC meeting scheduled for Wednesday, along with its commentary, given the challenging macroeconomic backdrop, Mishra added.

“Crude oil prices slipped below the $100 mark after a large G7 stockpile release and alternative supplies through pipelines helped offset disruptions to vessel movements through the Strait of Hormuz.

Coupled with strong Q2 business updates from financials and retail, along with supportive global cues, the decline in oil prices improved investors' sentiment and supported a rebound from over-sold levels,” said Vinod Nair, head of research, Geojit Investments.

Domestically, attention now shifts to the Q2 earnings season for a silver lining amid weak sequential expectations due to elevated input costs, Nair added.

DOMESTIC INVESTMENT BANKS are grabbing the bulk of the business in country's equity capital markets (ECM), just as dealmaking is surging in the second half of the year.

Kotak Mahindra Capital Co. reclaimed the top position after working on 45 deals through the end of September, capturing a 9.5% market share. While Goldman Sachs Group Inc. ranked second, the highest among Wall Street giants, Indian banks together claimed seven of the top 10 spots in the table, their strongest showing in eight years.

With three months of the year still to go, the standings may yet change substantially as the fourth quarter is traditionally the busiest in India. Equity dealmaking has accelerated after a subdued start to the year, helped by a string of large share

GROWTH TO STAY STRONG IN JULY-SEPT QUARTER FCNR (B) inflows likely to weigh on banks' margins

KSHIPRA PETKAR
Mumbai, October 6

BANKS ARE EXPECTED to report healthy earnings and strong balance-sheet growth in the September quarter, aided by a sharp pick-up in credit and foreign currency non-resident (bank), or FCNR (B), deposits. However, large mobilisation of relatively high-cost foreign currency deposits is likely to weigh on net interest margins (NIMs), particularly for private sector banks.

System credit growth remained robust at around 18-19% year-on-year during the quarter, while deposit growth accelerated to about 17%, driven significantly by FCNR (B) mobilisation.

Motilal Oswal Financial Services (MOFSL) said FCNR (B) deposits of around $133 billion accounted for nearly 4.5% of system deposits.

Provisional business updates for 30 banks tracked by JM Financial showed advances growing 19.1% year-on-year (y-o-y) and 6.6% sequentially in Q2, compared with 16.4% and 2.6%, respectively, in the June quarter. Deposits rose 15.8% year-on-year and 5.8% on a sequential basis.

Growth was particularly strong among large private banks. Kotak Mahindra Bank reported a 24.7% loan growth, followed by Axis Bank at 22.7% and HDFC Bank at 16.3%. However, FCNR (B)-linked lending accounted for a part of this acceleration. Excluding such loans, growth was 18.8% each for Kotak and Axis and 14.3% for HDFC Bank, according to JM Financial.

The surge in FCNR (B) deposits, however, is expected to put near-term pressure on margins as banks take time to deploy the funds into loans. UBS expects NIMs to decline by up to 25 basis points sequentially for banks under its coverage, with large private lender seeing 8-17 bps decline. State-owned banks could see a relatively modest contraction of 3-6 bps.

MOFSL expects large private banks to see an 8-20-bps impact on margins, while public sector banks are likely to remain relatively resilient due to their lower proportion of FCNR (B) deposits and efforts to retire high-cost liabilities. Margins could gradually improve as newly mobilised funds get deployed.

Despite margin pressure, strong loan growth and benign credit costs are expected to support earnings. JM Financial expects banks under its coverage to report around 12% year-on-year growth in profit after tax and 12% rise in net interest income (NII).

Operating expenses are expected to climb about 7%, slower than the balance-sheet growth, while credit costs are estimated at around 50 bps.

MOFSL is more bullish on earnings, estimating aggregate profit growth of 25.4% y-o-y for its coverage universe. It expects private banks' profit to rise 24% and public sector banks' profit to increase 27%. NII is estimated to grow 11.9%. Higher bond yields could keep treasury gains muted.

SKYDANCE TAKES CENTRE STAGE

Paramount seals $111-bn Warner deal

● CNN and CBS News leadership to remain unchanged

October 6

PARAMOUNT SKYDANCE ON Tuesday completed its blockbuster $110 billion takeover of Warner Bros Discovery, creating a Hollywood heavyweight called Skydance and handing CEO David Ellison control of one of the world's largest entertainment companies. The deal brings together the studios behind "Mission: Impossible," "Harry Potter" and DC Studios alongside major television and streaming networks such as CBS, CNN, Paramount+ and HBO Max — forming an expansive entertainment company spanning film, TV and news.

Shares of the combined company moved to the New York Stock Exchange from Nasdaq on Tuesday to trade under the ticker "SKYD". Settlements with a coalition of US states and a Hollywood writers union removed the main legal barriers to the merger, one of the largest in media history. It comes as Hollywood faces declining cable-TV subscriptions, high cost of competing for streaming audiences and persistent pressure from unions over jobs and creative workers' rights.

Ellison said last week the Skydance name was chosen to retain the individual identities of Paramount and Warner Bros studios, rather than combining them under a new brand.

Analysts, however, said the name reinforces the extent of Ellison's control, highlighting how some of Hollywood's most iconic brands now answer to him and how he has a platform to impose his strategy and culture. In just 16 years, Skydance has gone from an independent studio to the center of one of Hollywood's biggest power plays. Founded in 2010 by the son of Oracle co-founder Larry

After merging with Paramount last year, Skydance set its sights on Warner Bros, entering a heated bidding contest with Netflix while drawing interest from other potential suitors, including Comcast.

Warner Bros shareholders received an additional $41.9 million in "ticking fee," based on the number of days between September-end and the deal-closing, according to a regulatory filing. Ellison named Mattel's ex-CEO Ynon Kreiz as Skydance co-CEO to run day-to-day operations and lead the integration, while Ellison oversees creative direction and overall strategy. —REUTERS

Master storyteller Jeffrey Archer dies at 86

● British novelist, former politician leaves a lasting literary legacy

SAM TOBIN
London, October 5

JEFFREY ARCHER, THE best-selling British novelist and former politician who was jailed for lying in a high-profile libel case, died aged 86 on Monday, just one day before his final novel "Adam and Eve" was due to be published.

The confidant of former prime minister Margaret Thatcher lived a life that swung from the heights of luxury and fame to the lows of a two-year stint in prison for perjury over paying a woman for sex.

He sold more than 300 million copies of his books, spent a total of five and a half years on the New York Times bestseller lists and found fans around the world with his pacy thrillers, among them the 1976 debut "Not a Penny More, Not a Penny Less" and 1979's mass-selling "Kane & Abel".

Publisher of HarperCollins said Archer, who had met and signed books for fans in London's Leicester Square Theatre on Sunday and had been scheduled to speak at events this week, died "suddenly and peacefully at home...between writing sessions". "We're all devastated to have lost a writer who has brought joy to generations of readers — and a true friend," said Kate Elton, HarperCollins' UK CEO and Archer's editor.

"When he set out to write 'Adam and Eve', he told me from the very beginning that it would be his final novel".

Heavy debts curtailed his life as a lawmaker

Archer first made headlines when he entered parliament in 1969, aged 29, before he became a casualty of a fraudulent investment scheme which meant he did not stand for re-election in 1974 but went into writing to try to clear his debts.

"When I was three, I wanted to be four; when I was four, I wanted to be prime minister," he was quoted as saying in 2001. —REUTERS

World Bank lifts India growth view to 7.1%

"The medium-term growth is expected to be broad-based, with agricultural growth accelerating as rainfall normalises and manufacturing and services growth strengthening further as supply chains recover and external demand improves," the World Bank said. "On the demand side, lower inflation and stronger credit growth are expected to support private consumption, which will remain the main driver of growth," it said.

Potential growth is the maximum expansion feasible when factors of production are efficiently employed without stoking inflation.

While growth is seen staying strong, risks to the outlook remain significant, the World Bank said.

A prolonged or further escalation of the war in West Asia would further raise energy prices and inflation in India, eroding household purchasing power and weighing on consumption, while increasing production costs, the report said.

A big risk to near-term growth could be El Nino, which could slow agriculture output and raise prices, the report said.

"Fiscal pressures could also intensify as the government seeks to cushion households and firms, potentially requiring higher borrowing or reprioritisation of other growth-enhancing or social spending. Conversely, a faster-than-expected resolution would improve India's growth outlook," the World Bank said.

"Other key risks include global trade tensions, monsoon conditions, and global growth, particularly the pace of AI-related investment. Nevertheless, strong domestic demand, ample foreign exchange reserves, and available policy space provide important buffers against external shocks," it said.

AI ADOPTION GAINS

Despite the substantial capacity to adopt existing AI technologies, India's actual AI adoption remains at an early stage and low compared to developed economies, the report said. However, there is significant headroom to grow, with strong digital foundations already in place.

Around 23% of formal Indian firms reported using AI, much lower than 43% in the US. When considering AI sophistication, AI adoption among formal firms is about one third of the US level, according to the World Bank.

This highlights the potential to increase adoption significantly as awareness, affordability, and access improve, the report said.

Large firms and digitally intensive sectors are better positioned to adopt AI, while smaller and informal firms face greater barriers, the World Bank said. In 2025, only 39.4% of India's 79 million unincorporated establishments used the internet for business purposes, albeit up sharply from 26.7% a year earlier. Around 8% of Indian workers are exposed to substitution risk from AI. Substitution risk is concentrated among clerical and sales occupations, the report said.

According to the report, AI adoption has not resulted in broad-based job losses in India so far. Entry level roles at large IT firms were the most affected by AI adoption but there is no large-scale displacement elsewhere, the World Bank said.

India can achieve its AI potential by supporting AI adoption by MSMEs and through training and skilling programmes, the report said. Attracting private investment in selective compute and data center capacity can also help the country utilise AI gains, the report said.

Airlines get more time for Navi Mumbai shift

THEY WILL SUBSEQUENTLY submit their proposals to the ministry, which will use the inputs to firm up the transition plan. "The airlines were firm that shifting to Navi Mumbai at this stage is not possible. Such a transition takes time and requires strategic thinking. Airlines cannot make the move without proper due diligence and a clear understanding of the terms and conditions. The airlines will negotiate the conditions with Adani next week and submit their proposals to the ministry," a source said. The next consultation between airlines and the airport operator is scheduled for October 13 at CSMIA. The discussions are expected to focus on the operational and financial concerns raised by carriers, including the additional costs associated with shifting flights and the impact on passenger demand.

A further meeting is expected around October 20 to consider the transition plan based on the outcome of the October 13 discussions. One proposal under consideration is for NMIA to reimburse passengers for a certain period to offset the inconvenience caused by shifting international operations. The details of the mechanism are yet to be finalised.

The transition is being planned against the backdrop of the phased redevelopment of Terminal 1 at CSMIA. The redevelopment is expected to increase the terminal's annual passenger-handling capacity from 15 million to 20 million passengers. The government wants to facilitate the redevelopment while ensuring that shifting operations does not cause significant disruption to passengers or impose an unviable cost burden on airlines.

Under the proposed arrangement, NMIA is eventually expected to handle up to 5 million international passengers annually transferred from Mumbai airport. Major domestic carriers, including IndiGo, Air India and Akasa Air, have been discussing the transition with the airport operator for around 18 months. Airlines, however, have raised concerns over higher operating costs, connectivity and the possible impact on passenger demand after the shift. Airport charges are another consideration, with NMIA's higher user development fee (UDF) emerging as a particular concern. An international departing passenger pays ₹1,225 at NMIA compared with ₹615 at CSMIA.

AAHL has proposed cash vouchers to offset the difference in UDF for passengers, besides a 100% waiver of landing charges for new international flights. The decision on the UDF at NMIA is also pending with the ministry.

During Tuesday's meeting, AAHL said NMIA had the infrastructure to handle up to 5 million international passengers annually and highlighted its connectivity and supporting facilities, including inflight catering, hotels, lounges and other passenger amenities.

Representatives of AAHL, AAI, the Federation of Indian Airlines and domestic airlines attended the meeting.

School protests in France intensify

Paris, October 6

STUDENTS, TEACHERS AND parents marched in cities across France on Tuesday and protesters blockaded hundreds of schools, in the biggest day of action in a wave of demonstrations demanding the government tackle understaffed and dilapidated classrooms. In Marseille, Nantes and Lyon, the street protests began peacefully mid-morning, with the largest demonstration expected in Paris in the afternoon.

Youngsters held aloft smoke flares and placards reading "Under our school books, anger" and "Where are the politicians? Do they even know we exist?"

Tuesday's demonstrations come after a fortnight of protests which began in Paris's deprived suburbs before spreading across the country.

The government responded with riot police, saying the movement had now morphed into urban violence.

The High School Students Union said 1,800 high schools were blockaded or would close for the day. Some local education authorities have tried to move classes online. The education ministry did not immediately make numbers available.

"When the answer is violence, it means democracy is no longer working," said Hugo Vetz, a high school leaver in Strasbourg now taking classes for the entrance exams to France's top-tier universities. "There is such a gap between the elites and us."

Prime Minister Sebastien Lecornu has ordered his ministers to tackle the students' leading demands. Those include ensuring absent teachers are replaced, reviewing the length of the 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. school day and the need for longer lunch breaks.

Hold the line

India has much to gain from a US trade deal, but not one that demands disproportionately greater concessions

THE INDIA-US BILATERAL trade agreement may have reached what Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman calls a “plateau”, but that need not be viewed as a failure. India has already demonstrated willingness to address US concerns. The interim framework announced in February envisaged the US lowering its reciprocal tariff on Indian goods to 18%, while India offered substantial tariff reductions and market access for American products. Washington continues to seek concessions in sensitive areas, while its own tariff policy remains vulnerable to legal and political shifts. New Delhi should remain open to an agreement, but not pursue one simply for the sake of concluding it. Reciprocity, not the optics of a deal, must determine how far India goes. The point of negotiation is mutual benefit, not an agreement in which one side repeatedly retreats.

That principle is particularly important in agriculture and other sensitive sectors. Indian negotiators have resisted opening the market to genetically modified maize and soya bean and to dairy products on terms sought by Washington. They should continue to protect legitimate domestic interests. India, for its part, has sought tariff treatment that leaves its exporters competitive with countries such as Vietnam and Bangladesh. A trade agreement in which India opens more of its market while its exporters remain structurally disadvantaged in the US would be difficult to justify. Washington has also launched investigations under Section 301 in areas including excess capacity and forced labour, adding another layer of uncertainty. Trade negotiations inevitably involve give-and-take, but concessions must be matched by durable and commercially meaningful gains.

The case for holding the line has become stronger with the Lindsey O. Graham Sanctioning Russia and Iran Act of 2026. The law gives the US president authority to impose tariffs of up to 100% on goods from countries that meet specified criteria relating to purchases of Russian-origin crude oil or natural gas. For India, energy sourcing cannot simply be treated as a bargaining chip in a trade negotiation. Access to competitively priced crude has consequences for inflation, the current account, the rupee, and household purchasing power. Sitharaman is right to warn about the weaponisation of tariffs. A trading partner is entitled to negotiate for market access; it is another matter to use access to its market to influence a sovereign country's energy choices. India should diversify its crude supplies where economically sensible, but decisions of this magnitude must ultimately be determined by its own energy security and national interest.

None of this argues for turning away from the US. It remains one of India's most important economic partners, a major market for Indian exports, and an important source of investment and technology. A balanced bilateral trade agreement would benefit both countries and negotiations should continue. But India also brings assets to the table: a large consumer market, a growing manufacturing base, and an increasingly important role in global supply chains. These confer bargaining power that should not be surrendered in pursuit of an early announcement. Nor should disagreements over trade be allowed to overwhelm the broader strategic relationship. The correct approach is therefore neither confrontation nor capitulation. India has moved substantially; if Washington cannot offer reciprocal, predictable, and durable market access, New Delhi can afford to wait. A good agreement remains worth pursuing. An unbalanced one does not. In trade negotiations, knowing where to stop can be as important as knowing where to compromise.

Lionel Messi is soccer's GOAT for good reason

TEN YEARS AGO, Lionel Messi was defeated, dejected, absolutely heartbroken. “I did everything I could, and it didn't work out for me,” the great man told reporters as he announced his retirement from Argentina's national team after losing a fourth tournament final. “That's it.” Oh Leo, if you had known... What came after is now history: Messi would reverse that hot-headed decision two months later and lead Argentina through its most glorious period. He won a World Cup in 2022 and reached another final this year, being the tournament's best player at 39, an age when most of his colleagues are growing their bellies as TV commentators. Full redemption, and more.

Tonight, when he walks onto a football pitch with Argentina for the final time, wearing a skyblue-and-white striped jersey specially designed for the occasion, it will be a night of emotion and remembrance.

For me, it will mean saying goodbye to my superhero, the guy who for the past two decades has given me hope that all my football dreams could become reality. The memories are endless: from walking out of Rio de Janeiro's Maracanã in tears after watching him lose the 2014 World Cup final, a game Argentina deserved to win, to marveling in his leadership as he took an exhausted team through Miami's extreme heat to beat Cabo Verde this July. Not to mention his glories in Qatar and THAT England match.

I could bore you with crazy stats and achievements. In my eyes, he's not only the best football player in history but also the greatest athlete ever. I know that's controversial, but the defining fact is this: Messi has dominated his field—the world's most popular sport, remember—pretty much since his meteoric emergence in late 2004.

Back then, George W Bush was struggling to contain the US debacle in Iraq, Facebook was an incipient idea confined to Harvard, and Venezuelans still believed in Hugo Chávez. That's how much the world has changed in 22 years, and yet we still have Messi doing unbelievable stuff on a football pitch, like that insane free-kick goal he scored for Inter Miami a few days ago. Neither Michael Jordan, Serena Williams, Muhammad Ali, Michael Phelps nor Usain Bolt could claim that. Sorry if you disagree.

And yet, for all his magic on the field, it's his perseverance, passion, and down-to-earth personality that strikes me the most. At a time when global stars have armies of advisers choreographing each move, this guy seems simply motivated by kicking a ball and scoring more goals than the rival, football at its most essential form. He seems happier attending a fourth-division match in his hometown than enjoying the spotlight of big galas in Europe. Messi was already Messi in 2016, when he made that imprudent announcement. Having just turned 29, an age when players start to run out of options, he could have chosen the quiet life, instead of spending most summers training with the national team after a long club season. He went back to business and endured defeats for five years before he could finally say he'd won something with Argentina. That's an example of determination, mental strength, and loyalty for his colours worth admiring. That's why for Argentines, who did not always share my idyllic view of the Rosario-born star, Messi is now something akin to Churchill: the captain who, after so many years of economic decay and frustrations, gives the country an aura of invincibility.

Such defining influence is even more remarkable considering the disastrous management of the Argentine football association off the pitch. Case in point: Argentina's match tonight, Messi's historic farewell, will be against 93rd-ranked Benin. His retirement will expose the institutional shortcomings of the AFA, as the national association is known. It will also force a long and painful restructuring of the national team. Leo Messi is, above all, an anomaly: an alien who came to Earth to remind us that everything is truly possible, that you can always turn things around. While he still has a few battles to play with Inter Miami, it's clear his future is increasingly linked to business and entrepreneurship. I will miss watching him, expecting the unexpected, and yet being stunned into asking, when the magic happens, “just how did he do that?”

THIS WEEK'S MONETARY Policy Committee meeting is expected to raise policy rates by a minimum of 25 basis points as inflation based on consumer prices has crossed the threshold level of 4% that the Reserve Bank is mandated to maintain. Further, sustained GDP growth, a geopolitical situation causing upward pressure on prices of fuel and inputs, and rate increase by central banks in the US and Japan have also been pointing towards an increase in domestic policy rates to maintain price stability. I, however, hold a contrarian view and suggest continuing with a pause on policy rates for the following reasons.

First, consider consumer price inflation (CPI), the inflation anchor based on the expenditure pattern observed by the National Consumer Expenditure Survey, 2023. The National Sample Survey Office (NSSO) estimates of private consumption have consistently been around 50% of the total private consumption expenditure. As the Rangarajan Committee has said, these two estimates of consumption (NSS and National Accounts Statistics or NAS) do not match in any country; India is no exception. What is alarming is that the difference between the NSS and the NAS consumption is widening over time and at the aggregate level, the former has always been more than the latter. In 2022-23, NSSO consumption declined to 50% of NAS consumption with inter-group variations as usual. In terms of the overall national income, CPI covers close to a quarter of the GDP. While it is true that consumer inflation has spillover effects on wage levels, real interest rates, and operating surplus for producers, a single factor should not be final deciding factor.

Second, with the change in the methodology of estimation of national income, we use double deflators where output and inputs are separately deflated by appropriate sectoral/commodity-wise deflators. In the new system, real GDP cannot be inferred simply from nominal GDP and a familiar inflation rate. A common short-cut is to think of real GDP growth as nominal GDP growth minus a familiar measure of inflation, which is now misleading. In the new series, single deflation has been eliminated: Real estimates for agriculture and manufacturing use double deflation,

THE UNITED STATES Trade Representative (USTR), Ambassador Jamieson Greer, candidly remarked that the Indo-US trade deal is not imminent. Addressing a press conference after the G20 trade ministerial conference in Milwaukee, he stated that although the talks are best described as being in the “short strokes”—or final concluding stages—an announcement is not imminent. Interestingly, India's Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman has indicated that the trade talks have reached a plateau. All of this contrasts sharply with optimistic assessments that it is done and dusted; that there are only small issues, commas, and full stops. This much-vaunted trade agreement thus is so near yet is a bridge too far. It remains only a work in progress despite several highly productive discussions to advance its prospects, including at Milwaukee.

The USTR appears to be in no hurry to conclude the trade deal as US tariffs are being weaponised to coerce India to accept a deeply unequal and one-sided agreement. India feels that giving in to mounting US demands for market access and addressing trade imbalances beyond a point is difficult. The Lindsey O. Graham Sanctioning Russia and Iran Act of 2026 provides US President Donald Trump powers to impose up to 100% tariffs on countries like India and China for buying Russian oil. After the US Supreme Court invalidated Trump's tariffs, the USTR

Broader GST 2.0 agenda

Apropos of “Towards a flawless GST” (FE, October 6), the proposed goods and services tax (GST) reforms mark a welcome shift from rate rationalisation to a broader GST 2.0 agenda. However, the test lies in implementation. Industry has rightly highlighted the need for smoother input tax credit, faster refunds, simplified returns, fewer disputes, and greater automation. Locked-up credit and delayed refunds constrain working capital, particularly for micro, small, and medium enterprises, and exporters, resolving these issues would provide multiplier benefits. The wider agenda should also address structural weaknesses, a time-bound plan to bring petroleum products and alcohol into the GST fold, phased reduction of distortionary exemptions, and full operationalisation of the GST Appellate Tribunal. These steps would widen the base, improve credit flow, and enhance revenue predictability for both the while volume extrapolation is used for the remaining sectors. Under double deflation, real gross value added (GVA) is obtained from separately deflated output and intermediate consumption. The resulting implicit GVA deflator is therefore an outcome of the national accounts calculation, rather than a CPI or wholesale price index (WPI) measure used to derive real GVA. Yet, the derived deflator which converts nominal growth to growth at constant prices is the effective measure of economy-wide inflation, covering both producers and consumers. The implicit inflation for private final consumption expenditure in terms of NAS has been 3.75% for 2023-24, 3.72% for 2024-25, and 1.18% for 2025-26. Implicit inflation for fixed capital formation has been 1.98% for 2023-24, 2.30% for 2024-25, and 1.54% for 2025-26. The real inflation for the economy as a whole has been significantly lower than the mandated threshold.

Even if we take the sectoral deflators, aggregate deflators indicating implicit inflation for GVA for 2023-24 and 2024-25 have been 3.28% and 2.20% respectively. The sector-wise deflators for inputs, outputs, and GVA for these two years clearly indicate wide variations, but averaged at levels below the RBI threshold. Further, while taking CPI as the anchor, two facts should be considered. First, the CPI weights and basket is derived from the NSSO Consumption Expenditure Survey, according to which the expenditure is just 50% of the PFCE as per the national accounts. Secondly, the WPI as a proxy for producer prices also covers only half of the GDP. Implicit inflation, as given by sectoral deflalaunched investigations under Section 301 of the Trade Act of 1974 on countries like India whose trade had inputs produced by forced labour. There is also a second Section 301 investigation on excess capacities.

This plethora of levies makes the tariff architecture of the putative deal—as the reciprocal levies of the interim agreement of February were voided by the apex court—highly uncertain. As if all this weren't bad enough, recently announced US tariffs include an additional 15% levy on solar cells and modules with no carve-out for India. Earlier, new tariffs were announced on imported generic medicines effective from August 2028. In this highly uncertain milieu, India only wants a mutually beneficial trade agreement that gives it an advantage over the competition and insulates it from unilateral US tariffs. India has sought in vain for an early conclusion to the talks as only a deal would shield it from tariffs up to 100% on Russian oil and Section 301 investigations.

Regarding market access, India has been flexible in its negotiating position to significantly reduce duties on US industrial and agricultural products with firm red lines on not allowing genetically modified maize and soya bean and dairy items. Unfortunately, India does not have the leverage that China has—with its dominance in exports of rare earths—to force the US to come to an agreement. While Greer talked of a “universe of items that are sticking points” for a deal with India, the US had no choice but to agree to a temporary extension of a trade truce till January 10, 2027, with China at the summit between Trump and China's President Xi Jinping. They also agreed to create a lower tariff regime covering $60 billion in trade in non-sensitive goods.

On trade imbalances, too, India has been heedful of US concerns. What can certainly take the edge off the US's position—that it has been taken advantage of—is the fact that India's bilateral trade surplus has shrunk year-on-year by 42% over a period when US tariffs of 50% were in place (September 2025 to February 2026). Even the latest numbers indicate a diminishing bilateral trade surplus that fell year-on-year by 21% to $14.7 billion in April-August 2026. India's exports to its most important destination—accounting for a fifth of its total exports—were sluggish, if not flat, while imports from the US have steadily risen, especially petroleum products and electronic components.

But the US is unfazed by all of this and insists on addressing its trade imbalance with India through means beyond traditional trade negotiations. According to Sitharaman, the US also seeks to recover some of what it believes it has lost over the years. The bilateral trade deal in the making thus enters a highly problematical territory as unconventional demands are placed on India to reduce its bilateral trade surplus—that amounted to $33.9 billion in 2025-26—by purchasing $500 billion of American energy, information and communications technology, and other products, and making big-ticket investments in the US. Not surprisingly, the ongoing talks have hit an impasse.

Where does India go from here? As we do not have geo-economic leverage vis-à-vis the US, the most efficacious strategy will be to continue rigorous negotiations while concluding trade deals with other developed nations and middle powers to sustain the momentum of its trade. More progress is needed on the trade deal with the European Union that was concluded on January 27 but has not been signed into force. India aims to conclude its trade deal with Canada by the year-end. More bilateral and regional agreements should be on the anvil on a priority basis as India must diversify its trading relationships in a world fracturing into US-centric and Sino-centric blocs.

Wrestling with cricket

WHAT WILL IT TAKE FOR INDIA'S BIG WINNERS AT THE ASIAN GAMES TO LAND MAJOR ENDORSEMENT DEALS?

CHRISTINA MONIZ

THE RECENTLY CONCLUDED Asian Games brought into the limelight a bevy of new sports achievers across boxing, archery, wrestling and kabaddi. Some of the standout performers were 17-year-old archer Kumkum Mohod, who picked up two golds and a silver, boxer Lovlina Borgohain, track-and-field athlete Vithya Ramraj and wrestlers Aman Sehrawat and Sujeet Kalkal.

But will this success on the playing field translate into lucrative brand deals and endorsements?

Observers say that the current crop of Asian Games winners have all the right ingredients to turn sporting success into commercial interest. Many of these players have had humble beginnings and inspiring growth journeys. “The opportunity for brands is to identify what makes the person behind the medal interesting, which could be their personality or a compelling story that people may connect with,” observes Aparajita Biala, national planning head, Cheil India.

The objective shouldn’t be to merely find an alternative to cricket. “Cricket may give a brand mass reach, but emerging sports can offer sharper cultural and community relevance. Some sports like football for instance have a more defined Indian audience, with a particularly strong appeal among urban, affluent and digitally active consumers,” she points out.

The Asian Games may not have seen the kind of reach that a cricket World Cup typically gets, but Lokesh Sharma, MD of sports management firm TCM Sports, argues that it is unfair to make comparisons with cricketers when it comes to commercial success. “Brands that partner with sports stars tend to look beyond the medal colour. They look for a distinctive personality, an authentic fit and the prospect of a career that keeps growing,” he says, noting that partnerships with such sports stars are also advantageous since they come with lower endorsement fees and a relatively more authentic connection.

What is also drawing brands towards alternative or emerging sports is the crowded nature of the cricket endorsement market. On the flipside lies the challenge of making these personalities distinctive and recognisable across consumer segments.

Kumkum Mohod, Lovlina Borgohain, Vithya Ramraj, Aman Sehrawat & Sujeet Kalkal are some contenders for brand partnerships after the Asian Games

Distinctiveness & a crowded cricket endorsement market make emerging stars a good bet for advertisers

The bigger opportunity is to build their identities before the next medal arrives, says Dinakar Menon, managing partner and business head at BigTrunk Communications. “There is greater room to build the association around the athlete’s journey. For example, an archer’s association with precision can be more credible for a tech or performance-led brand rather than a generic celebrity endorsement. Since they have limited visibility, digital platforms can be especially helpful in allowing advertisers to target fans and communities that are passionate about a sport,” says Menon.

Going beyond numbers

Shashank Lanjekar, chief strategy officer, BBDO India, says the onus of turning successful athletes into bigger stars cannot lie only with brands. Advertisers are the buyers of success, not the creators, he argues. “Sporting bodies and federations will need to deliver on consistent success for any non-cricketing sport to get comparable traction and media valuation. Viswanathan Anand, Sania Mirza, Saina Nehwal and Deepa Phogat have all had a considerable number of brand endorsements, but they have also been instrumental in popularising their sports,” he states, noting that the star’s success can best be measured by how the sport’s popularity has grown.

Lloyd Mathias, strategist and independent director, concurs, pointing towards China’s Yao Ming, who was the first from his country to compete in the NBA in 2001. His success sparked a massive surge in basketball viewership across China, inspiring young people to take up the sport. “If India gets to host the Olympics in the future, we will likely see viewership and advertiser interest increase for other sports,” Mathias says.

But the sad reality is that no other sports personality can come close to any of India’s leading cricketers, says Mathias. While some names like Neeraj Chopra or PV Sindhu have managed to break through cricket’s dominance, such breakout moments are rare but indicate that advertisers are willing to look beyond cricketing stars.

Brands chase mass eyeballs to scale their marketing. Cricket is a pan-India unifier, deeply penetrating both urban metros and rural markets. Alternative sports like football or kabaddi often suffer from regional localisation.

“What also adds to the challenge is that these games do not happen all year round. So, these personalities are not always in the spotlight. Consequently, the scope for building any hype around these players is limited,” he notes.

Mathias has a point. Cricket is a permanent fixture on the calendar. Between cricket tournaments and the Indian Premier League (IPL), top cricketers are on television and digital screens for nearly 10 months a year.

The discrepancy in major endorsement deals between cricket stars and athletes from other sports comes down to a combination of market size, media ecosystem structure, and the financial returns (ROI) that brands expect.

As per WPP Media’s Sporting Nation report, sports celebrity endorsements reached ₹1,350 crore in 2025, of which cricket accounted for a whopping 87% at ₹1,178 crore. Among the non-cricketing personalities that tasted commercial success last year were PV Sindhu, Neeraj Chopra, Manu Bhaker and Lakshya Sen.

Meaningful transparency

IN THE INFLUENCER-LED digital era, a product recommendation can now arrive through a creator’s morning routine, a product review, a short video or even a casual conversation. The closer advertising resembles ordinary content, the harder it is to recognise where influence ends and promotion begins.

The Central Consumer Protection Authority (CCPA), through its 2022 Guidelines for Prevention of Misleading Advertisements and Endorsements for Misleading Advertisements, provides a statutory consumer-protection framework governing misleading advertising and the responsibilities of endorsers. The Advertising Standards Council of India (ASCI) through its 2021 guidelines for influencer advertising in digital media, require disclosure of a “material connection” between an advertiser and influencer. Both guidelines seek to prevent commercially connected promotions from being mistaken for editorial content by requiring clear disclosures.

The difficulty lies in making this transparency meaningful.

Disclosures must be prominent and easy to understand. One buried among hashtags or behind a click may exist technically, but it can easily lose its purpose in a fast-moving feed. In short-form content, viewers may scroll past within seconds, after the commercial message has already done its work.

In its FY26 annual report, ASCI said it processed 1,609 influencer-related ads, of which 97.3% required modification. Complaints and ASCI’s monitoring may trigger review; non-compliant advertisers or influencers may be asked to modify or remove content, and persistent cases of non-compliance may be escalated to the relevant regulator. The figures reveal an interesting paradox: India has a regulatory framework, yet compliance remains uneven. The issue extends beyond influencers. Campaigns may involve a brand, an agency, a creator and a platform, each helping deliver the message to consumers. ASCI places obligations on advertisers and influencers, while CCPA reinforces that endorsements must not mislead consumers.

The challenge is translating these duties into consistent practices.

For enforcement: brands can embed disclosure requirements in campaign agreements and review processes; agencies can make compliance part of campaign execution, creators can integrate disclosures into content; and platforms can make commercial relationships easier to identify.

Influencer marketing works because audiences value authenticity. Regulation should not seek to eliminate that relationship. It should ensure that commercial influence does not become invisible influence.

The question is not whether influencer-led advertising is regulated, but whether the existing framework can keep pace with an advertising model where the most effective ads may look least like one.

GLOBAL SPOTLIGHT

Taking the unusual route

BELGIUM-BASED HOME CARE and detergent brand Ecover has taken an unusual route to highlight the sense of laundry care. The brand launched a campaign named “The Unwashables”, where it created four T-shirts that are not supposed to be washed. The campaign is built around the nostalgia or superstition people have with a particular T-shirt which they never wash due to the fear that it might wash away the luck.

The brand conducted a survey which says that 30% of Britishers avoid washing lucky clothes because they fear washing away their luck and 54% believe what they wear can directly influence their luck.

As part of the campaign, Ecover launched a special edition of limited collection of T-shirts. The collections takes the idea of lucky garments to an extreme and create T-shirts that people might feel reluctant to wash. Many might feel that the campaign contradicts the interest of the brand by making T-shirts that should not go anywhere close to the washing machine. But the campaign rather chose not to communicate the message of “make the clothes you love last longer”, as a straight forward message.

■ Campaign: The Unwashable

What’s the origin of the dispute?

AT THE CENTRE of the dispute is the redevelopment of CSMIA’s Terminal 1 (T1), scheduled to begin in January 2027. CSMIA operator Mumbai International Airport Ltd (MIAL), in which AAHL holds a 74% stake, proposed temporarily discontinuing 265 of 770 weekly international departure slots at Terminal 2 (T2) from October 25, when the winter schedule begins. The reduction amounts to one-third of weekly international departures. The freed-up capacity would accommodate domestic flights displaced from T1, with MIAL offering airlines the option of moving affected international flights to NMIA. Airlines opposed the reduction and what they termed as a forced relocation.

Why has the shift been put on hold?

THE AFFECTED AIRLINES told the civil aviation ministry that shifting operations requires planning for ground handling, maintenance, catering, crew and passenger connectivity. This is an expensive exercise and could result in financial losses for them. The government has given airlines and AAHL more time to negotiate the commercial and operational terms. The airlines and Adani Airport Holdings Ltd (AAHL), which operates both the airports, will negotiate on the commercial and operational terms on October 13, following which a proposal will be submitted to the ministry. The ministry will then meet all the stakeholders on October 20.

Why international flights want to keep their Mumbai airport slots

The Centre on Tuesday stepped in to resolve the impasse between airlines and Adani Airport Holdings over the proposed shifting of international flights from Mumbai’s Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj International Airport (CSMIA) to Navi Mumbai International Airport (NMIA). Nitin Kumar explains what led to the dispute

Why is redevelopment needed at CSMIA?

T1 IS NEARLY 60 years old and MIAL says its redevelopment cannot be delayed on safety grounds. While around 5 million passengers a year will be temporarily affected, the redeveloped terminal will increase capacity from 15 million to 20 million passengers annually.

The key question is why international flights are being asked to make way rather than shifting domestic operations from T1 to Navi Mumbai. Experts say it is easier to shift a few hundred international flights than thousands of domestic flights and millions of passengers to a new airport.

THIS EFFECTIVELY PUTS THE OCT 25 DEADLINE FOR THE TRANSITION ON HOLD

Why don’t airlines want to shift?

AIRLINES SUPPORT the redevelopment but say this does not mean they have agreed to surrender established international slots. The Airline Operators Committee — Mumbai has sought the technical basis for the proposed reduction, including MIAL’s capacity assessment and demand-capacity analysis. Carriers also say their winter 2026-27 schedules, aircraft deployment and passenger bookings are largely finalised.

There is also the commercial concern. NMIA’s scheduled departures fell 32% from a peak of 2,204 in May to 1,497 in September. IndiGo cut departures 30% over the same period, while Akasa Air reduced them 75%.

The International Air Transport Association (IATA) has opposed what it calls “forced relocation”, saying any shift should be voluntary.

Why is NMIA not a great alternative?

AIRLINES MAKING THE shift would have to make arrangements for ground handling, maintenance and cargo. Foreign carriers may also require approvals from their global teams. NMIA’s smaller network limits connecting traffic and its wider transport ecosystem is still developing. Again, an international passenger departing from NMIA pays ₹1,225 as User Development Fee, compared with ₹615 at CSMIA. AAHL has proposed cash vouchers to offset the difference and a 100% waiver on landing charges for new international flights.

How can Adani Airport Holdings benefit from this?

FOR AAHL, THE shift offers an immediate operational benefit and also a long-term advantage. It would ease pressure on CSMIA, which operates with a single runway and has aircraft movement capacity of around 46 movements per hour, with efforts to raise this to 52-55. A temporary relocation could also help NMIA establish an operating base for airlines. Once carriers invest in ground-handling, maintenance, crew deployment and passenger distribution at the airport, some may find it beneficial to retain operations there. This could help AAHL build a more durable traffic base at NMIA and accelerate Mumbai’s two-airport system.

MIAL has said consultations with airlines on T1 redevelopment have been going on since 2020. It maintains that the relocation is temporary and historical Mumbai slots will be restored, along with additional slots, after redevelopment. It says about 91% of CSMIA’s passenger traffic will remain unaffected during the first phase.

AAHL also told the government on Tuesday that NMIA can handle up to 5 million international passengers annually and highlighted its connectivity, catering facilities, hotels and lounges.

What’s next?

THE OCTOBER 13 meeting will give the affected airlines and AAHL an opportunity to resolve their differences and reach an agreement. They will then submit their proposals to the ministry, with another meeting expected on October 20.

‘Irdai reforms to bring drastic changes in distribution’

ACKO General Insurance
Managing Director and Chief Executive Animesh Das believes that Irdai's distribution reforms will force a complete overhaul in the insurance industry's existing distribution model. He explains to Narayanan V how the direct-to-consumer (D2C) insurer is placed to meet the reforms and how motor insurance consumers could benefit from lower premiums and wider choice. Excerpts:

the product affordable. Intermediaries benefit the most from the way commissions are structured. Unfortunately, that's the only lever the industry has to grow or get business. Against this backdrop, Irdai moves shift the focus to the consumer. I am hopeful that insurers will also take that direction and invest in customer experience to grow their businesses, instead of figuring out ways to bypass regulation and do some financial juggling. As regards ACKO, we have no intermediaries. Our focus has always been to develop tech-driven processes so that expenses remain low and we are able to provide better, affordable pricing to the consumer.

Motor premiums grew by 34% while commissions grew by 259% between FY23 and FY25. What's wrong with motor insurance distribution?

The motor dealer who actually sells a new car attaches insurance to it. It is almost like a closed-door captive customer. The insurance commission is as high as 50-60% over there. If you are buying a ₹10 lakh car, the insurance premium will come out to be almost ₹78,000, and the dealer commission alone will be ₹40,000-50,000. Since motor insurance is mandatory, the car dealer's effort is negligible. He is just taking a printout and handing it over to the car buyer. How is that effort worth ₹40,000-50,000? On top of it, dealers often make customers buy insurance from them because of the hefty incentive. Most of the companies in motor insurance are overly dependent on this practice. According to proposed reforms, dealers will have negligible incentive for any of these things. Companies which are dependent on these kinds of OEM or dealer partnerships will face a challenge, making them to revisit the whole structure. This will be a big DNA change.

Digital intermediaries or web aggregators are among the worst hit by this proposal. Your views?

If a company is selling something digitally through its own website or any partner website, the operational cost is supposed to be lower as it is not deploying people on the ground or operating branches.

Logically, it should be passed on to the insurance company in the form of better economics or further passed on to the consumer in the form of better pricing or claims experience. Unfortunately, this is not happening at present. Prices remain same and customers go through the same ordeal as everything still depends on the insurance company. So, it is just an online version of a physical process. It is not truly an efficient model.

If the effort of selling an insurance product is as high as 30-40%, it means the product itself is wrong. The effort should not be more than 10-15%. That should be the focus area, instead of creating a dull product and pushing it on to the consumer by throwing money into the distribution arm. I think that's what Irdai has reset.

OUR FOCUS HAS ALWAYS BEEN TO DEVELOP TECH-DRIVEN PROCESSES SO THAT EXPENSES REMAIN LOW AND WE ARE ABLE TO PROVIDE BETTER PRICING

AI upskilling moves up the stack: From freshers to leaders

ALTHOUGH FRESHERS ACCOUNT for 43% of registrations, working professionals constitute the larger share of learners.

At upGrad, sign-ups for technology courses between January and August 2026 were around 2.55 times those in the same period last year, with more than 90% of learners opting for an AI-focused programme. Freshers now account for about 20% of enrolments, down from around 30% earlier, while the number of learners with more than 10 years of experience has nearly doubled, Anuj Vishwakarma, CEO, higher education, upGrad, told FE.

The shift is also visible in advanced programmes. upGrad's executive AI programme in partnership with IIT Kharagpur has grown threefold quarter-on-quarter, with the median learner having around 12 years of work experience. Enrolments in its C-suite AI programme have risen nearly sixfold year-on-year, although the company said the smaller base makes the growth more indicative of intent than volume.

The nature of demand is changing alongside the profile of learners. Until 2025, interest was concentrated around machine learning, data science, GenAI and prompt engineering. This year, learners are increasingly looking at large language model application development, AI strategy and transformation, cybersecurity, cloud strategy, and AI-powered data and DevOps, Kumar said.

The progression has broadly moved from prompting and understanding GenAI to applying AI within specific functions and, now, building autonomous systems. Agentic AI and GenAI remain major draws, but the focus has shifted towards building AI agents, multi-agent systems and end-to-end applications that can operate in production. Data professionals are also moving from analysis towards building AI agents.

Experienced professionals are ahead of freshers in hands-on adoption, with 30% having already built an AI agent or automation compared with 21% of freshers. This indicates that AI upskilling is increasingly becoming an extension of existing professional expertise rather than a standalone technology skill.

The demand is also creating new roles. Scaler's AI Forward Deployed Engineer programme, launched about six weeks ago, has already crossed 100 enrolments. The programme was earlier part of its modern software engineering course but has now been expanded into a dedicated 12-month programme, reflecting rising demand for professionals who can translate AI capabilities into working solutions for businesses.

Keralam renames IT Department to reflect State's next-Gen tech ambitions

The Government of Keralam has renamed the Electronics & Information Technology Department as the Department of Information Technology, Artificial Intelligence and Future Technologies, marking a major step in aligning the State's technology governance with emerging global priorities. The decision reflects the significant expansion of the department's mandate beyond conventional information technology and electronics. Over the past decades, the department has played a central role in building Keralam's IT ecosystem through the development of Technopark, Infopark and Cyberpark, and in enabling the growth of the State's IT/ITES industry, employment opportunities and technology investments. The renaming gives formal recognition to this broadened role and positions Kerala to respond more effectively to fast-changing developments in the global technology sector. It also underlines the State's commitment to responsible innovation, digital transformation, digital public infrastructure, knowledge industries and future-ready governance.

The change follows the announcement made in the Governor's Policy Address for 2026 regarding the repositioning of the department in line with the State's technology vision. The department will continue to function as the nodal agency for technology-led development in the State, while strengthening Keralam's focus on artificial intelligence, future technologies, digital public infrastructure, deep-tech innovation and knowledge-based economic growth. Keralam has already become the first State in the country to introduce a dedicated Artificial Intelligence portfolio, underlining the Government's intent to place AI and emerging technologies at the centre of governance, industry, innovation and public service delivery. As part of the State Government's 100 Days Programme, a series of institutional reforms are also underway, including the Kerala State Digital Technology Mission, The Future Corporation and Semicon Keralam. These initiatives aim to strengthen Keralam's digital governance architecture, future technology capabilities, semiconductor ecosystem and knowledge industry base.

PARLIAMENT STREET SHUTS DOWN FOR MUCH OF THE DAY

Rahul leads Oppn protest against CEC, leaders held

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
New Delhi, October 6

LED BY LEADER of Opposition Rahul Gandhi and Congress MP Priyanka Gandhi Vadra, leaders of INDIA bloc on Tuesday stepped up their attack on the Chief Election Commissioner, demanding his resignation before they were detained late in the evening after staging a protest for hours near the Election Commission office in the heart of New Delhi.

Parliament Street shut down as Gandhi and others tried to march towards the EC office with their supporters, and climbed atop police barricades, before finding their way into the Akashvani Bhavan premises.

Through much of the day, Gandhi and Vadra were holed up inside the AIR premises, demanding they be allowed to meet the CEC. They were joined by SP's Akhilesh Yadav, TMC's Abhishek Banerjee and Derek O'Brien, and CPI(M)'s John Brittas.

"All I want to do is meet the Chief Election Commissioner and tell him that he has done 'vote chori'. I can continue to sit here. I am comfortable here. If they don't want us to sit here, give us some other site,"

Congress leader Rahul Gandhi was detained during a protest demanding the resignation of Chief Election Commissioner Gyanesh Kumar, in New Delhi on Tuesday

Gandhi said.

The march was the latest in a series of protests to press for CEC Gyanesh Kumar's resignation in the wake of a report in The Indian Express that the two Election Commissioners had objected on record 14 times in 10 months to steps taken by the Commission under the CEC, from keeping them in the dark to adding new voters and deleting names.

Targeting the Prime Minister, Union Home Minister and the RSS chief, Gandhi alleged that the country had been "hijacked" with the "vote chori".

Learn from Modi how to win people's support: BJP to Cong

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

DESCRIBING THE CONGRESS protest against the Election Commission of India as "drama", the BJP on Tuesday slammed the principal Opposition party and leaders of non-NDA parties who had joined it of abusing the Commission after failing to secure the mandate of the people.

"It is time to stop the drama that Rahul Gandhi ji and his colleagues keep doing daily against the Election Commission and the Supreme Court. It has been going on since 2014... In a democracy, serve the people and you will get their mandate," Union Minister Kiren Rijiju said.

Govt slams Hormuz ship attack that injured 11 Indian crew

ELEVEN INDIAN CREW members were injured on Tuesday after a Panama-flagged commercial vessel was hit by a projectile while transiting the Strait of Hormuz, prompting a strong condemnation from India.

The vessel, MT On Peace, carried 19 crew members, including 17 Indian nationals. In total, 12 crew members — 11 of them Indian — sustained injuries in the strike, according to the Ministry of External Affairs (MEA).

"We condemn the attack earlier today (Tuesday) on a Panama-flagged commercial vessel MT On Peace off the coast of Oman, where it was struck by a projectile while transiting the Strait of Hormuz," the MEA said in a statement.

"Of the total crew of 19, 17 are Indian nationals. It is learnt that 12 crew members have been injured, including 11 Indian nationals," it said.

The MEA said continuing incidents of attacks on shipping in the region remain a "cause of deep concern" for India.

"We reiterate our call for an immediate cessation of such attacks in the interests of peace and stability in the region," it said. —PTI

Francis Halzen wins Nobel for 'ghost particle' hunt

NIKLAS POLLARD, JOHAN AHLANDER & MARIE MANNES
Stockholm, October 6

BELGIAN-AMERICAN FRANCIS HALZEN won the 2026 Nobel Prize in Physics for his work creating an Antarctic observatory of ice to detect high-energy neutrinos, elusive subatomic particles that can reveal otherwise inaccessible information about the cosmos.

Halzen, 82, realised that pristine ice at the South Pole could be used to track such neutrinos, sometimes known as "ghost particles" for the way they pass through the Earth without a trace, only interacting with matter extremely rarely.

"The messengers bring information from the cosmos," Eva Olsson, of the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences, told a press conference. "They open the door to distant galaxies and tell us about the processes of exploding stars."

Francis Halzen was awarded for research into neutrinos at Antarctic observatory

The interactions registered by the IceCube observatory provide information about how high-energy neutrinos are created and may even reveal previously unknown phenomena, the Academy said.

In 2014, the US-based Smithsonian magazine dubbed Halzen "Neutrino Man" when giving him one of its Ingenuity Awards, acclaiming him for an "amazing experiment (that) heralds the beginning of a new era in astronomy".

It even published a comic illustrating his life: "How One Physicist's Pursuit of the Cosmos Took Off in Antarctica".

The observatory — in effect a telescope that shows neutrinos instead of light — is set in a cubic kilometre of Antarctic ice, which extends to a depth of 2,500 metres below the surface near the Amundsen-Scott South Pole Station.

More than 5,000 sensors await blips from the nearly massless high-energy neutrinos, which unlike other particles do not lose energy or change direction, in the hope of tracing their paths back to exploding stars, gamma-ray bursts, and cataclysmic phenomena involving black holes and neutron stars. They can expect to register about one per day.

Halzen, a professor at the University of Wisconsin-Madison in the United States, first presented his idea in 1988 for capturing neutrino traces at the South Pole, but the project was not completed until 2011.

"I have to emphasise how lucky I was because, when we started this project, everybody realised this was maybe a good idea, but very few thought it would work, including myself," Halzen told the press conference by telephone.

British Airways to launch world's biggest business class on A380

KATE DUFFY & SIDDHARTH PHILIP
October 6

BRITISH AIRWAYS WILL introduce what it called the world's biggest business class on its upgraded double-decker Airbus SE A380 jets, targeting premium passengers as airlines rush to cash in on upscale travel.

IAG SA-owned British Airways will update its fleet of a dozen A380s with a new business class cabin spanning the entire upper deck of the aircraft, the airline said at an event in London. The first upgraded A380 is due to enter service in coming months.

The carrier said it will also upgrade its first class seating with dividers that fold away, enabling the conversion of middle seats into larger cabins for passengers traveling together.

The changes will reduce the number of seats on the A380 by 11%, from 469 seats to 417, with the bulk of the reduction coming at the expense of the economy class cabin. Economy berths will be reduced by about 30% to 215 seats.

investment that any airline has ever made in reconfiguring an aircraft stretching from nose to tail and touching every single aspect of the experience on board," British Airways Chief Executive Officer Sean Doyle said.

Retrofitting one aircraft takes about 100 days, he said, and the first upgrade A380 is due to enter service in coming months.

The decision to spend millions on transforming its fleet of A380s makes British Airways an industry outlier when rivals around the world are phasing out the four-engine behemoth for smaller, more fuel-efficient twin-engine jets. However, slot constraints at London's Heathrow airport mean that the carrier can't as easily replace the super jumbo with smaller aircraft.

US and European carriers have been pouring money into first- and business-class seating to target well-heeled passengers who are a resilient source of cash at a time when the war in Iran has caused jet fuel prices to soar, driving up costs. Air France-KLM's La Premiere recently won an award for the world's best first class in Skytrax's annual airline rankings and has plans to expand the service to more US cities.

Emirates, which operates the world's biggest A380 fleet, has as many as 76 berths in business class. However, it'll still have a party trick that British Airways' upgraded jets will lack — a shower for first class flyers. The airline is also spending heavily to upgrade its fleet, including reconfigured premium economy and new business-class cabins. —BLOOMBERG

HARMANPREET KAUR, FORMER CAPTAIN, INDIAN WOMEN'S CRICKET TEAM

Belief, her legacy

SHYAM KUMAR PRASAD

SHANKAR NARAYAN

HARMANPREET KAUR ran back to complete the catch that sealed India's 2025 ODI World Cup triumph. The captain who had carried Indian women's cricket through expectation was there at the finish.

But her legacy is bigger than that trophy.

Harmanpreet leaves captaincy having changed what India expects from itself. Before her, India had reached the ODI World Cup final in 2005 and 2017 under Mithali Raj. Under Harmanpreet, India became regulars at the business end of tournaments: the 2018 T20 World Cup semi-final, the 2020 T20 World Cup final, the 2023 T20 World Cup semi-final and, eventually, the 2025 ODI World Cup title at home.

Her biggest contribution was renewed belief. Semi-finals and finals were no longer a flash-in-the-pan moment. India started to feel like they belonged there.

She took over when Indian women's cricket was growing, but was still searching for consistency and belief. At the 2018 T20 World Cup, her first major tournament as captain, she announced herself with a 103 against New Zealand. It was a statement of the captain she would be: aggressive, unafraid of the big stage.

That intensity stayed with her. Harmanpreet was emotional, vocal and sometimes combative. Players were coming in with bigger ambitions, and her job was to build a team that believed it could compete at the highest level.

Her batting, however, became less consistent as the years went by. Her strike rate was a concern. The Harmanpreet who could win a match from anywhere showed up less often.

But she still produced when India needed her.

In the 2025 World Cup semi-final against Australia, with India chasing a record total, Harmanpreet made 89 and helped keep the chase alive alongside Jemimah Rodrigues.

A year later, in a must-win T20 World Cup game against Australia, she made 56 off 27, hitting three sixes in the final over to take India to a competitive total.

Those innings offered reminders of the player India will want to see more often.

In her farewell post, Harmanpreet acknowledged the cost of captaincy herself. "There were moments when I had to put my individual performance, my own growth, and what I wanted for myself aside, because I believed the team had to come first," she wrote.

There were difficult days too: defeats, criticism, questions over her decisions. She faced them as openly as she celebrated the wins.

"I gave this team everything I had," she wrote. "I carried the responsibility with pride."

She said every difficult decision was made with one intention: "to make this TEAM better and to give other players the opportunity to grow, believe in themselves and become the best versions of themselves".

She leaves behind a team in which Smriti Mandhana has become the batting leader, Deepti Sharma a central figure, and younger players such as N

Sree Charani have emerged with confidence. It is a team that has won a World Cup and now knows what it feels like to be there.

Harmanpreet wrote that she leaves captaincy with "a heart full of emotions, but also with PEACE" because she believes the team is in a good place. It is a team with "talent, character, belief and a future" that she is excited to be part of.

Her post ends: "Now, I'm ready to play for the love of the game again." That is what Indian cricket will hope for.

Without the burden of captaincy, Harmanpreet can focus on being the batter who can change a game. At 37, the hope is that giving up the captaincy brings back more of her best batting. India have a home global event, the Women's Champions Trophy, in February next year, before bigger challenges in 2028 and 2029.

She says she has "done her duty". She leaves the next captain with more than a World Cup trophy: a team that believes it can compete on the biggest stages.

"Captaincy ends. The journey continues," Harmanpreet wrote. For Indian cricket, the hope is that the next chapter brings back the player who made everyone believe.

A day after a women's cricket team review meeting in Guwahati, Harmanpreet Kaur stepped down as captain from all three formats. She announced her decision via an Instagram post in which she confirmed she was ready to continue playing for India. "Now, I am ready to play for the love of the game. Captaincy ends. The journey continues," she signed off.

MoD inks ₹661-cr deal for BrahMos fire control units

THE MINISTRY OF Defence on Tuesday signed a nearly ₹661 crore contract for the procurement of BrahMos fire control system and launchers for Indian Navy ships, aiming to boost its maritime strike capabilities.

The BrahMos weapon system, fitted onboard various frontline warships, is the Navy's primary surface-to-surface missile system for maritime strike operations. It is capable of targeting land and sea targets from extended ranges with pinpoint accuracy at supersonic speed.

The ministry, in a statement, said it has signed a contract with BrahMos Aerospace Private Limited (BAPL) for procurement of BrahMos fire control system and launchers for Indian Navy ships under the 'Buy (Indian-IDD)' category. —PTI

8. BUSINESS MODEL/BUSINESS OVERVIEW AND STRATEGY:

Business Overview

We are an engineering company engaged in the design, manufacture, supply and lifecycle support of engineered-to-order, high-speed and specialised gearboxes for critical rotating equipment — principally steam turbines, gas turbines, centrifugal and reciprocating compressors, centrifugal and reciprocating pumps, fans, blowers and hydro turbines — used across the power generation, oil & gas, petrochemical & refining, chemicals & fertilisers, steel, cement, sugar & distillery, paper, marine and defence sectors. We also manufacture precision-engineered marine propulsion and naval equipment for defence and coast guard applications.

Strategies:

Sustain and deepen domestic market leadership

We intend to capitalise on the continuing capital-expenditure cycle in Indian core-sector industries — including steel, refining, cement and fertilisers — supported by production-linked incentive schemes and infrastructure investment, and to leverage our established base of domestic OEM and end-user relationships, engineering capability and manufacturing cost position to defend and grow our share of the domestic high-speed gearbox market, including in the Steam Turbine Generator segment where average order values have been increasing with a shift toward higher-power units.

Expand international presence, particularly in export markets

We intend to increase our export share, with particular focus on gas turbine gearboxes, compressor gearboxes and FPSO-related opportunities, building on recent qualification successes with global majors and new-market entries. The establishment of a Switzerland-based step-down Subsidiary is intended to deepen customer connect, improve responsiveness and support growth with European OEMs and end users, complementing our existing cost and delivery-time advantages relative to European and North American competitors.

Grow the Defence business and pursue indigenisation opportunities

We intend to expand our naval propulsion portfolio and pursue opportunities in land and aerospace defence applications, leveraging the Government of India's Atmanirbhar Bharat (self-reliance) initiative, collaboration with a global naval propulsion OEM, and investment in a dedicated multi-modal defence manufacturing facility. Our priorities include consolidating technology for lightweight marine gearbox systems, developing an expanded product portfolio for marine equipment based on our own technology, and pursuing opportunities in sub-surface platform projects.

Grow the Aftermarket businesses

Recognising the structural, aftermarket-led growth dynamics of the global gearbox industry — driven by an ageing global installed base and increasing focus on life-extension and reliability — we intend to continue expanding our “any brand, any make” replacement, refurbishment and service capability, which provide relatively more capacity-efficient and recurring revenue relative to new-build OEM supply.

Continue to invest in engineering, R&D and manufacturing capacity

We intend to continue investing in engineering and design capability, process optimisation and digitalisation, and organisational capability, and continuing development of energy-efficient, low-noise gearbox technologies aligned with global sustainability goals and OEM requirements. Recent capacity enhancements are intended to position us to address increasing global demand, improve delivery timelines, and scale both our OEM and aftermarket segments.

Deepen technology and digitalisation across the operating model

We intend to continue deploying digital tools across engineering (advanced design and simulation software), manufacturing (IoT-enabled smart manufacturing) and customer service (augmented-reality-led training, remote diagnostics and digital performance reporting) to improve operational visibility, accelerate troubleshooting, and support more informed maintenance decisions for customers, strengthening long-term service relationships and supporting our positioning as a full lifecycle partner.

9. REASON FOR THE SCHEME OF ARRANGEMENT:

Details of the Scheme

- a) Amalgamation of the Amalgamating Company with and into the Amalgamated Company and the consequent issuance of equity shares by the Amalgamated Company to the members of the Amalgamating Company, in terms of Section 2(1B) and other applicable provisions of the IT Act and Sections 230 to 232 and other applicable provisions of the Act, as may be applicable, the listing of the equity shares of the Amalgamated Company which shall be issued as consideration to the members of the Amalgamating Company, and the cancellation of the SSEL Promoter Shareholding (as defined hereunder), as elaborated in Part III of the Scheme;
- b) The transfer and vesting of the PTB Undertaking of the Demerged Company to the Resulting Company and the consequent issuance of equity shares by the Resulting Company to the shareholders of the Demerged Company pursuant to Section 2(19AA) and other applicable provisions of the IT Act and Sections 230 to 232 and other applicable provisions of the Act, as may be applicable, as elaborated in Part IV of the Scheme; and
- c) Listing of the Total Equity Shares of the Resulting Company, consisting of the Existing Equity Shares and the New Equity Shares, of the Resulting Company issued as consideration in terms of Clause 4.11 of this Scheme to the shareholders of the Demerged Company, on the Stock Exchanges after the Scheme becomes effective in accordance with the provisions of the SEBI Circular, as elaborated in Part IV of the Scheme; and
- d) Various other matters consequential or otherwise integrally connected therewith.

Rationale of Scheme of Arrangement

- 1. Both the Amalgamating Company and the Amalgamated Company have manufacturing verticals of sugar and distillery; therefore, the proposed amalgamation of the Amalgamating Company into the Amalgamated Company would lead to the consolidation of all operations pertaining to the manufacture of the sugar, alcohol, ethanol in one entity.
- 2. The proposed amalgamation will create and provide operational synergies, economies of scale, optimum utilization of resources, simplification of business processes, elimination of duplication and rationalization of administrative expenses, which will lead to savings in the costs.
- 3. It will help in achieving consolidation, greater integration and flexibility that will maximize overall shareholder’s value and improve the competitive position and negotiating power of the combined entity.
- 4. It will result in reduction of multiplicity of entities, thereby reducing compliance cost of multiple entities, viz. statutory filings, regulatory compliances, labour law/ establishment related compliances.
- 5. Further, the demerger of the PTB Undertaking of the Demerged Company into the Resulting Company, pursuant to this Scheme shall be in the interest of all concerned stakeholders including shareholders, customers, creditors, employees and general public, in the following ways:
 - (i) The PTB and the Residual Business (defined hereinafter) address different market segments with unique opportunities and dynamics in terms of business strategy, customer set, geographic focus, competition, capabilities set, talent needs and distinct capital requirements. The transfer of the PTB Undertaking into the Resulting Company will enable each business to sharpen its focus and organize its activities and resources to improve its offerings to their respective customers. This would help to improve its competitiveness, operational efficiency, agility and strengthen its position in relevant markets resulting in more sustainable growth and competitive advantage.
 - (ii) PTB has attained a significant size, scale and has a large headroom for growth in its market. As PTB is entering the next phase of growth, the transfer and vesting of the PTB Undertaking into the Resulting Company pursuant to this Scheme would result in focused management attention and efficient administration to maximize its potential.
 - (iii) Further, as PTB has separate growth trajectories, risk profile and capital requirement, the segregation of the PTB Undertaking and the Residual Business will enable independent value discovery and lead to unlocking of value for each business.

The Scheme is in the interests of all stakeholders of SSEL, TEIL, and the Resulting Company.
